If Easter lilies are to be grown and some flowers are wanted in January, then for that purpose the Formosa lily should be planted, but for Easter itself the giganteum is the best; also the latter is the best lily for cold storage purposes. Our bulb stock should all be potted or planted in flats as soon as received and placed outdoors, covered with a good mulch.

Handling the Cut.

The cutting of flowers should be done twice a day. The main cut will be in the morning. The flowers should be carefully sorted and graded and placed in jars of water in a cool cellar. In these days, when ice can be put up so cheaply, it is advisable, where the cut of flowers is quite large, to have an ice house with a flower cellar underneath. Ice can be cut and stacked away in an ice house for from 50 cents to $1 per ton, depending upon the distance it has to be hauled. An ice house holding 100 tons of ice, well packed with hay, will carry through the whole season if not opened. The saving of flowers and improvement of quality by storing the flowers in an ice-chilled cellar will pay for the ice several times over.

An increase of glass beyond capacity of taking care of same should be avoided. The increase of boiler capacity should always be first considered; also the care of the new stock, the means of handling the product and various little details connected with the business should be perfected before new glass is built. A moderate amount of glass will bring better returns in proportion than a large amount imperfectly cared for. A too rapid increase of glass should be avoided, as it is the rock on which so many florists have stranded.

CARNATIONS OF TODAY.

[A paper by W. H. Taplin, read before the Philadelphia Florists' Club February 7, 1911.]

Those of us whose memories reach back to Pres. Degraw, Crimson King, Peerless, Portia, Astoria and other carnation names of that period (and varieties were quite numerous even then), will readily see that great advances have been made both in flower, that is in form, in colors and in size.

It is now many years since the late John Thorpe mentioned his ideal in size for the carnation as a diameter of four inches, and such a flower to be produced on a strong, stiff stem. That ideal has been reached in several varieties, though the ideal size has not always been found in combination with the other good features that are demanded by a discriminating grower.

The Requirements.

A new variety at the present time is exposed to keen criticism, for a very high standard has been reached, and it is not enough for a new seedling to simply show good size and fair color. The trade demands that a large flower of good form and pleasing color shall be produced on a good, strong stem, that the plant shall be of good constitution, free in growth and flower, and last but not least, the retail man, who after all seems to be the supreme court of the cut flower world, declares that the flower must be a good keeper, and of such a shade that he can use it to advantage.

With such requirements as these constantly before him, the carnation hybridizer has much to work for, and much work to do, and that some of them do appreciate the size of their task is evidenced by the care with which they select the candidates for popular favor from among the hundreds, or even thousands, of seedlings from which they may make a choice.

Careful Selection.

The carnation world has lost much in the passing of the late Frederick Dorner, of Lafayette, Ind., a man who devoted much of his busy and useful life to the improvement of commercial carnations, and one who was so careful in his selections that he could only find two or three varieties each season, out of some thousands of seedlings, that he considered were worthy of introduction to the trade. Father Dorner had some ideals, and he worked toward those ideals with painstaking fidelity, but yet it was only occasionally that he produced a Wm. Scott, a White Perfection or a Pink Delight.

Cause of Depreciation.

Then we have to take into consideration the fact that varieties are likely to depreciate after having been grown for several years, possibly owing in part to some inherent weakness of the stock from which they sprang, and in part to the artificial conditions under which they are grown, for under the present conditions of commercial cut flower growing, our carnations are grown along under comparatively high pressure, having no season of natural rest such as most plants demand. In fact, the seasons are too short to allow of any rest period, so we keep on propagating and growing on a variety until its constitution gives out, and then look for something of similar or better color and habit to take the place of the older variety.

Indoor vs. Outdoor.

Continued indoor culture of carnations seems to bring about the failure of a variety as soon as anything, although in making this assertion I am fully aware that there are differences of opinion on this subject. There are arguments in favor of indoor culture, not the least of which is found in the fact that the bench-grown plant is likely to produce a large flower on a long stem at an earlier period in the season than may be had from a field-grown plant, but the total number of flowers from a field-grown plant is likely to greatly exceed the result from the bench-grown specimen, and taking the season as a whole, the net returns will probably be in favor of the field-grown plant, without taking into consideration the greater vitality that is retained in the stock by the outdoor system.

Those three months in the open air count for much in the preparation of a plant that is to endure a long season of forced growth under glass.

Then in the race to produce a given number of plants, some of the new varieties are overpropagated; every possible shoot, and some that we might term impossible, is put in as a cutting, with the natural consequence that many deficient plants are put out each season, and many disgruntled customers are made. It is not necessary at this time to specify instances of this practice, but that such is frequently the case will be readily admitted by anyone having much experience in the trial of novelties in the carnation line.

Need for Standards.

And while speaking of novelties, it must be admitted that every hybridizer is liable to view his own productions with a somewhat lenient judgment, which makes it the more necessary that these novelties should be passed upon by a qualified committee, and scored in a somewhat similar manner to that in use by the rose and chrysanthemum societies. The more general adoption of such a plan would possibly lessen the number of varieties that may be introduced, but it would also save quite a sum to those growers who find it needful to try out a batch of novelties each season with a view to keeping up with the procession.

It is not merely the original outlay for a limited number of plants that counts in these experiments, but there is also the loss of so many feet of bench space that ought to be productive.

Now in regard to varieties of the present day, it must be taken into consideration that all sorts do not grow equally well in the same locality, and it therefore requires the exercise of judgment on the part of the grower as to the proportions of his stock.

Local Conditions.

There are also the market peculiarities of different localities to be considered, for some varieties that grow well and sell well around Boston may not be equally satisfactory and popular in New York and Philadelphia. For example, Enchantress originated in Massachusetts, yet Boston does not seem to be hungry for that variety, popular though it is in so many places; while crimson varieties, owing to the proximity of Harvard to the "Hub," are good sellers in Boston, but find few friends in Chicago.

The Popular Enchantress.

Taking all things into consideration, it is generally admitted that Enchantress and its various sports are the most popular and most satisfactory all-around varieties that we have today, from the fact that they have color, size and stem, in addition to freedom of growth and floriferousness.

All delicate-colored carnations vary to a greater or less extent at certain seasons of the year, and Enchantress is no exception to the rule, and differences in soil may also affect the color of the flowers in a measure, but allowing for these variations there is no other variety in the market today that has so many friends.

This variety, as everyone knows, has sported in many localities, and in several shades of color, but nearly all the sports have proven valuable to the trade.

White Enchantress is the best white for trade purposes today and is in many places a stronger grower than its parent, but it must be borne in mind that White Enchantress has appeared in several different localities, and that some of the sports are much better than others.

Rose-pink Enchantress is a strong-growing and free-flowering sport, but is unfortunately quite liable to variations in color, especially in midwinter. Selections of cuttings will do something toward correcting this color fault, though not doing away with it altogether.

Other Varieties.

Dorothy Gordon bears a strong resemblance to the last-named variety, but seems to be a little more even in color, though in form, size, stem and general characteristics it is extremely difficult, and as a matter of fact is well-nigh impossible, to distinguish the one from the other.

Then there is the dark sport from Pink Enchantress that has been named Washington, and if this variety looks anything like a colored cut supposed to represent it that has recently been issued, it is a flower that would not appeal to the writer, but it is more charitable to blame that on the printer than the flower, and it would be better to suspend judgment until a later period.

In scarlet there does not yet appear to be a better than Beacon, this variety being so extremely free that most growers are ready to forgive its serious fault of splitting badly in midwinter.

Scarlet Glow is a fine flower, and very bright and cheerful in color, but thus far does not equal Beacon in growth and number of flowers.

Pink Delight is a variety that has received much favorable criticism during the last year, the flower being of fair size and even in color, and the stem unusually good. It is not pink in a strict interpretation of the color, there being rather too much salmon to be called pink, but it is a beautiful carnation, just the same.

Carnation Pocahontas.

Admiration is a fine colored variety and a good-sized flower, but unfortunately it has no constitution, and thus seems to be out of the race.

Princess Charming, as shown last fall, is a variety of much promise, but as to whether it will replace Enchantress remains to be proved.

Mrs. C. W. Ward is making many friends among the growers, this variety having a good-sized flower of pleasing color, and produced on a particularly good stem. It is somewhat liable to bleach as the sun grows stronger, but withal is a fine carnation.

Alma Ward is a fine exhibition variety, but not free enough for the average grower.

Some of the Lawsons are still grown, but most commercial growers require more size and stem than is found in Mrs. Lawson and the numerous varieties that have been derived from that prolific source, and while many are still growing Winsor for its color, yet it scarcely reaches up to the standard of the large city markets.

Variegated varieties are not in large demand and Mrs. Patten and Variegated Lawson occupy a considerable proportion of the space that is devoted to those of fancy marking.

Summary.

It can scarcely be said that there is a standard crimson variety at this time, for although there are many that are being tested in various parts of the country, there seems to be something lacking, either in constitution, size, stem or color, and there still seems to be room for a good variety of this color.

The advances have been great in the past decade in carnation history, yet there is room at the top, and I hope that someone will eventually get there.

A MISSOURI CARNATION RANGE.

A. Jablonsky, whose present range and residence, at Olivette, Mo., are here illustrated, has not attained his success without a determined struggle. He began business at Wellston, St. Louis county, Missouri, in 1890, by renting two greenhouses and about two acres of ground for two years. At the expiration of the two years he bought the greenhouses and leased the ground for greenhouse purposes, for a term of twelve years. He had a general plant business.

In April of 1893, as a result of the improvement and grading of a tract of land across the railroad tracks, a culvert caved in and his grounds were completely flooded. Twenty-five thousand hotbed plants, ready for marketing, were destroyed, and a lot of roses, etc., in the field, were covered and ruined by six inches of muddy sediment. As the company that had caused this disaster failed in business a little later and the principal member of the company died, two years passed before Mr. Jablonsky received any reparation, and even then the courts granted him only eleven and one-half per cent of his actual loss.

Added to all this trouble was the financial panic—the memorable panic of 1893—which came just in time to destroy the spring trade of that year. The outlook was indeed gloomy, but Mr. Jablonsky remained at the same place until 1907, when he moved out to Olivette, where he had previously bought ten acres of good land and had built a range of six Dietsch houses in 1904, for the purpose of growing carnations. Since then he has about doubled the size of the range and is now using all of the space for the growing of carnations, with the exception of one house, which is devoted to Easter lilies. The giganteum type of lilies is the only kind he grows. The Enchantress varieties of carnations are the most favored by him; in red he prefers Beacon. Part of a house of his carnations is shown in one of the illustrations. Everything is economically arranged, and the appearance of the place, both inside and outside, bears evidence of good workmanship and good management.

Olivette, Mr. Jablonsky states, is truly a country place, although only ten miles from the courthouse in St. Louis, as there is no street car within two miles. It is fine, he says, to be surrounded by the best comforts of civilization and yet live in the country.

DETROIT.

The Market.

Last week found stock coming in much better. Roses were just about enough to go around. The price on roses is holding up to from $5 to $12 per hundred. Carnations are coming in stronger and along toward the latter part of the week showed a tendency to pile up. The price on these ran from $2 to $4 per hundred. Sweet peas are in good supply, but are cleaning up. Easter lilies and callas are just about equal to the demand and there is no oversupply in this line. Dutch hyacinths are in good supply and are the finest ever shipped into the market. These are selling well at from $4 to $5 per hundred. Tulips and daffodils are also in good supply and doing well. Paper Whites are not in heavy supply, but are plentiful enough to meet all demands. Roman hyacinths are hard to move at any price. Freesia is to be had in quantity. This flower has not been cleaning up, owing to the increased supply. Single and double violets are being received in large quantities and in order to move them wholesalers are obliged, at certain times, to make a clean-up price on them.

Smilax and other greens are of good quality. Fancy ferns are scarce and from the reports from the large dealers this will be a scarce and high-priced article before Decoration day.

Monday, February 6, stock of all kinds was scarce, owing to one of the heaviest blizzards in years, and the outlook for the next few days in the way of getting in stock was not encouraging.

Various Notes.

The meeting of the Florists' Club Monday evening, February 6, was well attended. It was with deep regret that the members learned of the absence of the essayist of the evening, Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis. Mr. Bertermann's paper, entitled "Retail Store Management," was read by J. F. Sullivan, and was pronounced as being very high class. An interesting discussion followed. M. Bloy showed a fine vase of Freesia Purity.

Ferdinand Beyer has taken a position as gardener with W. T. Barbour, Birmingham, Mich.

Philip Breitmeyer, who left last week for Cuba, will return about March 1. Before returning, it is his intention to visit some of the cities along the southern coast and attend the Mardi Gras at New Orleans. Mrs. Breitmeyer accompanied her husband as far as Philadelphia.

Harry G. Smith, for many years employed as a private gardener, opened a store opposite Evergreen cemetery last week and is now busy building several greenhouses. This part of the suburbs of Detroit is building up rapidly and soon Mr. Smith will be in the midst of a prosperous community.

In addition to a big rush of funeral work, Albert Pochelon, of the Bemb Floral Co., was exceedingly busy this week with an important table decoration, one feature being a Roman garden scene carried out with minutest detail.

Notice was served on B. Schroeter February 1 that the property on which his store and greenhouse are located has been leased to a large building company, who take possession March 1. This means that Mr. Schroeter will have to find temporary quarters until fall, when he will locate at 60 Broadway.

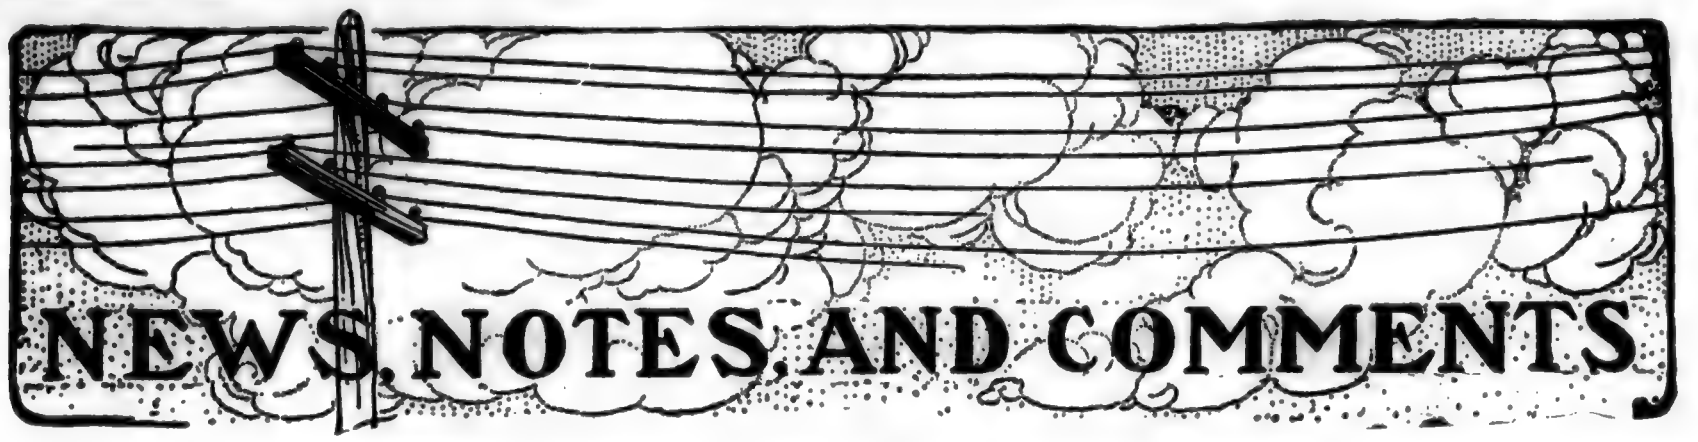
GLADIOLI FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Will you kindly tell us what time to start bulbs of Gladiolus Colvillei, in order to cut blooms for Memorial day?



A. A. S.

Keep your gladioli in a cool pit or greenhouse, just clear of freezing, until April 10. Then place the plants in a light, sunny house, where an average night temperature of 50 degrees is maintained. Colvillei The Bride, the white variety, will come into flower eight or ten days earlier than Blushing Bride and Peach Blossom. None of these small flowered gladioli will stand hard forcing.

In A. Jablonsky's Carnation Range.

READERS ARE INVITED TO CONTRIBUTE ITEMS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y.—T. J. Totten advises all who grow asters outdoors to sprinkle with wood ashes as a preventive of bugs and blight. He experimented in that line last year, with complete success.

Albany, N. Y.—The regular meetings of the Albany Florists' Club are held on the first Thursday evening of each month, at 8 o'clock, 71 State street. Fred A. Danker, president; Robert Davidson, secretary.

Galesburg, Ill.—John B. Goldsberry, formerly employed by the Stark Bros. Nurseries & Orchards Co., at Louisiana, Mo., died at the home of his daughter in this city, January 1. He was born at Frankfort, Mo., April 7, 1827.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis.—Mrs. Herman Fritschler has been collecting Dutch bulbs and other stock for several years and is now growing potted plants and flowers on a considerable scale. She has been displaying some of her products in Wagener's drug store.

Fort Madison, Ia.—J. M. Auge reports that his holiday trade showed an increase of twenty-five per cent over that of last year. Contrary to the experience of many other florists, this increase was principally in the sale of cut flowers and wreaths and not in the sale of plants.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—William F. Snyder recently installed a new boiler. During a cold wave in the first part of January much of his stock was injured on account of the inadequacy of his heating plant. Conditions now are such as to give promise of a good spring trade.

Lancaster, Mass.—Miss Clara Francis has named her establishment, recently started here, the White Rose Greenhouses. Although she has scarcely yet begun her business career, she already reports having received good orders from different directions and she had a busy holiday season.

Great Bend, Kan.—Stoke & Stoke say that trade in this vicinity was better last year than ever before and they expect 1911 to be their banner year. On account of the mildness of the present winter, their expense for fuel has only been about half what it was up to the same date last year.

Johnstown, Pa.—The new range of greenhouses, 56x200 feet, which Traugott Malbranc built last summer back of Westmont, furnished their first crop of flowers in good season for the Christmas trade. The new houses are considerably larger than the ones Mr. Malbranc erected eight years ago on Barron avenue, Morrellville.

Concordia, Kan.—C. J. Lampe, proprietor of the Concordia Greenhouses, has built an addition for carnations. He reports good crops and good business, with considerable shipping.

Exeter, N. H.—James E. McAlpine, of Boston, who purchased a tract of land here about a year ago, is to erect a rose conservatory, 60x400 feet. The building material is already on the ground.

St. Bruno, Que.—Four new houses, of King construction, are being put up by the St. Bruno Floral Co. These are each 50x50 feet, with four lean-tos. These are constructed with the new T-iron eave.

Thompsonville, Conn.—The Brainard Floral & Nursery Co. has removed the most of its greenhouses from Garden street to its property on Maple street, where its nursery and seed departments are also located.

New Carlisle, O.—C. W. Wald, manager of the W. N. Scarff greenhouses, attended the recent meeting of the State Horticultural Association at Harrisburg, Pa. He was expected to make two addresses before the organization.

Zanesville, O.—The Zanesville Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting at the greenhouses and residence of John Doyle, of Greenwood avenue, January 19. An interesting paper was read by the president, J. T. Goodlive. Four new members were admitted. All who were present had a jolly time.

Wichita, Kan.—The decorations for the dedication ceremonies in the new public hall, the Forum, were furnished and put in place by Charles P. Mueller. This job of decorating was said by the daily newspapers to be "the biggest task of the kind ever attempted by Wichita florists," and the work was well done.

Malta, O.—W. C. Scovell reports a highly prosperous year, with an increase in trade of thirty-five per cent for the entire twelve months and forty-three per cent for the month of December. He was not nearly able to supply the holiday demand, which was principally for cut flowers. The crops have suffered somewhat from lack of sunshine since the middle of November.

Lincoln, Neb.—At the annual meeting of the State Florists' Society an excellent program was rendered. Irwin Frey, of this city, was presiding officer, with Ed. Williams, of Grand Island, as secretary. Among the papers read were the following: "Retail Florists," by C. H. Green, of Fremont; "Advertising," by L. Henderson, of Omaha; "Bulbs," by J. E. Atkinson, of Pawnee City.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Bellamy Bros. have their new propagating house partly filled with seedling roses, several of which are most promising. He also has a variegated form of the Kenilworth ivy that is true to type and reproduces true from cuttings.

West Springfield, Mass.—Fire broke out in the west wing of the greenhouses owned and operated by Hans Madsen, on New Bridge street, early in the morning of January 31, destroying a large part of the building and several hundred dollars' worth of stock.

Defiance, O.—Christ Winterich received first prize on begonias, and both first and second prizes on cyclamens, at the recent exhibition given by the Toledo Florists' Club. He was also complimented by being elected an honorary member of the Toledo club.

Louisville, Ky.—The American Floral Co. has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators are J. S. Shrobanek, H. Oswald Georges and Rudolph Shrobanek. The maximum limit of indebtedness is fixed at $5,000.

Guthrie, Okla.—Furrow & Co. have about completed a new addition, 28x250, and are contemplating the building of another range in the spring. This firm has a prosperous wholesale and retail trade and has one of the most up-to-date establishments in the state.

Norwalk, O.—E. J. Peat has his new greenhouses well stocked and is doing a good business in cut flowers and winter-blooming pot plants. His violets, carnations and sweet peas make a fine showing. He has a range of 7,500 square feet and expects to add more glass during the coming summer.

Danbury, Conn.—Daniel S. Cornell, of Joseph E. Cornell & Co., reports that all holiday stock was cleaned out at fair prices. In addition to the ordinary florists' line, this firm carries a stock of canaries, parrots, goldfish, etc. Among the other signs of prosperity at this establishment, are a new horse and an up-to-date delivery wagon.

Shenandoah, Ia.—O. B. Stevens, proprietor of the Shenandoah Greenhouses, says: "The winter so far has been easy on coal bills, while funerals have made frequent calls for flowers. Although our houses have double the capacity they had a year ago, we have been obliged to buy some stock from the wholesale men. There is but little frost in the ground here and some field work is in progress; yet the making of hotbeds is considered more risky than if the first part of the winter had been colder, for a cold spell is likely to come later."

West Springfield, Mass.—Fire broke out in the west wing of the greenhouses owned and operated by Hans Madsen, on New Bridge street, early in the morning of January 31, destroying a large part of the building and several hundred dollars' worth of stock.

Defiance, O.—Christ Winterich received first prize on begonias, and both first and second prizes on cyclamens, at the recent exhibition given by the Toledo Florists' Club. He was also complimented by being elected an honorary member of the Toledo club.

Louisville, Ky.—The American Floral Co. has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators are J. S. Shrobanek, H. Oswald Georges and Rudolph Shrobanek. The maximum limit of indebtedness is fixed at $5,000.

Guthrie, Okla.—Furrow & Co. have about completed a new addition, 28x250, and are contemplating the building of another range in the spring. This firm has a prosperous wholesale and retail trade and has one of the most up-to-date establishments in the state.

Norwalk, O.—E. J. Peat has his new greenhouses well stocked and is doing a good business in cut flowers and winter-blooming pot plants. His violets, carnations and sweet peas make a fine showing. He has a range of 7,500 square feet and expects to add more glass during the coming summer.

Danbury, Conn.—Daniel S. Cornell, of Joseph E. Cornell & Co., reports that all holiday stock was cleaned out at fair prices. In addition to the ordinary florists' line, this firm carries a stock of canaries, parrots, goldfish, etc. Among the other signs of prosperity at this establishment, are a new horse and an up-to-date delivery wagon.

Shenandoah, Ia.—O. B. Stevens, proprietor of the Shenandoah Greenhouses, says: "The winter so far has been easy on coal bills, while funerals have made frequent calls for flowers. Although our houses have double the capacity they had a year ago, we have been obliged to buy some stock from the wholesale men. There is but little frost in the ground here and some field work is in progress; yet the making of hotbeds is considered more risky than if the first part of the winter had been colder, for a cold spell is likely to come later."

Troy, N. Y.—J. G. Barrett, on the hill, reports a continuous run of funeral orders. He keeps his ice-chest always filled with stock and his patrons know he can fill any order of any size at all times.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, '01.
Officers for 1911: President, George Asmus, Chicago; vice-president, R. Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md.; secretary, H. B. Dorner, Urbana, Ill.; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y.
Special convention and National Flower Show, Boston, Mass., March 25 to April 1, 1911.
Annual convention, Baltimore, Md., August 15 to 18, 1911.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

THE members of the American Carnation Society will wear a special button at Boston and subsequent conventions.

THE southwest has had an unexpected hot wave. At Fort Worth, Tex., January 31, 94 degrees was registered.

NOW is a good time to buy cement; prices are said to be based on 85 cents per barrel f. o. b. factory.

SOME of the firms best worth dealing with deny trade prices to those claiming to be florists but who do not use a printed letter-head.

SNOW no longer ties up cut flower production, the way it did before iron gutters came into general use. Iron gutters soon clear themselves of snow.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

A CORRESPONDENT sends a rose bloom, enclosing a scrap of paper on which he has penciled, "Please give me name." There is nothing by which to identify the sender, who evidently has overlooked the fact that anonymous inquiries never are answered.

THE complete premium lists for the National Flower Show at Boston, March 25 to April 1, have been issued and may be had by addressing the secretary of any of the special societies coöperating or Chester I. Campbell, manager, 5 Park Square, Boston.

C. W. JOHNSON, secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, has supplied a tabular report of the work of the committees of the society judging seedlings and shoots in the season of 1910, which was recorded in detail in The Review at the time.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Kaber.

Mrs. Kaber, widow of the founder of the well known Kaber Co., La Porte, Ind., died February 4. She survived her husband by nearly three years. Several children are left, among them W. C. Kaber, who recently retired from the firm and removed to California. There are two daughters.

John Bauscher, Sr.

John Bauscher, Sr., father of the John Bauscher who conducts a large florists' business on Chicago street, Freeport, Ill., died January 26, of pneumonia. The deceased, also, was a gardener and florist, but retired twenty-four years ago and was succeeded by his son.

Mr. Bauscher, Sr., was born at Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, March 7, 1834, and came to America, with his mother and two brothers, in the fifties. Settling at Freeport, he learned the harness makers' trade, in which he continued for many years, at Freeport, Peoria, Ill., and Chattanooga, Tenn. At Peoria, in April, 1862, he married Miss Sophia Hoffman. He returned to Freeport in 1865, and ten years later he resumed the business of gardener and florist, which he had learned in Germany. He prospered well in this enterprise, and thus laid the foundations of the business which has been developed to its present large proportions by his son.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters, viz.: John Bauscher, Jr., Julius Bauscher, Mrs. Lloyd Aspinwall and Miss Tillie Bauscher, all of Freeport. He also leaves ten grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

John M. Brown.

John M. Brown, a florist who had been employed for the last four years at the greenhouses of C. B. Service, in Sharon, Pa., died of pneumonia January 27, after an illness of less than one week. He was born in New Jersey thirty-nine years ago.

Gus Van Velsen.

Gus Van Velsen died at the hospital at Nyack, N. Y., February 3, after an illness of six weeks, contracted from exposure, developing inflammatory rheumatism. He was a native of Holland, a son of the well known bulb grower of Haarlem, Peter Van Velsen. He came to this country in the early nineties and was employed by Pitcher & Manda, Bobbink & Atkins and other firms near New York. He located in the vicinity of Nyack several years ago and was employed lately by the Palisades Nurseries, at Sparkill, up to within a few weeks of his taking sick.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Business has been slackening until there is an easier tendency in the market. When the market is at either extreme of supply, either radically short or heavily oversupplied, the shipping demand falls away. When the market is short prices advance beyond the point at which the stores in the smaller cities can use the stock at a profit. This condition has prevailed to a certain extent in the last fortnight, but a still more potent factor in reducing demand has been the fact that bulbous stock is now available almost everywhere; nearly every retailer who has any glass at all now has some bulbous flowers of his own, and so does not need to buy in Chicago. A still further factor at the opening of this week was the big storm, which delayed mail and express and interfered with retailing everywhere.

Bulbous stock has felt the changing condition more than any other item. There are now large receipts of fine tulips, better stock than has heretofore been seen, but it is not bringing as much money as a week ago. The same is true of Paper Whites, Romans, jonquils, daffodils and freesias. Valley also is abundant, though this is one of the items on which no one can predict what the morrow will bring forth. Easter lilies for the moment also are in heavy supply. There are not many callas, nor are they specially good.

The carnation market has weakened along with that for bulbous stock. There is an adequate supply of all colors of carnations, quality is good and a fairly active business is being done. Prices are no higher than usual at this season, rather lower than a year ago, if anything.

Violets are less plentiful than they were, but the opinion is that the growers are simply accumulating a supply to pick at the end of the week for the large demand anticipated for St. Valentine's day. Cattleyas are slightly less plentiful and prices are stiffening. The quality of many of the Trianæ coming in is superlatively good. The number of local sources of supply is increasing rapidly. Gardenias have been going a little slow, but many advance orders for violets, cattleyas, gardenias and valley have been booked for Valentine's day. Sweet peas have become one of the short items. Some of the stock now coming in is of exceptional quality, but the supply is not large in any grade.

Roses are slightly easier simply for the reason that demand has abated; the supply has increased only slightly. In fact, Beauties are less plentiful than they were. Once more it is apparent that the finest grade of Killarney, White Killarney and Richmond are the slowest to move.

Some of the wholesalers complain that Adiantum Farleyense is not properly appreciated. For the moment, Mexican ivy is the popular green. Ferns are stiffening in price and some of the wholesalers predict that the fireworks will begin before the month is out.

Club Meeting.

The members of the Chicago Florists' Club evidently think that if the club's president, H. E. Philpott, can come all the way from Winnipeg for each meeting, it is up to those who live in the city to be present when his gavel falls.

At the meeting held February 2 the attendance was one of the largest of the winter. Among those present were W. F. Kasting, of Buffalo; Nic Zweifel, of Milwaukee; C. W. Scott, of New York, and L. W. Wheeler, of Hollister, Cal.

The following new members were elected: C. L. Sherer, Max Cohen, W. L. Kroeschell, J. Wolniewicz and E. F. Winterson, Jr. Those proposed for membership were: Harry F. Gray, William Wolf, Robert E. Newcomb, Edward Goldstein and C. A. Beatty.

Alex. Henderson, of the good of the club committee, asked for suggestions as to the club's program for the coming year. George Asmus, Walter Scott, John Degnan and A. C. Kohlbrand, always fertile with ideas, made valuable suggestions. A. Zech made a report for the committee on sports and P. J. Foley for the transportation committee. A committee, consisting of H. E. Philpott, A. T. Pyfer and H. N. Bruns, presented resolutions on the deaths of J. F. Klimmer and Henry Mundt, which were adopted. The banquet committee, of which A. C. Kohlbrand is chairman, was made one of the standing committees.

Nic Zweifel, of Milwaukee, and P. Olsem, of Joliet, spoke on the carnations on the exhibition table. A committee of judges, consisting of John Then, of the wholesalers at the store of Hoerber Bros., Saturday afternoon, February 4, at which a committee, consisting of August Poehlmann, of Poehlmann Bros. Co.; N. J. Wietor, of Wietor Bros., and C. M. Dickinson, of E. H. Hunt, was instructed to secure binding signatures covering definite spaces in the proposed Market street florists' building. Armed with guarantees covering eighty per cent of the space in the proposed building, the committee is authorized to make a lease of the entire building in the name of the Chicago Wholesale Florists' Association, the charter for which will be amended to cover the necessities of the case. George Reinberg presided at the meeting.

The wholesalers might as well move, for no one will be able to recognize their addresses after April 1. On that date a new system of numbering goes into effect in the downtown district. The Atlas block, known for years as 51 Wabash, will become 162 North Wabash. Winterson's Seed Store will be 166 North Wabash. Every number in the wholesale cut flower district will be altered.

The big storm February 5 inflicted some damage on the growers, but all things considered they got off luckily, nothing worse being reported than the collapse of about fifteen bars on one of the Beauty houses of Poehlmann Bros. Co. At Hinsdale the propagating houses of Bassett & Washburn were reported completely buried in the drifts.

Paul Blome, who has been ill for a number of weeks, is on his way to recovery and is expected to be able to attend to his duties within the coming ten days.

Peter Reinberg bought a car of glass a few months ago, but Tim Matchen, who has charge of the store, says he has heard nothing as yet about new houses.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg says she looks for next week to break all February records, especially in the demand for violets.

The Fleischman Floral Co. is featuring Violet Marie Elise. This is a variety originating with Thomas De Voy's Son, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., as a sport of Marie Louise. The color is a dainty light wistaria shade. It has not yet come into the wholesale markets.

G. M. Reburn has returned from a successful maiden trip of six weeks for the new firm of A. Henderson & Co.

Carl Thomas, of the A. L. Randall Co., has put in a busy week fighting off pneumonia. Frank Johnson has returned from a week's trip to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

It is reported that the Des Plaines Violet Co. has ordered a car of glass for a range of violet houses at Des Plaines. Local parties and a Chicago wholesaler are said to be interested.

Kyle & Foerster have a report that Peter Weiland, who last year sold his share in the business of Weiland & Olinger at New Castle, is preparing to erect a new range of ten houses there this season.

Comment has many times been made that wild smilax is not in as large demand in this market this season as in other years. E. E. Pieser, of Kennicott Bros. Co., says the falling off in demand cannot be explained by a lack of quality in the goods, for he says the stock they have handled this year has been the best he ever has seen.

Fred Sperry, of Vaughan & Sperry, has been confined to his home by the grip for several days.

John Steinmetz, formerly city salesman and later traveler for the W. W. Barnard Co., recently bought the retail store of Mrs. Paasch on North Halsted street. February 4 he turned out $300 worth of funeral work, including several large designs.

The E. F. Winterson Co. still is handling poinsettias, but expects to clean out the crop for Valentine's day. E. F. Winterson, Jr., has been on a business trip north.

C. W. McKellar reports the passing of cypripediums. He says there is an increase in the demand for orchids, other varieties than cattleyas, dendrobiums and oncidiums being in good request.

An adjourned meeting of the Horticultural Society of Chicago will be held at the Art Institute Tuesday, February 14. The annual election is to take place.

The Star Floral Co., at Wilmette, of which John Flint is manager, plans to house next season 4,000 plants of a white seedling carnation raised on the place.

B. Eldridge, of Belvidere, was a recent visitor. He plans to plant 2,500 Carnation Washington next season.

F. Liebermann, who left Vaughan & Sperry to go into business for himself, buying the store of Mrs. Lundberg at 1609 North Wells street, is well pleased with his start.

John Michelsen says E. C. Amling has reported safe arrival in the summer clime of Orange, Cal. O. P. Bassett and Ned Washburn are at Pasadena.

There is quite a colony of Chicago florists in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Among the week's visitors have been H. E. Philpott, Winnipeg, Man.; B. Eschner and J. A. Farney, of M. Rice & Co., Philadelphia; C. B. Knickman, of McHutchison & Co., New York; Paul Berkowitz, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; William Dittman, New Castle, Ind.; W. F. Kasting, Buffalo; William Graff, Columbus, O.

Bowling.

Two teams of the All Stars of Joliet, headed by Peter Olsem, of the Chicago Carnation Co., were the guests of the Chicago bowlers February 5. The first team for the visitors won two out of three from the Chicago bowlers, while the second team took three straight games. There was a large attendance on the alleys and a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon.

The record of the Bowling League for February 1 is as follows:

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Last week the weather was clear and warm. This brought the scarcity of the previous two weeks to an end in everything except roses; these are still off crop. The wholesalers found it necessary to reduce the prices of carnations, violets and sweet peas. Of these the market had a large supply all the week, with not enough demand to consume them even at the lower prices. Extra fancy carnations did not bring over $3 per hundred. Enchantress, Rose-pink Enchantress and all whites sold best. Good Beacons, too, sold well. A good cut is expected from now on in all varieties.

In California violets there is a decided glut; all the wholesalers have been loaded down with them. They sold at $1.50 to $2 in thousand lots; Maz-zuras, $3 to $5 per thousand and Hericks not much over $1, but on Monday, February 6, the price was up to $5 per thousand on Californias.

Roses are coming in slowly and clean sales have been reported on these. Beauties are scarce; so, also, are Killarneys and the white varieties.

In bulbous stock the demand was light and the market was well supplied with callas, Harrisii, valley, freesias, tulips, Romans and Paper Whites. All of these were lowered somewhat in price. In sweet peas a lot of stock went to waste for want of demand.

All of our wholesalers are now looking for a big demand and expect to be well supplied with everything in season on St. Valentine's day.

Various Notes.

B. Eschner, of M. Rice & Co., made the rounds of the trade here last week. He reports a good business trip.

The greenhouse plant of the Eggeling Floral Co., at Kinloch, was recently sold under deed of trust and is now offered for sale by the parties who purchased it, at Clayton. The Eggelings still run their retail store on South Grand avenue.

All the seed houses have issued their spring catalogues. The Young & Sons Co., the St. Louis Seed Co. and the Schisler-Corneli Seed Co. have all sent out handsome, up-to-date books.

Charles Bleekert, the Labadie avenue florist, will build a few more houses this spring and will go heavily into the plant growing business. He has several houses full of excellent blooming plants.

The officers of the Florists' Club held a meeting February 6 at the store of the Smith Wholesale Floral Co., and made up a program for the celebration of the club's twenty-fifth anniversary. Their report will be placed before the members of the club at the next meeting.

C. A. Kuehn and J. J. Beneke took their turn in bowling at the A. B. C. tournament in the Coliseum last week. Both fell below their regular averages and fell several points below the prize money.

I. Rosnosky, representing the Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, reports successful business during his few days' stay in the city.

C. C. Sanders has just finished building his new garage at his Henley road place. His retail place, under the management of his son, Oliver K., has had a good run of business since the first of the year.

John Connon, of the Connon Floral Co., at Webster Groves, reports several large jobs for receptions and weddings last week. The firm is cutting a good lot of carnations and smilax at present.

Robert Thomson reports that his firm has several good contracts for building greenhouses this summer for the local growers and expects this to be the firm's best year.

The Andersen Specialty Co., of Chicago, made an exhibit at the paint men's convention, showing its preparation for cleaning greenhouse glass. The exhibit was left with the Smith Wholesale Floral Co., which will be local agent for the goods.

W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, Mo., left February 6 for a few days' stay at Chicago. He expects to stop off at Champaign, Ill., on his way home, to attend the meeting of the Illinois State Florists' Association.

Anton Bros., of Clayton, Mo., are sending in a fine cut of Enchantress, Rose-pink Enchantress and White Enchantress. They expect to build a few more houses this summer, for carnations.

Miss May Burns, who succeeded Mr. Burke under the name of the Burns Floral Co., has closed the place at Grand and Finney avenues. Miss Burns says she will later open on Eastern avenue, west of Grand avenue.

Geo. H. Angermueller handled a nice lot of cut orchids last week and says he expects to have regular shipments from now on. His consignments of tulips and Von Sions were large last week, with a good demand.

The largest wedding of the season, the Allen-Catlin wedding, made a busy week for the local florists. The firms who had the bulk of the work were: C. Young & Sons Co., furnishing the house decorations; Miss M. S. Newman, supplying the bridal bouquets, and the Ellison Floral Co., which had the decorations for the reception at the Country Club. Nearly all the florists had something to do for this big event.

J. J. B.

Sistersville, W. Va.—E. Huston & Son, the Thistle avenue florists, have opened a new store in the Morrison building, on Welles street.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The week opened with a cold wave. The blizzard came before noon, February 6, and winter seems to have arrived. Business continues barely steady and prices do not advance. The shipments are not excessive, but the market cannot absorb all of them, violets especially hanging fire and many thousands going to the street men. The colder weather should bring about a general improvement. A few large balls and weddings are being consummated this week and next. The Gould-Decies affair made quite an inroad into the daisy, white lilac, and white rose supply. The holidays in celebration of Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays are close at hand, and Valentine's day, it is hoped, will clean up the violet supply. The next two weeks should be the best of the year to date and all the days up to Lent are filled with dinners and receptions.

The rose stock now arriving is first-class. The demand is most urgent for the lower grades, especially of Bride and Maid. There have been fewer Beauties of the top quality than were needed and prices have advanced slightly. The outlook for abundant shipments is now improving. Killarney maintains its reputation as a cropper. Last week 4 cents was called high for most of the carnations; in fact, at times 3 cents was the top for anything but the novelties. The tendency is upward. Orchids are in wide demand and the supply is lighter. The best now are firm at 50 cents each. Gardenias, when perfect, realize $5 to $6 a dozen. Plenty of short-stemmed stock arrives, for which little is asked. Bulbous stock of every kind is too abundant. Prices are barely steady at the reduction. Lilies hold at $10 and valley at $3 per hundred. These are top prices.

Smilax is a drug and much of it is unsalable. Wild smilax is selling well. Large quantities of laurel roping and asparagus strings have been sold for the big decorations.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club will hold its monthly meeting next Monday evening, February 13. In addition to his stereopticon lecture, Mr. Vincent will have some interesting news about Baltimore and the convention of the S. A. F. next August. President Nugent says the gavel will fall at exactly 8 o'clock. The new methods of the caterers will appeal to all and the exhibits will be interesting as usual. In the afternoon a holiday crowd will be at the bowling alleys in competition for prizes.

The annual dinner of the Florists' Club will be held Saturday, March 18, at Shanley's, Forty-second street and Broadway, the scene of the great success of 1909. The tickets are $4 for gentlemen and $3 for ladies.

The Yonkers Horticultural Society celebrated Tuesday evening, February 7, at its second annual banquet. Arthur Herrington was toastmaster. There were delegations from all the sister societies within a radius of thirty miles.

On Friday evening the Orange Horticultural Society will have its annual smoker at Orange, N. J. The Elberon society will celebrate at Long Branch, N. J., in a few days.

The dinner of the New York and New Jersey Plant Growers' Association at the Café Martin, February 2, was a brilliant affair, the menu irreproachable in quality, and the crowd of nearly eighty a happy and congenial one. The association provided for its guests with an abundance of music and a variety of vaudeville talent that kept the diners interested until midnight. President Abraham Lincoln Miller presided, and ex-President Pierson was his right-hand man. Interesting addresses were made by Messrs. Miller, Pierson, Roehrs, senior and junior; Steinhoff, Schultheis, Esler, Elliott, Siebrecht, and Mrs. Julius Roehrs, Jr. Mrs. Roehrs spoke eloquently in behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the S. A. F., and urged all the ladies present to attend the Boston show. The attendance from New York is expected to be so large that the engagement of the upper deck of the Harvard is contemplated.

John G. Esler, of Saddle River, N. J., met with a painful accident on his way from the plant growers' banquet to his hotel. A collision with a trolley car resulted in a dislocated hip. He is now at the New York hospital and the latest reports give assurance of a speedy recovery.

J. V. Phillips, Brooklyn, has the decoration of the Twenty-third Regiment armory for the auto show, February 11 to 18, also the MacNamee-Sullivan church and house wedding, February 11, an elaborate affair.

S. Masur, Brooklyn, has had a busy winter, he says, and expects to be settled in his new store by May 1.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The weather bureau asserts that we have had only one clear day this year. This may account for the extreme shortage of those varieties of flowers that require sunshine. There are not enough flowers to fill all orders and prices are firm. The only exceptions are Beauties and cattleyas, which seems rather odd, as neither Beauties nor cattleyas are in crop. Beauties have fallen in price just when they were expected to advance. It may be that the quality does not tempt the buyers from Richmond or Killarney at the price asked, or it may be the uncertainty of a Beauty order being filled in full just now, or it may be the price was too high. At any rate, Beauties have tumbled in an advancing market, and the street wonders.

Cattleyas are firmer, but there is little demand for them. Gardenias are coming in crop and the quality is improving. There is more demand and the price has advanced. Lack of sunshine continues to affect sweet peas more than any other flowers. When good they are popular. Valley is in great favor and violets in moderate favor, with at times heavy sales. Roses are steadily, though slowly, increasing in numbers. Killarney is the leader. White are particularly scarce. The carnation pendulum has swung back again, for where the whites were most plentiful, it is now the colored varieties that predominate. The real business of the week has been done in the so-called spring flowers—daffodils, tulips, freesias, Paper Whites and lilacs—because these flowers can be had in quantity at moderate prices. The trading has been especially heavy in daffodils, notably Golden Spur. Heroic efforts to advance the price of this variety over 3 cents on Saturday failed, despite the scarcity. Easter lilies have advanced a trifle. Daisies are not wanted just now. Greens are selling fairly briskly.

The Event of the Week.

A large attendance was especially interested in the announcement made by J. Otto Thilow at the Florists' Club meeting February 7. Mr. Thilow promises an unusual treat for next month as follows: Tuesday evening, March 7, an illustrated lecture on the Riverview Nurseries, showing the difficulties met and overcome in the construction of a modern greenhouse plant, by R. O. King, of North Tonawanda, N. Y. Wednesday, March 8, an invitation from the Henry A. Dreer Co. to the Florists' Club of Philadelphia to visit their new Riverview Nurseries and see the plant described by Mr. King the evening before. A special train will be provided and everything will be done to add to the pleasure of the trip.

W. H. Taplin's interesting paper on "Carnations of Today" is printed on another page of this issue.

H. Bayersdorfer talked interestingly of the special needs of our floral artists at this season: A perfect gondola, an exact reproduction in miniature of those used by the Venetians; a fish, presumably for a midwinter fish-dinner

The very best Yellow Rose today

¶ A splendid introduction, a beautiful color, good sized buds and long stems, an exceptionally free bloomer—as free in winter as Maryland is in summer. To appreciate and know its value one should see it growing. A visit to our growers, Robert Scott & Son, will convince every grower of its wonderful future. Own Root Plants, 2½-in. pots:

Each	$ 0.75
Dozen	6.00
25	10.00
50	17.50
100	30.00
250	70.00
1000	250.00

Orders filled in rotation

DOUBLE KILLARNEY

¶ With but very few exceptions, every grower who has bought feels confident that in two or three seasons there will be no Pink Killarney grown excepting Double Pink Killarney.

Those who at first held back, thinking the old Killarney was good enough for them, now realize their mistake and are placing good-sized orders, anxious not to be left out on this future money-maker. Come and see it growing at Robert Scott & Son's.

Own Root Plants, 2½-in. Pots:

Each	Dozen	25	50	100	250	1000
$0.50	$4.00	$6.00	$11.00	$20.00	$40.00	$150.00

Rose Queen we believe has a wonderful future—something very distinct, entirely different from any rose now on the market. We are booking orders for March delivery, 50c each; $35.00 per 100 (25 at 100 rate); $300.00 per 1000; $5.00 per 100 additional for grafts.

Prince de Bulgarie Large flowers, of a beautiful shell pink, perfect stems and foliage. As this is such a strikingly beautiful rose, besides being a good grower and free bloomer, it is sure to be a big success commercially.

Grafted stock, 2¼-in. pots, $3.00 per dozen; $20.00 per 100; $180.00 per 1000. Own Root stock, 2½-in. pots, $2.50 per dozen; $15.00 per 100; $120.00 per 1000.

party; a number of aeroplanes, Wright pattern; most pleasing of all were the baskets made especially for a ballroom decoration. The walls are to be covered with mirrors; long-handled gypsy baskets in two sizes are to be suspended in front of the mirrors all around the room. These baskets, made of willow, are rather flat, to avoid encroaching on the room. They are extremely graceful and fitted with zinc pans and in the center a deeper cup for water or moss.

Mr. Bayersdorfer had some pretty St. Valentine's day novelties. One, a scarlet heart, pierced by a golden arrow, is intended as a setting for a bunch of violets or other dainty flowers; another was a violet handkerchief of lace-like delicacy, used to protect the dress from the ruinous moisture of flowers. These handkerchiefs are of a variety of colors besides violet.

The exhibits were as follows: P. M. De Witt, Bridgewater, two fine vases of his deep pink Pennsylvania and two numbered seedlings, a scarlet and a pleasing variegated; Henry Eichholz, Waynesboro, Princess Charming in fine form; Evenden Bros., Williamsport, four seedlings of promise, a crimson, scarlet, white and variegated; Florex Gardens, North Wales, Mikado, a lavender purple brought from Germany, one leading retailer takes the entire cut; Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, splendid Killarney roses; William Kleinheinz, Ogontz, a scarlet seedling Miss Dimple Wiedenier, a cross between Lawson and Lady Bountiful, large flowers, perfect calyx, strong stems, most promising; Richard Laing, Roxbury, well-grown vases of Rose-pink Enchantress and White Enchantress; Edward C. Marshall, Kennett Square, two fine vases of Pink Delight; S. M. Merwarth & Bros., Easton, plant and vases of a good scarlet seedling, showing clear, rich color, good stems and calyx.

Riverview Nurseries.

A tract of ground purchased last July, a building contract for two acres of glass and all necessary power awarded last September, that contract completed in January, the entire place working with clock-like precision today—this is the history of the Riverview Nurseries.

The Riverview Nurseries is the name given to the offshoot of the Riverton Nurseries of Henry A. Dreer, Inc. These nurseries, located a short distance above Riverton, are the horticultural wonder of the day. That such an immense place could be built in so short a time seems scarcely credible. Every detail was carefully planned and executed. The power-house goes a step forward. There is a battery of five new boilers, a circular stack built on the most improved lines, a centrifugal pump with electric power. Add to them a blower for burning any kind of coal with forced draft, a Duplex pump as reserve lest the centrifugal pump or shafting get in trouble, and the various mains and returns necessary to heat two acres of glass and you have some idea of the appearance of a light concrete building on the ground level, with everything convenient.

Science is playing an increasing part in horticulture. The scientifically constructed place is more perfectly heated in every corner and more easily run; in short, more efficient than the unscientific place. Perhaps a clearer idea may be given by an example of the part science plays in the hot water heating by forced circulation at the Riverview Nurseries. A one-quarter turn of the flow valve wheel is sufficient to raise or lower the temperature in the space that it controls. These valves are set, the returns left open, and the man in charge night or day carries the wheel in his pocket to avoid the system being thrown out of gear by the hand of the curious passerby.

The Riverview Nurseries have been described twice before in the columns of The Review, the first time in September, when the outline of the carefully planned ideas of J. D. Eisele was roughly given; the second time in December, when the place was nearing completion. These accounts may be best supplemented by a few general impressions of the place, now that it is in perfect order.

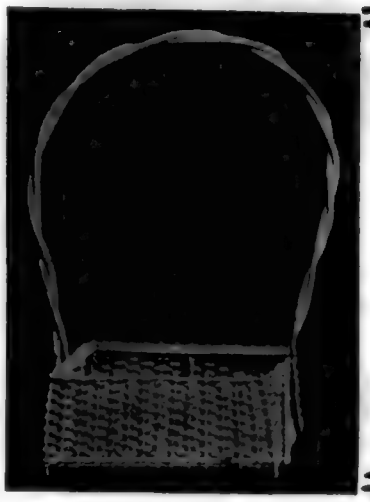
The service house is a feature. High, well proportioned, with board roof and greenhouse ventilator, it is admirably adapted for the work its name implies: Storing, receiving, shipping, potting, whatever the hour may demand to add to the efficiency of the other houses. Next, partitioned off, is the office and, to the left and right, the ranges in blocks of ten, the one all tabled, the other with ground beds and, unlike the tabled range, several houses open between. The tabled range is filled with Riverton overflow, chiefly the plants for stock. Here are medium sizes of Phœnix Roebelenii, there the younger stock of variegated pineapple, Ananassa sativa variegata, in numbers to be seen nowhere else in the wide world. In fact, the quantity of this plant afforded opportunity for Mr. Eisele's facetious remark that they grew wild in the woods near Riverview. Then there are three houses planted out in stock of Mr. Clark's nephrolepis; a bench of dracæna canes, laid down in sand for starting; another of dahlia roots, varieties of Crème de la Crème, starting in soil; still another of Marguerite Mrs. F. Sander, brought here to have the best opportunity possible to furnish the huge amount of stock required in a few brief months. Then there are geraniums galore and a pretty lot of Dracæna Massangeana, with a brand new variegation of this sterling variety with central stripes of white instead of the broad band of the older type.

The ground bed range in the first three houses is in kentias; then the perennials that require early starting; then the hardy roses. With 250,000 of the latter it is not odd that some of the overflow of Riverton are at Riverview. This brief description of the stock, given from memory as the result of a stroll over the concrete-covered surface pipe that runs from end to end, is simply to show that these two acres of glass have been filled in a night, as it were. Riverton does not miss the plants, in spite of a splendid shipping January; even wonders, Mr. Eisele asserts, why those two acres of glass at Riverview will not accommodate more.

E. H. Michel is in charge of the Riverview Nurseries. They will be run as an annex, so to speak, of the Riverton Nurseries of the company. The orders will be received at and sent from Riverton. Riverview will grow certain kinds of stock, probably in time the sizes not ready for the market, especially those sizes requiring particular processes and those that are grown in quantity.

St. Valentine's.

It is rather a delicate matter to approach our leading floral artists before February 14 to get the latest ideas for that lovers' day. They like their novelties to be exclusive, and while they are all such good fellows that they hate to refuse, it hardly seems fair to ask.



A friend took a peek at the windows at "The Sign of the Rose" to see what Charles Henry Fox had there dis-

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Business last week kept pace with that of the few preceding ones and the demand is now in excess of the supply, which tends to force the range of prices higher than usual. Dark, dreary, unsettled weather has had the result of limiting the supply of roses and carnations, but the indications are that a few days will materially increase the supply. All kinds of bulb blooms, however, are coming in plentifully, so that the shortage of roses and carnations is somewhat compensated for. Violets are almost a drug and are at the lowest ebb of prices.

on page 16 of the January 12th number of The Review? It's rather interesting—A severer test could hardly be made. We have done some testing ourselves, but this test, which was made without our knowledge with a regular stock tube, is certainly the hardest test we ever heard of. Evidently our tube meets every requirement. Have you used them? Samples on request.

H. & D. FLORISTS' BOX

Universally used for shipping cut flowers and designs. The dead-air cells form a perfect non-conductor of heat and cold, thus preserving contents much longer than ordinary wood box.

H. & D. Florists' Box can be used several times. Is much lighter than the ordinary box, thus saving in express charges.

has been suffering from a severe attack of the grip. Last week he was exceedingly busy on baskets and bouquets for graduations in his town.

Nathan D. Pierce, of the Norwood Greenhouses, Norwood, lost a number of panes of glass by the heavy gale of the early part of the week.

Albert Holscher, on Plainfield street, has broken ground for the range of five new houses that he is to put up.

John Johnston, of Johnston Bros., on Dorrance street, was confined to his home last week by an attack of the grip.

William Mackay, of Newport, was a visitor in Boston last week on business.

James A. Staples, of Woonsocket, reports an unusually heavy trade since New Year's, especially in funeral work.

The Newport Horticultural Society has voted to hold two shows, one of roses and strawberries in June and the regular exhibition of plants, flowers, fruits and vegetables in September.

Mrs. Olsen, of the Brookside Greenhouses, East Providence, reports lots of work for the graduations in that town last week.

Thomas Curley has been extremely busy recently. One day last week he had fifteen designs for funerals.

Louis J. Reuter, of S. J. Reuter & Son, of Westerly, was a visitor in Boston last week.

One of the indisputable signs of spring has made its appearance, in the rumor of the establishment of a flower market. Every year the matter bobs up serenely, excites everybody for a few weeks and goes to seed until the next year. So far as can be learned, the fulfillment of the rumor is no nearer than it was three years ago.

Visitors: A representative of H. M. Robinson & Co., of Boston; Carl Schultz, of Newport; John Lambert, of Fall River; J. E. Cross, treasurer, and Mr. Lawton, president, of the Fall River Florists' Association. W. H. M.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y.—Christian Dehn is well pleased with the Wilson-Hoyt cement benches built for him last fall. He is building a new office and store room.

TORONTO.

The Market.

Things have loosened up and stock is more plentiful than it has been for some little while, and there is plenty of everything, with perhaps the exception of red roses. Freesias also are a little scarce. Daffodils are in good supply and sell well. Lilacs are now on the market. Richmond roses and Enchantress carnations are the best sellers.

This week started off with the worst blizzard so far this winter, and it is likely that the trade will experience difficulties for a couple of days in getting stock from outside points and in filling out-of-town orders on account of the snow blockades on the railroads.

Various Notes.

At the St. Charles hotel Thursday evening, February 2, J. S. Simmons tendered the members of his staff a complimentary dinner, after which the party adjourned to the Princess theater to see "Sweet Sixteen." During the course of the evening Mr. Simmons was made the recipient of a handsome reading table.

J. H. Dunlop is busy clearing his houses and preparing for Easter. Business at his store, on Yonge street, has been excellent. Orders for design work and receptions have been plentiful.

Mrs. Timothy Eaton recently held a large reception at her magnificent home on Lowther avenue. J. S. Simmons had charge of the extensive floral decorations.

Samuel Norman, of J. H. Dunlop's staff, was recently married. Mr. Norman and his bride spent a pleasant honeymoon in New York.

Charles E. Lewis reports a good trade in design work and orders for receptions, etc.

Grobba & Wandrey, of Mimico, are shipping some fine stock into this city.

Six Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand. If you are the only florist in your city represented here, you get the orders coming into your territory from other florists. If you are not represented and "the other fellow" is—we can leave it to you what becomes of these desirable orders.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

For several days last week we had cold, sunless weather, followed, February 4, by torrential rains. Usually Saturday is the banner day of the week for flower selling, but people do not come out to the stores in driving rain. As a consequence, business, while fairly good, showed a decided decline from the previous week. Roses, while still in somewhat short supply, are more plentiful than they were and prices have dropped a little. The quality leaves nothing to be desired. Carnations average a little lower, but all good flowers bring excellent prices. Pink Delight continues a prime favorite, but Enchantress is still more in evidence than all other light pinks combined, and is now of fine quality. White Enchantress is more seen than White Perfection and is gradually displacing the latter. Winsor seems rather too plentiful. Violets have had a poor week; cold weather always hurts their sale and it seemed too bad to see excellent singles selling as low as 25 cents per hundred.

Sweet peas are improving in quality. The variety Christmas Pink is still the favorite. Mrs. Sim has exceptionally long stems. The dark purple shades are hard to sell, but lavender shades are popular. These are all selling better than a month ago. Lilies include both Formosas and longiflorums. Callas are much more plentiful. Good freesia is still seen on several stands. Bulbous stock so far has sold well. A large variety of narcissi and tulips are now included. Marguerites continue one of the popular flowers, yellows particularly so. Mignonette is more plentiful; so are snapdragons. Cattleyas are in oversupply. A good quantity of valley is coming in, but quite a lot of it is of rather poor quality. Trade in greenery has been good, but the business in pot plants has been rather quiet for a week or two.

Various Notes.

W. S. Phelps, of Marlboro, is marketing a fine lot of antirrhinums. His carnations are of the usual high grade and include Fair Maid, Winsor, Queen and Harry Fenn.

The many friends of William F. Caharer, the popular salesman for the Sutermeister estate, were pleased to see him around again February 1. Mr. Caharer has just recovered from an operation for appendicitis.

Frank J. Dolansky, of Lynn, has some of the finest sweet peas seen at this season. His Mrs. Sim carry 15-inch stems and other sorts are of extra quality.

Thomas J. Grey & Co. have completed the changes in their seed department.

J. T. Gale, of Tewksbury, has lavender sweet peas of fine quality. His double violets are also hard to beat.

William A. Riggs, of Auburndale, is last in the market with stevia. He has also a fine lot of Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri.

yellow marguerites from N. A. Hudson, of Natick, also fine poeticus narcissus from Streiferd & Son. The latter firm is also showing Emma Ward, a new seedling carnation of Winsor shade.

Nelson & Johnson, of Framingham, are sending to W. A. Hastings quantities of superb Enchantress carnations. Winsor and Beacon are also good. Sweet peas are also now included in their shipments.

Malcolm Orr, of Saugus, once a violet specialist and now devoting his energies mainly to swet peas, has Christmas Pink and Florence Denzer of grand quality at present.

Do not forget the club meeting February 14. Edwin Jenkins will be the lecturer and numerous exhibits are promised. Shipments of new carnations and roses, if sent addressed prepaid to W. N. Craig, 300 Massachusetts avenue, will be promptly cared for.

John Barr's new variegated carnation is one of the sensations of the present season. The flowers sold readily at $8 per hundred at the Boston Coöperative Market last week.

Julius H. Zinn had a charmingly arranged basket of mixed orchids in his window last week. Among other flowers noted were double white violets, pure in color, and dimorphotheca.

The veteran, Mrs. E. M. Gill, of Medford, is among those sending in fine plants of Primula Kewensis.

Henry M. Robinson & Co. are receiving daily superb American Beauty roses from the F. R. Pierson Co. Valley from A. N. Pierson is splendid. They have just received a large consignment of new magnolia leaves and a big importation of fancy baskets.

Mann Bros., of Randolph, among other bulbous flowers, have Narcissus poeticus ornatus, N. Golden Spur, N. Sir Watkins, N. Barrii conspicuus and N. Victoria. Among tulips they have Crown of Roses, Couronne d'Or, Thomas Moore and grand La Reines.

Charles J. O'Brien, of Jamaica Plain, and H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, are large shippers of fine La Reine tulips.

At Penn's, violets on Saturdays continue to meet with a heavy sale. Carnations are also selling better than ever, while they find an increasing call for valley, cattleyas and other choice flowers.

"Summer Blooming Bulbs" was the topic interestingly handled at Horticultural hall, February 4, by Isaac S. Hendrickson, of Floral Park, N. Y. In spite of the damp weather, there was a good audience. There will be no lecture February 11.

Frank P. Putnam, the carnation specialist of North Tewksbury, has added lily of the valley to his shipments, also dimorphotheca in quantity.

Paine Bros., of Randolph, among their bulb specialties have Yellow Prince and Salvator Rosa tulips of high class quality, also a full line of Trumpet narcissi.

Galvin's, on Tremont street, have this week fine vases of hybrid amaryllis in their windows.

The Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co., at the two stores, is doing a good business in bulbs in pans, both in flower and just started. The seed trade is starting up well.

J. W. Simpson, of Reading, and D. J. Horrigan, of Foxboro, are large shippers of yellow marguerites. There never seems to be any overplus of this popular flower.

Daniel Iliffe is doing the heating in the new greenhouse being erected for Henry Hornblower, the Boston banker, at Plymouth, Mass., where Thomas Howden has charge.

E. J. Rogeau is handling superb Mrs. Sim sweet peas grown by Potter Bros., of Danvers.

John J. Fee, of Jamaica Plain, always has gilt-edged bulb stock. His Golden Spurs and La Reines cannot be beaten. Mr. Fee purchases high grade bulbs, and the quality of flowers and extra price secured pay him for the extra outlay.

third house of sweet peas just coming into crop. They will use the two earlier houses for tomatoes shortly. They now have three specialties, mums, sweet peas and tomatoes.

Welch Bros. have experienced a heavier volume of business so far this year than ever before. Their valley and Beauties from Carl Jurgens are of fine quality.

The Montrose Greenhouses, through Ernest Stickel, are selling as fine Richmonds as have been seen this season. Killarney and White Killarney are equally good. Mrs. Aaron Ward they also have of good quality.

Herbert T. Capers, salesman for the Halifax Garden Co., has now a large assortment of swet peas, pink, white and lavender being most in demand. Among carnations, Pink Delight, Enchantress, White Enchantress, Winsor and Beacon sell well. Winona, Apple Blossom and one or two other varieties go more slowly. W. N. Craig.

Some men do business on the principle that the world owes them a living. That's a mistake. The world owes you nothing. If you have health, you are lucky, and that's all you deserve without working for it. Some growers work on about the same principle in handling lily bulbs. They buy good bulbs, stick them in the dirt and expect good results. You have to take care of good lily bulbs just as you do everything for the best results. Give them as good attention as you would a pet horse, anyway. Don't drown them with water when they don't need it, and don't blame bulbs for rotting when poor soil and drainage is the cause. Take care of your bulbs, keep them free from green fly, feed them manure water and give them careful attention—that's the way to produce the best average.

There are no better lily bulbs imported than Horseshoe Brand—from the finest fields of Japan.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

Pres., E. L. Page, Greene, N. Y.; First Vice-pres., L. H Vaughan, Chicago; Sec'y and Treas., C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Twenty-ninth annual meeting, Milwaukee, Wis., June 20 to 22, 1911.

THE mail order houses have had a big rush of seed orders from the southwest as a result of the hot wave that passed over that section last week.

THE Meier-Shoemaker Seed Co., of Cincinnati, O., has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $50,000, by Andrew J. Shoemaker and others.

VISITED CHICAGO: L. W. Wheeler, of the Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., Hollister, Cal.; C. B. Coe, representing D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.; C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., New York.

THE California growers have had a sufficiency of moisture since the belated rains began and consider the prospect satisfactory, in view of all the circumstances.

THE increasing flood of mail orders has been held in check this week by the biggest snow storm of the winter, which has swept over a large part of the country.

CHARLES A. HEATH, of the Albert Dickinson Co., Chicago, who incidentally looks upon the lowly bean as the great American vegetable, was one of the speakers at the recent convention of the Michigan Bean Growers' Association at Detroit.

THE explosion of dynamite in Jersey City February 1 did a great deal of damage to the seed houses along Cortlandt street in New York city. Three of the windows of Peter Henderson & Co. were blown into the street, the entire front of Stumpp & Walter Co., and the windows of Burnett Bros. also going out.

SWEET PEAS are the most important item on the list of flower seeds. There seems to be no shortage this year. People are learning that they cannot get something for nothing in sweet peas any more than in other articles; consequently there is increased call for the better grades. Florists are buying seed of the Spencer varieties in larger quantities each year.

WHEN the representatives of the American Seed Trade Association, the Wholesale Seedsmen's League and the Grass Seed Dealers' Association appeared before the Committee of Interstate and Foreign Commerce, at Washington, February 2, Congressman Mann stated that he was not disposed, in view of the united protest, to press his pure seed bill for passage at this session.

SEEDSMEN will be interested to note that two of the important topics on the program of the canners' convention at Milwaukee this week concern legislation and seeds; the canners are harassed by conflicting state laws no less than are the seedsmen. Papers relating to seed supply are to be read as follows: "Pedigreeing and Saving Seed Corn," by Richard Dickson; "Seed Propagation," by J. J. Nairn, Hamilton, Ont.; "How to Grow Seed Corn," by C. H. Smith, Faribault, Minn.; "Soil for Pea Raising; Its Cultivation," by D. J. Fitzgerald, West Du Pere, Wis.

QUITE a few seedsmen who cater to the canners' trade are at the convention at Milwaukee this week.

A. R. MILLER, of the Covington Seed Co., Covington, Ky., has returned from a visit to Pacific coast seed growing districts.

LAST week congress passed the annual agricultural appropriation bill, carrying the usual provision for the 1912 seed distribution.

LE ROY M. SMITH, who has been connected with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is the organizer of the Seed Trade Reporting Bureau, with headquarters at Chicago.

A DAILY newspaper of McPherson, Kan., remarks that James Smalley & Co., the local seed dealers, "do more business with less noise than any other firm in the city."

PAUL DOVE is now proprietor of the seed business formerly conducted by Henry Saxton Adams, in Wellesley, Mass. In addition to seeds, Mr. Dove will also handle hardy shrubs and other nursery stock.

THE Northern Wisconsin Seed Co., of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., which was incorporated early in 1910, is now owned and managed by Carl and Cedric Dreutzer. William Birdsall has charge of the shipping department.

CHARLES D. BOYLES, of the Albert Dickinson Co., Chicago, has acquired a property of 150 feet on Sheridan road, running back 500 feet to Lake Michigan, at Winnetka, Ill., and it is said he will erect a residence to cost $40,000.

"IF the Huber seed bill passes the Ohio legislature, it will put the field seed merchant out of business and kill the Toledo clover seed market, now the largest in the world," S. W. Flower is quoted as saying. "The main objection is in what the bill terms noxious seed. The bill specifies that only one noxious seed can be allowed out of every 2,000."

WHAT is known as the Iowa seed corn case was thrown out of court at Vinton, Benton county, last week for want of jurisdiction. E. D. Roberts, of Red Oak, sold a quantity of seed corn to Iowa farmers under claims that they afterwards alleged were not substantiated. One of the purchasers brought suit and a judgment of $100 and costs was imposed. On appeal the case was ordered dismissed on the ground that the alleged offense was not committed in the county.

They are perfect mixtures and sound in grain and a pleasure to handle."

law enacted. All we ask is that it be such a law as will permit us to live." This statement was made by D. I. Bushnell to a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who, with seedsmen from all sections of the country, appeared February 2 before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which held a hearing on the Mann pure seed bill. Representative Mann informed them he is not disposed to press his bill at this session.

The seedsmen drafted a substitute for the Mann bill which they laid before the committee. It contains the essential features of the Mann measure. The Mann bill provides for the regulation of the seed business which enters into interstate commerce. Those present agreed legislation is necessary and expressed themselves as willing to have it in this session, according to Mr. Bushnell.

IMPORTS.

The imports of seed through the port of New York for the week ending January 28 were as follows:

Kind.	Pkgs.	Val.	Kind.	Pkgs.	Val.
Annatto	33	$ 330	Grass	432	$ 9,766
Canary	100	583	Mustard	900	7,821

Castor	2,725	12,073	Sugar beet	3	41
Clover	400	11,200	Other		16,654

In the same period the imports of bulbs, trees and plants were valued at $8,953.

THE SWEET PEA IN COMMERCE.

One of the London gardening publications recently devoted an edition to the exploitation of the sweet pea. One of the special articles was written by S. B. Dicks, of Cooper, Taber & Co., who is well known to the American seed trade through his annual visits to this country. His subject was "The Sweet Pea as an Article of Commerce." He went back 200 years in his retrospect, and concluded: "Judging by facts under my personal observation, and the acreage which is annually devoted to their culture, the world's production of sweet pea seed must be nearly 500 tons. The greater part of these are sold in America, where they form the most important item in the flower seed section of the commission seedsmen's boxes. Great Britain and her many colonies also use immense quantities, for it is as easily grown by the cottager as the prince. In Germany there is a growing demand, especially for the early-flowering section; Scandinavia has also entered the lists; France is much interested in the Cupid section; and some day, perhaps, even Italy will join the ranks of its admirers, and thus remove the reproach which rests upon it while it remains, like the prophet, 'without honor in its own country.'"

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

Four days of sunshine since the first of the year—that is a good enough indication of the condition of crops at present. This weather is hard on crops and also hard on the coal bill. It keeps the florist humping to make both ends meet. Plants are loaded with buds and need only a liberal amount of sunshine to bring them into bloom.

The demand, especially for carnations, is such that it is often necessary to cut several times a day to keep peace among the customers. Roses withstand the weather conditions fairly well, and yet they come in looking rather bleached or "half baked." Bulbous stock is not any too plenteous, but what there is comes in handy and helps to relieve the situation on roses and carnations. The lily supply is fair, but is no more than sufficient to meet the demands.

Various Notes.

The Dayton Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting at the establishment of J. F. Young, on East Fifth street, February 6. The banquet committee gave its report and the date has been set for March 1. It will be held at the Phillips House and the occasion promises to be a pleasant one.

Mrs. B. Haschke says trade has picked up wonderfully in the last week and orders for violets for St. Valentine's day are coming in fast.

Mrs. E. Young reports that there has been just enough doing to keep her force out of mischief and that she is well satisfied with everything in general.

H. H. Ritter says he has had plenty of funeral orders in the last week to keep him cleaned out of stock. He and several of his men spent the first part of the week in Middletown, O., where he decorated for a large wedding that took place February 8. He is at present

Aster, Vick's New Early Branching.

Non-lateral H. A. The Early Branching come into bloom about two weeks earlier than the Late Branching. The plants have but few branches and are free from side buds, the whole strength of the plant being given to the development of the very few large and perfect flowers, which are borne on extra long stems. We offer two colors only. Early Branching White, Early Branching Rose. Each, trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Aster, Branching Rosy Carmine. The color is hard to describe, but we think rosy carmine about right. As a cut flower variety this Aster catches the eye every time. Trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Aster, Improved Early Branching Semple. (Novelty, '09.) H.A. A seedling from that grand old variety Semple's Pink, which on account of its earliness will certainly become equally and we predict more popular than its parent. The color is of the same shade of bright pink and the habit of the plant and form of flowers are identical, being of the same strong robust growth and branching habit. Its greatest value is in its earliness, blooming as it does ten days earlier than Semple's Pink. Trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Aster, Early Wonder. White. (Novelty, '08.) H. A. This is the earliest Aster in cultivation, blooming several days before Queen of the Market, with pure white flowers double the size; nice shape and stands well. It is after the style of the Giant Comet, and is destined to become the leading early variety, and will prove a great acquisition to growers requiring large, early blooms. Trade pkt., 25c; 5 pkts. for $1.00; ⅛ oz., 40c; ¼ oz., 75c: ½ oz , $1 25: oz., $2.00.

Early Wonder Pink. Trade pkt., 25c: 5 pkts., $1.00; ⅛ oz., 40c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Asters, Crego. (Novelty, '09.) H. A. The Crego Asters are of American origin and are very strong growers, attaining a height of from 2 to 3 feet, with long, strong stems. The flowers are of a mammoth Comet type, measuring from 4 to 5 inches in diameter and resembling large chrysanthemums. We offer the Crego Asters in White, Light Pink, Mixed. Trade pkt., 15c; ⅛ oz., 25c; ¼ oz., 50c; ½ oz., 85c; oz., $1.50.

HERCULES ASTER, WHITE.

Hercules. Of imposing aspect, the plants throw up a very strong stem, 15 to 20 inches high, which begins to branch about 4 inches from the ground. Flowers are borne on remarkably strong stalks, are all the purest white, of the genuine Hohenzollern form, with very long petals, and attain the enormous diameter of 6, or, with good culture, as much as 7 inches. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 60c; oz., $2.00.

Other Good Asters

Daybreak. Flowers very large and double, of a beautiful shell-pink color. This is a grand Aster for cutting purposes, growing 2 feet high. One of the best late market Asters of its color. Trade pkt., 35c; oz., $2.25.

The Favorite. An aristocrat among the Comet Asters. Color beautiful blush, changing to rich deep pink as the flower becomes older; the petals wavily reflexed. The plants grow 18 inches high, bearing large-sized blooms of beautiful form; invaluable for cutting. Trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 60c; oz., $2.00.

Purity. One of the most beautiful of the Branching Asters. Double flowers of glistening pure white; similar to Daybreak in form and habit of growth. Trade pkt., 35c; oz., $2.25.

Vick's Violet King. The peer of the grandest Chrysanthemums. The habit is similar to the popular Vick's Branching, vigorous in growth, long, stiff stems; petals somewhat resemble the quilled varieties, but much larger and broader, completely covering the crown. In shape and size the bloom is round, full and large, many of the flowers 4 to 5 inches. Its color is a soft violet-lilac. Trade pkt., 30c; oz., $1.50.

Vick's Mikado. An entirely new class of Branching Asters, growing from 16 inches to 2 feet high, and bearing immense curled and twisted flowers on long, stiff stems. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.50.

Lavender Gem. A beautiful variety of Aster, of the Comet type, with large, loosely arranged flowers, which are perfectly double, and of a beautiful, delicate shade of lavender; flowers are borne on long stems, and are excellent for cutting. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.00.

Snowdrift. Certainly one of the earliest Asters in cultivation. The entire energy of the plant seems given to the production of slender, upright stems, 12 to 20 inches long, crowned with immense feathery flowers. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.50.

picking some fine long-stemmed violets. He also states that he is cutting a good many yellow narcissi, which do not seem to take well, however, with his trade.

W. W. Horlacher says he has had more orders for cut flowers to be used at receptions and parties this year than ever before. It seems that cut flowers are continually becoming more popular and are being used in increasing quantities for these occasions.

M. Anderson spent a few days of last week in Chicago on business.

E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., called on Dayton florists last week, introducing several of his 1911 novelties in roses and carnations.

I. Rosnosky, representing the Henry F. Michell Co., of Philadelphia, made his rounds among the trade last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ehrhardt and daughter, Esther, of Sidney, O., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bartholomew February 5.

Oliver Cressman, of Punxsutawney, Pa., called on the Miami Floral Co. last week. Mr. Cressman, who is just starting in the florists' business, is spending considerable time in visiting various greenhouses, in the hope of securing some novel ideas in building.

John Boehner reports business to be satisfactory. He was the victim of a gas explosion some weeks ago, but has completely recovered.

The Miami Floral Co. has had exceptionally good business and flowers of all kinds have been in good demand. The recent dull weather has greatly affected crops.

Walter Matthews, of the Dayton Floral Co., is on the sick list. R. A. B.

VEGETABLE MARKETS.

Chicago, February 7.—Cucumbers, $1.75 doz.; lettuce, 30c to 32½c case.

Boston, February 6.—Cucumbers, $4 to $14 box; select cucumbers, $1.75 to $2 doz.; tomatoes, 30c to 45c lb.; lettuce, 75c to $1.25 box; parsley, $1.50 box; bunch beets, $1.50 to $2 doz.; bunch carrots, 60c to 85c doz.; radishes, 35c to 40c doz.; mushrooms, 30c to 40c lb.; rhubarb, 10c lb.; mint, $1 to $1.25 box; escarolle, $1 to $1.25 doz.; romaine, 50c to 75c doz.

New York, February 6.—Market steady on cucumbers and firm on mint. Mushrooms cleaned up fairly well at quotations. Radishes easier and $3 now top. Rhubarb shows irregular quality and value. Tomatoes in light supply and firmer. Cucumbers, $1 to $2 doz.; mint, $1 to $1.50 dozen bunches; mushrooms, 50c to $1.20 4-lb. basket; radishes, $3 hundred bunches; rhubarb, 40c to 65c dozen bunches; tomatoes, 15c to 37c lb.

TOMATOES AND CUCUMBERS.

In his recent address before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Boston, L. C. Corbett said in part:

"Tomatoes are an important crop, not only with the truck farmers of the south but with those of Maryland, Ohio, Indiana and New York, where immense quantities are annually produced for canneries. The early southern crop comes into competition with the spring crop under glass to a considerable extent, but the Cleveland and Ashtabula growers maintain that this competition is not destructive. The greenhouse-grown product outsells the southern field product in the same market. The growers have seen to it that their customers were taught to discriminate between the vine-ripened, greenhouse-grown product and that ripened in transit from the southern fields. They are further fortifying their industry by growing under glass special types of tomatoes not produced in the field. The greenhouse-grown product differs in color, size, texture and flavor. These points of difference are carefully pointed out as the reason for the higher price. This is perfectly legitimate. There is a place for the southern product in the market, but it should not be a competitor of the greenhouse-grown fruit. If it is it is because the market has not yet become discriminating. A little educational work on tomatoes is needed in that market, and that is the grower's task.

"Let us consider the cucumber situation. This crop is extensively grown by truck farmers both in frames and as a field crop. The season of the frame crop overlaps that of the northern forcing house product to some extent, but as it costs a great deal to produce the frame crop, and as it only overlaps the house crop for a short period, it is not a formidable competitor; but why be content to have it a competitor at all? We have based our whole cucumber forcing industry outside the New Orleans district on the White Spine, the great American field type of cucumber. Why not make the cucumber forcing industry distinctive, as it is in England? If the English sorts do not suit our markets, make new ones that fit American conditions, but which are as distinctive as are the English forcing type. This will solve the problem of competition once and for all. I have never thought the White Spine the ideal forcing cucumber. It shows its age in the market too soon. It is too perishable for the effort it costs. The ideal forcing cuke is one which can be marketed as soon as large enough, regardless of its age; one which remains a long time on the plant without ripening and one which does not age quickly in the market."

Falls City, Neb.—Simanton & Pence are planning to add two rose houses as soon as the weather becomes favorable for building.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y.—Henry Schrade reports some good sales on his carnation, Canary Bird, which is said to be increasing in favor wherever grown.

BURNETT'S "LIBERTY" TOMATO

For Main Crop and Exhibition Purposes

LIBERTY TOMATO, introduced by us three years ago, still holds undisputed reputation as the best main crop and exhibition variety. The finest Tomato on the market today. LIBERTY is an exceedingly heavy cropper and bears abundantly, until very late in the season, in clusters of from 10 to 12 perfect fruit. All exhibitors and growers should not fail to give Liberty a trial. Pkt., 20c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.00.

Strong, pot-grown plants of Liberty ready May 1. Doz., 75c; 100, $5.00

BURNETT'S "RED ENSIGN"

Is an ideal new forcing Tomato

Order this when ordering "Liberty." The fruit is rich crimson color, delicious flavor and free from hard core. One of the earliest and most prolific, the fruit hanging in broad, handsome sprays; medium size and remarkably even. Pkt., 25c.

NEW PARSLEY

Burnett's Emerald Isle

Densely curled, dwarf and very compact. Statistics received last season show that Emerald Isle, planted at the same time and under the same conditions, germinated quicker than any other variety. Pkt., 10c; oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c.

BURNETT'S NEW CABBAGE "BASS ROCK"

As a second early variety this Cabbage has no equal. It matures a few days later than Early Summer, is much larger and a sure header. The finest of the flat-headed type grown, either for summer or winter use. Pkt., 10c; oz., 40c; ¼ lb., $1.25; lb., $4.00.

ONION

Ailsa Craig (Dobbies' Genuine)

For exhibition, universally recognized as the ideal Onion. The skin pale straw, flesh white, very mild, and quality superb. The bulbs, which are oval-shaped, often attain the phenomenal size of from 3 to 4 lbs. Pkt., 15c; oz., 50c; ¼ lb., $1.50.

CAULIFLOWER

Snowball, "Burnett Selected Strain"

No other Cauliflower at the present time is so widely known as Snowball, having supplanted all other sorts for early and late planting. Heads pure snow-white, of the finest quality. Our strain of Snowball we can recommend with the utmost confidence. Pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., $1.25; oz., $4.00.

NEW MUSKMELON

"Heytesbury King"

This Melon, introduced by us, is a seedling of English origin, for which we claim superiority over all other varieties. It is unsurpassed, both as a forcer and for growing in cold frames during the summer. It is a very free setter, the fruit averaging in weight from 8 to 10 lbs. each, with beautifully golden yellow, finely netted skin, exceptionally thick, firm, green flesh, the flavor and quality of which has never been equaled. We believe it will become one of the leading Melons for outdoor growing also. Pkt., 50c; ¼ oz., $2.00.

ANTIRRHINUM NANUM GRANDIFLORUM

Six New Colors—in Original Packages

Maize Queen. Beautiful salmon maize, with yellow lip, dark green foliage. Pkt., 50c.

Pink Queen. A lovely pink, with yellow lip, large flower, very beautiful. Pkt., 50c.

Dainty Queen. Beautiful salmon buff, with bright yellow lip; pleasing and attractive. Pkt., 35c.

Buff Queen. A lovely shade of rose, with deep canary lip, shaded orange. Pkt., 35c.

Above collection of 6 varieties for $2.00

PACIFIC COAST.

Seattle, Wash.—Fred G. A. White has leased the residence and greenhouses owned by Mrs. S. M. Kane and is growing carnations in the two houses, each 20 x 60. He expects to build an addition to the range later.

Tacoma, Wash.—Mrs. Tayton Thayer, who now owns and conducts the establishment called La Jardiniere, is building a bungalow flower store in connection with her greenhouses, which are located on her residence property, in one of the most fashionable districts of the city.

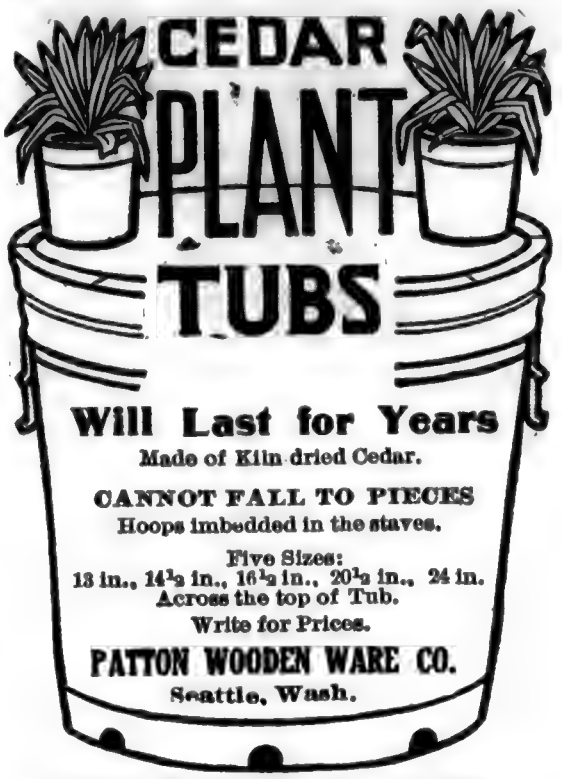
SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

Another week's steady rain has done much to keep business at a standstill, and although the indications at present are for an early cessation of the rain, we have not seen the sun shine for two weeks. As a natural consequence there is little business to mention except funeral orders, which have kept most of the retailers busy since the first of the year. The prices of stock remain about the same as those quoted one week ago, with the prospect of their getting considerably lower.

Roses are rather scarce, but carnations are in abundance for all requirements. Bulbous stock is daily becoming more plentiful and, with a few days' sunshine, we may expect an avalanche of everything in this line. Violets have been a drug for a couple of weeks, and the price at which they were held has been cut about in the middle. Valley and inside-grown tulips move only fairly well. Although apparently fewer of the latter are offered than there were one year ago, the dealers still have some trouble in using them all. Mums are about over for the season, and when these are gone they will leave a clear field for the outside flowers. A few fruit blossoms and some early acacia are being shown, and with a few days' sunshine a good deal of the florists' attention will be turned to this class of stock.

Various Notes.



C. A. Epperson, representing the Routledge Seed & Floral Co., of Portland, Ore., is in town interviewing the local dealers.

Fred Seulberger, horticultural inspector from Alameda county, is in Sacramento in the interest of several bills now before the state legislature referring to his line of work.

The Pacific Coast Horticultural Society held its annual banquet in the Fairmount hotel on the evening of January 28. About 100 were present, and addresses were made by President Plath and others. A highly enjoyable time was had, and considerable credit is due to those who had the affair in charge.

P. J. Orr, recently with the Sievers Floral Co., is now connected with the Powell street store of the Fairmount Floral Co.

The Wholesale Florists' and Nurserymen's Board of Trade has just issued a neatly printed constitution and by-laws, explaining the position of the organization with reference to the interests of the florists and nurserymen in the neighborhood of San Francisco.

Unusual vigilance on the part of the United States inspectors at the port of San Francisco has caused many thousands of foreign grown shrubs, plants and bulbs to be confiscated and destroyed on account of various pests with which they were infested. G.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business remained moderately quiet throughout last week; there were no funerals of importance, yet there was no surplus. The only variation was the high school graduations. Carnations and violets had the principal demand, with a few exceptions.

The continued cloudy weather has shortened the supply of stock, especially carnations, and roses are almost entirely off crop. Jonquils, tulips and hyacinths are becoming more plentiful and sell readily. In blooming plants there is little new to mention; tulips and hyacinths are about the best sellers.

McKinley day passed with a slight demand; no special effort is made by the florists to push the day. Considerable stock is shipped from California, but it is not found to be a profitable investment; improper packing is the chief cause of losses. At the greenhouses stock for Easter seems to be progressing nicely, especially the lilies, which are well foliaged and stocky.

E. R. C.

CORTLAND, N. Y.

The Market.

There has been a good call for cut flowers for the last two weeks on account of several funerals, some of which took large quantities. All of the florists cleaned out everything available.

Various Notes.

Claude V. Hike, the Main street florist, has just finished making some important changes in his store, including the building of a fine, large refrigerator. He now has a most convenient and attractive store.

Claude Ryan, who for several years has been running his father's greenhouses on Madison street, has given up the business to his father, Augustus E. Ryan, who will attend to it for the present. Claude expects to get a position as carnation grower for some one who may need his services.

M. M. Lathrop, of the Fairside Greenhouses, reports a good trade in plants and rooted cuttings at wholesale.

William Hathaway is growing some good carnations, and is getting stock into his new houses for the spring trade.

Adolph Frost, at the Sign of the Pansy, on Tompkins street, is exceedingly busy trying to keep up with his lively trade, but finds time for that hearty handshake.

Since the January thaw commenced, some of the florists have adopted a new style. It consists of having pumps in their furnace pits, and some are getting quite attached to them.

The ground hog and his shadow have not shown up here, but the beginning of six weeks more of winter has come with a vengeance in the form of a blizzard. M. M. L.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1910-11: Pres., W. P. Stark, Louisiana, Mo.; Vice-pres., E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Sec'y, John Hall Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-sixth annual meeting, St. Louis, June, 1911.

THE nurserymen's season promised to be cut short in the southwest. January went out with the most severe heat wave ever known in Texas, Oklahoma and contiguous states, but more nearly normal conditions returned before serious damage was done.

SOME representative nurserymen of Nebraska met at Lincoln, Neb., January 26, and took preliminary steps in forming an organization to be known as the Nebraska Nurserymen's Association. Peter Youngers, of Geneva, was chosen temporary chairman, and Clyde Barnard, of Table Rock, temporary secretary. The first draft was made of a bill to provide for inspection of fruit coming into the state or being exported therefrom.

AT the annual meeting of the Tennessee Nurserymen's Association, held at Nashville January 26 and 27, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. J. Fletcher, Cleveland; general vice-president, Henry M. Camp, Jr., Winchester; vice-president for west Tennessee, J. H. Boyd, Memphis; for middle Tennessee, Charles R. Givens, Murfreesboro; for east Tennessee, A. I. Smith, Knoxville; secretary and treasurer, Prof. G. M. Bentley, Knoxville. The meeting was in conjunction with the State Horticultural Society and the list of addresses was given on page 60 of the January 26 issue of The Review.

THE AMERICAN LANDSCAPE.

Its Immensity.

My judgment is that American landscape architecture, as it comes more and more to its proper estate, will be influenced more and more by the native landscape, said Prof. F. A. Waugh, of the Massachusetts College of Agriculture, in a recent address. It will conform itself in a larger and more fundamental way to the topography and the scenery of the continent. What, then, are the outstanding characteristics of the American landscape?

The American landscape is, first of all, large. This sounds like a vulgar claim to make for it; but Aristotle said that any object to be beautiful must have a certain magnitude. Microscopic views, strictly speaking, cannot be beautiful. But height and depth and space in a landscape mean vastly more than in a statue, a painting or a piece of music. A mountain cannot be a mountain till it is a thousand feet high, and if a river is not large enough it may be mistaken for a brook. I like Champlain better than Lake George, chiefly because Champlain is larger. The plains of Kansas and Texas are magnificent for their illimitable, unbroken stretch. The great passes of the Rockies lift our souls out of our puny bodies, just by virtue of the sheer, stupendous height of the encircling mountains. Yes, mere largeness has its æsthetic value. Size counts.

The American landscape is wild. In many places it is truly savage. Here and there it has all the fierce, tempestuous wildness of the godlike conflict in which the world was made. No one can compare England with America, for example, without seeing that the English landscape is cultivated, subdued, humanized, in a sense overcome by the operations of man. The German forests are ordered like gardens and look no more like the riotous wilds of Canada or Minnesota than a chessboard looks like a battlefield. To be sure, there is some subjugation of the landscape in America, and likely to be more; but the great reaches of American lake and mountain must stand eternally above the encroachments of man. They will forever express, more perfectly than other landscapes, the gigantic forces of creation.

Its Diversity.

Again, the American landscape is diverse. There are all kinds of scenery on our continent. There are big, threatening mountains, and quiet, peaceful, little ones; there are broad seas; there are vast, fertile plains; there are noble rivers and gurgling, gossiping brooks; there are pine forests and palmetto groves. Switzerland has one sort of scenery, Holland another, England still another; America has all kinds.

But more than diversity the American landscape has versatility. We complain sometimes of our changeable weather and

THE IMPROVED CANNA

Washington, D. C., 10-4-10.

"These Cannas are desired for ornamenting the grounds of this Department, where many thousand people from all parts of the United States visit each year, and they could hardly be placed in a more conspicuous place; for this reason I wish to secure the best obtainable."

Bureau of Plant Industry,
U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The above sentence is an extract from a requisition for several hundred roots.

THE United States Government aims to have the best of everything; distinct tone is given by the stamp of the Government's approval secured by its adoption.

The United States Government's Department of Agriculture has adopted our Cannas for planting in masses in chosen beds about the national buildings at Washington, D. C. This fact clearly shows the esteem in which our Cannas are held at the Department of Agriculture. After consultation with the authorities, and careful examination of our improved Cannas, certain varieties were selected that have done so well that other varieties will be added next season.

ALLEMANIA. An improved Italia, with more numerous flowers, of immense size. Outer petals scarlet, with broad yellow border; inside scarlet and dark red. One of the best of the Giant, or Orchid-flowered section. Height, 5 to 6 feet.
AUSTRIA. Pure canary-yellow; large open flowers with reddish dots in center of the two inside petals. Height, 5 feet.
BURBANK. Color rich, canary-yellow, with a few carmine spots in throat. Height, 5 feet.
LOUISIANA. New American Orchid-flowered, strong, vigorous-growing variety, producing a dense mass of glossy green foliage, and vivid, scarlet flowers, often measuring 7 inches across. Imagine a plant with four to five main stems, each one crowned with 30 to 40 flowers open at one time. The effect is gorgeous and indescribable. Height, 7 feet.
PENNSYLVANIA. The flowers are often 7 to 8 inches across, with petals 2¼ inches broad. Fine red color. Height, 6 feet.

S. & W. Co.'s Best Ten Varieties

ALSACE. A beautiful creamy white-flowering variety used very extensively for contrasting red and pink-flowering sorts. Height 4 feet.
BRANDYWINE. Brandywine is thoroughly handsome all season through. It has a luxurious growth of very dark foliage and is heavily topped with a magnificent display of brilliant red flowers. Height 3½ feet.
BUTTERCUP. True bright buttercup-yellow; always shows up bright and clear, and is undoubtedly the best and most beautiful pure bright, deep, canary-yellow Canna in existence. (Award of Merit from R. H. S.) Height 3½ feet.
DAVID HARUM. Flowers large size with well-rounded petals of good substance; color bright vermilion-scarlet dotted with crimson spots; foliage bronze. Height 3 feet.
EXPRESS. Color scarlet-crimson. Its dwarf habit and large flower commend it very strongly to all those who would have an excellent bedding or edging variety; it is guaranteed to be well up to expectations. Height 2½ feet.
INDIANA. Glistening golden orange, daintily marked, striped and red. Single blossoms often measuring 7 inches across. Height 5 feet.
KING HUMBERT. Of superlative beauty and by far the finest of all bronze-leaved Cannas. The enormous trusses are made up of flowers that measure 6 inches across and are a rich salmon-scarlet distinctly and numerously flecked with deep crimson markings. It is a free bloomer and with its rich, coppery bronze, massive foliage, it produces an effect both bold and striking. Height 5 feet. Doz., 75c.; per 100, $4.00; per 1000, $30.00.
LOUISIANA. New American Orchid-flowered, strong, vigorous-growing variety, producing a dense mass of glossy green foliage, and vivid scarlet flowers, often measuring 7 inches across. Imagine a plant with four to five main stems, each one crowned with 30 to 40 flowers open at one time. The effect is gorgeous and indescribable. Height 7 feet.
PACIFIC BEAUTY. Very heavy, black foliage, striped and variegated. Flowers orange-crimson.
SHENANDOAH. An abundant bloomer with waxy rose-pink flowers and rich, dark foliage, highly ornamental.

General List Large-Flowering Cannas

The following varieties have been chosen from a list of almost 75 varieties, and are in every way the best sorts.

DR. NANSEN. 5 feet. Yellow flowers.
RICHARD WALLACE. A magnificent, large yellow-flowering variety; green, well-shaped foliage, growing about 5 feet high.
BLACK BEAUTY. 5 feet. It seems to us impossible to exaggerate the beauty and richness of this Canna. It undoubtedly has the darkest and most magnificent foliage of all the purple-leaved Cannas. The leaves are a black shining purple, very rich and glossy, and with edges crimped and wavy. Flowers are few and small, but for a foliage plant, and for producing an effect of tropical luxuriance. Black Beauty heads the list.
CHAUTAUQUA. 4 feet. Flowers pure, rich scarlet, intensely vivid; luxuriant, tropical foliage, prettily bronzed. Especially valuable for massing.
EGANDALE. 4 feet. A fine bronze-leaved variety; pretty cherry-red flowers, borne well above the foliage; handsome and distinct.
MLLE. BERAT. 4 to 5 feet. Strong grower with dark pink flowers; one of the best.
FLORENCE VAUGHAN. 5 feet. Large trusses of canary-yellow flowers heavily dotted with deep orange-scarlet; broad, heavy, bright green foliage.
ROSEMAWR. Extra-fine large-flowering, dark rose-colored variety; a fine bedder.
QUEEN CHARLOTTE. 4 feet. One of the finest of the gilt-edge sorts. Large trusses and large flowers of blood-red petals, broadly banded with bright canary-yellow. Handsome, deep bluish green foliage. Exceedingly decorative.
MME. CROZY. 4 feet. All things considered, still one of the best for bedding. A constant, free and reliable bloomer with large trusses set well above the foliage. Flowers large, bright orange-scarlet, lightly bordered with yellow. Bright green, massive foliage.

Crimson and Scarlet-Flowering Varieties

BLACK WARRIOR. 4 feet. A very dark crimson, claimed by the originator to be the darkest known variety.
CHARLES HENDERSON. 4 feet. The standard of excellence in Crimson Cannas.
PRES. McKINLEY. 3 feet. One of the very best Cannas for bedding; luxuriant in foliage and dwarf in habit. The trusses are large and numerous and the flowers large, brilliant crimson, shaded with scarlet; showy and striking.
CRIMSON BEDDER. Similar to Charles Henderson.
RED CROSS. 5 feet. Large flowers, shaded dark red.
WM. BOFINGER. 5 feet. The brightest and richest scarlet.

All the above varieties, dozen, 40c; per 100, $2.50; per 1000, $20.00.

CANNAS

True to Name
Grown by Experts

You have no doubt from time to time bought CANNAS that were represented to you to be true to name, and strong sound divisions and in every way first-class, and when you opened them up they looked well and you planted them feeling that you were sure of a good crop; part of them came up straggling, many never at all, and all badly mixed; then you were disappointed and it was too late to plant again.

But did you ever buy Cannas of us, and did they turn out that way? Not that we ever heard of. Our business is the growing of Cannas, and we claim to be experts in this line, having devoted many years to the business. All of our Cannas are grown under the direct supervision of two of our firm. We use every precaution to keep them true to name and stand ready at all times to rectify any mistakes that may occur. Our prices are right considering quality, which we guarantee to be the best at all times.

Meridian Mississippi

our extremes of climate, but these extremes are responsible in part for the kaleidoscopic transformations of our fields and hills. In a great German textbook of botany I saw printed, with infinite pains, a sketch of autumn colors on Lake Ontario. No other land can furnish autumn paintings to compare with ours. Then there are our New England winters (not unknown to poetry), and our Arizona summers, and the springtime at Coronado and at Palm Beach.

American landscape architecture will some day utilize these boundless resources of natural scenery. Niagara falls must some day be the center of a public park. The Yellowstone geyser region is already reserved and should some day be developed by the skilled hand of a competent landscape architect. The big trees fall into the same order. And some day the Rocky mountains, the great plains, the Florida everglades, the great lakes, the Mississippi and the Hudson, Lake Champlain and the Adirondacks must all be opened up to public use as a past generation opened up the coal mines of Pennsylvania, the forests of Wisconsin and the gold veins of California. Here is the most magnificent opportunity that landscape architecture ever had, and this is the field in which this greatest of all arts will become finally, magnificently and characteristically American.

A GRAND NEW ...CARNATION...

outclasses everything heretofore grown in the dark pink section. Won first honors in the 100 class for best dark pink at the A. C. S. meeting, Pittsburg, January, 1910, also at the Chicago Flower Show, November, 1909.

It is a pure, bright, dark pink of even shade, size 3½ inches, an early and continuous bloomer, brings fully 25 per cent more flowers to the plant than Lawson at its best; flowers well shaped on long, wiry stems; calyx does not split. It is a good shipper, and the cuttings root easy.

Price, per 100, $12.00; 25 at 100 rate; per 1000, $100.00; 250 at 1000 rate; per 5000, $400.00.

Rooted Carnation Cuttings

WHITE WONDER (Dorner). A white carnation for all growers; leads any white; a greatly improved White Perfection; makes twice the size plant, thereby increasing its productiveness one-third. $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

GLORIOSA (Dorner). A magnificent shade of light pink, somewhat darker than Pink Delight. A great improvement over Pink Delight, early and free and easy to root. $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

BRIGHT SPOT (Zweifel). A grand new deep pink carnation. One that is sure to fill the want in the dark shade of pink that we all want. Won high honors wherever shown. Easy to root and handle in every way. $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

LAST SEASON'S VARIETIES

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY. The very best pure yellow. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

DOROTHY GORDON. One of the grandest carnations ever sent out. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

CANARY BIRD. A large yellow with a slight pink marking. Extra fine. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

SANGAMO. Brighter than Winona. Very free. One that pays well to grow. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

SHASTA. The freest white ever sent out, fine form, filling a long felt want. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

CONQUEST. The best variety of the Prosperity type; free as Lawson, good stem and easy to grow. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

ADMIRATION. A grand variety, much deeper than Enchantress. Free and a good keeper and shipper. One of the very best of last season's varieties. $5.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

SCARLET GLOW. An exceptionally bright scarlet; very free and good grower. Bound to find a place with the standard reds. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

Trade was good in spots last week. Numerous decorations, coupled with occasional funeral work, kept things fairly lively. Roses are still a little short and are holding good prices. Spring flowers have been in demand, jonquils especially being not enough to go around. Sweet peas are a little scarce at this time, but the outlook is good for later on. Other flowers are enough to go around, the demand being equal to the supply.

Various Notes.

A. F. J. Baur, secretary of the American Carnation Society, is mailing out the premium list this week. Mr. Baur states that this is the largest premium list ever offered by the society. It amounts to about $1,400, with a number of cups and medals additional. Mr. Baur also says that he finds quite a demand for the Carnation Society button, about seventy-five per cent of the members asking for them when they remit their dues.

A. Wiegand & Sons were quite busy with decorations last week, which included a large job at Anderson, Ind., for Remy Bros. George Wiegand and a number of other men spent three days there doing the work. Besides palms, wreathing and cut flowers, about twelve cases of southern smilax were used.

Ben Eschner, of M. Rice & Co., spent a day in the city last week.

John Bertermann opened a private office on North Delaware street, next to the conservatory, last week. Mr. Bertermann has the window decorated with blooming plants and everything looks attractive.

Hans Kipke made a flying trip to Chicago and New York last week, being absent only five days.

John Heidenreich has been cutting quantities of fine jonquils. H. L. W.

POCAHONTAS

We have grown this variety four years and have found it highly profitable. Our local retailers assert that crimson carnations with quality, such as Pocahontas possesses, will sell as well as any other color, the main trouble having been in getting crimson blooms with quality equal to the standards in other colors. Pocahontas has size and all the other qualities that make up a strictly first-class carnation, and it gives you enough bloom to pay you to grow it. Every visitor will substantiate this claim. Our stock is in fine condition, but limited. So get your order in at once.

Order NOW Our New Roses

Melody and Double Pink Killarney

¶ MELODY is the best commercial yellow rose today. We have proved this by the constant, steady cut we have been sending since November both to Philadelphia and New York. It is an easy grower and we feel sure will be profitable to the florist who wants plenty of buds during the winter months. If you wish to plant this sterling novelty, order now for March delivery and secure our first crop of plants. All our orders are filled in rotation. Own roots from 2½-in. pots, $6.00 per dozen, $30.00 per 100, $70.00 per 250, $250.00 per 1000. We do not offer grafted plants, as, like most yellow roses, Melody does better on its own roots.

¶ DOUBLE PINK KILLARNEY is as popular as Melody with every grower visiting our nurseries. It is planted in a section, side by side with Killarney, both planted at the same time and both grafted stock. The growth is much stronger, the flowers are larger, and there are one-third more petals than the ordinary Killarney. For shipping and for an all-year rose this sport is better than its parent. Own root, April delivery, $4.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100, $40.00 per 250, $150.00 per 1000. Grafted plants, on Dickson's Manetti stock, extra strong plants, March delivery, $10.00 extra per 100. First crop of own root Double Killarney all sold, but our second crop will be ready in April. Address

DARK PINK KILLARNEY

A sport of Killarney, similar in habit, but more highly colored than Killarney at its best. When Killarney is pale, Dark Pink Killarney is bright and cheerful.

Grafted Plants only, from 2¼-in. pots,

LADY CROMWELL

A shell-pink sport of My Maryland that for pleasing color is unsurpassed. A wonderful producer, and a color that sells.

Grafted Plants only, from 2¼-in. pots,
$30.00 per 100, $250.00 per 1000.

DOUBLE PINK KILLARNEY

Originating with Robert Scott & Sons, who supply us the wood for grafting. Stronger in growth than Killarney, and with at least ten more petals. A wonderful improvement.

Grafted Stock only, $30.00 per 100, $250.00 per 1000.

PRINCE DE BULGARIE

The best prices for cut flowers should be the standard for judging Roses, and this Rose has been the money-getter. Strong and vigorous in growth, and with its beautiful shell-pink bloom, it has sold on sight. One of the best Roses grown.

Grafted Plants, $20.00 per 100, $180.00 per 1000.
Own Root, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

MRS. AARON WARD

By far the most pleasing of the Yellow Roses now on the market. A general favorite, and one which will be widely grown, for yellow Roses are in demand.

Grafted Plants, $25.00 per 100, $200.00 per 1000.
Own Root, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

MELODY

We have reserved for our orders own-root plants of this choice novelty. No grafted plants.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade has been quite heavy during the last two weeks, with stock rather scarce in some lines, especially carnations. These have been a little off crop and the limited quantities on the market are used up on short notice. Roses have been in fair supply and the demand on them is heavy.

Bulbous stock is coming in more plentifully and helps out a great deal, as funeral work has been quite heavy and has called for a big lot of stock. Lilies are a little more plentiful and have about equaled the demand. Beauties are moving fairly, with a nice lot of the longer stemmed ones coming in. Greens are quite scarce here at present and will probably remain so for some time. There has been a heavy demand for blooming plants, especially azaleas, which have been good sellers.

Various Notes.

The florists are all much in favor of the flower show this fall, and the indications are now that it will be a success.

The boys at the Livingston seed farm and Gus Ackerman entertained the florists on the evening of February 3, when the mum show was talked over.

William Graff has been in Chicago, attending the auto show.

The corn show here is a great success and has attracted a big crowd of strangers. J. M.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The scarcity of flowers which has been apparent for months no longer exists. Trade has quieted down considerably, and stock, as a consequence, is gradually accumulating. The rose supply has been increased by the few warm days of last week, and the market is greatly relieved. Still, prices are unreasonably high, in consideration of the quality offered, and a decided drop is sure to come shortly.

The demand for spring cut flowers and flowering plants is constantly increasing and will continue for some time. Jonquils have been arriving in large quantities and are sold on sight. Good carnations have been scarce and high all winter and have been in demand at fancy prices where the quality justified them. Sweet peas and freesias do not tarry long on the retail counter, as they are in good demand. Violets are overplentiful and meet with little demand; they can be had on the streets for 30 cents per hundred. Cyclamens are in great supply and are readily bought up by the stores.

Various Notes.

At the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, February 13, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, will deliver a lecture on "Italian Gardens." This will also be ladies' night. On the afternoon of March 13 there will be a carnation show at the club rooms, followed by the election of officers and banquet at night.

Harry Klein, of Towson, Md., will erect several new houses as soon as the weather will permit.

James Glass has been displaying some extra fine cyclamens and had some excellent tulips in pans on Saturday, February 4. Q.

Mark Wells, the South Broadway florist, has invented a portable fire escape and has recently been giving public demonstrations of its usefulness. Chief Horton, of the fire department, is said to have a favorable opinion of the invention.

New Marguerite Mrs. F. Sander.

NEW MARGUERITE, MRS. F. SANDER.

The most valuable flowering pot plant which has been offered to the trade since the introduction of the Lorraine Begonia.

In this we have unquestionably the most important flowering plant introduced in recent years, which, like its predecessors, the French Marguerite and the later introductions, white and blush Queen Alexandra, will be grown extensively for cut flowers during the winter, while its pure white color will make it more valuable than any as a pot plant for Easter decorations

Unlike all other Marguerites, its color is of the purest glistening white throughout; in size it frequently measures 5 inches across; the center of the flower is a mass of closely arranged fringed florets; these are surrounded or edged by the broad, shining white ray petals, forming a flower which reminds one forcibly of a glorified double Pyrethrum. These are produced on long stems with a freedom not known in other varieties of the Marguerite.

The entire stock of this grand novelty has been placed in our hands for American distribution and we are now booking orders for delivery the latter part of April or early in May:

Good 2¼-in. pots, $2.00 per doz.; $15.00 per 100

The above prices are intended for the trade only.

Pink Boston Market

A seedling of Boston Market and Harlowarden that has been under test for the past five years and which has shown up so well under all conditions that I now feel confident it is one of the best commercial varieties and have pleasure in offering it for the first time for spring delivery 1911.

The color is a shade lighter pink than Lawson; form high built, much like Boston Market; stem long and graceful; healthy grower; blooms freely from November all through the season.

This new variety I am confident will prove a money-maker—a pink Boston Market—only much larger and better and destined to be one of the most popular commercial varieties.

Come and see it growing, and would advise you to get early rooted stock, which is now ready. I guarantee same to be in perfect health.

FINE FERNS

Ready For Immediate Retail Sale

We have an exceptionally fine and large stock of Ferns in the following varieties—first-class plants of exceedingly good value—plants that will please the most critical buyers, both in regard to quality and value.

Nephrolepis Elegantissima (improved). The finest of this type—never showing a Boston frond; has not reverted in the last four years. Fine plants, 4-in. pots, $2.50 per doz.; 6-in., $6.00 per doz.; 8-in., $12.00 per doz.; large specimens in 12-in. pans, $3.00 to $5.00 each.

Nephrolepis Elegantissima Compacta. This bears the same relation to Elegantissima that Scottii does to Bostoniensis. It is a dwarf, compact plant, especially fine in the small sizes. Fine plants, 4-in. pots, $3.00 per doz.; 6-in., $6.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Scholzeli. Fine plants, 3½-in. pots, $2.50 per doz.; 6-in. pans, $6.00 per doz.; 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis. Extra strong plants, 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Scottii. 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Small Ferns for Fern Pans. Best and hardiest varieties, assorted: Pteris Mayii Wimsetti, Adiantoides, Aspidium Tsussimense, Crytomium Falcatum, etc. Strong plants, 2¼-in. pots, $3.50 per 100.

CROTONS. Nice assortment, well colored, 5-in., $9.00 per dozen.

PITTSBURG, PA.

The Market.

Monday, February 6, finds us with one of the heaviest snowfalls of the year; flowers of all kinds are scarce, for with few exceptions we have had miserable weather, the worst kind for cut flower growing, and as a result the wholesale houses are short on stock every day and have their troubles trying to fill orders.

The retail dealers got along pretty well, for most of the demand lately has been for funeral work, and they can make whatever they can get answer the purpose. The fine bulb stock, which can be sold at a reasonable price, will take care of most of the cut flower customers.

Various Notes.

Edw. McGrath, manager of Blind & Bros.' downtown store, reports trade as having doubled this season over last.

Mrs. E. A. Williams' window of yellow crotons, Trumpet narcissi and lilac has been a thing of beauty the last week.

Thos. Jenkinson, superintendent for A. R. Peacock, has just returned from Canada, where he went to take unto himself a bride.

Jos. E. Bonsall, of Salem, O., has just returned from a trip to California.

The milder weather since the first of the year is causing the rugosa roses, lilac and some other shrubbery to begin pushing out buds and snowdrops are in bloom in Schenley park.

Walter Paul and Harry Streiff, who have been working for the Alpha Floral Co., Chicago, are back in Pittsburg.

Frank P. Myers, of Myers & Samtman, of Philadelphia, was a visitor last week on his way home from the west. Hoo-Hoo.

An item which appeared on page 104 of the February 2 issue of The Review incorrectly stated that P. J. Demas, of the Pittsburg Florists' Exchange, had "taken a ten-year lease on a building on Fifth avenue at a rental aggregating $500,000." This should have read "a lease for a long term of years," as Mr. Demas states that it is for a much longer term than ten years and the annual rental does not nearly approximate $50,000.

OVERCROWDED!

We want to spread out our extensive line of Easter plants, therefore we sell. Just look! A fine selection of decorative plants, such as Araucarias, Ferns, etc., which are always in demand, at bargain prices.

Washington's Birthday is before the door. The public is accustomed to buying a cherry for the occasion. We have a fine lot of Jerusalem Cherries, with ripe, red berries, grown especially for the day, 6-in. pots, at only 25c, 35c and 50c each.

Azalea Indica, for Easter blooming, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), Empress of India, Vervæneana, Schryveriana (double variegated), Simon Mardner, Mme. Van der Cruyssen, Professeur Wolters and others, 60c, 75c, $1.00 to $1.50. In big stock we have Helene Thelemen, Bernard Andrea Alba, Paul Weber, Van der Cruyssen and Niobe, $1.50, $1.75 to $2.00. Deutsche Perle, Vervaeneana and Simon Mardner, showing color, with a few open flowers, 75c to $1.00.

Lilium Multiflorum, our own importation from Japan, raised from 9 to 10-inch. Bulbs planted last part of October and beginning of November, in 6-inch pots, kept cold, now about 5 to 8 inches high, just right for Easter, 25c to 30c; by the doz. or 100.

Dracaena Bruanti, 25 to 30 inches high, perfect green foliage from bottom up, 6-in. pots, 40c to 50c; well suited for store and house decorations because they stand cold, dust and heat.

Latania Borbonica, 30 to 35 inches high, 6 to 7-in. pots, 50c, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Forsteriana, in fine shape, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 4, 5 and 6-year-old, 30, 35, 40 and 45 inches high, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 to $2.50.

Kentia Belmoreana, 5, 6 to 7-year-old, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each; 4-in., 20 to 25 inches high, 20c to 25c.

Kentia Belmoreana, combination plants, 3 plants in 6 and 7-in. pots, 25, 30 to 35 inches high, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 each. This is a special bargain, seldom offered.

CYCLAMEN.

GIANT CYCLAMEN. For the last 15 years we always select ¾ of our seed-bearing cyclamen stock before Xmas, to assure early blooming plants, and claim the finest commercial strain in this country, no fizzle of many so called English varieties. Our aim is strong growers, that don't have to be petted to be grown into a choice salable plant, a well built five petaled flower, many of them at one time, with well marked foliage; every plant an ideal, a prize winner. Received first and second prizes at the Toledo Florists' Club meeting early in November when blooming cyclamen were scarce. We back our claims with stock worth seeing and invite everybody for inspection. Many letters from well satisfied customers. Transplanted seedlings, ready for 2½ or 3-in., $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000. Cash. Cultural directions with every order.
C. Winterich, Cyclamen Specialist, Defiance, O.

PELARGONIUMS.

PANSY GERANIUM, MRS. LAYAL.
This beautiful pelargonium is of the easiest growth, dwarf in habit, and literally covered with flowers all the time; and as it requires little or no attention, it is invaluable as a window plant. The coloring and marking of the flowers are most extraordinary, light pink, white, dark purple, black, etc., almost rivaling the pansy in uniqueness of flower. It is this combination of coloring which obtained for it the popular name of pansy geranium. Strong plants, $5.00 per 100.
J. W. Davis, 225 W. 16th St., Davenport, Iowa.

CROPS FOR VACANT HOUSES.

Can you inform me what crop to put into my houses in order to realize some money during the spring months? The stock must be something that will grow without artificial heat, as through an accident during a cold night my boiler got beyond repair and the heating system will have to be changed also. I erected a small structure, to be heated by a stove, intending to start small plants and seedlings there and set them out when danger of frost in the greenhouses is past or passing. I was thinking of lettuce, but could anyone suggest flowers, or a crop for Memorial day? I have three 100-foot houses. O. B.

Lettuce, being the hardiest of the vegetables usually grown under glass, could be sown with safety, even without fire heat, by the end of February. You could follow it with a crop of tomatoes, which would prove a profitable summer crop. The plants for these could be started in your small house. Such varieties as Comet, Best of All, Chalk's Early Jewel and Stirling Castle are excellent under glass.

In the way of flowers you could sow giant white candytuft early in March and have it flower for Memorial day. You can also, if you wish, sow ten weeks' stocks at once in your small house and later plant them in one of the other houses. These sell well for Memorial day. Gladioli, such as America, Brenchleyensis, Augusta and others of the large flowered class, could be planted at the end of February and would prove a useful and salable crop. If you purchase clumps of Spiræa Japonica, or any of the newer and improved varieties, such as grandiflora or Gladstone, and start them the first week in April, you will have them in flower. There is always an excellent sale for bunches of these. If you have ample head room and can sow the seeds in solid beds, why not try sweet peas? These could safely be sown any time after the middle of February. The Spencer varieties would be the best to use and they will give you flowers for many weeks.

If you could find sale for them, small flats of such vegetables as lettuce, cabbage, tomato and celery would be worth trying, also asters and other popular bedding plants. C. W.

Greenhouse Heating.

FILL up the bunkers; the ground hog saw his shadow.

THE freight blockades have come, and coal will move over the rails much slower than it has. Still, there is little prospect of any real fuel famine.

CRUDE OIL AS FUEL.

The Review of January 26, page 78, contained an inquiry from J. B., in regard to the use of crude oil as fuel in greenhouse heating. According to my experience, mostly during my residence here, in San Antonio, Tex., crude oil can be used successfully only when connected with a steam engine, so as to inject the oil—after mixing it with steam—under considerable pressure, in a continual, fine, mist-like spray into the fire-box. If the steam fails, the fire fails, as crude oil is too viscid, too thick, to flow through a pipe, as required for a burner.

But if J. B. will use a distillate of, say, 60 degrees, I am sure he will be delighted with it—no ashes, no coal to shovel, no dust, and, when properly conducted, even no soot. You start the fire with one match and about one-half square foot of paper—no kindling wood—and attend to your regulating valve; one turn to the right or left will increase or diminish your fire. You need no night fireman. Have your supply tank filled for the night, set your valve, and there you are, with little to do but look at the thermometers. I have had experience with distillates for twenty years, sometimes under trying circumstances, with the outside temperature 4 degrees below zero, and I know what I am speaking about. Any information I am able to give will be forthcoming, if anyone can make use of it. But, doctor-like, I should prefer direct questions to answer, as I am already an old man and writing is rather hard for me.

George Holts.

AN ADDITION OF SIX HOUSES.

I intend to built a range of houses next spring at Nevada, Mo., and wish to get some information about the heating of it. The houses will be 22x125, attached, with the short span to the south. There will be three houses for growing roses and three for growing lettuce and chrysanthemums. I shall heat with steam, and wish to know how much pipe will be needed. What will be the best sizes and the best arrangement of the pipes? I also wish to know whether an exhaust or return system is advisable. Nevada is in latitude 38 degrees and does not have much zero weather.

I have recently purchased some greenhouses at Nevada, which contain 20,000 square feet of glass and are heated by hot water. I wish to put the steam boiler for the new range in the basement with the other boilers. The steam boiler will stand sixty feet from either end and about thirty feet south of the new range. F. R. R.

It will be well to use a boiler with a rating of forty to fifty horse-power and connect it with the houses by running a 4-inch flow and a 2-inch return, placing these pipes a foot under ground, in a cement conduit about sixteen inches wide and twelve inches deep, and wrapping them with asbestos. If preferred, 8-inch and 6-inch sewer pipe, respectively, could be used in place of the conduit.

In the rose houses carry a 2½-inch

Kroeschell Versus Cast Iron

The No. 6 boiler is heating 6000 square feet of glass; I believe it would take care of 18,000 square feet. Have no trouble to keep temperatures of 55° to 60°; I could keep 80° to 40° if I had to. During the coldest nights I fired at 9:00, 12:00 and 3:00 o'clock. The boiler has given entire satisfaction, in fact, more than I expected. Previous to this I had a cast iron boiler, but would not have it for a gift now. If I know of any one needing a good boiler, I shall recommend the Kroeschell Boiler above all. John Lietzau, Geneva, Ill.

Have no trouble to keep up temperatures in my houses with the No. 10 Kroeschell Boiler. The boiler has given entire satisfaction. We had a cast iron sectional boiler—I wouldn't have one for a gift any more. John Otto, Neenah, Wis.

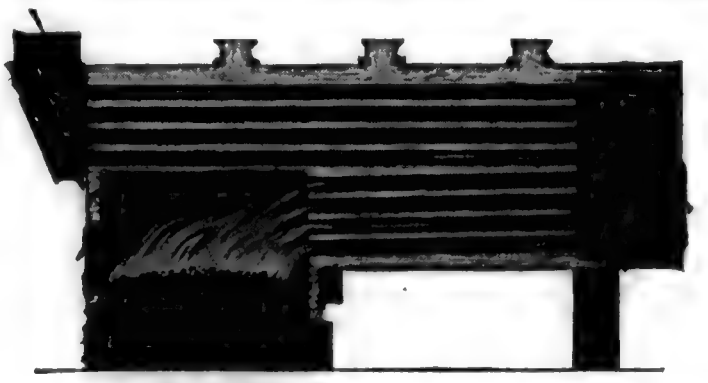
a neighboring power plant is referred to, it will be better to arrange to return the steam to the boiler, by gravity if possible.

ONE HOUSE AND A LEAN-TO.

Kindly inform me what size of boiler and how many square feet of radiation —or direct radiation, if there is any difference—should be required to heat 2,500 square feet of glass. There are two houses. One of them is 16½x80 and nine feet to the ridge, with no glass in the exposed side, but with one glass gable. This house is used for carnations and needs a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees. It contains one 3-inch flow and ten 2-inch returns. The other house is a lean-to, built against the house just described, and against the dwelling house on the north side. The houses run east and west. The lean-to is 14x60 and has two glass gables. It contains one 3-inch flow and ten 2-inch returns and should have a temperature of 60 degrees. The outside temperature here, in southeastern Pennsylvania, seldom drops lower than 10 degrees above zero.

The present boiler is too small. The boiler shed is at the west end of the 80-foot house. Is one 3-inch flow sufficient to feed ten 2-inch returns? Altogether, including the 3-inch flows, there is the equivalent of 1,700 lineal feet of 2-inch pipe in the houses. The boiler must have the capacity to heat 1,900 feet of 2-inch pipe, in order to provide for a surplus. A gravity system, with an open tank, is used. Is the present quantity of piping sufficient to maintain the required temperature?

H. S.



For the carnation house, 16½x80, not more than 400 square feet of radiation is needed to maintain a temperature of 55 degrees in zero weather, and this would be furnished by one 3-inch flow and seven 2-inch returns—or, better yet, by two 2½-inch flows and six 2-inch returns. In the lean-to only one flow and six returns would be needed. Really the two houses require not to exceed 700 square feet of radiation, and any good boiler that is rated for 900 square feet should be of ample size.

The term "direct radiation" is applied to systems where the heating surface is heated directly by the circulation of hot water or steam, as is commonly the case in greenhouses.

A 3-inch flow pipe is amply large enough to heat ten 2-inch returns not over 100 feet in length, provided they are above the top of the heater. If there is difficulty in maintaining the desired temperature, something must

Morehead Return Steam Trap and Boiler Feed

The Value of this Temperature Difference.

¶There are only a few degrees difference in temperature between the steam going into your system and the water of condensation coming out.

¶A Morehead Boiler Feed Trap will deliver this water direct to the boilers from the steam lines at a still higher temperature (250 degrees and above) and on 90% less steam than is consumed by the pump for returning the same quantity of water of condensation.

¶It is very foolish, therefore, to cool this condensation down to a low temperature (212 degrees or less) simply to accommodate your steam pump in putting the water back into your boilers.

¶Don't spend money to heat water when you can use over and over the water you have already heated.

¶Condensation from any steam heating or power apparatus must be removed to get efficiency. The Morehead Steam Trap does it quicker, easier and makes better use of it than any other means or appliance.

The Market.

Business last week was large, with not enough stock to go around. Roses and carnations have been especially in demand. The weather has been unfavorable for most cut flowers; clouds have been the rule, with not more than one day of sunshine a week.

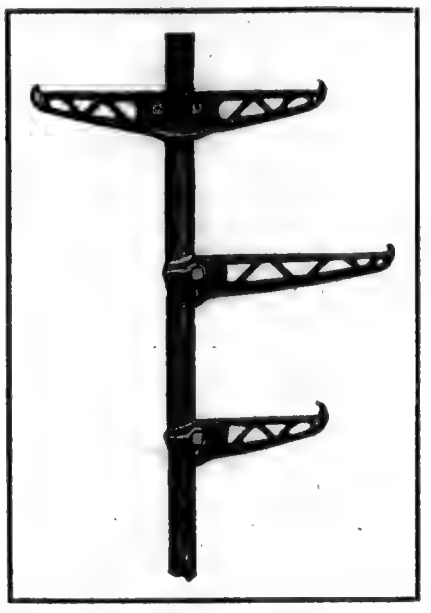
McKinley day was quiet, there being little call for carnations, but the florists are expecting that St. Valentine's day will make a better showing.

Various Notes.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. reports a fine trade, especially in funeral work, but says there was no special demand for carnations McKinley day.

Julius Niednagel & Sons have been busy with funeral work and wedding decorations. Their Killarneys are off crop, but they are cutting lots of Ivory and carnations are in good crop, with a big demand. Curt Niednagel was back on the job helping out during a recent rush of work. He has bought a 38-acre farm about two miles out in the country and intends to take possession soon. He had intended going west, but changed his plans. The land is valuable and situated nicely.

Ben Kramer says there was no special call for carnations McKinley day. Trade has been large and steady in funeral work. He is making preparations for a good demand St. Valentine's day.



Louis Fritsch has been busy and has had a hard time in getting enough flowers. He says he had quite a demand for carnations on McKinley day.

Royston & Fenton do not have nearly enough roses to supply the demand.

Nellie Goodge is not in the best of health, but manages to be at the greenhouses right along. E. L. F.

Reading, Pa.—W. K. Hoskin has secured the contract for the planting of the grounds at the waterworks reservoirs.

Hornell, N. Y.—The Wettlin Floral Co. is working up a fine stock of cyclamens and primulas, which are disposed of through the medium of The Review. They are sold out completely every time. The firm is extremely busy with design work.

A PERFECT GREENHOUSE HOSE

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.

The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

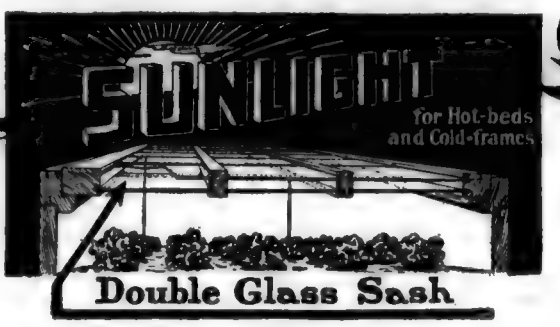
The Market.

The scarcity of cut stock continues, but the days are drawing out and there is more sunshine, so we look for a surplus soon. White roses and carnations are the most in demand, as these are used up for funeral work. Sweet peas are now more plentiful and the supply of bulb stock is getting heavier each day. Several large funerals have moved a lot of stock, at good values in most cases. Plants are moving well, especially the smaller ones, such as cyclamens and primroses. Azaleas have sold better than ever this season, owing to the scarcity of cut stock. Bulb stock also sells well, made up in pots and pans.

Various Notes.

On a recent visit to S. A. Anderson's we were shown about by the foreman, Joe Streit, who is taking special pride in his new begonia, or rather his better developed Lorraine. He is bringing a few specimen plants in 9-inch pans into flower, which are to be shown at the Boston show in March. Other stock at the place looks well and his begonias, just breaking, look fine.



Charles Sandiford, gardener for J. J. Albright, takes pleasure in showing his stock, and well he may, for stock here is grown to perfection. With the conveniences and time that a private place affords, Mr. Sandiford makes the best of it and it is a pleasure to see the orchids and other novelties which he has grown. The most striking of all was a wistaria in full bloom. Among the many other interesting things are grapes, peaches and pears forced to fruit.

CLEVELAND.

The Cleveland Florists' Club will hold a flower show Monday evening, February 13, at its rooms, 2610 Detroit avenue. The refreshment committee is busy.

The Standard Pump & Engine Co., well known to florists the country over, has increased its capital stock and has absorbed the Schettler-Ripple Co., which has been installing pneumatic and other kinds of water supply systems for the last ten years. C. A. Schettler is now sales manager for the consolidated concerns.

STANDARD HIGH PRESSURE FOR SPRINKLING, SPRAYING AND IRRIGATING

Standard Pumping Engines are so strongly made that, while 90 pounds per square inch is given as their maximum pressure, they are actually tested out under a pressure of 125 pounds.

The 90-pound pressure is equivalent to that which you would obtain from a tank elevated 200 feet, and no other machine will give such high pressure, which you will find essential for certain kinds of work. There will be other work, however, for which so high a pressure would be injurious rather than desirable, and so you need some device by which you can control the pressure. We have made this possible by designing the STANDARD PUMPING ENGINE with an automatic by-pass in the valve chamber of the pump (shown in the accompanying illustration), which will maintain in the system any pressure for which it is set, passing the excess water back into the suction chamber to be pumped over again. By means of this you can close one or all of the faucets being used while the pump is operating, and hose connections may be changed from one faucet to another without stopping the pump.

YONKERS, N. Y.

A regular meeting of the Yonkers Horticultural Society was held Friday, February 3. The dinner committee reported that all arrangements were made for a good time Tuesday, February 7. About 120 good men and true intended to vindicate a gardening appetite at the Park Hill Inn.

A member of the executive committee, J. Houghton, having left for Chicago, a vacancy had to be filled in that body.

H. Scott received first prize for some fine Calla lilies, and H. Wells, second for excellent California violets. It was decided to hold a social session every second month, members donating good things for the one to be held in March.

The president stated that two members are sick, Secretary Nicholls having sustained a bad fall and F. Canning suffering from the after-effects of an operation for appendicitis. A sick committee was appointed to visit all members who are ill, reporting to the society at regular meetings.

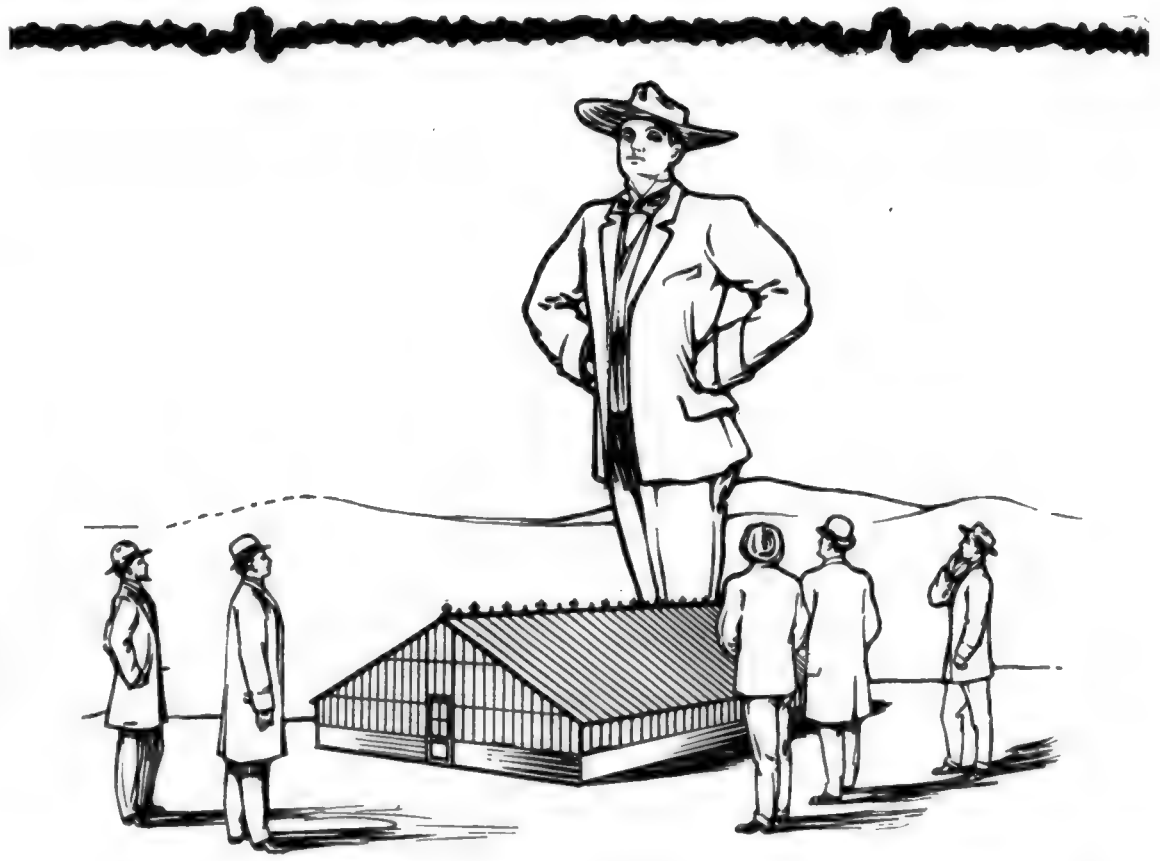
The Market.



During January business has been remarkably brisk, many special events calling for an extra supply of stock. Funeral work has not been overabundant, the trade calling chiefly for plants and roses from open ground sales. While cut flowers are normal, vegetation is far advanced—too much so to be not considered dangerous if we should encounter a late frost, which is not improbable.

Various Notes.

Our old friend, W. W. Coles, with his wife and child, of Kokomo, Ind., dropped in on his way to his newly-acquired home in Texas, and after viewing the sights of the city and having a talk of old times with his friends, left in a happy state of mind.

THE RETAIL FLORIST.....

A MANTEL IN FLOWERS.

The style of funeral designs intended to indicate the vocation of the deceased is happily passing out of fashion, but retail florists still are called upon to execute more or less of this class of work. Execute frequently is the exact word which should be applied, but in the present instance the Alpha Floral Co., Kansas City, achieved quite happy results when called upon to make a mantel in flowers for the funeral of a manufacturer of the real article. The accompanying illustration shows the design. It stood forty-eight inches high and was thirty inches wide, made on the customary wire frame. The solid parts were of white carnations, the tiling in front of green and bronze galax. The andirons were of white chenille wound on wire, the andirons supporting birchbark logs. The base of the design was of galax leaves, with roses and sweet peas. It was necessary to change the color and form across the top to represent a ledge, and here light pink carnations were used, with stevia and sweet peas. The reverse side of such a piece always should be finished with as much care as the front, and in this case it was made solidly of galax leaves.

THE ADVERTISING FLORIST.

[A paper by Lewis Henderson, Omaha, Neb., read at the recent meeting of the Nebraska State Florists' Society at Lincoln.]

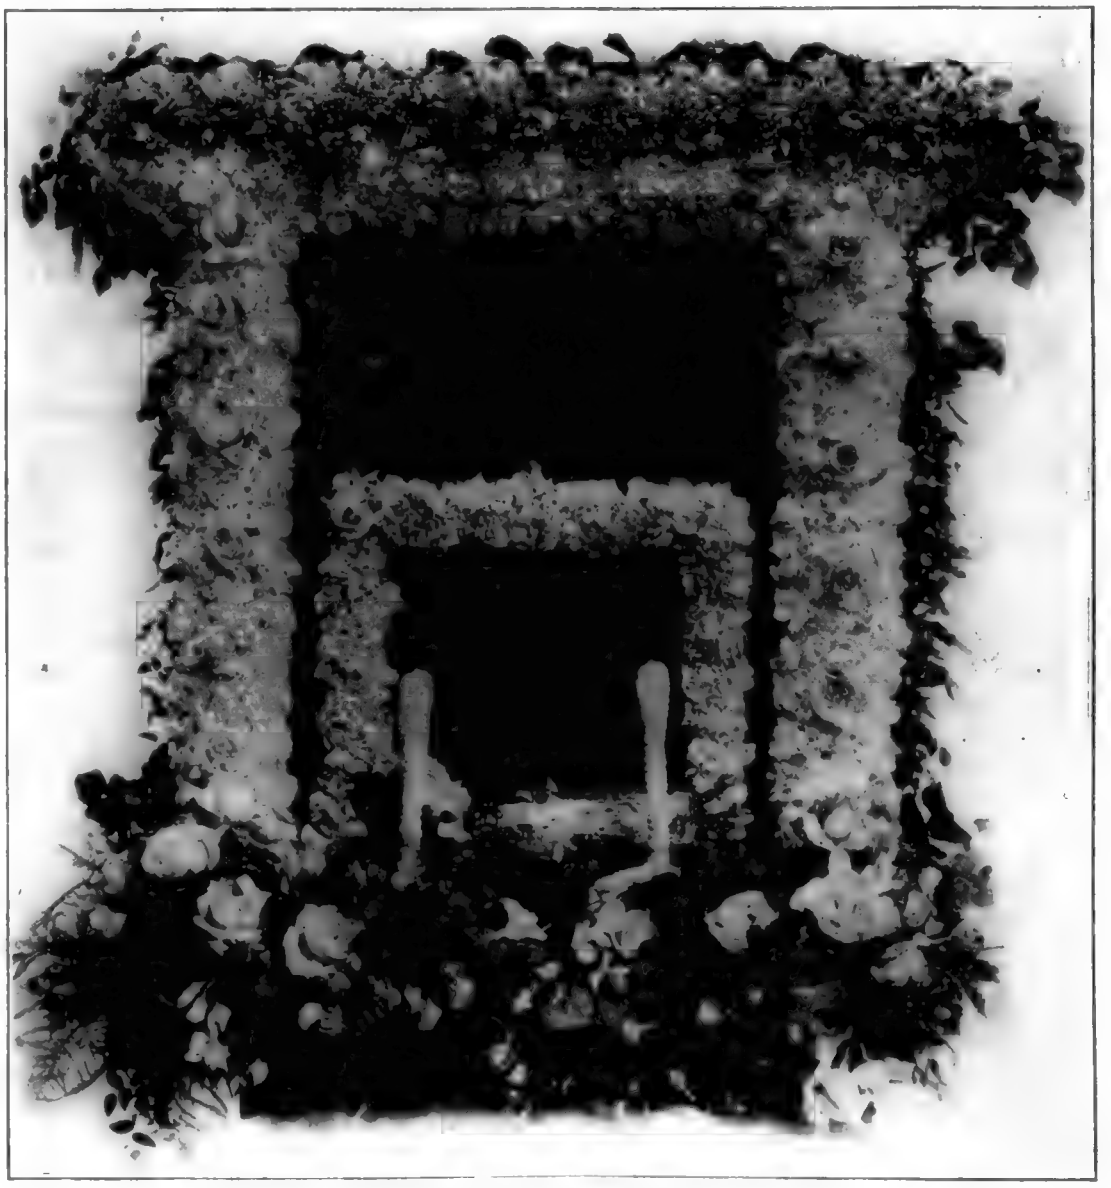
This subject of advertising, it seems to me, should have been assigned to an advertising agent, for I am sure that such a one as you all have been up against could tell you in much more flowery language than I can do that it pays to advertise. However, I will say a few words from the standpoint of the advertising florist.

To advertise is to secure publicity—to make known your goods and their uses. We are living in an age of progress—in a time during which our business has assumed large proportions. The capital now invested in the florists' business is far beyond the dreams of any florist of less than half a generation ago. It is a time of keen competition, when every florist is striving to outdo every other florist in point of equipment, service and results.

We must keep up with the times if we are to get the best results. If we do not keep up with the progress in the trade, it is merely a question of time when we will be dropping by the wayside. It will not necessarily be the survival of the fittest—it will be the survival of the pusher.

Winning by Merit—Plus Advertising.

Someone may say: "I do not need to advertise; my goods speak for themselves; they are of good quality, and once a customer, always a customer, and in coming back the customer always brings another." This may be true, but if you have something good do not keep it to yourself. Push it along and let the rest know of it, even if you are the only florist in the community. Don't sit and wait for the customers to come, as if to say, "They have got to come to me, whether I advertise or not." Publicity is a means of spreading more rapidly the word your customers may spread for you in time if your service is what it ought to be. Advertising is a reminder. Give it all due attention. It is extremely interesting when once gotten into. Its cost must be like the cost of all other things, in proportion to the size of your business. There is no advertising that reaches so far or so quickly as newspaper advertising. The advertisement should be changed from time to time, even if it consists of the merest heading and a short sentence as a reminder of the various flowers in season and of the pleasure that can be obtained at a reasonable price. Many a person would, in all probability, never think of buying a flower had he not been reminded by an advertisement in some newspaper or in some other way.



The Many Means of Advertising.

A man starting in the florists' business will ordinarily be given a notice in his local newspaper, but this is not enough. In the first place, the man's ability, his personality, character, even his dress and appearance, each constitutes a standing advertisement of what he is and what he hopes to accomplish. He must make himself acquainted and popular; his goods must be of first-class quality and such as are in demand in his community; he must put up a neat, clean show window, containing up-to-date stock, artistically arranged. He must be pleasant, courteous and generous, and by all means prompt. All these things are great advertisements.

Every sale should back up the advertising and be a means of further advertising. The quality of the stock and the way it is put up will do much to establish his reputation. A neat advertisement on his boxes, his name or some trade-mark, not gay or gaudy, but something that appeals to the fine taste, constitutes an inexpensive advertisement. His delivery boys must be neat and tidy, his wagons or automobiles clean and up-to-date, in order that wherever they pass they will be pleasing reminders of his store and flowers.

The Far-sighted Advertiser.

The florist must keep his name before the public, through the newspapers and in many other ways, so that the public will be familiar with it and remember where to go when in need of flowers. Comes the committee with a program of an entertainment to be given in some church. They want an advertisement to help pay for the printing of the program and, as a rule, they never overlook the florist. It would seem to be wasting money to give them an advertisement, but nevertheless you would be wise to cheerfully give them what they ask. This same committee, as a rule, includes some of the leading flower buyers in the community. You have advertised yourself to the committee, at least, and in such a way that you will be almost sure that they will remember you to your advantage.

Don't ever be entirely content with the trade you have; there always is room for more. Add more help to your working force; extend your advertisements farther and farther as your business grows. Send out circulars, catalogues, calendars and other reminders to your friends and the flower-buying people. The more of this work there is done the more people will be inspired to buy flowers. One florist cannot do all the work alone; we should all help and advertise. There is plenty of room for us all, plenty of work to do at home, in our society and throughout our state.

RETAIL ADVERTISING.

Julian Eltinge, female character impersonator, carries a bride's bouquet on the stage, and as he has toured the country in "The Fascinating Widow," the florist who has had his daily order usually has made advertising capital out of it. It was at Boston, where Penn supplied the flowers, that the best use was made of the opportunity for publicity. Penn used practically a half page of a Boston daily to exploit the fact that he was supplying the "Widow's" bouquets. The accompanying reproduction shows the advertisement much reduced.

PENN'S WEDDING SHOWER BOUQUET
JULIAN ELTINGE AT THE BOSTON THEATRE

Star of "Fascinating Widow" and "Bridesmaids" Carrying Penn's Bridal Bouquet.

Local Florist's Window Display of Bridal Wreath Attracts Attention of Wonderful Female Character Creator. Results Are Big Order for Members of the Cast.

A window that always attracts the attention of even a casual observer is that of Penn the Florist at 48 Bromfield street. It always contains a color picture of rare charm. Yesterday an athletic young chap, dressed in the height of fashion, stood spellbound for a moment at the floral display and then hurriedly made a bee line for the entrance. I fol owed because what attracted him was the new bridal shower bouquet designed by Penn, and I scented a possible romance. Evidently I was not wrong, because I heard him explaining in his eager, enthusiastic way to the clerk that he had seen many weddings, but for this particular one he wanted something out of the ordinary, and that he wanted to see closer the wedding shower bouquet, which was exquisitely formed of myriads of sprays of Lilies of the Valley. From the bouquet itself was suspended a shower of satin ribbon streamers, each finished with its sprays of Lilies of the Valley. Then he wanted eight of the regulation bridesmaids' bouquets, which in this case were to be of roses and smaller flowers, in the new Jonesco arrangement.

The astonished clerk by this time was sitting up taking spellbound for the address of the lady who was to be married when I heard the buyer say, "Send them around to the stage entrance of the Boston Theatre." "No," he said laughingly, "I'm not courting or marrying the whole outfit. I'm Julian Eltinge, female character creator, playing at the Boston Theatre this week, and yes, I'm the widow and these flowers are for my bridesmaids, and they are going to help make them appear more beautiful than they ever did before."

Visitors at last evening's performance at the Boston will readily appreciate the truth of Mr Eltinge's statement. Rarely indeed does a chorus evoke applause in appreciation of their appearance alone—it is usually the stunt they do that 'gets the hand.' Last night Julian Eltinge's eight bridesmaids provoked continuous applause upon their first appearance, and it is safe to say that not a head dropped in approval but what gave extra measure as a tribute to the Penn enterprise in getting up novelties in bridal flowers. This house, by the way, specializes on supplying flowers for bridal parties, while always sure to have something clever and original in floral ideas for any occasion. It might be well to mention in this connection that Penn has won the First Prize for Bridal Shower Bouquets at the two last Flower Shows held annually at Horticultural Hall, Boston. These prizes were won in competition with all the florists of New England.

FERTILIZERS FOR GLADIOLI.

What fertilizers do gladioli require?
S. & S.

Well rotted farmyard manure, if plowed in the fall before planting, is good for gladioli. Failing this, an application, some time before planting, of 1,000 to 1,200 pounds per acre of a good, complete fertilizer, harrowing it in well, will be found as good as anything you can use. Never use fresh animal manure when planting gladioli and never put chemical fertilizers in the drills you are going to lay the tubers in.
C. W.

ALKALI IN THE WATER.

Will you kindly let us know what is the best means of overcoming the injurious effects caused by the use of water which, as we think, contains alkali? In this part of southern Alberta, Can., we are compelled to use water from a small stagnant lake with no outlet, which evidently contains the alkali, as it shows on top of the soil after using the water for the last five months. Our carnations started out finely, but are now making a poor showing, being weak in stem and smaller in flower, although we are feeding cautiously and they ought to be in good shape. In fact, everything else shows the effect to some extent, in spite of all possible care. Our houses are brand-new. We have fresh soil and everything which should tend to keep the plants in good order.
F. B.

This correspondent is certainly in serious trouble. To my mind the securing of a good water supply is even more important than the question of soil in any arid region. The little undrained lake is the worst source of supply that could be imagined, since the water that runs into it is leaching the salt out of the soil on the hills that drain into it, and with constant evaporation the alkaline content will continually increase until the point of saturation is reached.

There can be but two remedies. One is to treat the water chemically, to neutralize or precipitate the soluble salts. What this treatment should be could only be determined by chemical analysis, and the process would be expensive and the result doubtful. The other alternative is to use distilled water, such as would come back in the return pipes from the steam-heating system. This would produce a large amount of scale in the boiler, which would have to be gotten rid of by mechanical means or the use of some suitable boiler compound. In any case it would be necessary to know just what the so-called alkali is, chemically. This term is indiscriminately applied to chlorides, sulphates, and carbonates of soda, lime and magnesia, but soda is the most common, and when combined with lime is generally known as black alkali.

Repeated watering with the alkali water and the subsequent drying out of the soil is just the process that would be best suited to load the soil with the alkali salts. It will doubtless help some if F. B. will take pains to flood his benches so that the water will run off from the surface and run freely through the bottom. This will tend to carry away the alkali previously deposited and will wash off the alkali left on the surface from previous waterings. The use of a weak manure water for all waterings is considered by some to counteract the alkali.

The only real solution of the trouble, however, will be to secure a different water supply or to move the houses to a locality where good water can be secured.
J. A. Valentine.

GERMINATION OF COCOANUTS.

Will you please tell me whether cocoanuts can be started in a greenhouse? If so, please give such instructions as are necessary for success.
M. M. L.

Cocoanuts may be germinated in a warm greenhouse, but the operation requires several months. Plant the seed in a large pot filled with a mixture of sphagnum and sand, or cocoa fiber. Keep thoroughly moist and give strong bottom heat, say 75 to 80 degrees, and if the seed is fresh it should germinate in about six to eight months, though sometimes taking over a year.
W. H. T.

KENTIA INJURED BY GAS.

Please inform me what is the best thing to do with a kentia palm that has been affected by coal gas. The palm seems to be dying. How shall I treat it? It is a large one, in a 12-inch pot. Does it need feed? If so, with what should it be fed? J. F. H.

If the palm in question has been so badly affected by coal gas as to be in a dying condition, there is little or nothing to be done for it. If, however, only the tips of the leaves are dying, then there is some hope for its recovery, though some months' time may be needed to produce the change. In the latter case the plant should be placed in a greenhouse with a night temperature of 60 degrees. It should be shaded from the sun, syringed freely, and at the same time kept moist at the root. Do not feed, for until the plant makes a fresh start and becomes well rooted it is in no condition to take up fertilizers.
W. H. T.

Williamstown, Mass.—Joseph Weiss, the vegetable grower on the Luce road, has completed a new greenhouse and is planning an extension of his business.

Ferns

NEPHROLEPIS ROOSEVELT.

There seems no end to the nephrolepis sports, and the producer of each always is able to show us several special points of merit not possessed by others. The latest, soon to be tested by public opinion, is Nephrolepis Roosevelt. This plant was found in November, 1908, by the American Rose & Plant Co., of Springfield, O., and while it has not been given a great deal of publicity up to the present time, it is being favorably mentioned by those who have seen it and some growers are making strong predictions for its future.

The producers are showing single plants grown in 6-inch pots measuring over three feet across. These are certainly specimens, almost perfectly symmetrical, with full, finished centers and wide, tapering fronds, which completely hide the pot and show grace in drooping habit. The rib of the frond is strong but not stiff and, while the pinnæ are of heavy texture, they do not appear coarse. The wavy effect of undulated pinnæ is distinct and adds materially to the attractiveness of this fern.

The Roosevelt is a sport from Boston, and, the discoverers think, a decided improvement over this variety. They claim it will produce a larger and more finished fern in small pots than the Boston and that it is a stronger maker of young plants. Their records show two plants found November, 1908, with 70,000 runners potted to October 1, 1910. This would indicate it has the propagating qualities, which is an important feature, but growers of finished specimen plants appreciate that the value of Roosevelt lies in the distinct, undulated pinnæ and great quantity of wide drooping fronds produced in small pots. After careful inspection of the growers' stock, one firm has placed its order for over 30,000 plants of Nephrolepis Roosevelt and makes the assertion it will soon be considered the leading commercial fern.

Lodema Moore.

SCALE ON FERNS.

Enclosed you will find two pieces of fern leaves with some sort of white scale on them. What is this and what shall I do to get rid of it? M. L.

The fern fronds are infested quite badly with scale, the white dots being the young insects. This scale is quite prevalent among the nephrolepis varieties and is not an easy subject to dispose of. Try dipping the plants in a solution of nicotine extract, following the directions which you will find on the can. Shade the plants from the sun after the dipping, until the foliage is dry, and repeat the treatment in a week or ten days. W. H. T.

TEMPERATURE FOR ADIANTUMS.

I should like to know the proper night and day temperatures in which to grow the following varieties of adiantum: Cuneatum, Croweanum and Farleyense. R. H.

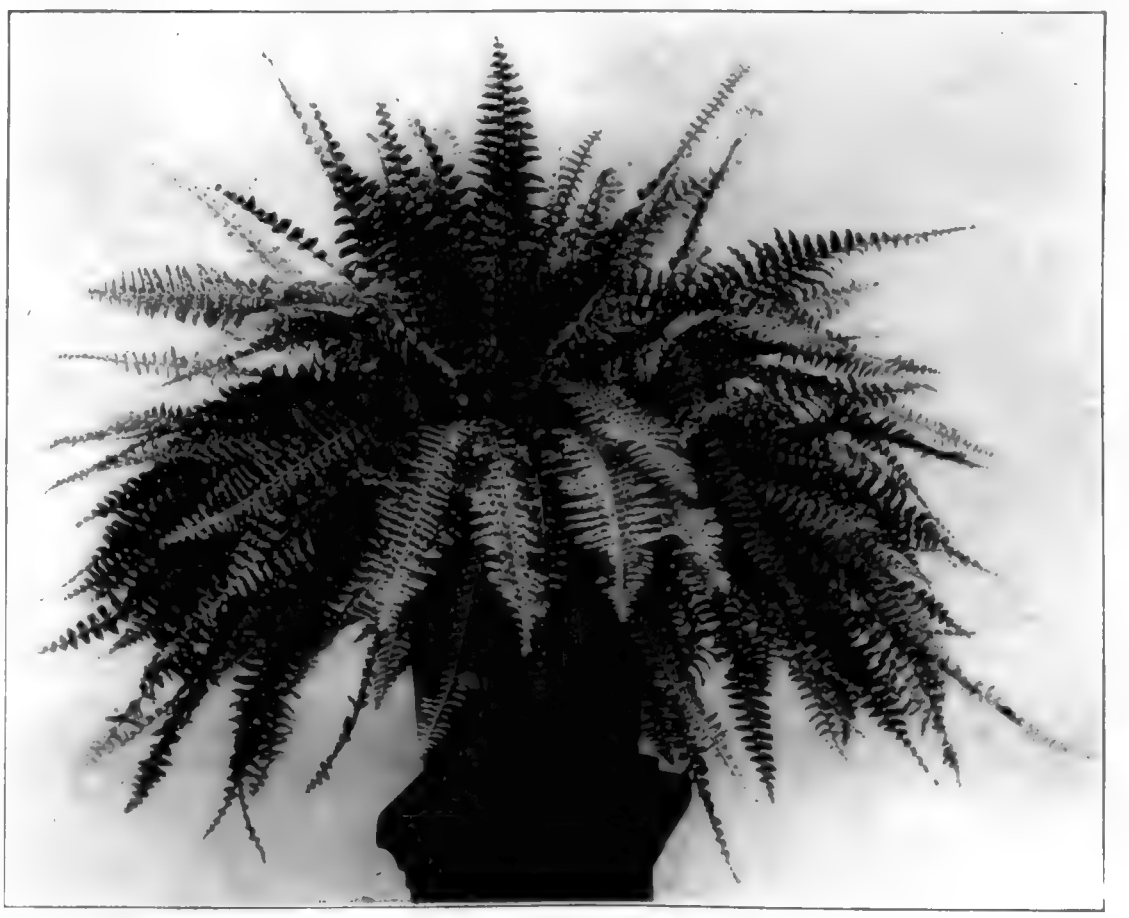
Adiantum cuneatum and A. Croweanum require a night temperature of 58 to 60 degrees, and in bright weather 70 to 75 degrees in the daytime. A. Farleyense requires more heat; a night temperature of 65 degrees, with a rise of 10 to 15 degrees during the day, usually gives good results. W. H. T.

NITRATE OF SODA.

How shall I use nitrate of soda? I wish to use it in my house, on roses, carnations, calla lilies and sweet peas in the benches, and on all my pot plants, such as ferns, palms, Sprengeri, plumosus and soft-wooded bedding plants. I also want to use it in the field, on rose plants, carnation plants, chrysanthemums, vegetables, etc. Please tell me how to use it and the amount. J. W. M.

Nitrate of soda can be used with great benefit to both outside and greenhouse crops. It is necessary to be careful, however, not to use too much, and also to be sure not to use it on the benches when the soil is in a dry state. For use on vegetable ground, one pound to the square rod is sufficient. For use in the liquid form for carnations, mums, fuchsias, etc., one pound to twelve gallons of water is plenty. Nitrate of soda destroys slugs. Ribes.

THE GODFREY CALLA.



Will someone please advise us how to handle the Godfrey calla after the blooming season is over? T. N.

After flowering, if in pots, stand them outdoors and gradually dry them off. This should be early in June. If in benches, gradually withhold water. When the foliage has yellowed considerably, lay the pots on their sides and keep quite dry until time comes to shake the plants out and repot, which should be early in August. If you want to strengthen small plants, put them out in the field in well enriched ground, or offsets can be similarly treated. Keep them well cultivated and pot them up about the last of August, when they will be found to have increased surprisingly. This calla is a splendid variety and will soon largely supersede the old C. Æthiopica. C. W.

COAL SOOT AS FERTILIZER.

Of what use as a fertilizer are the cleanings from the flues of a boiler in which good soft coal is used as fuel? Is the soot good as a top-dressing for carnations and chrysanthemums and to mix in soil for flowering plants? M. B.

Coal soot is the volatilized, unconsumed portion of the fuel. It is thus constituted: Charcoal, 371 parts; salts of ammonia, 426; salts of potash and soda, 24; oxide of iron, 50; silica, 65; alumina, 31; sulphate of lime, 31; carbonate of magnesia, 2. It is an excellent manure for nearly all kinds of crops. Used as a liquid, one tablespoonful to each quart of water brings good results. It must never be applied to plants that are in a state of rest. Ribes.

Nephrolepis Roosevelt.

would seem to be wasting money to give them an advertisement, but nevertheless you would be wise to cheerfully give them what they ask. This same committee, as a rule, includes some of the leading flower buyers in the community. You have advertised yourself to the committee, at least, and in such a way that you will be almost sure that they will remember you to your advantage.

Don't ever be entirely content with the trade you have; there always is room for more. Add more help to your working force; extend your advertisements farther and farther as your business grows. Send out circulars, catalogues, calendars and other reminders to your friends and the flower-buying people. The more of this work there is done the more people will be inspired to buy flowers. In any case it would be necessary to know just what the so-called alkali is, chemically. This term is indiscriminately applied to chlorides, sulphates, and carbonates of soda, lime and magnesia, but soda is the most common, and when combined with lime is generally known as black alkali.

Repeated watering with the alkali water and the subsequent drying out of the soil is just the process that would be best suited to load the soil with the alkali salts. It will doubtless help some if F. B. will take pains to flood his benches so that the water will run off from the surface and run freely through the bottom. This will tend to carry away the alkali previously deposited and will wash off the alkali left on the surface from previous waterings. The use of a weak manure water for all waterings is considered by some to counteract the alkali.

The only real solution of the trouble, however, will be to secure a different water supply or to move the houses to a locality where good water can be secured.

GERMINATION OF COCOANUTS.

Will you please tell me whether cocoanuts can be started in a greenhouse? If so, please give such instructions as are necessary for success.
M. M. L.

Cocoanuts may be germinated in a warm greenhouse, but the operation requires several months. Plant the seed in a large pot filled with a mixture of sphagnum and sand, or cocoa fiber. Keep thoroughly moist and give strong bottom heat, say 75 to 80 degrees, and if the seed is fresh it should germinate in about six to eight months, though sometimes taking over a year.

KENTIA INJURED BY GAS.

Please inform me what is the best thing to do with a kentia palm that has been affected by coal gas. The palm seems to be dying. How shall I treat it? It is a large one, in a 12-inch pot. Does it need feed? If so, with what should it be fed? J. F. H.

If the palm in question has been so badly affected by coal gas as to be in a dying condition, there is little or nothing to be done for it. If, however, only the tips of the leaves are dying, then there is some hope for its recovery, though some months' time may be needed to produce the change. In the latter case the plant should be placed in a greenhouse with a night temperature of 60 degrees. It should be shaded from the sun, syringed freely, and at the same time kept moist at the root. Do not feed, for until the plant makes a fresh start and becomes well rooted it is in no condition to take up fertilizers.

Ferns

NEPHROLEPIS ROOSEVELT.

There seems no end to the nephrolepis sports, and the producer of each always is able to show us several special points of merit not possessed by others. The latest, soon to be tested by public opinion, is Nephrolepis Roosevelt. This plant was found in November, 1908, by the American Rose & Plant Co., of Springfield, O., and while it has not been given a great deal of publicity up to the present time, it is being favorably mentioned by those who have seen it and some growers are making strong predictions for its future.

The producers are showing single plants grown in 6-inch pots measuring over three feet across. These are certainly specimens, almost perfectly symmetrical, with full, finished centers and wide, tapering fronds, which completely hide the pot and show grace in drooping habit. The rib of the frond is strong but not stiff and, while the pinnæ are of heavy texture, they do not appear coarse. The wavy effect of undulated pinnæ is distinct and adds materially to the attractiveness of this fern.

The Roosevelt is a sport from Boston, and, the discoverers think, a decided improvement over this variety. They claim it will produce a larger and more finished fern in small pots than the Boston and that it is a stronger maker of young plants. Their records show two plants found November, 1908, with 70,000 runners potted to October 1, 1910. This would indicate it has the propagating qualities, which is an important feature, but growers of finished specimen plants appreciate that the value of Roosevelt lies in the distinct, undulated pinnæ and great quantity of wide drooping fronds produced in small pots. After careful inspection of the growers' stock, one firm has placed its order for over 30,000 plants of Nephrolepis Roosevelt and makes the assertion it will soon be considered the leading commercial fern.

SCALE ON FERNS.

Enclosed you will find two pieces of fern leaves with some sort of white scale on them. What is this and what shall I do to get rid of it? M. L.

The fern fronds are infested quite badly with scale, the white dots being the young insects. This scale is quite prevalent among the nephrolepis varieties and is not an easy subject to dispose of. Try dipping the plants in a solution of nicotine extract, following the directions which you will find on the can. Shade the plants from the sun after the dipping, until the foliage is dry, and repeat the treatment in a week or ten days. W. H. T.

TEMPERATURE FOR ADIANTUMS.

I should like to know the proper night and day temperatures in which to grow the following varieties of adiantum: Cuneatum, Croweanum and Farleyense. R. H.

Adiantum cuneatum and A. Croweanum require a night temperature of 58 to 60 degrees, and in bright weather 70 to 75 degrees in the daytime. A. Farleyense requires more heat; a night temperature of 65 degrees, with a rise of 10 to 15 degrees during the day, usually gives good results. W. H. T.

NITRATE OF SODA.

How shall I use nitrate of soda? I wish to use it in my house, on roses, carnations, calla lilies and sweet peas in the benches, and on all my pot plants, such as ferns, palms, Sprengeri, plumosus and soft-wooded bedding plants. I also want to use it in the field, on rose plants, carnation plants, chrysanthemums, vegetables, etc. Please tell me how to use it and the amount. J. W. M.

Nitrate of soda can be used with great benefit to both outside and greenhouse crops. It is necessary to be careful, however, not to use too much, and also to be sure not to use it on the benches when the soil is in a dry state. For use on vegetable ground, one pound to the square rod is sufficient. For use in the liquid form for carnations, mums, fuchsias, etc., one pound to twelve gallons of water is plenty. Nitrate of soda destroys slugs. Ribes.

THE GODFREY CALLA.

Will someone please advise us how to handle the Godfrey calla after the blooming season is over? T. N.

After flowering, if in pots, stand them outdoors and gradually dry them off. This should be early in June. If in benches, gradually withhold water. When the foliage has yellowed considerably, lay the pots on their sides and keep quite dry until time comes to shake the plants out and repot, which should be early in August. If you want to strengthen small plants, put them out in the field in well enriched ground, or offsets can be similarly treated. Keep them well cultivated and pot them up about the last of August, when they will be found to have increased surprisingly. This calla is a splendid variety and will soon largely supersede the old C. Æthiopica. C. W.

COAL SOOT AS FERTILIZER.

Of what use as a fertilizer are the cleanings from the flues of a boiler in which good soft coal is used as fuel? Is the soot good as a top-dressing for carnations and chrysanthemums and to mix in soil for flowering plants? M. B.

Coal soot is the volatilized, unconsumed portion of the fuel. It is thus constituted: Charcoal, 371 parts; salts of ammonia, 426; salts of potash and soda, 24; oxide of iron, 50; silica, 65; alumina, 31; sulphate of lime, 31; carbonate of magnesia, 2. It is an excellent manure for nearly all kinds of crops. Used as a liquid, one tablespoonful to each quart of water brings good results. It must never be applied to plants that are in a state of rest. Ribes.

Illinois State Florists' Association

THE CHAMPAIGN MEETING.

A Lively Session.

The first day's session of the sixth annual convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association, and the flower show, were covered fully, and exclusively, in last week's issue of The Review.

A lively closing session was held Thursday morning, February 9, following excellent papers by J. C. Vaughan, read by E. A. Wood in the writer's absence; E. G. Hill and H. B. Dorner. While the discussion in many cases went far outside the scope of the papers, it was none the less interesting and profitable as bringing out different points of view.

W. N. Rudd said the meeting had been so successful, and the year's work so good, he moved the reëlection of the entire corps of officers. It was done, with a shout. The officers are: President, C. L. Washburn, Chicago; vice-president, C. Loveridge, Peoria; secretary, J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville; treasurer, F. L. Washburn, Bloomington. On motion of C. L. Washburn, the secretary's salary was placed at $50 a year.

Judges' Report.

The judges, George Asmus, Joseph Kohout and W. J. Keimel, awarded the following certificates: To E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., for Mrs. Aaron Ward rose, scoring 86 points; for Sunburst rose, scoring 90 points, and for Bonfire carnation, scoring 86 points; to Chicago Carnation Co., for Carnation Washington, scoring 87 points, and Carnation Princess Charming, scoring 86 points; to F. Dorner & Sons Co., Lafayette, Ind., for Carnation White Wonder, scoring 85 points; Carnation Gloriosa, scoring 86 points, and for seedling No. 115-07, pink, scoring 85 points.

Each of the other exhibitors, whose displays were described in last week's issue of The Review, were given honorable mention.

The Banquet.

The banquet was the fifth annual event of the kind and the most successful to date. About sixty members and guests were present. W. N. Rudd, of Morgan Park, was toastmaster. Those called on for talks were: C. L. Washburn, Chicago, president of the Illinois State Florists' Association; George Asmus, Chicago, president of the S. A. F.; E. G. Hill, Richmond, Ind.; Mr. Atkinson, of the Champaign Chamber of Commerce; J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, secretary of the Illinois State Florists' Association; C. P. Mueller, Wichita, Kan.; C. Loveridge, Peoria, vice-president of the Illinois State Florists' Association; Dr. Burrell, the venerable vice-president of the University of Illinois; H. B. Howard, Chicago; E. A. White, instructor in floriculture, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst; H. B. Dorner, secretary of the S. A. F. and in charge of the floricultural experiment station at Urbana; G. B. Franks, Champaign, who had arranged the entertainment.

Those Present.

In addition to the forty-seven members named in last week's issue of The Review, as present on the opening day, the following arrived either in time for the banquet or for the session February 9:

Addems, C. J., Loda.
Augustine, H., Normal.
Augustine, A. N., Normal.
Beatty, C. A., Chicago.
Eichel, Arthur, Chicago.
Nolan, David, Springfield.
Salmons, J. S., Peoria.
Siebold, ——, ——, Peoria.
Snedeker, I. D., Jerseyville.
Washburn, G. A., Bloomington.
White, Prof. E. A., Amherst, Mass.

SPIRÆAS FOR EASTER.

When should Spiræa Gladstone be started for Easter, 1911? What temperature will be required, and what general treatment? R. E. G.

Spiræa Gladstone, in order to have it in bloom for Easter, which comes this year April 16, a later date than usual, should have been in an average night temperature of 60 degrees by February 10. If you have not this heat at command, you should allow it two weeks longer if given 10 degrees less heat. It takes longer to flower this spiræa than the old Japonica. Should we get warm weather, as often happens during the last half of March, it may be necessary to place the plants in a cooler house.

Pots six and seven inches in diameter are the best sizes for S. Gladstone. The principal requirement of all the herbaceous spiræas in pots is an abundant water supply. When the pots are full of roots, they can scarcely be overwatered, and liquid manure in addition can be supplied twice a week when active growth has started. Avoid heavy fumigation, as spiræa foliage is tender and burns even more easily than adiantum fronds. Use one of the nicotine papers, which are perfectly safe.

Geraniums

WINTER FLOWERING GERANIUMS.

Early in February is a good time to put in the cuttings of geraniums to flower next winter. As between rooting the cuttings in the cutting bench or pots, I much prefer the latter, as there is a much smaller percentage of loss from damping off. Loam passed through a half-inch screen, with a good addition of gritty sand, makes an ideal compost. When making the cuttings, there is no need to damp them over to prevent wilting. On the other hand, I find it a positive advantage to allow them to lie on the bench and dry for a few hours before potting them singly. A bench with a little bottom heat is what they like. Stand the little pots (2-inch is the right size) close together. Water well. Never shade at all. Let them dry out well before watering again and there is no reason why ninety-five per cent will not root. Shift successively into 3-inch, 4-inch and 6-inch pots. Avoid using much animal manure at any time. One-fourth of old mushroom manure is good for the last potting, also a 4-inch pot of fine bone to each bushel of compost.

For the best results grow under glass, either in the greenhouse or coldframe, all the time. Pinch to keep the plants shapely and before they flower do any necessary staking. Six-inch pots will give more flowers proportionately than larger sized ones. They must be well matted with roots to flower freely. Liquid manure promotes a soft growth, which flowers poorly. On the other hand, top-dressings of fine bone or Clay's fertilizer, especially the latter, keep the growths harder, and a 6-inch pot of Crampel, Scaramanche, Zola or Tom McLaren, carrying nine to eighteen spikes of open flowers, will elicit laudatory remarks from anyone.

The double varieties may ship a little better than the singles, but cannot hold a candle to the singles for floriferousness and beauty. The following have this season been extra fine: Richmond Beauty, light scarlet, white eye; Jacquerie, crimson scarlet, immense trusses, splendid Christmas variety, equally good for pot culture or bedding; Paul Crampel, no other scarlet can yet touch this for brilliancy or equal it for free blooming qualities; The Sirdar, bright scarlet, white eye; Sydney, the same color as Carnation Pink Delight, immense flowers of the English round flowering type; Snowdrop, still the best pure white; Reformator, reddish scarlet, dwarf and free flowering; Maxine Kovalevski, bright orange scarlet; Duke of Bedford, crimson, flowers two and one-half inches across, of English round flowered type; Tom McLaren, salmon center, outer edges of petals almost pure white, a beautiful variety; Emile Zola, rich salmon orange, not so vigorous in habit as other sorts, free flowering, one of the finest varieties Lemoine has sent out; Scaramanche, a stocky habit, good grower, immense trusses of deep orange, flowers carried on stiff stems, the most admired variety I have grown this season and one of the finest singles in commerce; Claire Frenot, pale rose, veined with rosy salmon, large trusses.

PUBLIC WORK FOR FLORICULTURE IN ILLINOIS

FERTILIZER EXPERIMENTS.

Work at the florists' experimental greenhouses has been continued during the year under the direction of the advisory committee and bids fair to give some interesting results. As a whole, the work is progressing nicely and an inspection of the houses will, we think, show the plants in the experimental plats in better condition than ever before. The work, as carried on, is quite a large undertaking and keeps those connected with it busy looking after the many details. Much of the success of the season's work is due to the watchfulness and careful attention to details given by Mr. Nehrling.

The work of the year is divided into three experiments, one on carnations and two on roses. The completion of the new houses last winter made it possible to take up these lines of work on roses.

The Carnation Experiment.

The work in carnations is a continuation, or rather a duplication, of the work of the past year. This duplication is necessary in order to check up the work of the past year. At least another year will be necessary before final conclusions can be drawn. The work has given a mass of data which will require several months' hard work to put it into such shape as to give the greatest value. As a result of the past season's work, records were taken on 47,729 carnations, representing the cut of six months, beginning with November and ending May 1. During the last three months records have been taken on 17,092 flowers.

The object of the experiment is to determine whether just as good and as many flowers can be grown by using a small amount of manure supplemented by commercial fertilizers as when large quantities of manure are used. It is also desired to determine in what proportion the three elements, nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, should be applied. If, of course, better flowers can be grown with the aid of commercial fertilizers, this only proves our point.

It must be kept in mind that all natural manure cannot be dispensed with without injury to the soil and crops. Much of the nutritive substances in the soil are only made available by the bacteria present in the soil. The humus or decaying vegetable matter—and it is for this that natural manure is used in the experiment—furnishes the food and the medium in which these bacteria grow. So, to get the best results, manure should not be discarded altogether, but the quantity should be much reduced.

During the season of 1909-10 four varieties of carnations, White Perfection, Beacon, Enchantress and Winsor, were selected as being representative types upon which to experiment; 678 plants of each were used and each variety represented a complete experiment.

From the first year's work it was decided that the best commercial fertilizers to use are dried blood for nitrogen, with ammonium sulphate as a good second, acid phosphate for the phosphorus and potassium sulphate for potassium. The units of application selected are:

Dried blood, 2 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. bench, 5 in. deep.
Am. sulphate, 1½ lbs. per 100 sq. ft.
Acid phosphate, ½ lb. per 100 sq. ft.
Potassium sulphate, ½ lb. per 100 sq. ft.
Manure, 115 lbs., or about 3½ bu., per 100 sq. ft.

The standard, then, contained amounts of dried blood, acid phosphate and potassium sulphate at the rates above mentioned. The control or check sections contained an equal amount of manure, but no commercial fertilizers. These fertilizers in the other sections were doubled and quadrupled singly, in pairs and all together. This, then, gave combinations of various amounts for the study of the quantity of each necessary.

Complete records of the cut from November 1 to May 1 were kept, and a study of these is of great interest.

CUT BY MONTHS.

	Nov.	Dec.	Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	Apr.
W. Perfection	1276	3086	1736	1120	1108	3183
Beacon	772	1986	2542	3167	2428	3317
Enchantress	402	1809	1937	1873	2080	3172
Winsor	185	1107	1883	2219	2105	3426

CUT FOR SIX MONTHS.

	Total.	O. K.	½ split.	Split.	Average per plant.	Month of most split.
W. Perfection	11,510	9,583	597	1330	15.0	Dec.
Beacon	14,047	11,872	554	1621	18.3	Feb.
Enchantress	11,247	10,160	235	852	14.6	Jan.
Winsor	10,925	10,416	129	380	14.2	Jan.

By half splits are meant those whose calyx is partly split, but not enough to allow the petals to fall down. In regular grading they would be classed among the firsts.

During the present season the following cut has been made:

	Nov.	Dec.	Jan.	Total.	Gain.
W. Perfection	940	1662	1227	3829	—2269
Beacon	1715	1491	1240	4446	—854
Enchantress	1452	1962	1493	4907	+759

It will be noticed from this table that Winsor has been omitted. Owing to the fact that stem-rot developed badly, it was discarded and White Enchantress was used in its place. With this change in the variety it was decided to make a variation in the experiment. Accordingly half of this variety is being grown with commercial fertilizers and the other with natural manure and liquid manures made from it. The amount of dried blood, acid phosphate and potassium sulphate applied was twice that of the unit sections in the other experiment.

	Nov.	Dec.	Jan.	Total.
With commercial fertilizers	468	743	420	1631
With natural manures	461	791	439	1691

This shows a slight increase in the natural manure, but the present condition of the plants shows that there will be more flowers in the commercial fertilizers during the next two months.

The experimental work in carnations will, no doubt, show conclusively that equally good carnations can be grown with the use of commercial fertilizers in conjunction with a small quantity of natural manure as with nothing but the natural manure.

The quantity to be used, however, will of necessity have to be varied to suit the soil of each establishment. This quantity will have to be determined by experimentation. It must be borne in mind that commercial fertilizers are more concentrated than natural manures and so must be used with caution. An injudicious use of these concentrated fertilizers will be followed by greater disaster than in the use of natural manures. In taking up such a line of work, the following applications may be taken as the basis of the work and be considered safe for the average soil:

Dried blood, 2 to 4 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. bench, 5 in. deep.
Sodium nitrate, 2 to 4 lbs. per 100 sq. ft.
Ammonium sulphate, 1½ to 3 lbs. per 100 sq. ft.
Acid phosphate, ½ to 1 lb. per 100 sq. ft.
Potassium sulphate, ½ to 1 lb. per 100 sq. ft.
Manure should be applied at rate of about 3 to 4 bu. per 100 sq. ft.

Any help desired in planning such an experiment will be glady given to any Illinois florist desiring it.

The Rose Experiments.

In taking up the work on roses it was decided to establish two lines which could be carried on at the same time; namely, fertilizer work such as was being carried on with carnations, and a test of grafted versus own-root stock.

As roses are considered heavier feeders than carnations, it was decided to use as a unit twice the amount used as the unit in the carnations. Otherwise the proportions are the same. For this work Bride and Killarney were selected, as representing two types of roses. Under the treatment given them the Brides have responded well and bid fair to give some splendid results. The Killarneys have not developed quite so well.

Where nitrogen has been applied in large doses the foliage is now taking on a yellowish color and shows overfeeding. Those sections with smaller amounts have a much better color and growth.

Grafted and Own-Root.

In the study of the grafted and own-root stock it has been found that the grafted plants made a more rapid growth in the beginning, which in nearly all cases has been maintained to the present, although the differences are becoming much less marked.

A study of the number of roses cut, not considering the grade, shows:

	Grafted.	Own root.	Difference.
Bride	3019	2596	423
Killarney	2864	2503	361

While every attempt has been made to have these notes concerning the work accurate, they are at best tentative. It is only when all the notes have been thoroughly studied that complete results can be given.

Again let me repeat that the price of success in use of commercial fertilizers is care in the quantity used.

Peoria, Ill.—F. Nicholas has returned to this city and is said to have purchased the Art Florist stand, at the Fey hotel. Mr. Nicholas was formerly manager of this stand, before Robert Lowenberg took charge of it.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Azaleas.

If the azalea plants wanted for Easter are in a moderately cool house, they will not require any forcing for Easter. They are much better when grown in this way, as the flowers possess more substance and the plants do not show the effects produced by vicissitudes of temperature. The stores, in many cases, stand a number of azaleas and other plants outdoors at Easter and when the plants have been hard forced they are easy to pick out by their wilted appearance.

Hydrangeas.

Hydrangea plants for Easter should now have the flower heads beginning to peep in the ends of the shoots. Few flowering plants want a greater water supply than hydrangeas and, if the drainage is right, there is little danger of an oversupply. Feeding must also be done to keep the plants toned up. A top-dressing of Clay's fertilizer once a fortnight, with liquid animal manure twice a week in addition, will not be too much. If any plants show pale foliage, give some soot water or a weak dose of nitrate of soda; a teaspoonful to a 12-quart watering pot will suffice. A night temperature of 60 degrees should not be exceeded, and it is better to reduce this somewhat as the flowers develop, in order to make the plants harder.

Rambler Roses.

If the shoots are now five to six inches long on the Crimson Rambler and pink ramblers, they are all right, and in a temperature of 55 degrees will be in flower by the middle of April, without there being any necessity for forcing. The cooler ramblers are grown after the flowers are opening, the better color will the flowers have, and 50 degrees at night is far better than 60 degrees. Avoid cold drafts, which will cause mildew to start and soon render the plants unsalable. Similarly, look out for plants growing near heating pipes, as once red spider gets a foothold, they are speedily ruined. Ramblers want abundant water supplies and liquid manure every fourth day until the flowers begin to expand, when it should be discontinued.

Seed Sowing.

The present is an opportune time to sow many seeds. Among annuals, ten weeks' stocks, which can be profitably utilized in vacant benches early in April; asters, such as Queen of the Market and Early Wonder; petunias, verbenas, lobelias, salpiglossis and white candytuft can all be started, also Dracæna indivisa, pentstemons, Aralia Sieboldii, cannas, dahlias, smilax, Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri, Ampelopsis Veitchii and Solanum capsicastrum.

Almost any of the perennials can be sown now in flats or pans, including the beautiful aquilegias, delphiniums (the variety Chinensis flowers finely the first season), Lobelia cardinalis, œnotheras in variety, campanulas and many other varieties.

Many country florists have a good call for vegetable plants in spring. It is time now to sow lettuce, beet, cabbage, cauliflower and early celery, but a little early for tomatoes. However, many violet growers plant tomatoes to follow their violets for a summer crop. It is not now too late to sow a batch where they are to follow double violets, but the plants for the single houses should be transplanted, or in pots now, as these violets are gone before the end of March.

Propagation.

The cutting benches should be kept filled all the time now. In bedding plants, geraniums, coleus, ageratums, heliotropes, petunias, achyranthes, alternantheras, santolinas, cupheas and early dahlias; among foliage plants, crotons, dracænas, fittonias, pandanus, dieffenbachias, ficus and Regonia Rex; among miscellaneous plants, hydrangeas, marguerites, fuchsias, variegated vincas, swainsonas, genistas, rambler roses, ericas, impatiens, abutilons and Begonia Gloire de Lorraine can all be propagated, and while the weather is cold and the heating pipes steadily warm, the percentage of loss will be much less than a month later.

Miscellaneous.

The time is rapidly approaching when we will wish we had an additional pair of arms to accomplish pressing duties. Before that time arrives and while outdoor work is out of the question, it is well, when there is a little spare time, to overhaul, assort and clean empty flower pots and pans, make new flats and repair any which can be made to carry another season, clean pots and sponge foliage plants, paint any hotbed or coldframe sashes not in use, and even do a little indoor painting where the crops are not too much in the way and will not be injured by such work. Of course, the woodwork is not so dry as in summer, but there are usually a few hours daily when it is dry and the work can be more comfortably and economically done now than in August.

Lily of the Valley.

Pots and pans of lily of the valley are always in good demand at Easter. No special soil is needed; in fact, sand or moss will answer fully as well as loam for pips. Six-inch pots and 6-inch and 8-inch pans are the best sizes. Pack in as many pips as you can comfortably get in each receptacle. Place the pots or pans in a cool house, for if started now there is no need for darkening and drawing them up in heat. Six weeks' time in a house kept at 50 to 55 degrees will bring them into full flower for Easter, and grown in light all the time they will have excellent dark foliage, which the hard forced article usually lacks. If they flower a little earlier than wanted, it is easy to retard them in a cool, shaded house.

CARNATIONS

DUNSTABLE CARNATIONS.

The accompanying illustration shows the exhibit which won the Covent Garden bowl at the exhibition of the National Carnation Society in London, England, December 13. The varieties are Pink Delight on the left and White Perfection on the right, and the illustration will give an idea of how these sorts, grown in England, compare with the same varieties in this country. These were grown and exhibited by W. E. Wallace, of Eaton Bray, Dunstable, Beds., England, and E. G. Hill has told many of his friends that nowhere in this country are carnations better done than at Dunstable. Mr. Wallace modestly puts it: "At any rate, they don't disgrace their originator, the late Frederick Dorner, whom all carnation lovers must deeply mourn as a benefactor, even if personally unknown. Though I never had the privilege of meeting him, I feel that I have lost a friend, one whom I have often wished to know, for I feel he was one of nature's noblemen; I should think a fine character in every way, modest, unassuming, honest and clever. All carnation growers have lost a real help."

Special interest attaches to Mr. Wallace's exhibit from the fact that Mr. Wallace and his wife are now at Richmond, Ind., for a visit at the home of Mr. Hill. It is their intention to spend four or five weeks in this country, and during that time Mr. Wallace will visit a number of the leading growers, especially those who feature the carnation. A visit to Chicago under Mr. Hill's guidance is scheduled for the end of the present week.

FIGURING THE VALUE.

What Are Plants Worth?

If you were trying to find out what your assets were and you had 5,000 Enchantress carnation plants growing in the bench, what would you call them worth? We have in the past been satisfied with a very general idea of the profits we are making from our business, but it has seemed to us worth while to get a little more exact information on the subject.

We took an inventory January 1, 1911, and intend doing so each January 1 in future. When we cast up to find if we have made anything, we must give some value on the assets side of the ledger to the plants growing in the houses. What we want most particularly to know is what the practice is among first-class florists along the lines of these values. Will you illustrate for us how an inventory of a greenhouse property could be taken and figured out? H. F. C.

S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass.

The best answer I can give to the question is: Don't take stock January 1; do it July 1. Then you can place a better value on growing stock. I believe it is customary for florists to take stock July 1 every year. This seems more the end of and beginning of the seasons in our line of business.

Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa.

In reply to the inquiry of H. F. C. I would say that he would be justified, in taking an inventory of his assets, to put a valuation on his 5,000 Enchantress carnation plants. That valuation must be estimated by what they are likely to bring him in before the close of the season, less the cost of caring for them to the time when, of course, they would be worth nothing. In taking account of stock it is always best to estimate it low. One is only deceiving himself by estimating it too high.

It has been our practice in taking account of stock, which we do in January and July, to count our palms, ferns and orchids growing in pots at from twenty-five to thirty-five per cent less than what we would have to pay for them if we went to buy of a competitor. Our roses, carnations, etc., planted in benches, we have not counted at all, for they are not in a salable condition and what is made on them is received for the growing of them. You are sure to get it later and it is not worth while to deceive yourself. I do not know what the practice of others is.

Baur & Smith, Indianapolis.

January 1 is a wrong time of the year to take an inventory, for several reasons, and I think you will find no leading grower doing so at that time. (The national law taxing the net incomes of corporations makes it obligatory for growers who do business in corporate form to take inventory January 1.—Ed.) The proper time to take an inventory is when the stock is at low ebb, or at the end of the season. With most growers this would be sometime during July or August.

When the season's crops have been harvested, you can figure out what they brought you, and it is not a difficult matter to estimate the value of young stock in pots or recently planted in the benches or the field. You know what plants such as yours are offered for, and they need only be in good growing condition to be worth the market price. But when it comes to estimating the value of a lot of plants in the middle of the season, there are a great many chances of mistake on account of variation in the condition of the plants. Simply because you had 5,000 plants of Enchantress last year, and you have the same number this year, is no reason why your stock is worth the same this year as last. One year you may have cut a part of the season's crop by January, with only a moderate number of buds showing, while another season January 1 you may be just beginning to cut on a heavy crop. It stands to reason that in the latter case your plants would need to be appraised higher than in the former.

However, if you do want to get a good idea of what your plants are worth on January 1 you will have to estimate the number of blooms you can reasonably expect to cut from that time to the end of the season. Then figure up how much expense you will be put to in caring for the plants during that time. If you can do that to a certainty, then you can get an idea of what your plants are worth.

You will find it general among all manufacturing establishments, business houses, and florists, that an inventory is taken during the dull season, which among the growers of carnations is July or August.

C. T. Guenther, Hamburg, N. Y.

Our business not being large enough to employ any clerical help, we never figured out what the cost of production of certain kinds of flowers would be. We have figured out, however, the returns of certain flowers per plant and per square foot, at certain times, but not regularly.

To find out how the business is progressing, we take, instead, July 1 of each year, an inventory. This is made easier by having a special book, in which all assets and liabilities have a special account. We are allowing depreciation as follows: On buildings, five per cent; on greenhouses, ten per cent; tools and machinery, twenty per cent, adding all improvements to original cost but charging painting and repairs to repair account. Cost of land is left as original, unless improved.

By allowing six per cent compound interest on our original investment and taking an inventory of our plants, which can be figured at a low price at that time of the year, adding bills receivable and bills payable, we can tell if we are progressing or not.

By taking your expense account with inventory and apportioning the different items to the different flowers or plants you could very nearly tell the cost of production of every flower in a satisfactory manner, and no doubt we will use this system sometime in the future.

FORGET-ME-NOTS IN SOUTH.

Are forget-me-nots a success in the south, and if so, what varieties are best? E. N.

Forget-me-nots can be successfully grown in the south. The best varieties to handle for greenhouse work are usually strains from different varieties suited for this grade of work and are more certain of results than if raised from seed. You can find such advertised from time to time in The Review. Ribes.

TO GET RID OF MANURE FLIES.

I should like to know how to get rid of manure flies. Our houses are overrun with them. We have used the cyanide at the rate of one-half ounce to 1,000 cubic feet and have also fumigated strongly with tobacco stems, but we still have the flies. We are growing carnations, bedding stock and ferns. G. F. C.

The quickest way to get rid of these flies is to use pyrethrum powder. Apply it two or three times a week, using the powder blower. Ribes.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

The time is drawing near for the big flower show in Boston. The entries provided for in the first division must be staged Saturday, March 25. The second division is to be staged Friday, March 31.

The Toronto Horticultural Society has sent word that it offers the American Rose Society its silver and bronze medals as first and second prizes for best specimen of hardy climbing rose exhibited at the spring exhibition, in judging fragrance to count thirty-three points.

Eber Holmes, of Montrose, Mass., is manager in charge, and any inquiry for information regarding the show, addressed to him or to the secretary at Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y., will meet with prompt attention.

Benjamin Hammond, Secretary.

A NEW JERSEY SMOKER.

The New Jersey Floricultural Society held its annual smoker Friday evening, February 10, at its hall in Orange, N. J. Nearly 100 were present. Albert F. Larson is president. He called on George Smith to make a speech presenting the numerous silver cups won at the society's meetings during the year. Messrs. Walter Gray, William Reid, A. F. Larson, Max Schneider, Frank Drew and Lager & Hurrell were the winners, Mr. Reid being especially successful in that he captured six of the cups. The Reverend Mr. Lightipe and Messrs. Schultz, Tricker, Atkins, MacTaggart, Stewart and Shaw were among the speakers. Local and professional entertainers kept the interest up until a late hour.

There were the usual exhibits of roses, carnations, orchids, etc., by Messrs. Berglund, Schneider, Larson, Jenkins, Reid, Drew, Jones and Lager & Hurrell, some of which are shown in the accompanying illustration.

SOME NEW THINGS.

[A paper by E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., read at the meeting of the Illinois State Florists' Association at Champaign, Ill., February 9, 1911.]

As the rose has the right of way by general consent, I will begin by considering a few new varieties, both European and American, which have recently come under my notice.

Juliet (Wm. Paul & Son) is unquestionably the finest and most distinct of all new roses. It is a garden variety of strong growth, making heavy, upright canes, and has the good quality of flowering throughout the season. The color is a marvel of glistening yellow, crimson and pink. This variety should make not only a fine rose for the garden, but a beautiful market pot plant. It has a strong infusion of Austrian copper or Persian somewhere in its lineage.

Edward Mawley (McGredy). This rose was declared by all who saw it at the National Rose Show at Regent's Park to be the finest of all the hybrid teas. It is a glowing velvety crimson, of shapely form and good texture. If this variety will force, it will be a fine addition to our winter flowering sorts. No rose of recent years has had such a warm reception as was accorded this variety by the English public. It was named for Edward Mawley, the secretary of the National Society. It is worthy of trial under glass.

Two Pernet Hybrid Roses.

Rayon d'Or (Pernet) is one of the most wonderful advances in color among the recently introduced roses, and, as seen growing by the thousands at Lyons, France, in the raiser's garden, was a sight never to be forgotten. It is a distinct Pernettiana variety—dwarf in habit, free flowering, with a brilliancy in its yellow ground color that it is hardly possible to describe; it is frequently marbled and flaked with red. It belongs, however, among the hybrid Austrian briars, and it remains to be seen whether or not it will hold its foliage in our climate.

Beauty de Lyon (Pernet) was the winner of the Paris gold medal last year and is a notably strong growing hybrid. This and Juliet should, on account of their extraordinary vigor, make good garden varieties. The color is coral red, shading to yellow; a strong, heavy grower, with ample foliage and a flower large, full and globular; a magnificent bedder.

Jonkheer J. L. Mock hails from Holland and is one of the strongest in the family. It outgrows every other variety on our benches and is constantly sending up heavy bottom breaks, each topped with a glorious flower in two tones of color—fiery red within, the outside of the petals silvery, rosy white. Of fine rounding form; one of the largest in size; a grand rose. Awarded eight prizes in Europe.

Miss Alice de Rothschild. This is one of the Alexander Dickson varieties and, as viewed in the nurseries at Newtownards, looked like a veritable dwarf Marechal Niel. This should make a fine bedding or garden rose in this particular line of color, nothing being in greater demand than a deep yellow rose of fine rounded form for the border.

Two Notable Yellow Roses.

Mrs. Aaron Ward is a rose that compels admiration. First of all, it is a free grower, producing handsome, glossy foliage in great profusion, which it holds grandly when bedded out. It is one of the freest varieties that we know, and throws good, long canes readily. Admiral Ward, the greatest amateur rose grower in the country, names it as one of the six best bedders in our trying American climate. In the greenhouse it is a marvel of beauty, for besides having great strength of constitution, beauty and profusion of foliage, it forces readily, is extremely free, can be cut tight for shipment, and opens beautifully. The color is a deep orange yellow seen in no other rose, and it develops into a large rosette-shaped flower, glowing orange in the center, shading to a medium yellow on the edges.

Another aspirant for favor in the yellow class is Alexander Scott's Melody, which is being accorded a fine reception by the trade. It is notable for its freedom as a forcing variety, and for its good color. Yellow will soon become as popular among roses as among chrysanthemums, when once it is shown in handsome form and size. We can all remember the day when Marechal Niel and later Perle des Jardines were the most popular of cut roses, and a dinner was lacking in elegance without them. Sunrise, Sunset and Joseph Hill would still be fine property for the cut flower man if only they could be grown at a profit.

The Sports of Killarney.

The Double Killarneys are awakening interest and will be found most useful for summer cutting, owing to the additional petalage.

Here is one of the curious incidents regarding the sporting of roses or other plants; these sports often appear simultaneously with different growers, as if a given space of time allowed the variation to work to completion. You will remember that the white form of Killarney appeared at several places about the same time. We found it on several of our plants the same year that it originated farther east, though none of our sports proved pure white.

Two years ago Richmond sported pink—not a bright shade, but interesting—so we tried out a dozen plants of it. One of these pink Richmonds sported double, giving just twice as many petals as the average Richmond. Early this year this double pink Richmond reverted back to the pure crimson scarlet, but retained the fullness of petal, so that we now have a finely doubled Richmond which held its form without dropping for fully two weeks. We hope to be able to fix this sport, believing that it will be valuable.

An Ideal Pot Rose.

Orleans Rose. Here is what the market grower has been looking for—a dwarf polyantha that promises to make an ideal pot rose. It is the showiest and prettiest of the pink "baby" roses; a dainty little variety of beautifully rounded habit, huge bouquet of brilliant bloom, deep cerise with showy center of pure white, florets not crowded, but of beautiful arrangement. The color is irresistible, the plant grows like a weed, and the flowers are nearly "immortelle" in their lasting quality. We believe that they will outlast almost any other rose in existence, with their stiff, paper-like texture.

This pretty little variety took Europe by storm and will make a sensation as soon as shown in this country. I shall be greatly surprised if its introduction does not mark a new era in the pot culture of roses, and, as if especially intended for a companion, there is the inexpressibly lovely little Zelia Bourgeois, a pure white early flowering "baby" that is as dense in its mass of snow color as a cherry tree in bloom, and of the utmost symmetry in habit.

A Crimson Dorothy Perkins.

Excelsa is a Wichuraiana with the same color as the popular Crimson Rambler. This is a veritable crimson or red flowering Dorothy Perkins, and Mr. Walsh is entitled to great credit for having raised this charming novelty. One of its chief beauties is its glossy, persistent foliage, combined with its high color.

William Paul's Althea, Guillot's Marquise de Ganay, Pernet's St. Chaure, Lowe & Shawyer's Lady Hillingdon, Prince d'Arenberg (Soupert & Notting) and Souv. de Gustave Prat are all decidedly out of the ordinary, with several others quite as good. It is a notable year for new roses. I realize that there are other aspirants for popular favor, both at home and abroad, but I am speaking only of those with which I have had some personal experience.

I purposely refrain from mentioning our seedling, Rose Queen, which we are now disseminating, and also Sunburst, the French variety, which goes out next year, not because I could not say a great deal about them if I were to begin. A man's seedling roses, and even his adopted novelties, become very dear to his heart.

SCHMEISKE'S CEMENT BENCHES.

Among the considerable number of florists who have designed their own molds for the manufacture of greenhouse benches is W. F. Schmeiske, of Binghamton, N. Y., whose method of construction is here shown by means of two illustrations. One of the pictures indicates clearly the manner of building the sections, while in the other picture an outfit of the completed benches is seen, as set up and used in one of Mr. Schmeiske's carnation houses. The photographs were taken last fall, soon after the carnations had been benched.

Mr. Schmeiske states that he furnished one of his rose houses with these cement benches two years ago and the experiment proved so satisfactory that he is now substituting cement for wood in all of his benches. In case that any of the bottom slabs in the cement benches happen to break or show any defect, he says they can readily be replaced, but so far no such repairs have been necessary.

The benches are six inches deep, inside measurement, and range from three to four and one-half feet in width. The bottom slabs are eight inches wide and a little less than three inches thick, with two ¼-inch rods running through them for reinforcement. In preparing the concrete he uses one part of cement, three parts of sand and three parts of cinders, or, in other words, one part of cement to six parts of the other material. The same molds are used both for the side pieces and the ends, and afterward the ends are cut, if necessary, to fit any desired width of bench.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

In the cut flower market there was a marked improvement in the latter part of last week. Better prices were obtained for everything but bulbous stock. American Beauties rose to 60 cents, and even 75 cents was paid for a few selects. Orchids were firm at similar figures. All roses advanced to a higher plane. Even violets joined in the appreciation and 75 cents was paid for the specials.

low, except lilies. These have materially improved. Nothing worth while could be had under $1.50 a dozen, and from that to $2, February 13. Good callas also brought that sum easily. There is a tremendous quantity of poor freesia in the market. Purity only is worth growing, evidently, for it holds at a good figure.

There still is more smilax than the market can digest and the price corresponds. Wild smilax is moving rapidly and the market never is oversupplied.

The holiday Monday, with its many dinner celebrations, and the devotion Tuesday to St. Valentine, cleaned up the market most satisfactorily and gave an encouraging prospect for the balance of the week.

Club Meeting.

There was an attendance of nearly 100 members at the meeting of the Florists' Club, February 13. The legislative committee reported on its work in behalf of the asking for $50,000 from the state legislature for greenhouses at Cornell, and Messrs. Pierson and O'Mara announced their intention of attending the hearing at Albany February 15. H. A. Bunyard reported for the transportation committee, and it was voted to go to Boston on the evening of Friday, March 24, via the Fall River line, arriving on the morning of the opening of the National Flower Show.

Messrs. Maynard, Russell and l'Homadeau were elected to membership, and Messrs. Tricker, Knight and Broezel were nominated. Messrs. Maynard, Hanig and Tait were introduced to the club, and each made a brief speech. The secretary read a letter from the Philadelphia Florists' Club, inviting the New Yorkers to participate in the visit to the Dreer establishment March 8.

A vase of carnations was exhibited by William Kleinheinz, of Ogontz, Pa., a brilliant red of large size, which the committee scored eighty-seven points, entitling it to a preliminary certificate. Mr. Kleinheinz has named the variety Dimple Widener.

R. Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., gave a thoroughly interesting talk on his recent trip through the places of horticultural interest in Holland and Belgium, showing the scenes through colored lantern slides. Following his account of his European travels, he referred to the coming S. A. F. convention at Baltimore and assured everyone of a hearty welcome. Mrs. Vincent accompanied her husband to New York.

The club's banquet will take place at Shanley's March 18.

Various Notes.

The Greek ball February 6 was the usual success. Mr. Polykranas was master of ceremonies. Messrs. Riechers and Jackson were the wholesalers' representatives, from P. J. Smith's force.

Bernardsville Horticultural Society celebrates Saturday evening, February 18, and the Elberon society next week, at Long Branch. These will close the festive season this side of Poughkeepsie, where Mr. Saltford reports the annual banquet of the Dutchess County Horticultural Society will be given shortly. The New York Florists' Club's dinner, Saturday evening, March 18, will be the event of the year. There will be music and high class vaudeville, and no long speeches. Tables for eight can be secured in advance, and already eight of them have been spoken for.

John G. Esler hopes to return to his Saddle River home in a week. He says he will be four weeks on crutches. His friends have made his hospital experience as pleasant as possible, with flowers and sympathy.

Wm. Muller, Brooklyn, is selling his retail store and greenhouses, and will take up the growing business on Long Island.

Charles Elliott, of Lake Geneva, Wis., has returned from a visit to England and intends taking a position as gardener in the east.

Charles Millang has obtained a judgment for $496.18 against H. J. Tice, New Brunswick, N. J.

The second annual dinner of the Yonkers Horticultural Society, February 7, was a fine success. Nearly 150 sat down to a splendid menu and program. Arthur Herrington was toastmaster. All the horticultural societies sent their orators. W. A. Sperling, of the Stumpp & Walter Co., spoke for the seedsmen; Robert Rennison, of the Yonkers Nursery Co., for the nursery interests; L. Milliot for the retail florists, and J. A. Shaw for the press. Many of the leading New York seedsmen were present. Joseph A. Fenrich was the delegate from the wholesalers and the Madison quartet, Messrs. Totty, Duckham, Ebel and Schultz, were much in evidence.

C. C. Trepel has taken the flower department of Gimbell Bros., New York, and C. Abrams, of Brooklyn, the Abraham-Strauss flower department, Brooklyn.

Howard Nichols, superintendent at Glenview and secretary of the Yonkers Horticultural Society, had a bad fall on the ice Friday, February 3, injuring his head severely.

There was a delegation of New York florists at Albany February 15 to appear before the appropriation committee in behalf of the asking of $50,000 for experimental greenhouses at Cornell.

Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., have purchased Carnation William Eccles, which was exhibited at the January meeting of the Florists' Club. It is bright red.

Mrs. A. H. Langjahr presented her husband with a daughter February 11.

Fred Smythe is in Europe. The firm has added the entire floor above its store to its office and landscape departments.

Frank Hicks, with the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., in New York, has had a serious time with blood poisoning from rose thorns.

At the meeting of the Horticultural Society of New York at the American Museum, February 8, George V. Nash lectured on "Some Common Orchids and Roses." The first of the monthly exhibitions was held at the same time. The schedule was planned to give noncommercial growers an opportunity to exhibit where they would meet in competition only those of their own class, but there also were several commercial exhibits. Lager & Hurrell won a silver medal for collection of orchid plants, and Julius Roehrs Co. a bronze medal for collection of cut orchids. The F. R. Pierson Co. received a silver medal for a new rose, sport of Killarney.

Bowling.

The scores made by the bowlers February 13 before the club meeting were:

Player.	1st	2d	3d

CLEVELAND.

Club Meeting.

If the large attendance and the enthusiasm of those present at the flower show of the Cleveland Florists' Club Monday evening, February 13, is any criterion, a new era is in sight for the florists of Cleveland and vicinity. The club-rooms at 2610 Troy avenue were filled to capacity by the members and friends, and the exhibits were first-class in every particular. Twenty-four new members were enrolled, and the next meeting promises to bring forth some concerted movement in regard to general advertising of the trade in the daily papers. Talks were given on this subject by Mr. Jones, of the Jones-Russell Co., H. P. Knoble, of Knoble Bros., and Mrs. Ella Grant Wilson. Mr. Knoble advocated coöperation of all in the trade, burying petty jealousies, and a united effort to place the flower business before the people of Cleveland in a broad way.

The committee in charge of the exhibition of the evening consisted of Adam Graham, Ed George, W. Stahl and C. Russell. Mr. Graham read their report, as follows:

"Your committee on flower show begs leave to report that we find a very fine display of cut flowers from the growers in the vicinity of Cleveland, also from the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., showing Rose Mrs. Aaron Ward, saffron in color, an improvement over the old Safrano; also Carnation Bonfire, commendable both as to color and stem. From the Chicago Carnation Co., Chicago, Ill., Carnation Washington, an improvement on Lawson. From Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa., Carnation Dorothy Gordon, very fine.

"Your committee wishes to make special mention of a fine display of cut flowers from the J. M. Gasser Co., consisting of Killarney and White Killarney roses, White Perfection, Beacon and Lawson carnations, and a remarkably fine vase of antirrhinums. The Cleveland Cut Flower Co. makes a fine display of different varieties of carnations, including an excellent seedling of Enchantress, also lily of the valley and beautifully colored La Reine tulips. John Blechschmitt shows a fine assortment of carnations. Mr. Hoffman shows a good vase of a sport from the well-known Carnation Prosperity. R. W. Wasko shows a good vase of Princess of Wales violets. C. W. Gerdem shows a vine vase of valley. G. A. Barber, Beloit, shows a vase of sweet peas.

"Your committee in presenting this report wishes to commend the exhibitors for the excellent evidence of their skill and enterprise."

Various Notes.

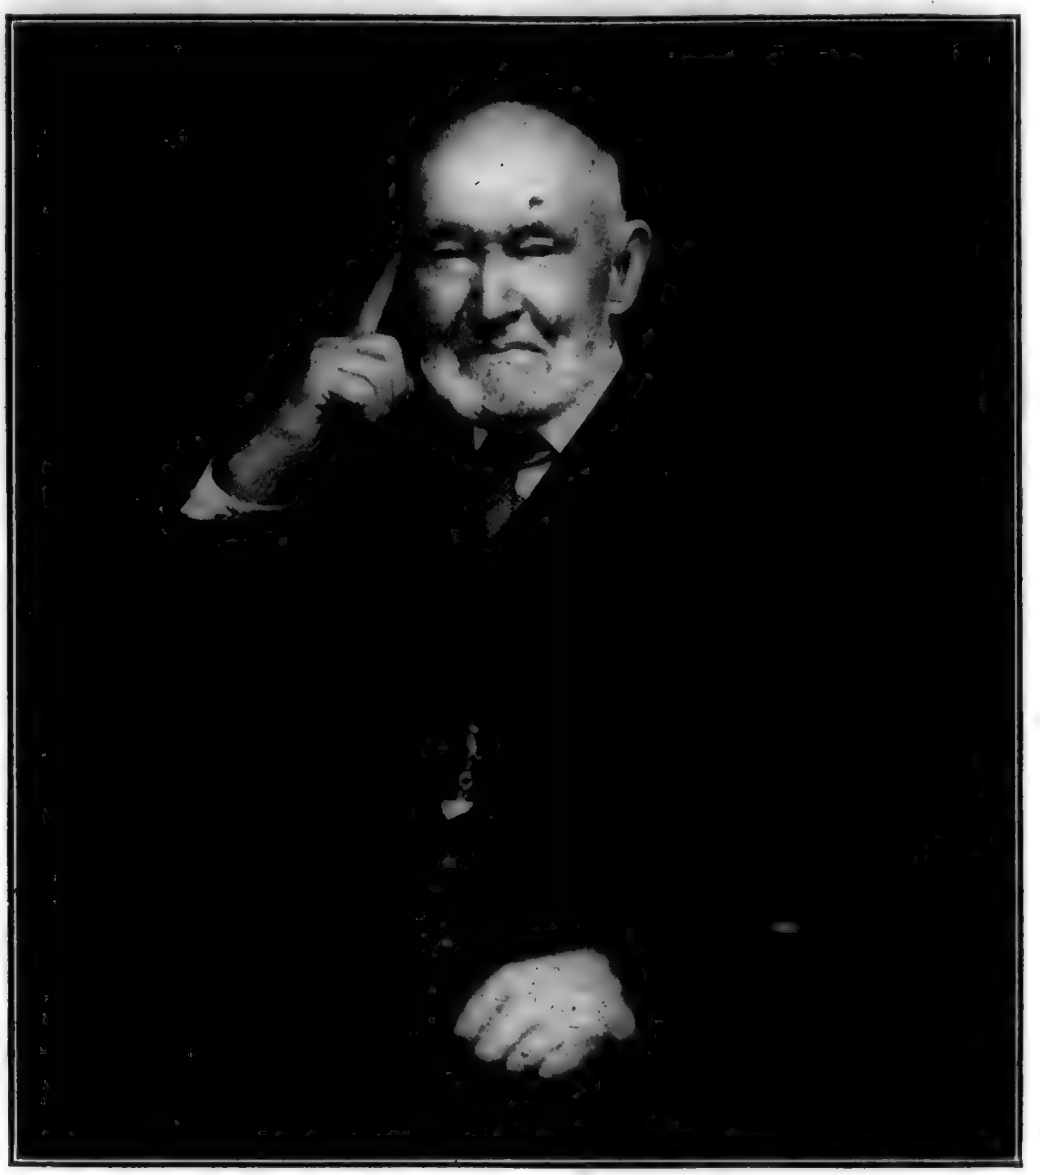
Valentine's day brought a heavy trade to all the flower stores. Violets were plentiful and sold well, owing to their excellent quality and reasonable price.

Several Cleveland florists went to Alliance, O., last week and bowled the Alliance enthusiasts to the tune of three straight games. After the contest Mr. Lamborn invited the visitors to his residence, where they spent several hours at cards and music.

C. D. Fell, of Knoble Bros., visited Caledonia, O., February 11 and 12.

The son of H. Hart, who was operated on for appendicitis, is convalescing rapidly. C. D. F.

OBITUARY.



Edward L. Coy.

February 10, Edward L. Coy, who founded the Washington County Seed Gardens in New York state in 1851, died at his home at Melrose, Mass., in his eightieth year.

Edward L. Coy was born April 4, 1831, at Bernardston, Mass. His ancestors were among those who came from England in the early Colonial days, and his grandfather on both sides, each with two brothers, fought through the Revolutionary war. When 16 years old he moved to Washington county, New York, and about a year later began growing seeds for R. N. Rice, of Cambridge, N. Y. At first in a small way, then on an increasingly larger scale, for some of the largest seed houses of New York, Philadelphia and elsewhere, he diligently kept at the business of seed growing through all the years, until at 80 he had rounded out sixty-two years in the business. While he was no longer largely engaged in seed growing, he kept in touch with his old interests and was a regular reader of the seed trade pages of The Review.

In his early manhood Mr. Coy wrote a great deal for the agricultural press, and during that period delivered many addresses before county and state agricultural societies. It was at this time that Horace Greeley, who had become interested in his contributions to the press, using many of them in the New York Tribune, urged him to take the editorship of the agricultural department of his paper. Mr. Coy has sometimes thought that possibly his declination was the great mistake of his life.

In 1875 he was elected president of the Washington County Agricultural Society, and in 1881 and 1882 was reelected. For eighteen years he was on the board of directors of this organization and was four times president of the Hebron Agricultural Society. In 1903 he was selected by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to make a full and complete test of nearly 250 varieties of cucumbers, with the idea of establishing a type of each; also to learn how many of the named varieties were synonyms. No one better qualified for the task could have been selected, for he was for many years possibly the largest grower of cucumber seed in the world. He has stated that his largest crop, harvested in 1902, was over thirty-five tons. But it will be as a breeder, or originator, of potatoes that he will be most generally remembered in years to come by the horticultural world. The number of varieties he originated counts up to nearly a score, each of which, in its day in some section of the country, has been a standard market variety. The following are a few of his well-known varieties: Beauty of Hebron, White Elephant, Late Rose, Burpee's Empire State, Henderson's Early Puritan, The Thorburn and White Late Rose.

Edward L. Coy.

At the annual convention of the American Seed Trade Association, held at Niagara Falls in 1909, special recognition was made of the work of Mr. Coy in electing him an honorary member for life. The distinction is the more notable in that it had been conferred but once before, in 1907, in the case of Wm. Meggat, of Wethersfield, Conn., a former president of the association.

September 21, 1858, Mr. Coy married Miss Clara B. Cary, of Hebron, N. Y. There are three children living, C. Herbert Coy, of Valley, Neb., who is also well known in the seed growing business; Dr. S. Willard Coy, of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. James B. Sievwright, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Timothy McCarthy.

Timothy McCarthy, for thirty-five years superintendent of Swan Point cemetery, died at his home on Swan Point road, Providence, R. I., Friday, February 10, after being confined to his house about six weeks by a complication of troubles incidental to the liver. He was about 64 years of age, and was one of the best known citizens in that city.

Mr. McCarthy was born in Ireland, where he worked as a young man upon several of the large private estates, and came to this country before he had attained his majority. Landing in Boston, he secured a position at the Forest Hills cemetery, where he advanced in authority and responsibility until he was called by the management of the Swan Point cemetery to Providence in 1876 to take charge of the grounds of that corporation.

Mr. McCarthy was essentially a home man and was affiliated with no secret or fraternal societies. He frequently attended the conventions of the various horticultural and floral associations, and was always an interesting and instructive talker upon subjects pertaining to his profession.

For many years he attended the annual gatherings of the Society of American Florists, and was also a member of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society, the Florists' and Gardeners' Club of Rhode Island and the Catholic Club. He leaves a widow and ten children, five of whom are boys. Two of the latter are at present abroad studying for the priesthood.

Benjamin Hoyt.

Benjamin Hoyt, of the firm of Hoyt Bros., of the Scotch Grove Nursery, at Scotch Grove, Ia., died of pneumonia February 7, at his home in Monticello, Ia., at the age of 40 years. He is survived by his wife and one son. He had been a resident of Monticello for about a year.

Hastings, Neb.—Charles W. Winkler has just completed a new iron-frame greenhouse.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

Of course you carry a notebook—all progressive florists do.

St. Valentine's has now taken its place as one of the recognized special flower days.

J. F. Ammann suggests that E. G. Hill write a book of horticultural travel and reminiscence.

The price of window glass fluctuates daily, but latterly has been as low as at any time this season.

The advancing price of cyanide of potassium is not due to its increasing use for fumigating, but to a trust in Germany, it is said.

Paint and putty are two of the articles the florist finds cost more money than they ever did before. The advance is due to the cost of the linseed oil.

One of the largest rose growing establishments in New England is paying $8.50 a ton for cow manure, which gives some idea of the importance of finding a chemical substitute.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

The New England Passenger Association has granted a rate of one and three-fifths fares for the round trip to the National Flower Show at Boston, March 25 to April 1. The rate applies as far west as Albany.

If all the glass that has been sold to florists in the last three or four months finds its way into new construction this spring, as most of it is sure to do, it will mean the largest addition to greenhouse area ever recorded for any one year.

A Belgian has made extensive experiments in the preservation of cut flowers. He has found that many florist's flowers, especially carnations, roses, orchids and chrysanthemums, live longest in a solution of sugar, from three-quarters of a pound to two pounds per gallon of water.

THE FLORIST'S WIFE.

In his address on "Gardening for and by the Amateur," recently delivered before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, J. Otto Thilow, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, paid this graceful compliment to the florist's wife:

"The most able and beneficial assistant to the commercial florist of this country and Europe is the wife or other assistant of the fair sex. The success of a very large part of the florists is directly attributable to the help and counsel of the wife, and in many instances where it has been necessary that she take the helm, the business continues with the same success. This proves the efficiency of women at a vocation for which they are well suited."

HOW WELL IT PAYS.

Somewhere, all the time, there is someone looking for just the article the other florist wants to sell. That is why advertising in the Classified Department of The Review hardly ever fails to find a purchaser, no matter what stock is offered. Of course, best results are obtained when something seasonable is advertised. In that case, sales frequently are out of all proportion to the cost of the advertisement. For instance:

"Please do not print my advertisement a second time. I am pleased to send you the 30 cents for the three lines. One insertion brought me orders amounting to over $350. As my plant is not very big, I will have to build larger.—Jacob Doerrer, Columbia, Pa., February 8.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Valentine's day turned out to be even better than had been expected. It appears that all over the country retail florists have begun to appreciate the possibilities of February 14 and, what is more important, this year did something in the way of pushing out for Valentine's business. The result was that there came to this market two days of exceptionally heavy shipping, as well as a first-class local demand. In the aggregate, the business far exceeded that of any previous year.

Supplies of stock had been steadily increasing and the market was gradually weakening up to Sunday, when the Valentine's day orders began going out. The unexpected strength of the demand resulted in a prompt stiffening of the market, the ground lost during the week being quickly regained. While all flowers were in request, the greater part of the special demand turned toward double violets, and it was on these that the principal shortage occurred. Roses were well cleaned up and some orders were cut, but of carnations there were enough to go around, with more or less left on hand Monday evening, February 13, in most of the wholesale houses. Double violets were short of requirements, but there were some singles left. Sweet peas were in excellent request, possibly because a large part of the stock now coming in is of such fine quality. The supply of peas is not yet heavy, but there were enough so that the short-stemmed stock found a poor sale, if at all. Bulbous material was in large supply and did not sell at all well, there being large quantities left over each night.

The market again began to weaken February 14, in spite of continued dark weather, which held the roses fairly firm. While it is not yet possible to fill all orders for roses, other stock is so abundant and so cheap that the demand for roses has been materially curtailed. It will require only a slight increase in the cut to produce an adequate supply under existing conditions. The wholesalers are almost unanimous in the opinion that the next couple of weeks will see extremely heavy receipts of carnations and that close upon the heels of the carnation crop will come a rose crop which will make it decidedly a buyer's market.

building is in a state of suspended animation. It is in a condition where it appears that the plan, which has many excellent features, may be put through if there is anyone deeply enough interested to push it, but it seems no wholesaler has sufficient individual interest in the consummation of the plan to cause him to come forward and tackle the large amount of work which remains to be done to put through a project in which so many men are concerned and so large a sum involved. That a number of wholesalers have arrived at the conclusion that there is not likely to be any general removal from the present wholesale section is shown by the leases they recently have made. January 31, O. Johnson, of the Batavia Greenhouse Co., took a lease for three years on the store J. A. Budlong has occupied for some dozen years and which is to be vacated May 1. February 13, the Chicago Carnation Co. took a two years' lease on the two rooms just south of C. W. McKellar and opposite Wietor Bros., on the second floor of the Atlas block. This is more space than the lessee requires, and Manager Pyfer states that it is the plan for Sinner Bros., M. C. Gunterberg and D. Freres, now located in the Flower Growers' Market, to occupy the rooms jointly with the Chicago Carnation Co., though no sub-leases have yet been executed.

The Flower Growers' Market lease passes to Percy Jones May 1, and several of those occupying space there have now arranged individually for quarters elsewhere. No arrangement has yet been made for the continuation of the market at another location.

Phil Schupp, manager of the selling end of the J. A. Budlong business, has several locations in view. He states that it is the intention to largely increase the facilities in whichever of the new quarters is selected.

Various Notes.

One of the projects that are in progress of development concerns the organization of a stock company to open a new wholesale house. The promoters and active managers of the house, if established, are T. C. Yarnall and George H. Pieser. The stock is being placed with a number of interested growers. It is understood the company has an eye on the former E. C. Amling location, now vacant, at 32 to 36 Randolph street.

Frank Williams is suffering from nervous troubles and, on the advice of his physician, is preparing for a long vacation trip to Greece.

The business at Morton Grove heretofore known as N. C. Moore & Co., is now conducted in corporate form by the N. C. Moore Co. Mrs. Moore, who sells the output on the Flower Growers' Market, is president and treasurer of the corporation.

Kennicott Bros. Co. reports that the first southern bulb stock arrived this year February 2 and that the shipments have now reached a considerable volume.

N. J. Wietor was on the sick list the greater part of last week, but is now on deck again. Others who have been ill but who are again attending to busi-

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

As a whole, the demand last week exceeded the supply. Some of the principal lines are somewhat off crop and this, combined with the more or less cloudy weather we have experienced for some time, has tended to weaken some of the stems. Still, the average quality of the stock is good.

Roses were somewhat short in supply the last fortnight and indications are they will not be overplentiful for another two weeks at least. I believe advance orders took up all offerings even before they were cut. The amount of American Beauties offered sold out easily. More pink might have been used. It has been hard to place orders

CALL US UP

You can do this at any time of the day and if not too far from Chicago we advise doing this. We have two trunk lines, incoming and outgoing. If you can't get Randolph 4-3-3-6 you can generally get Randolph 4-3-3-7. There will be some one on this end of the line to take your order and we will see that it is taken care of properly.

Stock is a little more plentiful both in Roses and Carnations; in fact, everything is easier, and with a little steady sunshine there will be heavy cuts from now on, as plants are in fine shape, many growers having cut but little since the Holidays, particularly in roses. Sweet Peas are again in cut and some fine stock can be had. Valley also is in crop—quality extra fine. Violets plentiful, both single and double.

for Richmond or Rhea Reid, especially for the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth of this month.

The offerings of carnations fell below the request for them; all colors, especially the lighter shades, have been selling quickly. A goodly supply of red was offered for St. Valentine's day and, of course, was snapped up quickly.

The supply of double and single violets was large for Tuesday and the early shipments sold quickly. Lily of the valley drag on the market. In view of their exceptional quality and the scarcity of other lines, this fact seems peculiar. Sweet peas, especially colored ones, are good stock.

The supply of longiflorum is regular and forms an important factor in the market. Callas are coming in stronger. Dutch hyacinths and outdoor jonquils from the south are now included in the list of bulbous stock offered, and meet with a call greater than can be filled. Paper Whites continue to arrive regularly.

The market is well supplied with decorative greens of all kinds. The ferns and plumosus are especially fine and are finding a good call from the shipping trade.

Club Meeting.

The Cincinnati Florists' Society held its regular meeting at the club rooms Monday, February 13. Wm. Sunderbruch, Fred Gear, Ed. Fries, Henry Koester and Wm. Rutenschroer were elected to membership. The flower show committee reported the fund had increased to $15,025, and a preliminary schedule of premiums was adopted. All the boys are interested and pushing, not merely falling in line.

The vase of C. C. Murphy's new seedling red carnation proved what an excellent flower this one is for St. Valentine's day. It was in strong bloom for the holidays and is just as strong now.

Various Notes.

J. A. Peterson returned from a trip to the East last Friday. While away he purchased heavily in bedding stock.

C. E. Critchell reports the order of sixty cases of southern smilax from the decorator for the auto show.

P. J. Olinger's carnations are coming in stronger than for some time.

Miss Margaret Anstead, of E. G. Gillett's, leaves shortly for New Orleans, where she will take in the Mardi Gras carnival.

J. M. McCullough's Sons Co. last week received outdoor jonquils from the south. They also offered white Dutch hyacinths from Albert McCullough's conservatories, that brought top market prices.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Business during the last week has been seasonably good, but a shortage in roses and carnations has somewhat affected the general conditions. Bulbous stock has been plentiful and furnished a sufficient amount of flowers for ordinary purposes. In consequence of the shortage the prices on roses and carnations have kept above the normal, the former bringing from 3 to 12½ cents at wholesale, while the latter have ranged from 2 to 4 cents. The long spell of dull, cloudy weather is responsible for the shortage. Funeral work continues brisk, and a few small weddings, receptions, dinners and the like help to piece out.

Various Notes.

William Hooper, assistant gardener for the last ten months at Marlemont, Newport, is leaving for Lenox, Mass., to resume the care of the large conservatories at Belle Fontaine gardens.

Michael Walsh has tendered his resignation as rose grower for the Burke Rose Co., Dyer avenue, to take effect March 1.

B. A. Bohuslav, of Newport, reports a successful year in the propagation of nursery stock.

Johnston Bros., Dorrance street, had a pretty valentine window display. The predominant color was red, with a Cupid in one corner shooting arrows at a big red heart on which were the names of the flowers now in season.

Swan Peterson, of East Providence, was quite busy last week on funeral work and for the school graduations.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The increase in quantity and improvement in quality of the sweet peas is the feature of an active market. Carnations, too, are more plentiful, while extra heavy trading in daffodils continues. Shipping orders are heavy, with the market better supplied to meet the demand than for some time past. Roses are not overplentiful. The better grades are scarcer than the mediums and shorts. Beauties have advanced again, with light receipts. St. Valentine's day orders were excellent. Red roses, violets, sweet peas and a little myosotis were favorites. Red carnations advanced in price under the influence of orders for the day.

Lilac is plentiful, popular and of fine quality. Calla lilies have sold freely on account of their good value at listed prices. Cattleyas, gardenias and valley are all good sellers. Paper Whites are on the back track. Daisies are dull, but pansies are active. Greens are in good demand. Tulips, when well done, sell well. The white have been a feature; red is scarce. White carnations are not going so well as the colored. Indications point to an active fortnight before Lent.

Various Notes.

A slip of the tongue is oft regretted, a slip of the word oftener. By some unhappy accident, Charles Henry Fox's beautiful Bluebird boxes, suggestive of the most imaginative book and imaginative play of the day, was last week made to suggest shocking brutality in the single word Bluebeard, while H. Bayersdorfer's hastily snatched private audience appeared to be in the full glare of the electric lights of the clubroom.

Prof. Henry Fox, of Ursinus College, spoke on "The Heredity and Recent Investigations in Plant Life" before the Germantown Horticultural Society February 13.

William J. Baker was surprised by an informal gathering of his friends at his home on his birthday, February 9. The evening was passed most pleasantly. Among those present were Gilbert Baker, Eugene Bernheimer, George F. Christie, of Clifton, Pa.; Theodore Edwards, Bridgeton, N. J.; Charles W. Kahlert, John Nichols and William Swayne, of Kennett. Among Mr. Baker's gifts was a beautiful meerschaum with amber mouthpiece from Pennock Bros.

The will of the late Charles J. Wister directed that $100 be paid to the Germantown Horticultural Society, the principal to be held in trust, the interest to be used for a wild flower prize to be offered by the society each May.

R. O. King, North Tonawanda, N. Y., will deliver an illustrated lecture on greenhouse construction before the Florists' Club March 7.

The Joseph Heacock Co. is putting in two shower baths in its model place at Roelof.

The Women's Horticultural College at Ambler, Pa., has ordered material for a greenhouse, 21x85, from the King Construction Co.

Two exhibits reached the Florists' Club after the report of the February meeting was sent. They were fine vases of Enchantress and a red seedling from John Kuhn, Olney, and splendidly grown vases of White Perfection and Pink Delight from the Strafford Flower Farm.

A portrait of the late William J. Colflesh was presented to the Florists' Club by Mrs. Colflesh.

The Market.

Business continues fair. There has not been any great surplus. Owing to the sunless weather, supplies were less abundant than usual, but the demand was only moderate. It seemed good to see the sun February 11 and have it actually remain with us for a full day. The shortage of roses is not yet relieved and prices have held quite high all week. Few of even the short stems went below $6 last week, and while prices are a little softer now, roses are not overabundant. A few bright days will see a much heavier cut. Carnations have moved well. They are a little lower in price. The varieties which have the largest sale in Boston this season are: Enchantress, still a long way ahead of all others; White Enchantress, the leading white; Beacon, White Perfection, Winsor, Pink Delight, Winona and Queen.

Never were such quantities of sweet peas seen in Boston, even in summer, and values have sunk quite low. Some magnificent flowers are arriving. Violets again had a poor week, with prices away down. For Valentine's day prices, however, braced up to 75 cents and $1. There was also a good call for lily of the valley, sweet peas and a few other flowers. Bulbous flowers are of good quality and they are not yet a glut. Lilies are more plentiful; many of them are Formosas. Callas are also in heavier supply. Marguerites are rather more abundant, but sell well. Cattleya Trianæ is still abundant and selling lower. Quite a few other orchids are also seen. Among miscellaneous flowers are quantities of wallflowers, myosotis, centaureas, English primroses, dimorphotheeas, tritonias, ixias and sparaxis.

The demand for asparagus, adiantum and smilax has been quite good and growers of pot plants have experienced a better demand than since Christmas, azaleas, genistas, lilacs, flowering plums and bulbous pans having most call.

Club Meeting.

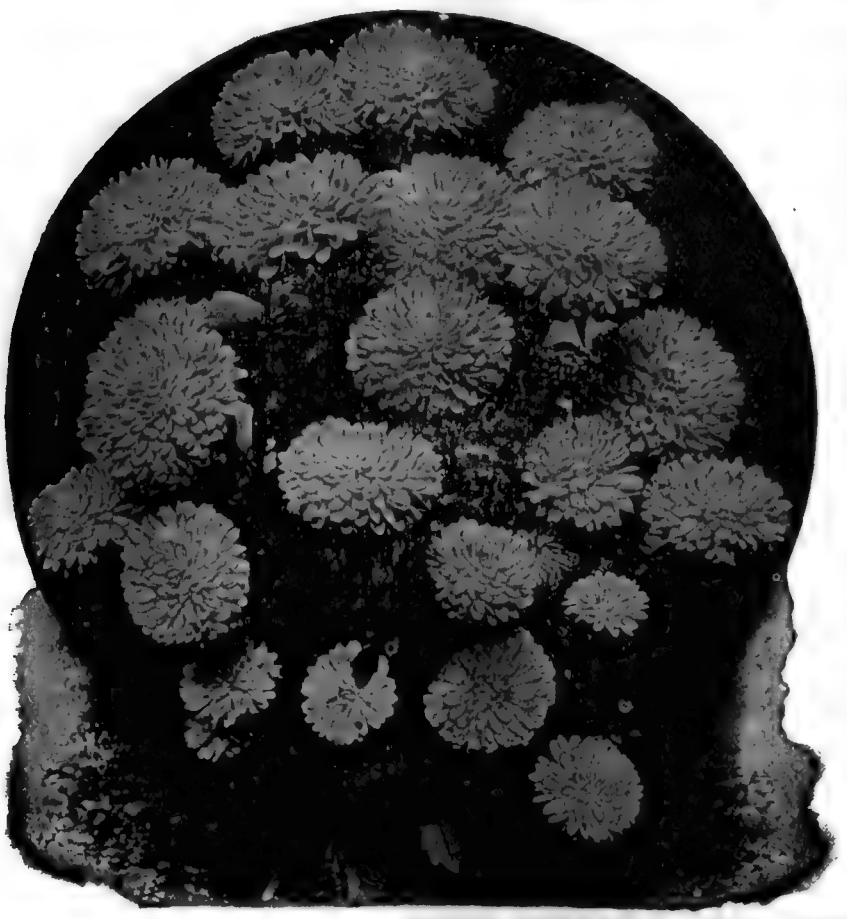
The February meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club always attracts a big attendance, and the gathering of 200 February 14 proved that carnation night had not yet lost its potency. The lecture by Edwin Jenkins, of Lenox, was eminently practical, and the speaker among other things spoke on the scientific work being done at Amherst and Cornell for floriculture. Mr. Jenkins is not only a first-class practical gardener, but a good speaker, and his paper was well received and caused a capital discussion.

As is usual at the February meetings, the exhibits were numerous. Peter Fisher was given a report of highest merit for Carnation Gorgeous. John Barr received a report of superior merit for his new variegated carnation, Mrs. Cheney. W. W. Edgar Co. received a report of superior merit for the new azalea, Lady Roosevelt, a beautiful soft pink. J. H. Leach & Son received a report of merit for a new shell-pink carnation. Cyclamen Papilio from Weld Gardens was excellent. A. Leuthy received a report of merit on new azaleas. The Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. showed cinerarias.

The committee on S. A. F. entertainment made a progressive report. Addresses were made asking the support of the whole club at the coming national show, which it was intended to make the finest ever seen in America. The club voted $50 as a prize. The coming club banquet, to be held February 28, was boomed, and tickets sold at such a lively rate that the attendance promises to far surpass that of a year ago. There was, as usual, a large addition of new members, eleven being elected. Refreshments were served, and it was quite late before this, one of the best meetings the club has yet held, terminated.

Various Notes.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co. have one of their large, new King construction houses at their new Dedham nurseries ready for glazing. James Farquhar states that with the present low price of glass, wrought iron, piping and other material, his firm will be able to build approximately two houses for the same price as one would have cost a year ago.



William H. Ward, of Montvale, near Woburn, is marketing an extra fine grade of carnations, also myosotis, freesias and sweet peas of excellent quality.

The William W. Edgar Co. has a fine lot of genistas, lilacs, azaleas, including Charles Encke; lilies, etc. Their lilies and other Easter plants are coming along in good shape.

Welch Bros. are experiencing an exceptionally heavy call for white roses and carnations. They much prefer White Enchantress to White Perfection, the latter being more sleepy. They still sell a large quantity of The Queen for funeral work. They find that double narcissi sell, on the whole, better than singles.

HENRY F. MICHELL CO., 518 Market St., Philadelphia

John K. M. L. Farquhar will substitute for J. H. Hale in the lecture course at Horticultural hall, February 18, and will speak on "Where Seeds are Grown."

From the E. Sutermeister estate in Readville, pans of such tulips as Murillo, Belle Alliance and La Reine are good, also splendid double Von Sions, Golden Spurs and Princeps, and ixias in quantity.

Thomas Pegler is handling a lot of beautifully flowered genistas from the Willow Hill Greenhouses, also a fine line of bulbous stock in pans from W. A. Riggs, who has just recovered from a slight illness.

Fred C. Becker, of Cambridge, has a fine show of flowering plants in his greenhouses. Many are sold at Faneuil Hall square.

Tulip Flamingo, from Mann Bros., and Tulip Couronne d'Or, from Paine Bros., each of Randolph, are noteworthy among a large assortment of bulbous flowers.

Richard E. Lassman, the veteran Watertown florist, celebrated his eightieth birthday February 10, and was the recipient of a host of congratulatory messages, including no less than 250 postal cards, many of which came from his fellow stallholders at the Boston Coöperative Market. The florists' business is surely conducive to longevity, for at this market Mrs. E. M. Gill has passed the eightieth milestone and J. H. Leach is approaching it, yet this worthy trio are all in excellent health and still work actively each day.

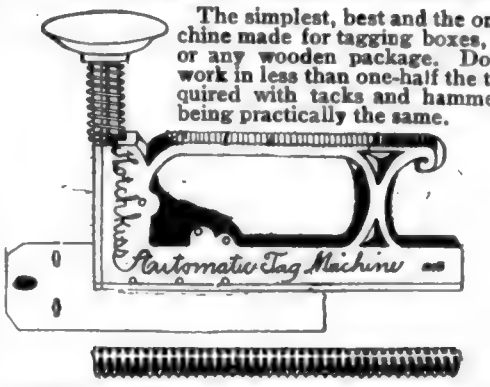
W. C. Bowditch, Grove Hall, Dorchester, is a good grower of pot plants. Some of his best are at present Otaheite oranges, capitally fruited, flowering ornamental apples, primulas and araucarias.

A. H. Hews & Co. report that pot trade has started in unusually well and much larger than a year ago.

Thomas F. Galvin had an immense heart of Richmond roses in one of his windows for a Valentine's advertisement. A bordering of Erica melanthera showed off the roses effectively. This firm did a heavy Valentine's day business.

When the doors of the Boston Flower Exchange were opened February 11, smoke was seen rising from the floor. Examination found that a hole had been burned completely through the floor, due, it is thought, to someone throwing down a lighted cigar stub.

From the Norris F. Comley conservatories at Lexington and Bedford fine shipments of Conquest, Mary Tolman and White Enchantress, among other carnations, are arriving. White Enchantress does superbly here and outdistances all other whites.



A. G. Lake, of Wellesley Hills, is sending good consignments of Christmas Pink and Mont Blanc sweet peas to B. J. McGinty.

Visitors this week include L. J. Reuter, Westerly, R. I.; H. E. Bates, of the King Construction Co., North Tonawanda, N. Y.; E. Jenkins, Lenox, Mass.; T. W. Head, representing Stumpp & Walter Co., New York.

Everything is progressing swimmingly for the big national show. Practically all available spaces are now rented and exhibits are being promised from all parts of the country and abroad.

PITTSBURG.

The Market.

Roses and carnations were on the short side last week, but with a few more bright days, such as we have been having, there will be more than plenty. While trade has been fair, there is not much excitement and it will not take a great deal more stock than is now coming to crowd the market. Bulbous stock is quite plentiful. Good Paper Whites and Romans are not much in evidence, but there are quantities of tulips of all colors, besides Trumpets and Von Sions.

The wholesalers have been having an easy time, but the indications are that they will have to hustle to sell their stock if the present bright weather keeps up. Monday and Tuesday, indeed, were banner days among the wholesalers. The increased orders, both from the city and outside, kept them busier than they have been for a long time, and Valentine's day is becoming, as it should be, more and more a flower day.

Club Meeting.

The Pittsburg Florists' Club met in the parlor of the Fort Pitt hotel Tuesday, February 7. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the club. The occasion was the election of officers for the ensuing year.

The only office for which there was competition was that of president. The candidates were William Allen, superintendent of Homewood cemetery, and John Jones, foreman of Schenley Park Conservatories. After considerable electioneering and friendly rivalry, the result was 52 votes for Mr. Jones and 25 for Mr. Allen. The officers for the year are: President, John Jones; vice-president, P. S. Randolph; secretary, H. P. Joslin; treasurer, H. L. Blind.

It has almost become a fashion among the members that when a man gets married he makes it an occasion to treat the boys in some way. On this occasion, during the counting of the ballots, Ben Elliott had cigars passed around in honor of little Miss Elliott, the granddaughter of John Bader.

This was also carnation night and there was a fine display. The Pittsburg Cut Flower Co. had White Perfection, White Lawson, Lady Bountiful, Shasta, Lawson, Winsor, Enchantress, Dorner's Delight, Beacon, Victory and Dorothy Gordon.

Albert Lorch, Allison Park, Pa., had Enchantress, Winona, Winsor, Lawson, White Perfection and White Lawson, all of which were good enough to show anywhere.

Baur & Smith, Indianapolis, Ind., had Carnation Pocahontas, a fine crimson with a large, well-formed flower and a strong stem. It was awarded a certificate of merit.

Nic Zweifel, North Milwaukee, Wis., sent Carnation Bright Spot. It is a good dark pink with good stems, and was awarded special mention.

Dr. Schaefer had some fine blooming specimens of Dendrobium virginale, D. nobile, D. nobile nobilius and D. Cooksonianum, the latter one of the finest white dendrobiums in cultivation.

There were about 100 members and visitors present, but, owing to the time taken up by the election, it was not possible to hear much from the visitors.

A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., sent Dark Pink Killarney and Prince de Bulgarie, which arrived the morning after. They were on exhibition at the Pittsburg Cut Flower Co.'s and were thought to be good things, especially the new Dark Pink Killarney. The F. Dorner & Sons Co., La Fayette, Ind., was also one day late in getting in its shipment of carnations, White Wonder and Gloriosa, but they were on exhibition at the Pittsburg Cut Flower Co.'s and kept finely all the week. The White Wonder was especially good.

The committee is sending out tickets for the lecture of Prof. R. Vincent, which will be given in the English room of the Fort Pitt hotel, Tuesday evening, February 28. As some other good things will also be provided, a fine time is anticipated. This will be one of the times when our wives and sweethearts can participate with us.

Directions for Use.

To get the best results put the stems of flowers in about 2 inches of fluid, leaving them there about 30 minutes. After taking them out of fluid put them right in water for about two hours, which has a tendency of forcing the fluid up to the bloom and making that pretty shade of green.

Various Notes.

G. & J. W. Ludwig are putting the finishing touches on their new store and expect to open it in a few days. Their location is one of the most desirable on the north side.

The E. C. Ludwig Co. reports business good in decorating and funeral work. At this company's Ludco Farm, improvements are well under way. A new dwelling, to be used as a summer home for Mr. Ludwig and his family, is now completed.

At the Crystal Farms, the Pittsburg Cut Flower Co.'s plant, one can find President Burke busy at his drawing board, laying out the new section of eight houses, each 25 x 400. With thirteen connecting houses just completed and the new range of eight houses, this company will have a glass area ranking with the big ones.

Mrs. E. A. Williams does not often trim windows herself, but she did trim the Valentine's day window, and it was a dream. Heart-shaped boxes, decorated, were principally used; yet the effect was such that it looked more like a big painting. Hoo-Hoo.

FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

William Nicholson.

Carnations, as is well known, are the great feature at William Nicholson's well kept establishment, and this season they are looking better than ever before, all carrying heavy crops. White Enchantress is here the leader of its color, being more floriferous than White Perfection and carrying stronger stems. The latter will probably be dropped another season. I was pleased to see a batch of that grand old variety, Lady Bountiful, than which no more beautifully formed white variety has yet been sent out. Mr. Dorner's new White Wonder will be grown in quantity another season. Mrs. Patten continues to do splendidly here and is exclusively grown as a white variegated sort. Mr. Nicholson stated that, while with some growers Patten proved slow, it was with them the fourth most productive variety, ranking after Fenn, Pink Delight and Beacon. In deep pinks Dorothy Gordon is chiefly grown. Its chief fault seems to be bursting at this season. Afterglow's chief fault is its variability of color, but a sport with large and evenly colored flowers is a decided improvement and will be propagated from. Mrs. C. W. Ward is grown in a small way, but is quite a failure in the light soil here, needing a heavy soil to do it well.

Winsor is grown in quantity and is floriferous. The chief trouble with this popular sort seems to be that everyone is able to grow it and the market is rather overstocked with it in consequence. Winona carried longer stems than Winsor and still sells well. Among the flesh pinks, Pink Delight looked superb and carried a great crop. Many growers fail to root this popular variety, but on the last batch of cuttings potted here ninety-seven per cent were rooted. Enchantress is still grown in considerable numbers. It was in heavy crop and is far from a back number yet. Beacon is here easily the leading scarlet and carried a tremendous crop. Scarlet Glow looked well and is more brilliant than Beacon, but hardly so free. It will be more grown another season. Some Victory is still grown. It sells well in spring. A small batch of Bonfire, E. G. Hill's new variety, carried some excellent flowers. This looks like a winner.

Harry Fenn, as a crimson, still reigns supreme. There is need, however, of a first-class crimson, as Fenn shows signs of running out.

Quite a number of home raised seedlings were seen, some of them decidedly promising. Many thousands of rooted cuttings in flats and large numbers in the cutting benches were noted. Freesia Purity is here grown chiefly in 10-inch pans and is done remarkably well, some stems being twenty-eight inches in height. This freesia is in strong demand in the market. Marguerites, both yellow and white, are grown in quantity and have been flowering all winter. Shamrocks are grown in considerable numbers, being in strong demand in March. One of the finest strains of mignonette in the country is grown here, the spikes attaining a length which must be seen to be appreciated, the individual flowers being extra large. The Godfrey calla, as seen here, is a great acquisition, its pure white flowers being produced in treble the number of the ordinary calla. One 6-inch pot carried nine spikes in various stages. Everything on this up-to-date place was in first-class condition.

Six Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand. If you are the only florist in your city represented here, you get the orders coming into your territory from other florists. If you are not represented and "the other fellow" is—we can leave it to you what becomes of these desirable orders.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

The cut flower market was in a healthy condition all of last week. There was plenty of stock at all the wholesale houses and the demand was good in everything. The wholesalers have been "up against it" on roses for some time and the demand, of course, has been great. These are coming in much better now, but still are not nearly sufficient for the local demand. Carnations have been arriving in large lots and all are well supplied with them. There is a great demand for the fancy grades at $4 per hundred. Enchantress, Rose-pink Enchantress and White Enchantress have the best call. Beacon, too, sells well.

There are plenty of violets for all demands. The call for them for St. Valentine orders has been large, with the top price at $1 per hundred for choice. In bulb stock there was too much for the demand. Tulips and freesias are coming finely and sell better than jonquils, Von Sions, Romans or Paper Whites. Callas and Harrisii are coming in large lots and sell fairly well at $1.50 per dozen. Sweet peas are of good quality in all varieties. The top price on extra long is $1 per hundred.

Club Meeting.

The Florists' Club held a large and interesting meeting in the afternoon of February 9 in Odd Fellows' hall. There were thirty-five members and some visitors present.

the Chicago Carnation Co.; Princess Charming, by Henry Eichholz, of Waynesboro, Pa., who also sent two specimens of his fine pot plant, Christmas Cheer; Bright Spot, by Nic Zweifel, Milwaukee, Wis.; Pennsylvania, the pink Boston Market, by P. M. De Witt, of Bridgewater, Pa.; a fine vase of mixed blooms and a large bunch of sweet peas, from the Oakland Floral Co., of Kirkwood, Mo.

President Connon opened the meeting at 2 o'clock, with all the officers at their stations. Walter E. Ogle, of Belleville, Ill., made application for membership.

The question of celebrating the club's twenty-fifth anniversary in June was discussed at length and was then laid over until the next meeting for the final vote.

The chair appointed a committee, consisting of Messrs. Held, Schmiemeier and Grossart, to look into the merits of the carnations on exhibition. The committee reported as follows: Bright Spot scored 90 points and got the club's certificate of merit; Washington, 84; Pennsylvania, 80, and Princess Charming, 80, the latter two being badly wilted, coming in a day before the meeting; Christmas Cheer, honorable mention. The Oakland Floral Co.'s exhibit was fine and all well grown.

Robert Windler, president of the Retail Florists' Association, asked the club to coöperate with them in putting a bill through the city council to stop the practice of crepe pulling. On motion it was decided to help the association in all the good work it undertakes.

C. C. Sanders started a discussion in regard to the manure which is now being dumped into the river, while out in the country it is needed badly and hard to get. This discussion will be continued at the next meeting.

The treasurer's report showed a good balance in the bank. The question box elicited some good discussions.

Various Notes.

J. J. Karins, representing Henry Dreer, of Philadelphia, spent the latter part of last week with the trade here and attended the club meeting.

A. S. Halstead, of Belleville, Ill., reports that he has declined the nomination for mayor in favor of Fred Kern, the present mayor, and says that the St. Clair Floral Co., of which he is president, needs all the attention he can give it.

The Engelmann Botanical Club at its last meeting elected Dr. R. R. Gates as president and G. H. Pring as secretary and treasurer. At this club's monthly meeting, held February 13 at the Missouri Botanical Garden, Dr. J. A. Harris read a paper on "Natural Selection."

Tim Waters, representing the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was in the city last week and reported good business.

Pierre Schneider, manager of the Oakland Floral Co.'s plant at Kirkwood, is sending to this market a grand lot of sweet peas and carnations. These are all handled by C. A. Kuehn.

The Retail Florists' Association at its meeting February 6 decided to stop the practice of crepe pulling and will introduce a bill in the city council making it a misdemeanor to solicit orders of any kind at a house of mourning.

Fred Ammann and E. W. Guy were missed at the club meeting, for, both being officers of the Illinois Florists' Association, they attended the meeting at Champaign, which Henry Berning also attended.

Harry Balsley, of Detroit, made the rounds of the trade here last week.

Fred Grossart, of Belleville, who won the club's free scholarship to the Missouri Botanical Garden, was introduced to the members by his father at the club meeting.

The St. Louis Horticultural Society at its last meeting appointed Harry Young and C. C. Sanders to prepare the preliminary list for the fall flower show, which will again be held in the Coliseum.

The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., having completed the improvements at 1316 Pine street, gave a house warming February 11 to the growers of Kirkwood, who were royally entertained by the members and employees of the firm. The entire lower floor was used for the guests, with a band of negro jubilee singers on a platform in the center. A flashlight photo was taken of the entire party.

Among recent visitors were P. J. McPheron, of Litchfield, Ill., and William Skinner, grower for Bell Miller, Springfield, Ill. J. J. B.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business last week was as good as could be expected with the disagreeable weather we have had to contend with of late. Rain, hail and snow made up the week, except for clear weather Sunday, with a temperature of 59 degrees. Carnations fared splendidly during the week of darkness and, indeed, many stores would have been without stock had these suffered as badly as other items.

Roses have not yet fully recovered, especially Killarneys and Gates. It is said in some quarters that Brides and Bridesmaids are beginning to come in better quantities, but prices have as yet shown little or no tendency to weaken. A number of clear, sunny days—weeks in many cases—are needed to bring the rose plants back into proper bearing condition.

Violets have had a good call, particularly the singles. Bulbous stock has arrived and moves well, especially hyacinths. Callas are more plentiful and move readily and. with the supply of Romans, are used freely for funeral work. Jonquils, tulips and freesias are selling remarkably well, and there is still room for an increase in supply. Easter lilies, of which only a limited supply is to be had, are in demand. Quite remarkable at present is the stock of flowering plants.

Asparagus plumosus and adiantum continue scarce. Q.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

The Market.

Trade was good last week. There seems to be no let-up in cut flower trade and funeral work. The plant trade also is good at present. Flowers continue scarce. Carnations retail at 75 cents per dozen, roses at $1.50 and $2 per dozen, Paper Whites at 50 cents per dozen, tulips at 60 cents per dozen, snapdragons at $1 per dozen, daffodils at 50 cents, 60 cents and 75 cents per dozen and lilies at $2.50 per dozen. Freesias help out a good deal.

Various Notes.

S. S. Peckham has had a good batch of primroses and cyclamens this winter.

Wm. P. Peirce reports an extra good call for flowering plants.

R. E. Nofftz and A. B. Hathaway are cutting nice stocks of bulbous flowers.

R. H. Woodhouse has some fine single violets. W. L.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

Pres., E. L. Page, Greene, N. Y.; First Vice-pres., L. H Vaughan, Chicago; Sec'y and Treas., C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Twenty-ninth annual meeting, Milwaukee, Wis., June 20 to 22, 1911.

THERE is a pure seed bill before the Nebraska state legislature.

THE belated seed catalogues are by now about all in the mails.

THE Leonard Seed Co. recently has made large additions to its picking capacity at its Chicago headquarters.

SOME of the eastern seed houses are reported to be doing more or less night work on orders, thus early in the season.

MAULDIN BROS., Cairo, Ga., are planning to go into the seed business, handling both wholesale and retail branches.

THE Ardena Seed Farm, Newman, Ill., was one of the exhibitors and prize winners at the National Corn Exposition at Columbus, O., January 30 to February 11.

THE Door County Seed Co., of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., has been incorporated, with a capital of $15,000, by Louis H. Klenke, Michael Moore and Jacob W. Herrbold.

No one can point to any large stocks of onion sets, but prices for the present are at a point that would indicate the woods are full of sets, and there is little business stirring.

W. ATLEE BURPEE contracted a severe cold at Washington, when there with the seed trade interests to protest against the pure seed bill, and has been laid up at Fordhook for a week.

AT Milwaukee last week it developed that some of the canners had bought more peas than they needed. Of these, some turned the speculation themselves, while others let the seedsman turn it.

LAST week's canners' convention was one, at least, where every seedsman attending was abundantly satisfied with results. There was all the business anyone cared to book, either spot or future.

SOME city seedsmen think it pays better to distribute the catalogue by hand in prosperous suburbs, where nearly every resident is likely to be a seed buyer, than it does to scatter the books by mail, far and wide, to addresses of unknown value.

THE Albert Dickinson Co., Chicago, has recently sold a tract of land in the Calumet district to a steel company for $288,188.

AT last week's canners' convention at Milwaukee, W. C. Langbridge, of Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y., was elected a director of the Canning Machinery and Supply Association.

FOR weeks the California seed growers were hoping for rain, and now for weeks they have been wishing it would let up long enough to let them get caught up with their season's work.

MICHIGAN had a big crop of beans in 1910. Prices are high and there are considerable stocks on hand—just how large nobody knows—so that the trade takes widely divergent views of the situation. Some say increasing consumption of beans will hold prices always high in future, while others predict a big break in the market in the next few weeks.

FEBRUARY has made an excellent start for the mail order houses.

ACCORDING to the State Board of Agriculture, the timothy seed crop in Illinois in 1910 was only 51,112 bushels, against 80,066 bushels in 1909 and 389,056 bushels in 1884.

THE death of Edward L. Coy, widely known as a grower of cucumber seed and as the raiser of new varieties of potatoes, is recorded in the obituary column of this issue, with a brief account of his long life and work. He was an octogenarian.

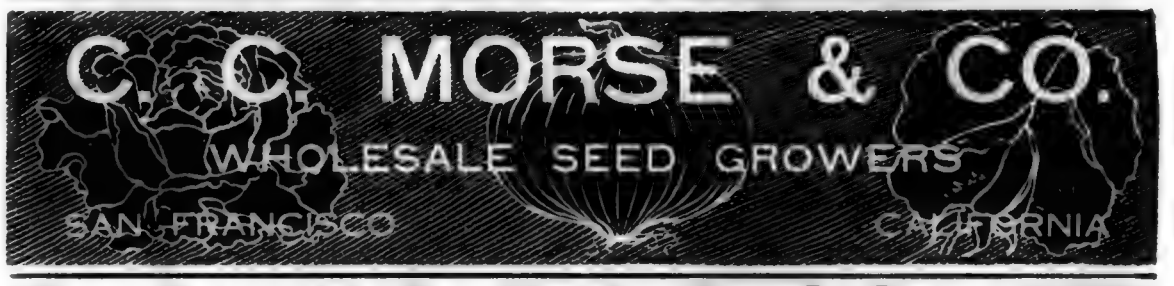
CHARLES N. PAGE and other Iowa seedsmen are urging the passage of an amendment to the state pharmacy law to make it possible for seedsmen, florists and others besides registered pharmacists to sell insecticides in original packages. For twenty-five years the sale of insecticides in Iowa has been exclusively in the hands of the drug trade.

THE CANNERS' SEEDSMEN.

The canners' convention at Milwaukee last week attracted a considerable number of seedsmen, and it was noteworthy, all things taken into account, how many of them were able to offer spot peas where there was future business in sight. Those who had exhibits were:

Leonard Seed Co., Chicago.
E. B. Clark Seed Co., Milford, Conn.
S. D. Woodruff & Sons, Orange, Conn.
Livingston Seed Co., Columbus, O.
W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago.
D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit.
D. Landreth Seed Co., Bristol, Pa.
Hogg & Lytle, Toronto, Ont.
N. B. Keeney & Son, Leroy, N. Y.

Several of the seedsmen's exhibits were quite large and well arranged, that of Leonard Seed Co. being notably complete. Some of these firms had from three or four to half a dozen representatives on the ground. Other houses having no exhibits but represented by salesmen were: Rogers Bros., Alpena, Mich.; Manitowoc Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis.; J. H. Allan Seed Co., Sheboygan, Wis.; Tewles & Brandes, Milwaukee, Wis.; Northern Wisconsin Seed Co., and others.



GILROY, CAL.

Although the continued rain is doing no harm at all, but much good, it tends to retard nurserymen somewhat from shipping, and orchardists from planting trees, and seed growers from planting seeds. However, the nursery stock is commencing to pour in from different nurseries, and the orchardists put them in the ground until such time as the soil becomes in fit condition for planting. The creeks about town are running with a good volume of water. Soap Lake is rising and is close to the San Felipe road. Not only are the valleys well clothed with verdure, but the herbage on the mountains and in the canyons looks beautiful also, with its change from brown to green, and the warm rains with the fresh feed has commenced to stimulate the stock, all of which seems to be taking on additional flesh and strength.

A CANNER'S VIEW OF SEEDS.

It does us good, sometimes, to see ourselves as others see us, and it will be interesting to note that, to one canner at least, all seeds look alike—because to get good seeds they must all come from the same place! The speaker was J. J. Nairn, general manager of the Dominion Canners, Ltd., Hamilton, Ont., and the following is an extract from his talk to last week's canners' convention at Milwaukee:

"It may not be generally known, but it is a fact that practically all the field roots, both vegetable and flower seeds, are imported into Canada. The main sources of supply are Germany, France and Great Britain and the United States. In the process of seed growing, specialization is common, and if the seedsmen in Canada want the best in certain lines they must inevitably go to certain growers. Also there are about a dozen great merchants and growers who have a reputation—and deservedly so—for excellence of quality. Every seedsman in America, of any standing, buys from these sources. The point is that where all buy from the

Stumpp & Walter Co.'s BEGONIA and GLOXINIA BULBS

We have the finest stock of these bulbs, and have been supplying the most critical trade for a number of years.

All carefully selected and graded, true to name and color.

Every florist should grow at least a few of these bulbs, for selling in pots during the summer months, and can also, by transplanting in large pots, grow specimen plants for September and October blooming.

We offer them in the following names and colors:

Begonia Bulbs Single flowering. White, yellow, pink, nankeen, rose, red, dark red, salmon, orange, or mixed, dozen, 40c; 100, $2.50; 1000, $20.00.

Begonia Duke of Zeppelin, dozen, $1.00; 100, $7.00.

Begonia La Fayette, dozen, $1.50; 100, $10.00.

Begonia Bulbs Double flowering. White, orange, yellow, rose, dark rose, dark red, red, salmon, or mixed, dozen, 60c; 100, $4.00; 1000, $35.00.

Begonia Worthiana, dozen, $2.00; 100, $15.00.

Begonia Butterfly, dozen, $3.00; 100, $20.00.

Gloxinia Bulbs The handsomest of our blooming plants, the rich and varied coloring of the flowers being interesting in the extreme, many of them beautifully speckled; flowers 3 inches long by 2 inches in diameter, upright and pendulous; colors various and exceedingly rich in appearance.

Emperor Frederick, red bordered white.
Emperor William, violet bordered white.
Princess Elizabeth, white bordered blue.
Princess Mathilda, white bordered rose.
Mont Blanc, pure white.
Violacea, dark violet.
Madame Helene, white crowned violet.
Queen Wilhelmina, dark rose.
Defiance, scarlet.
King of the Reds, deep scarlet.
Prince Albert, dark violet.
Fine mixed.

Per dozen, 75c; per 100, $5.00; per 1000, $47.50.

same sources there cannot be much difference in the quality to entitle 'Jones' to advertise in lurid type that his seeds are infinitely superior to 'Robinson's,' whereas in many cases they come from the same merchant or grower, and sometimes in the same car.

"The ordinary Canadian seedsman buying from places thousands of miles from the place of business has no guarantee except the word of the grower that his seeds are produced from plants true to type. In some cases he may have special iron-clad contracts, but in most cases the seeds come from the general stock, and in most cases are good—but they are all equally good, the same to everybody.

"Many seeds go through three or four hands before they reach the planter. This, of course, invites mistakes. The name may be altered, or the seeds mixed. Nothing is more annoying to the planter than to get, say, early and late peas mixed. This is much worse than a thin crop of one kind, because it is impossible to thresh a mixture.

"I advocate the growing of acclimatized seed. The importance of this has been, to some extent, overlooked. After research I find that numerous experiments in Canada have proved that acclimatized seed produces better plants than imported seed. The famed Agricultural College in Guelph, Ont., has demonstrated this beyond a doubt in field root and vegetable crops. A little reflection and observation will convince any one. Of course, as in the animal world, adaptability to an environment takes time. It cannot be accomplished in one or even two seasons, but ultimately the rewards are great. To give one instance out of many which I could give:

"It is wonderful what even one year's acclimation and selection will do, as shown by experiments of the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph. In the fall of 1906 they selected a few roots of the Yellow Leviathan mangel and brought same through the winter and had a good crop of seeds. When these were planted in 1908 they gave an enormous yield of 53.55 tons per acre, whereas the best imported seeds yielded only 39.71 tons per acre."

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade for Valentine's day was heavy in all lines. A good lot of pot plants were moved, and at good prices. Azaleas, cyclamens, primroses and a nice lot of bulb stock, such as pans of hyacinths, tulips, etc., found ready sale. Among the cut stock violets were about the best seller, and large quantities were disposed of.

Roses were rather scarce, but carnations were much more in evidence than for several weeks and moved as well as usual. Valley, sweet peas, tulips, daffs and narcissi came in for their share of the call. On top of the valentine rush a big lot of funeral work came in and put everybody on the rush.

J. M.

The Columbus florists held a general meeting February 7 at the Chittenden hotel, seventy-five being present. It was decided that a show should be held this fall and for that purpose the Columbus Florists' Association was organized by electing the following officers: H. M. Munk, president; J. Underwood, secretary; F. C. Viereck, corresponding secretary; Gus. Ackerman, treasurer. Directors were elected as follows: H. W. Kropp, Paul Halbrook, C. Roth, O. Munk, Ormonde Grice and C. Jones. A constitution offered by H. M. Munk was accepted. A guarantee fund was started and has reached $801.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

Reports vary a great deal as to the tone of trade and amount of business since the beginning of this year. In most cases relative to retail trade, reports have it that, outside of funeral work, the month of January was nothing to brag about, but within the last ten days it seems that things have taken a turn for the better. From the wholesalers' standpoint, conditions were somewhat more favorable; in the first place, stock right along was scarce, thus holding up prices and making the profits good on what stock there was.

The increasing supply of bulbous stock is doing its share at this time to make good any shortage which might occur. Violets and sweet peas have been moving well. Roses, which are now of good quality, are about equal to the demand. Carnations are coming in more plentifully than for some time and sell more readily; the same can be said of lilies. There has been a good demand for a limited amount of valley, which, as forced by local growers, is all that could be desired. Outside of common ferns, which have gone up a notch, green goods have not been lacking.

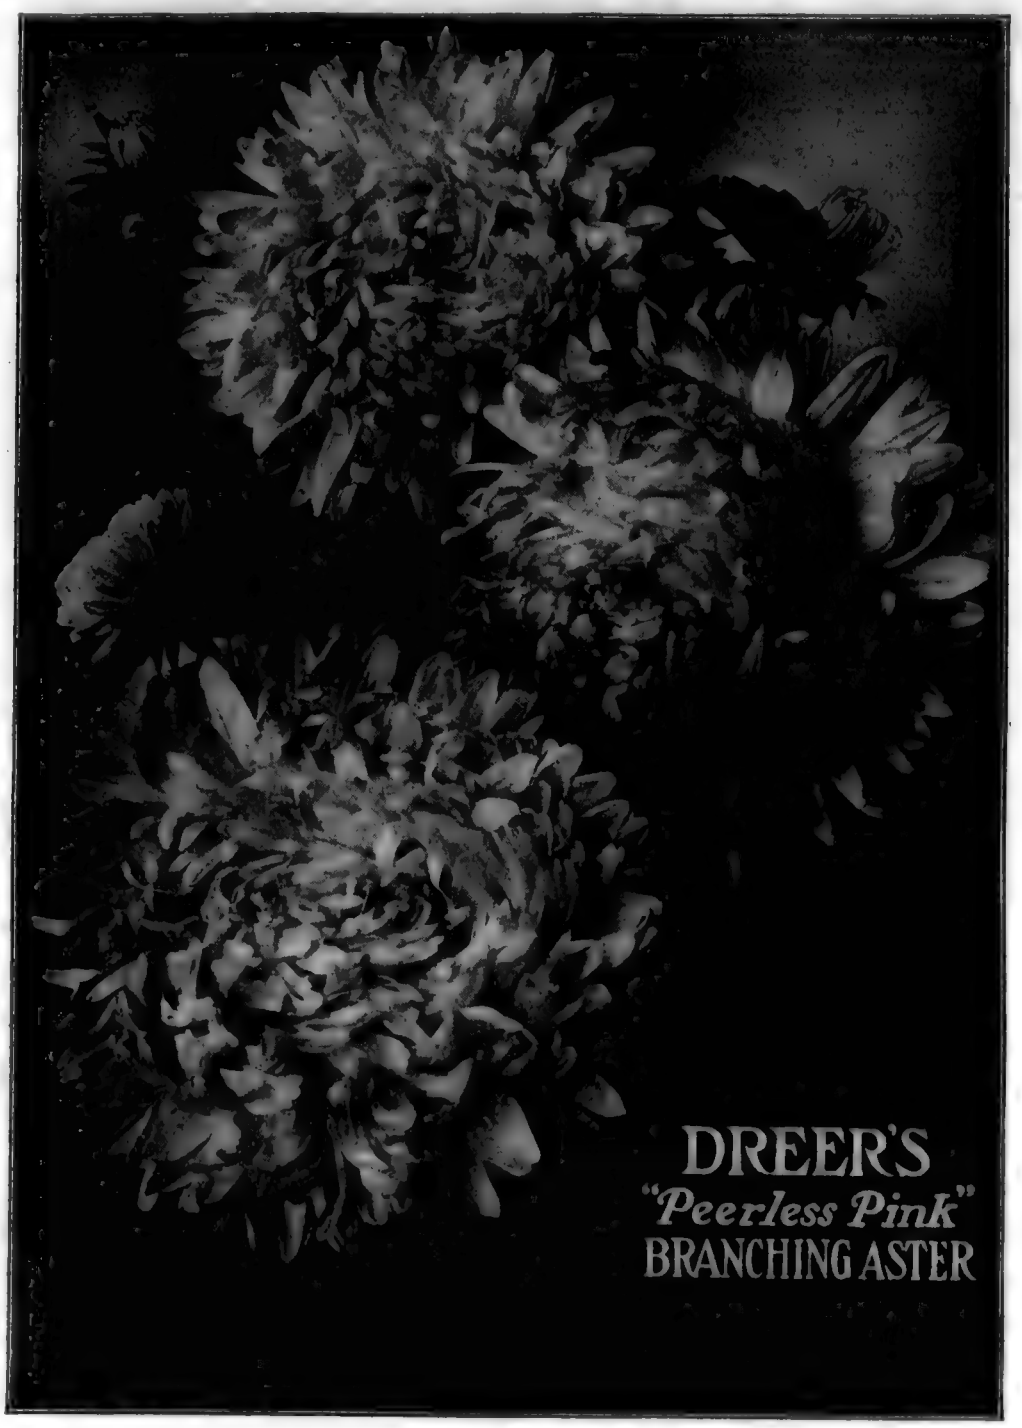
Various Notes.

The M. A. McKenney Co. reports a satisfactory run of business, with a good call for sweet peas and violets.

The Currie Bros. Co. did not speak any too favorably about the volume of business done previous to the first of this month, but since then orders in all lines have come in more freely.

William Zimmermann states that, while kept busy right along, it was not necessary to work overtime to keep everyone satisfied.

In speaking for the Wisconsin Floral Co., Mrs. Ennis says that business has been ahead of expectations since New Year's; in fact, the month of January found receipts ahead of the same month a year ago.



With prices on glass as low as one could expect, the C. C. Pollworth Co. took the opportunity and bought two carloads. In answer to an inquiry as to whether they proposed to use all of it for new additions this season, they said that their building plans were as yet incomplete. The cut from their Wauwatosa plant has been highly satisfactory for some time.

At the Holton & Hunkel Co.'s salesroom they say that the supply of cut flowers is at last coming in more plentifully. Their shipping trade has called for more stock than they could supply at times. They, too, will increase their glass area at their Brown Deer plant.

William Biebow, aged 66, who in the last eighteen years was employed by quite a few local florists, died last week from injuries received last Thanksgiving from falling. He made his home with his daughter at 1098 Humboldt avenue.

The following called on the trade last week: C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., New York city; C. B. Knickman, of McHutchison & Co., New York city; Chas. Schwanke, with Chas. F. Meyer, of New York city; Arnold Ringier, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago; Mrs. J. T. Hinchliffe, Robt. Miller and Clark Adams, all of Racine, Wis.

Dreer's Superb Strains of the Best Asters

Our stocks of the following Asters are grown under our own supervision and we are quite sure that nothing finer in quality can be had at any price from any source. Our yearly increasing sales are the best evidence that they give complete satisfaction.

DREER'S "PEERLESS PINK"

A magnificent new variety which may briefly be described as an improved late-branching shell-pink. Flowers of largest size of rich shell-pink, borne on long, strong stems, making them one of the finest for cutting. 50 cents per trade packet; $4.00 per ounce.

DREER'S SUPERB LATE-BRANCHING

The finest of all September-blooming Asters. Our stock has been re-selected for a number of years and is now as perfect as the most painstaking care can make it. We offer the following eight distinct colors:

Azure Blue or deep lavender — Deep Purple
Pale Lavender — Rose-Pink
Deep Crimson — Shell-Pink
Deep Rose — Pure White

Anylof the above, 25 cents per trade packet; $1.00 per ounce. Finest mixed, all colors, 25 cents per trade packet; 75 cents per ounce.

CREGO'S GIANT COMET

The perfection of Comet Asters, immense fluffy flowers, five inches and over across, borne on long, strong stems, coming into bloom in August, continuing through September. We offer pure white and shell-pink, 40 cents per trade packet; $2.00 per ounce.

DAYBREAK

A fine mid-season Aster of symmetrical growth, 18 inches high, with good-sized, densely double soft pink flowers. 50 cents per trade packet; $2.50 per ounce.

VIOLET KING

A fine late-branching variety of exceptionally free growth, bearing very large double flowers of a pleasing shade of soft violet. 30 cents per trade packet; $1.50 per ounce.

EARLY WONDER

The earliest of all Asters, blooming at the end of June; flowers of good size on good stems and valuable where early flowers are desired. We offer pure white and pink. 40 cents per trade packet; $2.00 per ounce.

QUEEN OF THE MARKET

An early flowering first-class Aster, coming into bloom in July, lasting well through August; flowers of large size on long, strong stems. A good variety for growing under glass. We can supply in the following six desirable colors:

Pink — Bright Rose
Purple — Crimson
White — Lavender

Any of the above, 20 cents per trade packet; 60 cents per ounce. Finest mixed, all colors, 15 cents per trade packet; 50 cents per ounce.

The above are but a few of the many Asters which we offer. For a complete list see pages 2 and 3 of our current wholesale price list. If you do not have a copy we will be pleased to send one to any Florist on application. New crop seeds of almost all kinds are now in stock and early orders from the trade are solicited.

Aster, Vick's New Early Branching.

Non-lateral H. A. The Early Branching come into bloom about two weeks earlier than the Late Branching. The plants have but few branches and are free from side buds, the whole strength of the plant being given to the development of the very few large and perfect flowers, which are borne on extra long stems. We offer two colors only, Early Branching White, Early Branching Rose. Each, trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Aster, Branching Rosy Carmine.

The color is hard to describe, but we think rosy carmine about right. As a cut flower variety this Aster catches the eye every time. Trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Aster, Improved Early Branching Semple.

(Novelty, '09) H A A seedling from that grand old variety Semple's Pink, which on account of its earliness will certainly become equally and we predict more popular than its parent. The color is of the same shade of bright pink and the habit of the plant and form of flowers are identical, being of the same strong robust growth and branching habit. Its greatest value is in its earliness, blooming as it does ten days earlier than Semple's Pink. Trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Aster, Early Wonder. White.

(Novelty, '08.) H. A. This is the earliest Aster in cultivation, blooming several days before Queen of the Market, with pure white flowers double the size; nice shape and stands well. It is after the style of the Giant Comet, and is destined to become the leading early variety, and will prove a great acquisition to growers requiring large, early blooms. Trade pkt., 25c; 5 pkts. for $1.00; ⅛ oz., 40c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Early Wonder Pink. Trade pkt., 25c; 5 pkts., $1.00; ⅛ oz., 40c; ¼ oz., 75c; ½ oz., $1.25; oz., $2.00.

Asters, Crego.

(Novelty, '09.) H. A. The Crego Asters are of American origin and are very strong growers, attaining a height of from 2 to 3 feet, with long, strong stems. The flowers are of a mammoth Comet type, measuring from 4 to 5 inches in diameter and resembling large chrysanthemums. We offer the Crego Asters in White, Light Pink, Mixed. Trade pkt., 15c; ⅛ oz., 25c; ¼ oz., 50c; ½ oz., 85c; oz., $1.50.

HERCULES ASTER, WHITE.

Hercules.

Of imposing aspect, the plants throw up a very strong stem, 15 to 20 inches high, which begins to branch about 4 inches from the ground. Flowers are borne on remarkably strong stalks are all the purest white, of the genuine Hohenzollern form, with very long petals, and attain the enormous diameter of 6, or, with good culture, as much as 7 inches. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 60c; oz., $2.00.

OTHER GOOD ASTERS

Daybreak.

Flowers very large and double, of a beautiful shell-pink color. This is a grand Aster for cutting purposes, growing 2 feet high. One of the best late market Asters of its color. Trade pkt., 35c; oz., $2.25.

The Favorite.

An aristocrat among the Comet Asters. Color beautiful blush, changing to rich deep pink as the flower becomes older; the petals wavily reflexed. The plants grow 18 inches high, bearing large-sized blooms of beautiful form; invaluable for cutting. Trade pkt., 25c; ¼ oz., 60c; oz., $2.00.

Purity.

One of the most beautiful of the Branching Asters. Double flowers of glistening pure white; similar to Daybreak in form and habit of growth. Trade pkt., 35c; oz., $2.25.

Vick's Violet King.

The peer of the grandest Chrysanthemums. The habit is similar to the popular Vick's Branching, vigorous in growth, long, stiff stems; petals somewhat resemble the quilled varieties, but much larger and broader, completely covering the crown. In shape and size the bloom is round, full and large, many of the flowers 4 to 5 inches. Its color is a soft violet-lilac. Trade pkt., 30c; oz., $1.50.

Vick's Mikado.

An entirely new class of Branching Asters, growing from 16 inches to 2 feet high, and bearing immense curled and twisted flowers on long, stiff stems. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.50.

Lavender Gem.

A beautiful variety of Aster, of the Comet type, with large, loosely arranged flowers, which are perfectly double, and of a beautiful, delicate shade of lavender; flowers are borne on long stems, and are excellent for cutting. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.00.

Snowdrift.

Certainly one of the earliest Asters in cultivation. The entire energy of the plant seems given to the production of slender, upright stems, 12 to 20 inches long, crowned with immense feathery flowers. Trade pkt., 35c; ¼ oz., 75c; oz., $2.50.

GROWING OF EARLY CABBAGE.

My experience in the growing of early cabbage plants differs a little from that of the grower whose views are given in The Review of January 26, page 52. I have been in business as a florist and market gardener for forty years. My method is to sow cabbage and Early Snowball cauliflower seed by the middle of February and pot into 2-inch or 3-inch pots as soon as large enough. Then I put them in hotbeds, covering the manure with several inches of sifted coal ashes and plunging the pots in the ashes. I cover the frames with matting, old carpets and boards on cold nights, giving plenty of air every day when the temperature is above freezing and removing the sashes altogether when the temperature is above 40 degrees. This insures strong, stocky plants.

After the plants have been sufficiently hardened, they are exposed to light frosts before being planted out. Then they will stand almost anything. They are planted in rich soil, which is also top-dressed with a liberal quantity of sheep manure and dried blood every time it is cultivated. Nitrate of soda is also used moderately once a week.

Now as to results: I have frequently had cauliflower in six weeks from planting, and Wakefield and Early Summer cabbage in eight to nine weeks—good, solid, white heads, from three to four pounds in weight, and later as much as five to seven pounds. Ninety per cent of the crop is marketed in eleven weeks, at 3 cents to 4 cents per pound, wholesale. Does it pay? I have found that it does. In this way it is possible to have the bulk of your crop sold before some of your competitors commence to cut their crop.

W. C. Scovell.

TO FOLLOW LETTUCE.

How will carnations and mums follow lettuce on ground beds? These beds have been in lettuce for three years. The soil is good, rich and loose.

W. R. M.

It would be a good plan for you to send a sample of your soil to your State Agricultural College for analysis. You would then know exactly its value and what elements are needed to make it suitable for the carnations and chrysanthemums. It is probable that if you have sufficient drainage you could grow good flower crops by simply working in a good coating of well-decayed manure, with some fine bone. Successful growers of both mums and carnations prefer to renew their soil annually and like to use fibrous loam from a pasture which had been plowed the previous fall. On the other hand, there are other crops, such as sweet peas and violets, which seem to do just as well year after year in the same soil if it is trenched and properly manured each year.

C. W.

LEAF-ROT OF LETTUCE.

Will The Review kindly let me know what is wrong with the enclosed lettuce leaves? Is the trouble caused by the water which has been used for the lettuce? Heretofore I have used water from a spring, with excellent success, but recently my place was connected with the city water system, and this led me to think that possibly the water was to blame.

F. D.

The leaves were so badly marked and decayed upon arrival that it was hard to tell just what the trouble was, but I concluded that it was the common leaf-rot fungus, so troublesome to many lettuce growers. It is not caused by the kind of water you are using, but is a disease that spreads, and very rapidly under certain conditions.

The preventives are as follows: Give plenty of fresh air. Avoid watering in the afternoons or on cloudy days. Do not water unless necessary, and then just the soil between the plants. Do not sprinkle overhead like a rain. The wet foliage does not become dry in a long time in the kind of weather we have been having, and the dampness and cloudy weather are favorable to all such diseases. Remove the affected plants and ventilate freely.

The Market.

There is little or no change in the condition of the market between this and last week. Roses are just equal to the demand, and range in prices from $5 to $12 per hundred. Carnations are quite plentiful, and are selling at $2 to $4 per hundred. Sweet peas, with stems from eight to twelve inches long and the finest of blooms, are going in large lots. Bulbous stock is plentiful, considerable of it being lost, owing to its being shipped in too far advanced. Roman hyacinths are becoming a drug. Freesia also is going to waste.

St. Valentine's day created a big demand for such flowers as peas, violets, red roses and red carnations, many shipments being made to surrounding cities.

Various Notes.

At Mt. Clemens Fred Breitmeyer is adding another house, 40x250, to the new range.

August Von Boeselager, also of the City of Baths, left Europe February 11 for home.

Everything looks rosy, says John Klang, who recently gave up a good position with Breitmeyer to embark in the retail business.

The business for many years conducted by E. A. Scribner, at 604 East Fort street, has been sold to Robert W. Jean, a young man of fine character and good business ability, who has been in Mr. Scribner's employ since boyhood. In all likelihood the firm will hereafter be known as the Scribner Floral Co. Mr. Scribner and his good wife, as he puts it, intend to take a well-earned and much-needed rest.

A few years ago only one or two of the retailers made any pretense of decorating their show windows appropriately for St. Valentine's day. This year every florist downtown showed some valentine suggestions, and no doubt was well repaid. H. S.

There are two kinds of friends in business—those who buy for friendship sake and those who buy for business sake. Those who are friends for business sake generally last longer, because the other friends go to your competitors when they want to beat down the price or they are jealous of your success. When the writer started in business he had many friends in the trade. Some of them promised him their business if he started out for himself; but when he did start there were very few who kept their promise. It was one of life's lessons, however, and now he is thankful the tide turned that way, for he is under no obligations whatever to any of these so-called friends. Business is business, and that ends it.

In buying bulbs, buy from those who have the best to offer. Make it a business transaction. In lily bulbs and in French bulbs the Horseshoe Brand is superior to anything on the market. Try them for comparison.

PACIFIC COAST.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

A few bright days last week helped to bring along the carnations, somewhat relieving the shortage of the previous few weeks. Bulbous stock is more plentiful, and the daffodils, narcissi, valley, etc., help to fill in where other stock is scarce.

Stock for Easter is looking good and most lilies will be on time, as will the hydrangeas, deutzias, etc.

Stock for next year's planting is looking good, and the prospects are for an increase in the number of carnations benched.

Various Notes.

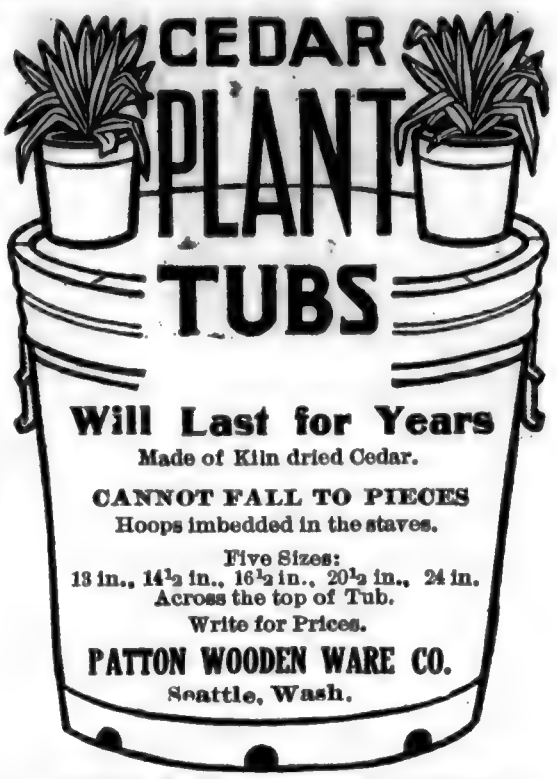
The florists of Tacoma and vicinity met at the store of the California Florists Saturday night, February 4, and organized a club to be known as the Tacoma Floricultural Society. A committee was appointed to go to Olympia to try to get an amendment to the present horticultural law. The present law, if enforced, will practically put the florists of this state out of business. J. L. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

Periods of rain interspersed with splashes of bright sunshine were the order of business for last week, and everyone feels that maybe at last the weather clerk is going to give us a fair deal. San Francisco is to have the fair and this is another sign that things are moving in the right direction. In spite of the inclement weather, however, the retailers have been quite busy, although funeral work has been most in demand. Flowers of all kinds, with the exception of violets and outside bulbous stock, are not overplentiful. This can be accounted for by the fact that we have received practically no sunshine for a month and inside blossoms do not open freely in consequence.

There will be a great change, however, with the resumption of bright days, for it is almost safe to predict that the frosty weather will not bother us any more this season. Occasionally San Francisco is treated to a few frosty nights after the middle of February, but it is rarely the case.



Carnations have not lowered in price for the last three weeks and roses are a shade higher, with only a limited supply to choose from. Valley is plentiful enough and moves fairly well. Easter lilies are in good supply and are being used in funeral orders almost entirely. Fruit blossoms are getting more plentiful and are popular with the flower buyers.

Various Notes.

Wm. Kohler has again assumed control of his range of glass on Fortieth street, Oakland, after having leased it to outside parties for several years.

Wm. M. Reed, representing Currie Bros. Co., of Milwaukee, is in town interviewing the local dealers.

New Red Dahlia Mrs. Minna Burgle

A cross between Joe Thomson and Clown, originated by Mr. J. Burgle of Fruitvale, Cal., and named after his wife, Mrs. Minna Burgle, is the best Red Decorative Dahlia ever produced and will supersede all other red varieties now grown for cut flowers here or abroad. It draws your attention instantly when planted in a collection of Dahlias, for it is one of the most showy flowers ever created. True decorative, bright scarlet, showing a darker shading in center, bold erect flowers, 6 to 8 inches in diameter, with excellent stem, foliage of remarkable substance, height 5 to 6 feet, good keeper and will not burn in hot weather, and is a freer bloomer than either parent. This variety has been tested by me for three years and has shown no weak points.

A vase of 50 blooms shown by me, also a basket of them exhibited by Sievers Floral Co., of San Francisco, both carried first prizes in the Fall Flower Show in San Francisco, and caused more comment among gardeners and visitors than any other exhibit. Cut flowers sold for the first time last year brought 50 per cent more than any other variety of dahlias, including Joe Thomson.

cated for many years. The firm has not yet decided on a new place of business.

The Pacific Coast Horticultural Society held a regular monthly meeting February 4, with a large attendance. It was decided to give an exhibition of spring flowers March 30, 31 and April 1.

Antone Ericson, recently gardener to Mrs. J. A. Folger, at Woodside, has severed his connection with that place and is residing in San Francisco.

Eugene Hoffman, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Sacramento, Cal., is in town. He is at present landscape gardener to the Garlough Realty Co., of that town, and is engaged in laying out a large tract of land for them.

The May Seed Co., of Market street, is in financial difficulties with its creditors, and the sheriff's office has the store in charge pending a settlement.

Fred. C. Buss, of the California Seed Co., has returned from his honeymoon trip and is back at his post again.

John Scroggs, well known in this city, has purchased the flower and seed establishment formerly owned by H. McWilliams, in Sacramento. G.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business for the last week has shown a slight increase, and there is a shortage. Roses are particularly scarce, and extra stock, supplied from California, is far from satisfactory, due principally to the poor packing. Carnations are about equal to demand, with a daily clean-up.

Tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are plentiful and move well, especially in pans, which create a good demand when arranged in special window effects. Fancy azaleas are displayed in all the shop windows and are the best selling plants on the market.

Pussy willow has made its appearance, a forerunner of spring.

Various Notes.

Martin Reukauf, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, is in town.

The mild weather and warm rains are causing the outside bulbous stock to come up rapidly. Tulips are especially advanced, and the danger of frost has not yet passed.

Clarke Bros. have issued their spring rose catalogue; it is unique and contains many new features and the latest varieties.

In tabulating different establishments around Portland it is found that White Enchantress is not extensively grown, as it is not a good keeper and not a clear white. White Perfection and Lady Bountiful are far preferable for all uses. In shell pink Enchantress is leader, with Pink Delight a close rival. Victory, while a poor producer, is the finest of its color.

The death of Mrs. S. S. Sulliger is reported. She was the wife of Rev. S. S. Sulliger, of Vancouver, Wash., a rosarian of considerable note, who acted on several occasions as judge at the rose festival at Portland.

W. C. Shurly, of Toronto, Can., stopped over a few days en route to California. E. R. C.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1910-11: Pres., W. P. Stark, Louisiana, Mo.; Vice-pres. E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Sec'y, John Hall Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-sixth annual meeting, St. Louis, June, 1911.

THE Kennewick Nurseries, at Kennewick, Wash., were opened for business February 1. Planting will begin in the spring.

THE death of Benjamin Hoyt, of the Scotch Grove Nursery, at Scotch Grove, Ia., is reported in this week's obituary column.

MRS. H. J. PAASCH, wife of the nurseryman of Iowa City, Ia., died recently, in her forty-seventh year. She is survived by her husband and an adopted daughter, Gertrude.

THE Western New York Horticultural Society, at its annual meeting in Rochester, January 25 and 26, reëlected Wm. C. Barry, of Ellwanger & Barry, as president of the association.

THE Southwestern Nursery Co., of Okemah, Okla., has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $50,000. The incorporators are C. M. Redmond, C. N. Potter and P. D. Peters.

THE customs officers do not recognize evergreen seedlings, that are free from duty, when they see them. February 2, Chase Bros. Co., Rochester, were sustained in a protest of this character and J. W. Adams & Co., Springfield, Mass., were granted a rehearing on two similar protests previously decided against them.

OHIO NURSERYMEN'S BANQUET.

Flowers in profusion decked the big oval table around which the members of the Miami Valley Nurserymen's Association gathered on the evening of February 9, at the Phillips House, Dayton, O., and enjoyed their annual banquet. There were about a half hundred present, including the ladies. To be sure, there were several short talks, in which Chief Inspector of Nurseries N. E. Shaw, President Siebanthaler, Secretary Gaines and general utility-man McNary got off several and sundry pleasantries, in which the time-honored

H. & D. FLORISTS' BOX

Universally used for shipping cut flowers and designs. The dead-air cells form a perfect non-conductor of heat and cold, thus preserving contents much longer than ordinary wood box.

H. & D. Florists' Box can be used several times. Is much lighter than the ordinary box, thus saving in express charges.

references to the "bunch" as a lot of "grafters"—honest grafters—did full duty, and music was furnished by the orchestra, but the following unique menu, of Mr. McNary's devising, plainly shows that for cleverness of adaptation in lighter mood, there are post-prandial perorators to whom he might give points:

Gentlemen: Please dig up and have properly heeled in your packing house ready for billing out on Thursday evening, February 9, the following stock, strictly up to grade, true to name, duly inspected and at least free from infestations:

Blue-pointed Damsons in original cases.
(Direct from the aquatic seed beds of an eastern grower.)
Celery.
Cream-ated Tomato Health dip.
(For spraying the interior of the packing cases.)
Olives. Radishes.
Planked White fish.
(Formerly scale infested; now apparently free.)
Brown-tailed turkey.
(Roasted in fumigator.)
Cranberry dope.
Assorted peas, all green. Crushed spuds.
Waldorf salad.
(Thoroughly Aristocratic.)
Congealed Extract Bovinus.
(En-bloc.)
Cakes—Mixed Varieties.
Coagulated Lacteal Fluid.
a la Neufchatel.
Coffee.

The importation of the above stock will be attended to by the individual packers.

FERTILIZER FOR NURSERY SOIL.

I have several acres of nursery stock planted on light, sandy soil. This land is poor and some of the stock is growing too slowly, especially the evergreens. What fertilizer would you recommend to enrich this soil, and what quantity per acre? E. B.

Well decayed stable manure, broadcasted and harrowed in if the rows are far enough apart, at the rate of eight to ten cords per acre, would be the best fertilizer for your light, sandy ground. In place of harrowing, thorough cultivating before and after applying the manure will answer well. If you are so placed that you cannot readily or conveniently secure barnyard manure, an application of 1,000 pounds of unleached hardwood ashes and 1,000 pounds of fine bone per acre would make a good substitute. In addition, if the ground is extremely poor, you could use 200 pounds nitrate of soda per acre, applying the latter early in April. Dried blood and bone, combined, make a good fertilizer for trees and shrubs; 750 pounds of the former and 1,000 pounds of the latter can be applied per acre. No nitrate of soda need be given where the blood is used. C. W.

THE IMPROVED CANNA

The trade also are prompt to say what they think about our Cannas. For example, A. M. Snyder, Practical Floriculturist, Bellefontaine, O., writes:

"You surely have the best of them beat on fine Cannas. Congratulations."

The improvement of the canna has been made a study by our vice-president, Mr. Antoine Wintzer, for the past 17 years. His work in hybridizing and selecting has resulted in a new race of cannas that are a distinct advance over the older varieties. Our standard, by which every one of our seedlings is measured, requires that a new variety must be a decided improvement over the best existing variety of that type of plant and color of flower now in cultivation and that this improvement must be maintained for three years.

Would not YOUR customers pay a little more for Cannas so superior?

TOO MUCH ALKALI.

What is the matter with our plumosus? We have them in 4-inch pots and they are throwing up much new growth, but the color is bad. About half of the plants are yellow, with the extreme ends dead. We have these on the south bench, with no shade, so we think they have enough light. Would hard water cause the trouble? We are using the same water on Boston, Whitmani, Piersoni, etc., without bad results.

We also have trouble with Hydrangea Otaksa. Plants received six weeks ago were in fine condition, but are now tak-

CANNAS

True to Name Grown by Experts

You have no doubt from time to time bought CANNAS that were represented to you to be true to name, and strong sound divisions and in every way first-class, and when you opened them up they looked well and you planted them feeling that you were sure of a good crop; part of them came up straggling, many never at all, and all badly mixed; then you were disappointed and it was too late to plant again.

But did you ever buy Cannas of us, and did they turn out that way? Not that we ever heard of. Our business is the growing of Cannas, and we claim to be experts in this line, having devoted many years to the business. All of our Cannas are grown under the direct supervision of two of our firm. We use every precaution to keep them true to name and stand ready at all times to rectify any mistakes that may occur. Our prices are right considering quality, which we guarantee to be the best at all times.

ing on a cream color. We have never been able to carry hydrangeas through the summer; the foliage always gets white and, despite every effort, the plants dwindle and die. Can you tell us where the trouble lies? H. & H.

It is probable that this trouble is caused by too much alkali, either in the soil or in the water. The easiest method of testing whether the water is at fault or not would be to collect some rain water and use this for watering for a time, noting the results. Before making this experiment with the water, it would be well to shake out and repot some of the asparagus, using a liberal quantity of well rotted stable manure in the soil, as this may help to overcome the alkali if such be present.

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

There appears to be but little difference in the condition of things in general. A comparatively small amount of sunshine was seen last week, and with crops so backward as they are, but little change was noticed. The demand seems to increase daily, while the supply of stock decreases. Funeral work seems to be the chief cause for so much business.

The customers want the stock, and consequently are glad to get whatever they can; therefore stock that would at ordinary times be unsalable easily finds its place in the market. Both carnations and roses are being cut before they are ready, while the lily supply is barely equal to the demand. Romans, daffodils and narcissi are the most plentiful, but none go begging.

Various Notes.

Valentine's day came along with its wants and took with it everything visible in the line of red carnations, roses, violets and valley, all of which brought a good price.

The Miami Floral Co. finds that even though five large houses, devoted to growing roses, have been added, it is an utter impossibility to supply the demand. The same is true of carnations.

The Heiss Co. is experiencing great difficulty in finding enough roses to satisfy the trade and reports that the cuts are becoming shorter daily, but that business is most gratifying.

The Dayton Floral Co. had a large decoration this week at Memorial hall, where the automobile show was held. The decoration, which was the largest and most elaborate seen in this city for some time, was arranged to represent a summer garden.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Jones, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bartholomew.

"Everything keeps moving along at the same swift pace; nothing goes to waste, while funeral orders keep us on the move," is H. H. Ritter's report.

Mrs. E. Young was unusually busy with funeral work last week.

M. Anderson made another one of his flying trips to Cincinnati last week.

John Lodder, of Hamilton, O., and Frederick W. O. Schmitz, of Prince Bay, N. Y., were in town last week.

Why Are You Growing Carnations?

For profit, of course, which involves two things—pleasing your trade and making money. Now, are you keeping yourself posted, at first hand, about the new sorts, or are you sticking to old kinds simply because they made money for you years ago?

If you're taking somebody else's word for the merit of the new carnations, you're doing yourself an injustice, no matter whether the opinions you hear are favorable or not. It wouldn't cost you much to try at least some of the new ones that had "made good" for other growers and see what they would do in your houses; in fact, that's just what we want you to do with of which you've heard so much the last season or two. It has made money for us—we grew it for years before we advertised a single cutting for sale; it has succeeded for scores of others, enabling them to grow more flowers and make more money than they ever had made from other carnations.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up

But you need more proof than either of these that "Dorothy Gordon" is the carnation for you to grow. So we say, try it out yourself—put some of our rooted cuttings in your own range; see them grow and bloom, sell the flowers and feel the money—the extra money you get for Dorothy Gordon—padding out your pocket. That's the way to find out its worth—it's the only way that's fair to you and to us.

We've a choice but limited stock of plants ready for immediate shipment—we offer Rooted Cuttings, $6.00 per 100; $50.00 per 1000.

Come and see our stock of blooming plants and cuttings if you can—we always prefer that. If not, mail your order now—don't delay. Further particulars gladly furnished on request.

Pink Boston Market

A seedling of Boston Market and Harlowarden that has been under test for the past five years and which has shown up so well under all conditions that I now feel confident it is one of the best commercial varieties and have pleasure in offering it for the first time for spring delivery 1911.

The color is a shade lighter pink than Lawson; form high built, much like Boston Market; stem long and graceful; healthy grower; blooms freely from November all through the season.

This new variety I am confident will prove a money-maker—a pink Boston Market—only much larger and better and destined to be one of the most popular commercial varieties.

Come and see it growing, and would advise you to get early rooted stock, which is now ready. I guarantee same to be in perfect health.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

Trade last week was good. The weather is still warm and cloudy. Roses are scarce and are bringing good prices. Bulb stock is plentiful and moves well. Funeral work has cleaned up the lilies and other stock is about equal to the demand. There has been a good demand for azaleas and other blooming plants.

Various Notes.

Peter Weiland, of New Castle, says he is clearing ground for the range of glass that he is to erect this spring.

John Rieman is back on the job after being laid up with the grip for about three weeks.

Fred Hukreide had an unusual experience last week. A man working at a factory, wanting to lay off, went to the management and said that his wife had died. The employees of the factory took up a collection of $20 for funeral flowers and gave the order to Fred Hukreide. After the design was ready for delivery, the employees found out their mistake and canceled the order, so Mr. Hukreide still has the design.

A. Wiegand & Sons had some bad luck with their autos last week. Their driver, Harry Kelly, was going north on Meridian street in their touring car about as fast as the law permits. He started to pass a delivery truck when the driver of the truck took a notion to turn off on a side street suddenly. Mr. Kelly hit the rear of the truck, knocking it aside, and landed in a telegraph pole before he stopped. The damage to the Wiegand car was about $100, but the truck was not damaged. The same day Mr. Kelly was making a delivery with the auto truck, and while his auto was standing in front of a house a fellow in a feed wagon ran into the truck, tearing off two fenders.

The regular monthly meeting of the State Florists' Association was held at the Commercial Club, with about seventeen members present. Considerable discussion was had over how to bring out the attendance. A committee composed of Sidney Smith and Homer Wiegand was appointed to start something for the April meeting. Ross Ludlow was elected to membership.

Visitors last week were: Israel Rosnosky, with the H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia; Peter Weiland, New Castle; Geo. Gause, Richmond; Mr. Green, with H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; Joseph Rolker, with A. Rolker & Sons, New York city.

Geo. Wiegand spent a few days in Chicago last week. H. L. W.

Warren, O.—H. W. Ward has opened a flower stand in the Ideal Millinery Store, on East Market street. Heretofore all business has been done at the greenhouses, on North Mahoning avenue, where he has had an extra fine cut of carnations and sweet peas. He is contemplating adding more glass the coming summer.

The Reason Why

We give our rose novelties a three year test before recommending them; when we do recommend them it is because they have done well with us, better than existing varieties of the same class, and we believe they will be valuable to you.

We should like you to see

MELODY and DOUBLE KILLARNEY

growing and talk to us about them. We want you to know all that we know about them and take this opportunity of telling our reasons for believing they will prove valuable to you.

MELODY

The best yellow rose today, most productive when most needed, that is in winter, so free blooming that even at a moderate price it cannot but prove profitable.

Own root, $6.00 per dozen; $30.00 per 100; $70.00 per 250; $250.00 per 1000. 2½-inch pots, delivery during March.

DOUBLE KILLARNEY

We consider Killarney the leading pink rose of the day; we consider Double Killarney equal to Killarney in every respect, a better grower and far better in warm weather, because it will not fly open so easily.

Own root, $4.00 per dozen; $20.00 per 100; $40.00 per 250; $150.00 per 1000; delivered in April. For grafted $10.00 extra per 100. 2½-inch pots delivered in March.

Roses for 1911

DARK PINK KILLARNEY

A sport of Killarney, similar in habit, but more highly colored than Killarney at its best. When Killarney is pale, Dark Pink Killarney is bright and cheerful.

Grafted Plants only, from 2¼-in. pots,

LADY CROMWELL

A shell-pink sport of My Maryland that for pleasing color is unsurpassed. A wonderful producer, and a color that sells.

Grafted Plants only, from 2¼-in. pots,
$30.00 per 100, $250.00 per 1000.

DOUBLE PINK KILLARNEY

Originating with Robert Scott & Sons, who supply us the wood for grafting. Stronger in growth than Killarney, and with at least ten more petals. A wonderful improvement.

Grafted Stock only, $30.00 per 100, $250.00 per 1000.

PRINCE DE BULGARIE

The best prices for cut flowers should be the standard for judging Roses, and this Rose has been the money-getter. Strong and vigorous in growth, and with its beautiful shell-pink bloom, it has sold on sight. One of the best Roses grown.

Grafted Plants, $20.00 per 100, $180.00 per 1000.
Own Root, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.

MRS. AARON WARD

By far the most pleasing of the Yellow Roses now on the market. A general favorite, and one which will be widely grown, for yellow Roses are in demand.

Grafted Plants, $25.00 per 100, $200.00 per 1000.
Own Root, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

MELODY

We have reserved for our orders own-root plants of this choice novelty. No grafted plants.

From 2¼-in. pots, $30.00 per 100, $250.00 per 1000.

RADIANCE

Strong in growth, and making plenty of stem. Cerise pink in color.

Grafted Plants, $18.00 per 100, $150.00 per 1000.
Own Root, $10.00 per 100, $90.00 per 1000.

KILLARNEY, WHITE KILLARNEY, RICHMOND, MY MARYLAND, KAISERIN AUGUSTA VICTORIA

These are the old standards, and we are headquarters for young stock.

Grafted Plants, $15.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000.
Own Root, 2½-inch, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

A GRAND NEW ...CARNATION...

BRIGHT SPOT

outclasses everything heretofore grown in the dark pink section. Won first honors in the 100 class for best dark pink at the A. C. S. meeting, Pittsburg, January, 1910, also at the Chicago Flower Show, November, 1909.

It is a pure, bright, dark pink of even shade, size 3½inches, an early and continuous bloomer, brings fully 25 per cent more flowers to the plant than Lawson at its best; flowers well shaped on long, wiry stems; calyx does not split. It is a good shipper, and the cuttings root easy.

Price, per 100, $12.00; 25 at 100 rate; per 1000, $100.00; 250 at 1000 rate; per 5000, $400.00.

ROCHESTER.

The Market.

Trade during the last week has been just as brisk as the supply of flowers would permit. Nothing that would pass even a slight inspection has been permitted to go to waste. Carnations have been scarce; at no time has the supply been large enough to cover the orders on hand, and there has been a constant clamor for more good stock.

Sweet peas have come to the market in average amounts, but the flowers are not of an especially good quality. It is certain that extra good sweet peas would find a ready sale, as during the last few weeks almost every woman of fashion has been using sweet peas for corsage bouquets.

Tulips and narcissi are coming in good quantities, and both the potted bulbs and cut flowers find a ready sale. The Trumpet varieties of narcissi are most in demand and have been retailing at 50 cents a dozen. Violets are still plentiful and popular; 50 cents a bunch is the prevailing retail price.

Club Meeting.

The first meeting of the Florists' Association since the election of George B. Hart as president, was held on Monday evening, February 13, at the new rooms, 135 Main street, east. President Hart outlined some plans for making the meetings of the year especially interesting, one plan being to secure competent speakers to deliver addresses on topics of interest to florists and growers, including greenhouse management, propagating and marketing.

George Arnold, superintendent of the Vick seed farm, gave an interesting talk on sowing seeds and growing plants for seed purposes. E. F. R.

Brookville, Mass.—P. O. Burnham has purchased the land and greenhouse owned by G. Frank Swasey, on West avenue.

Rooted Carnation Cuttings

WHITE WONDER (Dorner). A white carnation for all growers; leads any white; a greatly improved White Perfection; makes twice the size plant, thereby increasing its productiveness one-third. $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

GLORIOSA (Dorner). A magnificent shade of light pink, somewhat darker than Pink Delight. A great improvement over Pink Delight, early and free and easy to root. $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

BRIGHT SPOT (Zweifel). A grand new deep pink carnation. One that is sure to fill the want in the dark shade of pink that we all want. Won high honors wherever shown. Easy to root and handle in every way. $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

LAST SEASON'S VARIETIES

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY. The very best pure yellow. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

CANARY BIRD. A large yellow with a slight pink marking. Extra fine. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

SANGAMO. Brighter than Winona. Very free. One that pays well to grow. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

SHASTA. The freest white ever sent out, fine form, filling a long felt want. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

ADMIRATION. A grand variety, much deeper than Enchantress. Free and a good keeper and shipper. One of the very best of last season's varieties. $5.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

CONQUEST. The best variety of the Prosperity type; free as Lawson, good stem and easy to grow. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

SCARLET GLOW. An exceptionally bright scarlet; very free and good grower. Bound to find a place with the standard reds. $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

AMHERST, MASS.

During the last week a variety of subjects were discussed in the florists' short course at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, owing to the absence of Professor White, who attended the meetings of the Illinois Florists' Association at Urbana, Ill., and visited large commercial places near Chicago.

On Tuesday, F. J. Elder, heating expert for the Lord & Burnham Co., Irvington, N. Y., spoke on "Heating Problems." He illustrated his talk by a large number of blue prints of ranges heated by his firm, which made the talk interesting and helpful.

On Wednesday, J. K. Shaw, who is in charge of the plant breeding work at the Massachusetts experiment station, lectured on "The Principles of Breeding for the Improvement of Varieties." On Friday afternoon he gave the class a practical exercise in crossing. Carnations and primulas were used for this work.

On Thursday, Prof. F. Wm. Rane, the state forester, gave a series of special lectures, morning, afternoon and evening, on "Forestry," and attendance at these was required of the floricultural students.

On Friday morning, Prof. D. Haskins, of the Massachusetts experiment station, spoke on "Commercial Fertilizers for Greenhouse Work."

During the present week, Eber Holmes, of Montrose, spoke Tuesday afternoon on "Practical Methods in Rose Growing," and on Friday, C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., speaks on "Chrysanthemum Culture."

Herington, Kan. — The Herington Greenhouses, formerly the property of Mrs. Rissman, have been purchased by William Gordon, of Topeka. Mr. Gordon has also bought a tract of land near the greenhouses and will give part of his attention to nursery stock.

We have decided to disseminate our new Crimson Carnation

POCAHONTAS

We have grown this variety four years and have found it highly profitable. Our local retailers assert that crimson carnations with quality, such as Pocahontas possesses, will sell as well as any other color, the main trouble having been in getting crimson blooms with quality equal to the standards in other colors. Pocahontas has size and all the other qualities that make up a strictly first-class carnation, and it gives you enough bloom to pay you to grow it. Every visitor will substantiate this claim. Our stock is in fine condition, but limited. So get your order in at once.

THE GRANDEST FERN OF THE AGE

NEPHROLEPIS ROOSEVELT

IT is our good fortune and great pleasure to offer this wonderful new fern. In general characteristics it resembles the world-famous Boston, but will sweep that fern from the boards for several reasons. It produces wider and many more fronds than the Boston in small pots, has more grace in drooping habit and is a stronger maker. The usual size to sell the Boston is from a six-inch pot. Well, let us tell you there is no comparison in a six-inch Boston and a six-inch Roosevelt. The Roosevelt almost doubles the number of fronds produced by Boston, thus making a much larger and more finished plant. The pinnae are beautifully undulated, giving the Roosevelt a pronounced wavy effect seen in no other fern, and as the plant ages this effect becomes more distinct. Nephrolepis Roosevelt is a true sport from Nephrolepis Bostoniensis, but a wonderful improvement over the parent plant. It is the best fern ever introduced for florists' use, and we repeat it will sweep Boston from the boards. We are booking orders for delivery June 1, 1911, and will fill them in strict rotation as to the date received. Get yours in early—you will not be disappointed in this fern. Two and one-fourth-inch pots, 40c each; $3.50 per dozen; $25.00 per hundred; $200.00 per thousand. Twenty-five plants at hundred rate, 250 plants at thousand rate.

GLEN COVE, L. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held in Pembroke hall Tuesday afternoon, February 7. President Trepess occupied the chair, and there was a good number present. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the members of the dinner committee for the admirable way they performed their duties and made the affair such a social success. A letter was read from the New York Florists' Club asking the coöperation of this society in its endeavor to procure an appropriation of $50,000 from the legislature to erect greenhouses at Cornell for the advancement of horticulture.

Mr. Ebel, of the Aphine Co., was elected an honorary member, and James Murray and Herman Butcher were elected to active membership. There was also one application for membership.

A. MacKenzie, of Livingston, and J. MacDonald were appointed judges, and their decisions were as follows: Pot of cyclamen, certificate of culture, H. Matz; Roman hyacinths, certificate of culture, J. Ingram; Rose-pink Enchantress, honorable mention, J. Ingram; vase of mixed carnations, honorable mention, J. Ingram; society's prize, twelve pink carnations, first, V. Cleres; twelve white carnations, first, V. Cleres; a book on carnations, by C. W. Ward, presented by the Cottage Gardens Co. for twenty-five Alma Ward carnations, was won by Wm. Eccles.

The Cottage Gardens Co. exhibited a new seedling carnation of a light red color, which was awarded a certificate of merit.

A euchre party and dance will be held in Pembroke hall February 27. At the March meeting the society's prize will be for cinerarias, cyclamen and stocks, one pot of each.

"Buds," of New York city, has presented a silver cup for the best collection of spring-flowering bulbs, to be competed for at the March meeting, the collection to consist of six varieties, twelve of each, lily of the valley excluded from the six.

New Marguerite Mrs. F. Sander.

NEW MARGUERITE, MRS. F. SANDER.

The most valuable flowering pot plant which has been offered to the trade since the introduction of the Lorraine Begonia.

In this we have unquestionably the most important flowering plant introduced in recent years, which, like its predecessors, the French Marguerite and the later introductions, white and blush Queen Alexandra, will be grown extensively for cut flowers during the winter, while its pure white color will make it more valuable than any as a pot plant for Easter decorations

Unlike all other Marguerites, its color is of the purest glistening white throughout; in size it frequently measures 5 inches across; the center of the flower is a mass of closely arranged fringed florets; these are surrounded or edged by the broad, shining white ray petals, forming a flower which reminds one forcibly of a glorified double Pyrethrum. These are produced on long stems with a freedom not known in other varieties of the Marguerite.

The entire stock of this grand novelty has been placed in our hands for American distribution and we are now booking orders for delivery the latter part of April or early in May:

Good 2¼-in. pots, $2.00 per doz.; $15.00 per 100

The above prices are intended for the trade only.

Ready For Immediate Retail Sale

We have an exceptionally fine and large stock of Ferns in the following varieties—first-class plants of exceedingly good value—plants that will please the most critical buyers, both in regard to quality and value.

Nephrolepis Elegantissima (improved). The finest of this type—never showing a Boston frond; has not reverted in the last four years. Fine plants, 4-in. pots, $2.50 per doz.; 6-in., $6.00 per doz.; 8-in., $12.00 per doz.; large specimens in 12-in. pans, $3.00 to $5 00 each.

Nephrolepis Elegantissima Compacta. This bears the same relation to Elegantissima that Scottii does to Bostoniensis. It is a dwarf, compact plant, especially fine in the small sizes. Fine plants, 4-in. pots, $3.00 per doz.; 6-in., $6.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Scholzeli. Fine plants, 3½-in. pots, $2.50 per doz.; 6-in. pans, $6 00 per doz.; 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis. Extra strong plants, 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Scottii. 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

SPRINGFIELD, O.

Club Meeting.

The order shed of the Good & Reese Co. was the scene of an animated meeting of the Springfield Florists' Club Monday evening, February 13. Geo. H. Mellen and Frank E. Good, of the entertainment committee, had provided a spread in numerous courses. The repast was devoured with a zest in semi-picnic fashion, and the remark was freely passed that several members were present who had not been in attendance since the last "feed."

Christian Binning reported progress with the school board and park superintendent on the project of planting flower beds at the park by the school children under supervision of the principals. A new suggestion was advanced by Wm. H. Reeser, namely, the starting of a rose garden at the park. Capably planned and executed, this would prove the greatest thing yet proposed for the advancement of civic pride and the spreading of the fame of Springfield, the great rose growing center. John M. Good and Wm. H. Reeser were added to this committee, and they will confer with the park board as to procuring a landscape gardener familiar with the varieties of outdoor roses to make a systematic plan for an extensive rose garden, and the Florists' Club will stand ready to supply the necessary stock.

An interesting paper on "Greenhouse Appliances and Helps" was read by Wm. H. Reeser, who touched upon pot wheelbarrows, dirt wheelbarrows, soil screens and grinders, time-saving hose clips, wire hooks, devices for handling ashes from the cellar, folding racks, iron sand packers, soil and litter carriers, three-step roof-boards, soil sterilizers and numerous other questions of vital interest to the practical greenhouse man. A quite general discussion followed.

Frank E. Good and Christian Binning recently visited Cleveland, Painesville and Mentor and gave interesting reports of their observations in this nursery and florists' section.

A highly creditable showing of specimens was made by Charles Unglaub, who exhibited splendid flowering plants of Primula obconica grandiflora and Primula obconica gigantea of the strain of Ronsdorfer and Lattmann's hybrids. Mr. Unglaub is an enthusiast in his chosen profession and a lover of the new and beautiful in plants.

OVERCROWDED!

We want to spread out our extensive line of Easter plants, therefore we sell. Just look! A fine selection of decorative plants, such as Araucarias, Ferns, etc., which are always in demand, at bargain prices.

Washington's Birthday is before the door. The public is accustomed to buying a cherry for the occasion. We have a fine lot of Jerusalem Cherries, with ripe, red berries, grown especially for the day, 6-in. pots, at only 25c, 35c and 50c each.

Azalea Indica, for Easter blooming, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), Empress of India, Vervaeneana, Schryveriana (double variegated), Simon Mardner, Mme. Van der Cruyssen, Professeur Wolters and others, 60c, 75c, $1.00 to $1.50. In big stock we have Helene Theleman, Bernard Andrea Alba, Paul Weber, Van der Cruyssen and Niobe, $1.50, $1.75 to $2.00. Deutsche Perle, Vervaeneana and Simon Mardner, showing color, with a few open flowers, 75c to $1.00.

Lilium Multiflorum, our own importation from Japan, raised from 9 to 10-inch. Bulbs planted last part of October and beginning of November, in 6-inch pots, kept cold, now about 5 to 8 inches high, just right for Easter, 25c to 30c; by the doz. or 100.

Dracaena Bruanti, 25 to 30 inches high, perfect green foliage from bottom up, 6-in. pots, 40c to 50c; well suited for store and house decorations because they stand cold, dust and heat.

Latania Borbonica, 30 to 35 inches high, 6 to 7-in. pots, 50c, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Forsteriana, in fine shape, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 4, 5 and 6-year-old, 30, 35, 40 and 45 inches high, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 to $2.50.

Kentia Belmoreana, 5, 6 to 7-year-old, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each; 4-in., 20 to 25 inches high, 20c to 25c.

Kentia Belmoreana, combination plants, 3 plants in 6 and 7-in. pots, 25, 30 to 35 inches high, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 each. This is a special bargain, seldom offered.

Araucaria Excelsa, raised from top cuttings only (no seedlings), 2, 3, 4 to 5-year-old, 5, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, 15, 18, 20, 25 to 30 inches high, 4, 5, 6 to 7 tiers, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 each. Robusta Compacta and Excelsa Glauca, 6-in. pots, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each.

Primula Chinensis, best strain, mostly white, 5¼-in., in bloom, John F. Rupp's well known strain, $2.50 per doz.

Spiraea Gladstone, in 5½ to 6-in. pots, started for Easter blooming, 15c to 25c.

Scottii, Scholzeli, Whitmani and Boston, 2 houses stocked with them, in all sizes and varieties, never before better than this year, 5, 6 and 7-in., 40c, 50c and 75c. Same varieties, as big as a bushel basket $1.00 to $1.25.

Holly Ferns, 4-inch, 25c.

Ferns for dishes, big assortment, 2½-in. pots, $4.00 per 100.

Nephrolepis Giatrasii, this is a new fern, an improvement on the Scottii and much shorter and bushier 5¼-in. pots, 50c; 3-in., 25c.

Pteris Wilsoni, 6-in. pans, nice and bushy, 25c, 30c and 35c.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 2½-in., 3c; 4-in., 10c.

Now is the time for Cineraria Hybrida for Easter blooming. We have it, our so well known strain raised especially for Easter; strong 4-in. pots ready for a shift into 6-in. pots, $10.00 per 100; 2-in., $3.00 per 100.

Ipomoea Noctiflora, Aschmann's so well-known pure white, waxy, fragrant moonvine, bearing flowers as big as a saucer; makes many good stock plants for you to propagate from, $5.00 per 100.

Begonia Rex, 4-in., 20c.

Solanum, or Jerusalem Cherries, 6-in. pots, 25c.

Crimson Rambler roses, 6-in. pots, 3 ft. high, nicely staked up and bent down, for Easter, 50c to 75c.

All plants 25 at 100 rate. Cash with order, please. All plants must travel at risk of purchaser only. When ordering state if plants are to be shipped in or out of pots.

CYCLAMEN.

GIANT CYCLAMEN. For the last 15 years we always select ¾ of our seed-bearing cyclamen stock before Xmas, to assure early blooming plants, and claim the finest commercial strain in this country, no fizzle of many so called English varieties. Our aim is strong growers, that don't have to be petted to be grown into a choice salable plant, a well built five petaled flower, many of them at one time, with well marked foliage; every plant an ideal, a prize winner. Received first and second prizes at the Toledo Florists' Club meeting early in November when blooming cyclamen were scarce. We back our claims with stock worth seeing and invite everybody for inspection. Many letters from well satisfied customers. Transplanted seedlings, ready for 2½ or 3-in., $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000. Cash. Cultural directions with every order.
C. Winterich, Cyclamen Specialist, Defiance, O.

PELARGONIUMS.

PANSY GERANIUM, MRS. LAYAL.
This beautiful pelargonium is of the easiest growth, dwarf in habit, and literally covered with flowers all the time; and as it requires little or no attention, it is invaluable as a window plant. The coloring and marking of the flowers are most extraordinary, light pink, white, dark purple, black, etc., almost rivaling the pansy in uniqueness of flower. It is this combination of coloring which obtained for it the popular name of pansy geranium. Strong plants, $5.00 per 100.
J. W. Davis, 225 W. 16th St., Davenport, Iowa.

Pelargoniums for Easter, from our stock of 80 best varieties, 4½-in., ready now, $12.00 per 100; March 1, 2½-in., $5.00; 3½-in., $8.00 per 100. Perfectly clean and first-class. Cash please.

LEAF-MINER ON DAISIES.

We are enclosing a leaf from a daisy or marguerite plant, and should like to know what is the matter and the remedy for it. The whole plant is affected. When the plants were received, they did not show much sign of the trouble, but they are in bad shape now and do not grow like healthy plants. S. G.

The leaves forwarded were almost skeletonized by a leaf-miner, which in some years badly attacks marguerite foliage. The same pest attacks spinach, beets and other vegetable crops, also plantains and other weeds, and from them reaches the marguerites when the latter are growing near them. Spraying with a nicotine extract will destroy this pest, if done thoroughly. This spray soaks through the leaf sufficiently to reach the worms, which live on the inner tissue of the leaves. If your plants are badly disfigured, cut them back fairly hard, removing all the foliage. In this way you can get rid of the miners, which certainly ruin the appearance of all plants attacked.

Greenhouse Heating.

IN WASHINGTON STATE.

I am sending you a sketch of our proposed greenhouses, each 22½x135 feet and twelve feet high to the ridge. They will run east and west. We should like to know how many square feet of radiation will be required to maintain temperatures of 60 and 50 degrees, when the outside temperature is 12 degrees. We are located in the western part of Washington state. We also wish to know about the piping. We will use hot water and will have the piping under the benches.

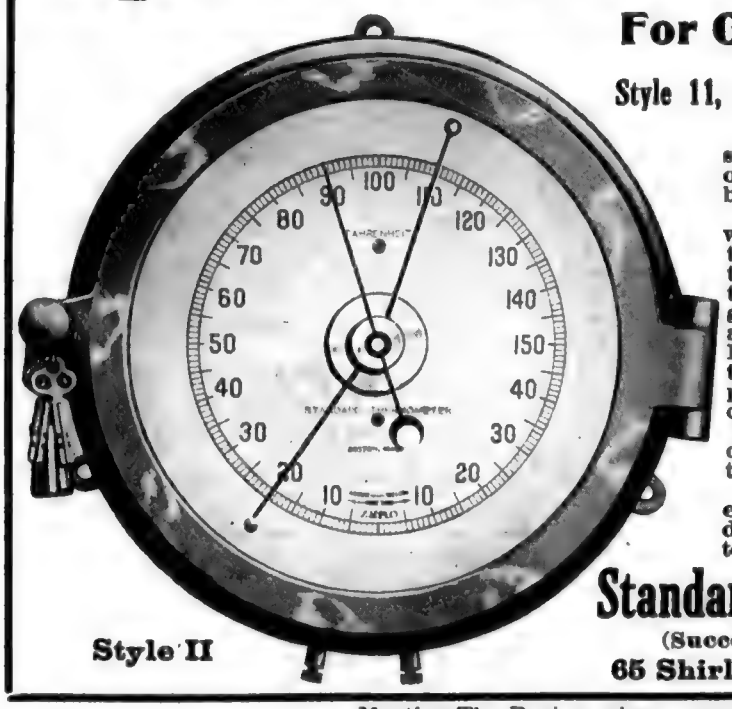
N. H.

The sketch shows two houses, each 22½x135 feet, with one wall in common and with the north wall of one house of solid boards, five feet high, and the south wall of the other house of the same height, but with the upper half of glass. A boiler with a rating of 2,400 square feet of radiating surface should be used. For each house use three 2½-inch flow pipes, placing one on the center posts, about two feet below the ridge, and the others on the plates. In the south house, to be heated to 60 degrees, use nine 2-inch returns. Use six 2-inch returns in the north house. Place one-third of the returns under the benches and the others on the walls or under the side benches.

THREE MISSISSIPPI HOUSES.

I have two houses, each 20x65, running north and south, with a lean-to shed extending across their north ends. I wish to place the boiler in the northeast corner of the shed, run a main east and west along the shed and take off flows to go into each house. I also wish to add another house, 20x65. As the floor of the boiler pit can not be more than two feet below the ground level, I wish to hang the flows on the purlin posts, as high as possible, and place the returns on the side walls. I want to use 2-inch pipe for the returns, as I have that on hand. How large should the main from the boiler be, in the shed, and how large should the flows be? What size of sectional boiler will be required for the three houses? The temperature needed will be 60 degrees, when it is zero outside.

J. B. A.



The boiler for heating three houses, each 20x65 feet, to 60 degrees in zero weather, should be rated for 2,000 square feet of radiation. Take off a 3-inch main to heat the east house, and a 4-inch main for the other two houses, using main returns of the same size. For each of the houses run two 2½-inch flow pipes on the purlin posts, giving them a slight fall. Each of the flows should feed a coil of five 2-inch returns. Care should be taken to keep both flows and returns as high as possible.

HARD OR SOFT COAL?

The last few months have been unusually cloudy and, as a result, carnations have not done well. One reason for this is a dirty roof, caused by the soot from soft coal, without enough rain to wash it off. Now, I should like to know the relative cost and heat making qualities of soft and hard coal. Soft coal in this Ohio town costs from $7.50 to $10.50 per hundred bushels for run of the mines. My chimney is thirty-four feet high from the top of the boiler. I use a No. 1 Kroeschell hot water boiler. Would that height of chimney be sufficient for hard coal? The chimney is a steamboat boiler flue, fourteen inches in inside diameter. W. C. S.

The best grade of soft coal is capable of furnishing as much heat as hard about $2.25 per ton, while hard coal would probably cost about $7. This would make the soft coal much more economical. The use of some of the smokeless or Pocahontas coals would probably give cheaper and fully as satisfactory results as hard coal. Any chimney that will do for soft coal will answer for hard or smokeless coal.

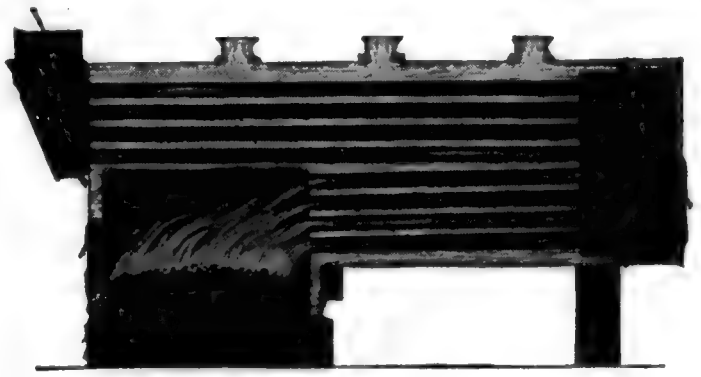
AMOUNT OF PRESSURE.

I am writing you in regard to the open and closed systems of hot water heating. As I understand it, the open system is connected to the highest point of the flows with an open expansion tank. In the closed system the expansion tank must be tight, with the addition of a safety valve. There is a safety valve on my tank at present. What pressure would the tank carry?

E. F. K.

The amount of pressure that should be carried in a closed hot water system will depend partly on the strength of the boiler and of the expansion tank, and partly on the difficulties that have to be overcome in the way of circulation and shortage of radiation. As a rule, the system should be capable of standing at least forty pounds, and often the tanks used are guaranteed for 200 pounds. The pressure should range between these two points. The lower the pressure, the greater will be the economy in heating, and at the same time the greater will be the expense of installing the system.

STEAM OR HOT WATER?



Will you please inform me which heating system, steam or hot water, is better adapted for the northern latitudes, where the thermometer sometimes registers about 35 to 40 degrees below zero, and the inside temperature should be 60 to 75 degrees at night?

M. L.

Whether hot water or steam should be used will depend largely upon the size of the plant, as hot water is better for small ranges and steam for large ones. Generally speaking, it is advisable to use steam only in greenhouse plants large enough to warrant the employment of a night fireman. In particularly severe climates, the difference in the cost of the piping for steam, as compared with that for hot water, might make it desirable to use steam even in comparatively small ranges. For ranges of 10,000 square feet and upwards, steam can generally be used with good success.

It is from a Pennsylvania florist who had been using a gravity system before installing the Standard. His water then cost him nothing and did not have to be pumped. The point is,

It took longer to do the watering with low pressure

He writes:

"Before we had the pump it took two men five hours each to do the work that one man does now in two hours, and the work is done better and more thoroughly. We now save in actual time 8 hours a day, saving thereby $1.59 per day in wages, or $9.54 per week, or $496.00 per year—more than twice the cost of the engine."

ALBANY, N. Y.

At the last meeting of the Albany Florists' Club, it was decided that an exhibit for members only will be a feature of the meeting to be held on Thursday evening, March 2. The program will conclude with a banquet. It is expected that a number of new roses and carnations now being introduced will be on display for the first time here.

A communication was read from J. A. Shaw, representing the New York Florists' Club, asking the coöperation of the Albany florists in securing the passage of a bill through the legislature appropriating $50,000 for state experimental greenhouses. Frederick Goldring, a former president, was appointed to represent the local club in the matter, and instructed to coöperate with other club representatives.

Louis Schaefer gave an interesting report of a visit to the meetings of the Buffalo Florists' Club in December and January, and the enthusiasm displayed by the members in discussing trade subjects.

President F. A. Danker appointed Patrick Hyde, John J. Berberick and Fred Henkes a supervising committee to visit sick members, and to perform other necessary acts of kindness.

Frederick Goldring and Charles Sanders were instructed to prepare suitable resolutions upon the death of Thomas B. Snare, a member who died January 9.

Allen J. Jenkins, Lenox, Mass., and Stephen Green, Philadelphia, were elected members.

Port Arthur, Tex.—C. H. Crawford, a clergyman who became a florist for the sake of his health, and who prospered in the trade, has regained his strength in this genial Gulf coast climate and has now returned to the ministry. He sold his greenhouse to R. H. Woodworth, who has removed it to his own place and greatly enlarged it, purposing to grow vegetables. Mr. Crawford's flower business, however, has been purchased by Charles Pearsons, 2035 Proctor street, who has built a greenhouse and is carrying on a successful business.

A PERFECT GREENHOUSE HOSE

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.

The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

"Magic" Hose is guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 pounds per square inch, although its bursting pressure is far in excess of this.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Department of Registration.

As no objections have been filed, public notice is hereby given that the registration of the rose, Yellow Baby Rambler, by Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, Wayne county, New York, becomes complete.

Public notice is hereby given that Robert Dukelou, of Rochester, N. Y., offers for registration the geraniums described below. Any person objecting to the registration, or to the use of the proposed names, is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date. Raiser's descriptions: Dr. E. M. Moore—Cross between a large, soft pink, single flowered variety, name unknown, and a small, dark red, single flowered variety, name unknown; habit, strong and vigorous; leaves, dark green, three and one-half to four and one-half inches long and four to five inches wide, with prominent dark bronze zone; flower clusters on stout spikes ten to twelve inches long, prominently surmounting the leaves, with seventy-five to 100 flowers in a cluster; individual flowers single, one and three-quarters to two and one-quarter inches across; color, bright vermilion, with white eye. A. B. Lamberton—Parentage, same as above; habit, medium strong; leaves, light green, with faintly marked, inconspicuous zone, three to three and one-half inches long and three and one-half to four inches wide; flower clusters on very stout spikes, ten to twelve inches long and prominently surmounting the leaves, with thirty-five to forty flowers in a cluster; individual flowers single, one and three-quarters to two inches across; color, bright orange pink, with conspicuous white eye.

WE ARE BOOSTING BUT ONE BRAND OF HOSE —THAT'S OUR

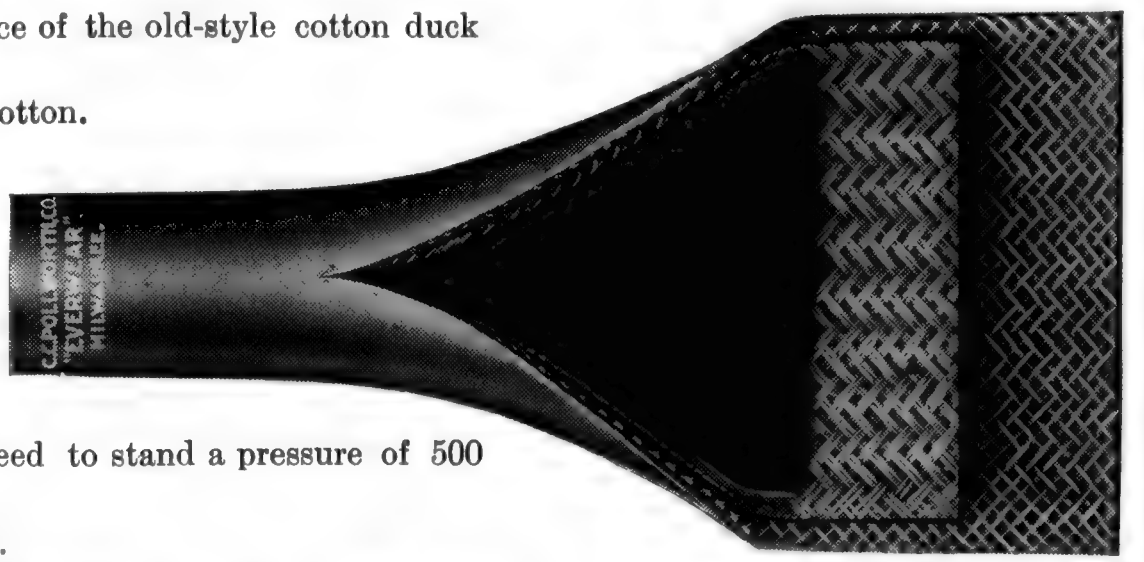
EVERWEAR

We have passed the experimental stage on Hose. We are using this Hose constantly in our own Greenhouses, and for durability it surpasses any make of Hose on the market. We would like to see it in use in every Greenhouse. It would settle the Hose question.

A double woven jacket in place of the old-style cotton duck wrapped hose.

Linen Fiber used in place of cotton.

16½ cents per foot, coupled.



Cut any length desired.

Cheap because it outwears any other hose.

Being a woven hose, it's all in one piece. No seams to open.

Does not kink, and guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 lbs. per square inch.

Lined with a heavy inner tube.

The Market.

Continued sunshine and longer days have increased the stock considerably, so now we can depend more on the regular shipments. Roses are still a trifle slack, but increasing every day and dropping in price. Carnations are lower in price and selling well, and by Saturday they were all cleaned up. Bulb stock is now plentiful, and the best stock sells more readily than the inferior grades. Von Zion is coming strongly, but is badly split and does not sell any better than Golden Spur. Tulips are fine in all colors and can be had in any quantity. Sweet peas are now coming in quantity and are fast taking the place of violets for corsage wear. Violets, on the other hand, are good and sell well at a lower price than in former years.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held on Tuesday, February 7, and was attended by about twenty members. The meeting was called by President Streit and business opened with the nomination of officers. A lively time ensued for the nomination of president, and finally George McClure was nominated. Robert Scott and Joseph Sangster were nominated for vice-president, Jerome Deuscher for financial secretary, William Legg for secretary and Charles Sandiford for treasurer.

After the regular meeting a debate was arranged by Mr. McClure, and the principals were Mr. Brown and Mr. Guenther on the affirmative, against Mr. Neubeck and Mr. Greiver on the negative. The subject was, "Resolved, That the Use of Artificial Material Is Detrimental to the Interests of the Florists' Business." All the speakers ably defended their respective sides, and the decision of the judges, after many minutes, was a draw. After this the members were treated to a talk on "Fertilizer Material," by Mr. Miller, of the Skidelsky & Irwin Co.

Bowling.

The Rochester Bowling Club has accepted the invitation of the Buffalo boys and will be expected in Buffalo February 23. The Bowling Club wishes as many as possible to appear on this evening and give the boys a good send-off. The games will be held at the regular meeting place. R. S.

Ashland, O.—Zimmerman & Canfield have dissolved partnership and the business is now conducted by W. H. Zimmerman.

Washington, Ind.—Christ Voges, the florist at West Second and Hefron streets, has received material for an addition of two houses, which he will erect in the spring. He intends to grow a considerable quantity of lettuce next season and will use one of the new houses for that purpose.

THE ROMAN FORUM.

Every lover of classic architecture admires the ruins of the Forum, in Rome. Their noble proportions, their strong lines, suggestive of strength and beauty, are perfect even in ruin. They are copied the world over. When Charles Henry Fox saw the Forum while on his tour abroad three years ago, he had the columns photographed without any definite idea of exactly what use he would make of the pictures. After Mr. Fox returned to Philadelphia he had models made from the photographs, reproducing the columns to perfection in miniature. These columns, perhaps two feet in height, were beautiful in themselves. To meet the popular taste for novelty in flowers and floral arrangement, Mr. Fox experimented with his model. The stone surmounting the columns was hollowed to hold flowers; the loose stones at the base were likewise hollowed, converting them into vases. Later Mr. Fox improved his model by making the receptacles at the base larger and filling them at times with plants, the idea being that the classic beauty of the columns would be strengthened rather than hidden by a freer use of foliage and flower. Mr. Fox believes that the flowers surmounting the columns should never hide them; in other words, that the use of ferns or drooping sprays of flower or foliage is not permissible here; at the base, on the contrary, such arrangement adds to the beauty of the whole. Ardisias may here be used effectively at Christmas, the arrangement being varied to suit the season of the year and the taste of those interested. The Forum, Mr. Fox said, has been much admired by people whose taste enabled them to appreciate such work. When used as a gift, the columns can be easily refilled as desired and kept as a table ornament. Phil.

PLANTS IN DESIGN WORK.

A Base of Blooming Plants.

There can be no more graceful and thoroughly correct base for a standing design than one composed of blooming plants alone, and of one kind at that. The farther we get from miscellaneous collections, the more refined has our taste been shown to be. Select, rather than collect, the kinds of material to be used in any piece of design work. Scores of designs at a funeral, sent from one place, will be found to be each made of the same motley of odds and ends, while if these same odds and ends had been classified before the work was begun, each piece might have been a classic as to color and union of similar forms of flowers and foliage. It is wonderful what a distinctive air may be given to one piece among many, by a catchy or striking bit of color or break in the lines.

Although unable to analyze the charm about a growing plant, or too heedless to study or reproduce its fascinating lines in that creative work called arrangement, a florist can at least transplant bodily a plant or a group of plants into a design and be fairly well assured that there is some correct designing about it, anyhow. It must be careless habits rather than a real inability to see—a seeing without perceiving—with which so many allow themselves to slouch along. Study to understand the plan, architecturally speaking, upon which a plant is built, and then, in using its flowers and foliage in designing, reproduce the general form and grouping of lines.

A Base for a Star and Crescent.

Suppose you have an order to construct a star and crescent on a base, and you would like a new way to make it with the same kind of flowers on hand as is usual at this time of the year. If the base has already been mossed, remove the bulk of the moss, leaving a thick layer on the bottom. Remove from the pots, shaking out most of the soil, as many primulas of the obconica variety as will fill the base when the roots are firmly packed between the wires with damp sphagnum. Cover any exposed places with green moss or fern leaves and you have a base which is artistic, cheap, and quickly done. It is neither too showy to detract from the more important parts of the design, as we have planned it, nor too modest to develop them properly.

For the coloring of the piece it will be best to select the more delicately tinted primulas, but not the white ones. Wrap the standard wire with green foil or thin smilax. Fill the crescent freely, as to arrangement, with white flowers. Cover the star solidly with violets, and you have a distinct design, well colored and well set.

In Centerpieces.

In using plants in this way, one finds opportunities for that much wanted inexpensive table centerpiece. How many customers have remarked that they would never entertain without centerpieces, but they are so expensive! Here is your chance. A centerpiece of several obconica plants, cinerarias, small azaleas or cyclamens is as showy as need be and inexpensive enough for anybody. Treat the plants the same as in the base for the star and crescent, already described. Have the bottom of the centerpiece well protected and all the vacant patches covered. In the case of azaleas, where the foliage is all well above the ground, cover the soil or moss with a green and scatter a few pansies or violets if the correct coloring can be had, considering the

In places of this sort, where a number of the same plants are used in a group, the misshapen and one-sided specimens can be used to advantage, while as separate plants they are unsalable.

In Baskets for Various Uses.

In the same way a variety of baskets for window display, funeral work, general decorative purposes and presentation, can be arranged with profit to the dealer and satisfaction to the purchaser, using plants in the body of the basket and flowers as trimming for the handle. A few suggestions are offered, as follows:

Basket of Hexe azaleas, with well colored Beauty roses on the handle.

Basket of fern plants, the handle trimmed with violets.

Basket of royal purple cinerarias, the handle trimmed with apple blossoms.

Low basket of pink Primula obconica, with side handles of pussy willows.

Basket of purple cinerarias, with a spray of lilacs as cut flowers.

Basket of Azalea Vervæneana and peach blossoms.

Basket of white primulas and cypripediums, with a Nile green tie.

Basket of white azaleas and Bride gladioli, with violets under the azalea plants.

The obconica pinks are extremely touchy. Keep the salmons, yellows and scarlets a mile away. Court them with lilacs, violets, violet-pink gladioli and lavender peas.

Make-believe Plants.

If you can counterfeit a plant with the cut blooms and foliage, you can use them with the same effect in the foregoing examples, and in other designs where the only objection to the plants would be the weight of the soil if many plants were used. But where it is at all practical, use the plants. They last better, and under the hand of the average florist they make the better appearance.

Quite often, when the flower trusses are scanty, more cut ones may be skillfully added among the foliage and the difference can scarcely be detected.

Gertrude Blair.

PUSHING THE CARNATION.

Some florists still sit waiting for the buyers to come to the door, but an increasingly large number of retailers are adopting the methods employed in other lines and are going out after the trade. These progressive florists find newspaper advertising the best means of reaching the buyers—not only of reaching those who habitually buy flowers, but of creating new buyers of flowers—of educating the public to become regular patrons of the florist. The field for proselyting among those who are not now flower buyers is almost without limit, and it is a much better proposition than scrambling with a lot of competitors for the trade of those who already are flower buyers.

In pushing out for new trade the line of least resistance usually is followed. That means that special emphasis is placed on the use of flowers for some special day, like Valentine's; that the flowers that are most abundant, and therefore can be sold at moderate prices, are featured, or that funeral work is advertised. Once get a family into the habit of sending flowers to the funerals of its friends and you have created a whole string of new and frequent flower buyers.

The Review believes that the local newspaper advertising now being done by retailing florists will be the means of greatly increasing the consumption of flowers. Try it. Push the carnation. You can count on a large supply practically every day for the rest of the season. Prices will not be high, so you can sell at an attractive figure and still realize your usual margin of profit.

Reproduced on this page are two newspaper advertisements which have been used with success by retailers in Cleveland and Kansas City. If retailers in other cities want to try them The Review will send either cut, mortised to put your name at the bottom. The cost will be $1.25 each, which includes the postage.

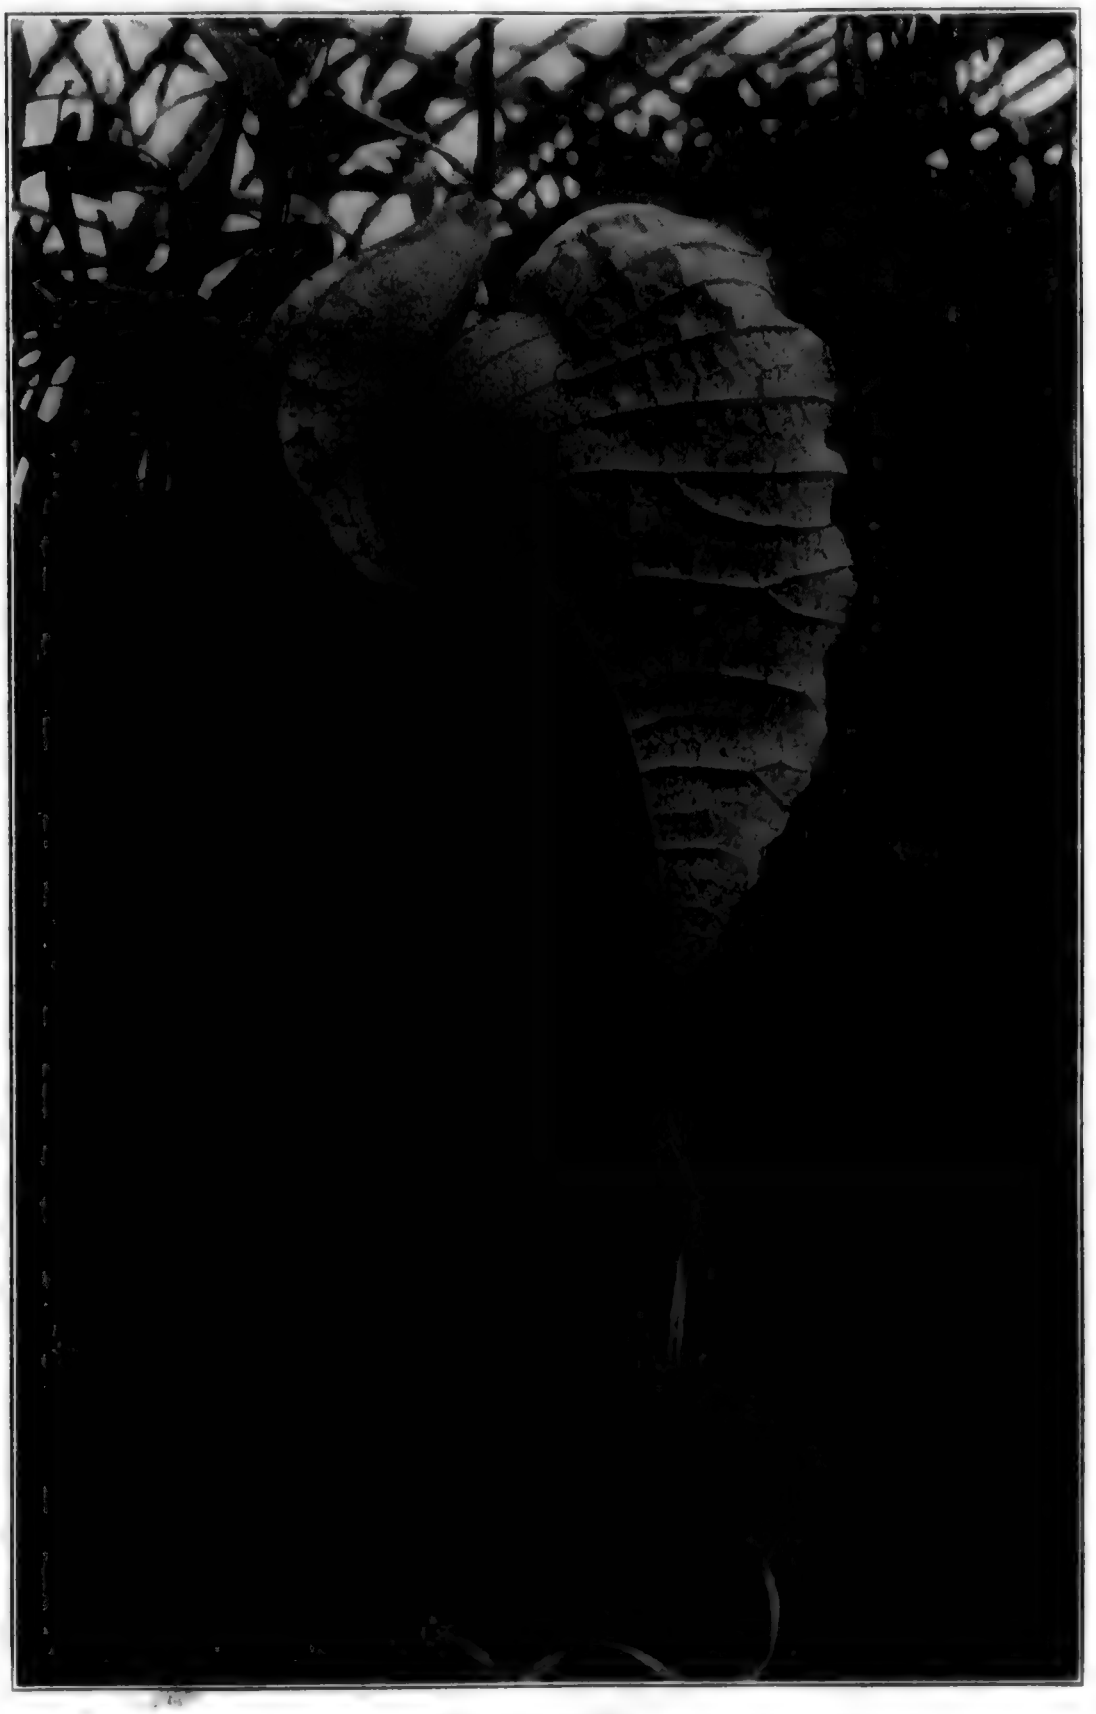
THE GOOSE PLANT.

You have, of course, noticed with what avidity your local newspaper seizes upon the unusual, the extraordinary, the bizarre in horticulture, how nothing seems to interest the reporter so much as the improbable and impractical. Then why not take advantage of it?



Don't undertake to mislead the credulous scribe—perish the thought! Just give him the hint and he will let his fancy have free reign and save all strain on your conscience.

For instance, call him up on the phone and tell him that there is an Aristolochia grandiflora Sturtevantii in your greenhouse, that it is quite harmless but a great curiosity. Ask him to come up and take a look. Lead him out into the greenhouse and show him the goose plant; tell him that it is attracting wide attention and causing much talk; that you have thus far admitted all who have come to see it. He will set the tongues of the whole town wagging and you will have a stream of visitors, people who will come a mile to see the wonderful freak plant who would not walk around the block to see your really well grown but everyday carnations and roses.

You can tell them that the goose plant is first cousin to the Dutchman's pipe. It's nothing but the truth, but you must say it with great gravity.

The name, aristolochia, is applied to the genus because of supposed medicinal virtues. Most medicines taste bad and, by the same token, most of the aristolochias smell bad. Many of the tropical forms have flowers of extraordinary size and structure, but the odor is suggestive of putridity. The best known representative of the genus is A. Sipho, the Dutchman's pipe, than which there is no better hardy climbing vine for shade or screening purposes, say about a porch. The only value possessed by A. grandiflora Sturtevantii is its unique form. In some of the larger park conservatories it regularly is grown because of the amount of attention it attracts from those passing through the houses. The flower when well developed almost exactly resembles a goose. The color is greenish white.

The aristolochias are of easy culture, requiring only good loam and careful attention to keep them thrifty and free from insects. Most of them require a rather warm temperature, but if in pots they may be flowered in the conservatory. The large growing species require much room and do not bloom as a rule until they are quite large. Propagation is easy, by means of cuttings rooted in a frame.

The Goose Plant.

LILIES FOR EASTER.

Many growers are now getting anxious about their Easter lilies, to judge from the queries which are coming to hand almost daily. A typical question is: "My lilies are four to five inches high. Will these be in flower for Easter and how warm must I keep them to be sure they are on time?"

Lilies, no matter whether Harrisii, multiflorum or giganteum, are a little late if only four or five inches in height by the latter part of February. They must have a steady night temperature of 65 degrees, and 5 degrees more will be better. Close the house in which they are growing early in the afternoon and syringe the plants overhead twice a day. There is one advantage in Easter coming later than usual, in that backward plants can be brought into flower rather more quickly than a year ago, when it occurred in March. To be on the right side with plants, it should be possible to see and count the buds early in Lent, in which case a night temperature of 60 degrees will bring them in flower in good season and allow of their being placed in a cool house for a few days.

Probably nine-tenths of the lilies grown for Easter are giganteums; next to these come multiflorums. Both of these are dwarfer in habit than Harrisii and Formosas and stand up well without the aid of stakes. As the pots become well matted with roots, apply manure water twice a week in moderate doses. An adequate water supply must be given, or considerable of the lower foliage will be lost. Spray once a week with nicotine for aphis, if you do not fumigate. Giganteums love heat in every stage of their growth, and many who blame the dealers for selling them diseased bulbs have only themselves to thank for their losses, which are really caused by starting the bulbs too cool, overwatering in the early stages of growth and not giving sufficient heat once the plants have started into growth.

If you can see your buds early in March, they are all right; if not, they are late and want all the heat and moisture you can give them.

Candidum lilies are less seen at Easter than their merits would seem to warrant. An inferior grade of bulbs, which produces poor spikes, small flowers and much disease, has discouraged many from growing them. Those who have the true, broad-petaled type need have no fear of disease and can rest assured that the flowers will sell quickly to any of the up-to-date stores. Now, if your candidums show their buds by March 15, they will be all right if allowed an average night temperature of 50 to 52 degrees, never letting it exceed 55 degrees. If you give your candidums the sweltering treat-color of the azaleas. Do not group the plants too closely, but tip those on the edges slightly, always remembering that the lower they are, the better, for a centerpiece. In places of this sort, where a number of the same plants are used in a group, the misshapen and one-sided specimens can be used to advantage, while as separate plants they are unsalable.

LILIES FOR EASTER.

Many growers are now getting anxious about their Easter lilies, to judge from the queries which are coming to hand almost daily. A typical question is: "My lilies are four to five inches high. Will these be in flower for Easter and how warm must I keep them to be sure they are on time?"

Lilies, no matter whether Harrisii, multiflorum or giganteum, are a little late if only four or five inches in height by the latter part of February. They must have a steady night temperature of 65 degrees, and 5 degrees more will be better. Close the house in which they are growing early in the afternoon and syringe the plants overhead twice a day. There is one advantage in Easter coming later than usual, in that backward plants can be brought into flower rather more quickly than a year ago, when it occurred in March. To be on the right side with plants, it should be possible to see and count the buds early in Lent, in which case a night temperature of 60 degrees will bring them in flower in good season and allow of their being placed in a cool house for a few days.

Probably nine-tenths of the lilies grown for Easter are giganteums; next to these come multiflorums. Both of these are dwarfer in habit than Harrisii and Formosas and stand up well without the aid of stakes. As the pots become well matted with roots, apply manure water twice a week in moderate doses. An adequate water supply must be given, or considerable of the lower foliage will be lost. Spray once a week with nicotine for aphis, if you do not fumigate. Giganteums love heat in every stage of their growth, and many who blame the dealers for selling them diseased bulbs have only themselves to thank for their losses, which are really caused by starting the bulbs too cool, overwatering in the early stages of growth and not giving sufficient heat once the plants have started into growth.

If you can see your buds early in March, they are all right; if not, they are late and want all the heat and moisture you can give them.

Candidum lilies are less seen at Easter than their merits would seem to warrant. An inferior grade of bulbs, which produces poor spikes, small flowers and much disease, has discouraged many from growing them. Those who have the true, broad-petaled type need have no fear of disease and can rest assured that the flowers will sell quickly to any of the up-to-date stores. Now, if your candidums show their buds by March 15, they will be all right if allowed an average night temperature of 50 to 52 degrees, never letting it exceed 55 degrees. If you give your candidums the sweltering treat ment suggested for backward giganteums, you may flower them earlier, but the flower stalks will be drawn and weak and the flowers one-half the size of those opened in a cool house.

THE LITTLE GODFREY CALLA.

I noticed in The Review of February 16, page 9, the inquiry of T. N. in regard to the Little Godfrey Calla, and also the reply of C. W. I think, like C. W., that this calla will supersede the old C. Æthiopica. It is a remarkably free bloomer. I have had an occasional plant that flowered in a 2-inch pot, and it freely produces flowers in 3-inch and 4-inch pots. In 5-inch and 6-inch pots it produces more flowers than Æthiopica and the flowers are just as large. The great advantage of the Godfrey is that any florist can buy small plants and grow them on, the plants paying for their keep while they are increasing in size all the time.

KILLARNEY CUTTINGS ROT.

I took some Killarney cuttings a short time ago and everything was then in good shape, but after they had been in the sand about two weeks I noticed that quite a number of them were becoming black near the root and were rotting from the ground up, while on others the leaves were wilting and were showing signs of black spot. I should like to know the reason and what should be done in order to stop this condition. W. N.

Probably the sand is not of good quality, but contains some decomposing element which has caused bench fungus. It is also possible that the drainage is imperfect, which would cause black spot. Get a good, sharp, clean sand and see that the drainage is good. Do not overwater. Keep the temperature of the sand at 62 degrees and the house temperature at 52 degrees. Shade from bright sunshine, but be careful to remove the shading just as soon as the sun ceases to shine on the bench.

SPIDER ON ROSES.

We are sending some leaves of roses infested with pests that look and act like red spider, except that the color is different; these are white. We have used nicotine, both the paper and the liquid, and have smoked with tobacco stems once each week. Also, for the last three weeks, we have sprayed the rose benches with Fir-tree Oil, prepared according to the directions on the can, two or three times per week, but have not succeeded in exterminating the pests. Between them and the frequent "doping," the roses are about ruined. Will you please tell us what they are and how to get rid of them?

A. C. S.

The leaves are thickly infested with red spider and eggs. There is no better remedy for this pest than syringing. To make this effective, it is necessary to have at least sixty pounds of pressure and use a fine spray, taking care to reach the under surface of the leaves. This should be repeated every bright day, choosing the forenoon for the operation, so that the foliage will have time to dry before sunset.

WORMS IN ROSE BEDS.

Under separate cover we are sending you a sample of worms that are causing trouble in one of our rose beds. There are thousands of them. What will destroy them without damaging the plants? The worms seem to prefer the surface of the soil, for they are thicker there than in the bottom of the bench. We never have seen any of them on the plants. A. C. S.

These worms are from the manure and, far from being detrimental, are absolutely necessary, their function being to convert the manure into a form in which it is more easily assimilated.

ASTERS FOR SUMMER BLOOMS.

When should I sow aster seeds for summer blooming? J. R. W.

Asters for the earliest planting can be sown at once. Queen of the Market and Early Wonder are good varieties. Successional sowings can be made once in two weeks until the middle of June. After May 1 the seed may be sown outdoors if preferred. C. W.

I should like to know what to do with some left-over Lorraines in 4-inch pots. Can they be carried over? They do not look extra well. Do you pot leaf cuttings as soon as rooted, or leave them until they sprout from the bottom? Is it too late to propagate them now? J. T. T.

It will hardly pay you to carry over the 4-inch pots of Lorraines. Young stock will give you more satisfaction. It is better to leave the leaf cuttings in the sand until the young shoots start to sprout from the bottom; then pot carefully in flaky leaf-mold and sand and keep in a warm, moist house until established. There is still abundant time in which to propagate Lorraines; in fact, they can be rooted as late as early June and make nice 4-inch stock. Propagation from soft-wood cuttings is better than from leaves after the end of February. C. W.

CUTWORMS ON CARNATIONS.

We have a bench of carnations that are infested with worms, resembling the cutworm in size and color, that work on the tender shoots and buds. They commenced working at one end of the bench and have gradually worked their way along, taking all the buds as they go. They work at night and bury themselves in the daytime. Please give me some information as to what they are and how to get rid of them.

R. L. F.

The pest you complain of is one of the many varieties of cutworm. They are by no means uncommon, and frequently do a great deal of damage in the greenhouse. The surest method of destruction is to go through the houses early in the morning, between 2 and 5 o'clock, when you can catch them feeding on the buds. Another way, which is easier, though not so certain, is to mix a mash of bran and molasses, adding to it enough Paris green to make it poisonous. Scatter this around where they are known to be feeding and many will be destroyed. A. F. J. B.

ON NEWLY BROKEN SOD.

Is it safe to plant carnations in the field on newly broken sod—sod that is broken in the spring, just before the plants are planted out? Could asters be grown on new soil like that, and would it pay to manure it? S. N. M.

I would advise against planting carnations on newly broken sod. The least you should have done would have been to break it up last fall, and even then I would prefer to have it planted to something else for one season, before planting carnations on it. If you are obliged to plant your carnations on this soil, I would not put any manure on it. After the sod is thoroughly rotted will be time enough to manure it. The foregoing will apply to asters as well as carnations. A. F. J. B.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Cannas.

While there is still abundant time in which to start cannas in the colder states, to the south, where the planting season opens earlier, they can now be started. Cut away all decayed or partially decayed portions of the roots and leave a single eye to each root on such as are sound, using a strong, sharp knife to do the necessary cutting. It is much better not to place the roots in earth, as is sometimes done, but to utilize a bare piece of bench, over which a bed of sphagnum moss can be placed, and on these the canna roots can be closely laid. A thin scattering of broken dry sphagnum spread over them is sufficient covering. Do not soak them with water. If the house is close and moist and there is a nice bottom heat below the roots, they will need nothing beyond occasional light sprayings to start them. Potting up can be done when the shoots are a few inches long and before the roots have become matted together.

Schizanthus.

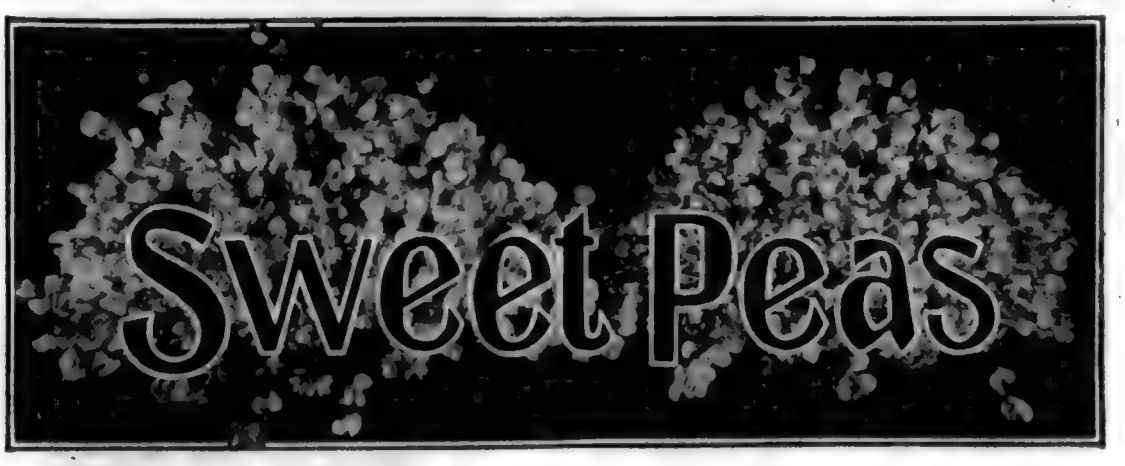
Schizanthus intended for Easter flowering should now be ready to go into 6-inch pots. Use a tolerably rich compost, containing one-third dry cow manure. If grown quite cool, Schizanthus Wisetonensis needs little staking, a central stake usually being sufficient. If any of the shoots show a tendency to run away, pinch them back. While schizanthus can be flowered in a temperature of 50 degrees at night, it will be much dwarfer and stockier if kept in a house where a minimum of 40 to 45 degrees is maintained. Grown in this way it will be found to keep splendidly, either in the house or store, and as it is still something of a novelty at Easter, a nice batch of white or soft pink forms should sell without much effort. The schizanthus has been nicknamed the "poor man's orchid" and there certainly is an orchid-like appearance to the little flowers, which gives them much of their fascination.

Shamrocks.

The time is getting close at hand when shamrocks will be in demand and if still in flats they should be potted off singly or placed several together in small pans, using a rather light soil for them, with considerable sand added. Keep them well watered and near the glass in a cool house; 45 degrees at night is about right. Avoid cold drafts and do not let the foliage be damp at nightfall, for if mildew once makes its appearance the plants will be unsalable.

Marguerites.

Pinching of marguerites should have been discontinued some time ago, on plants wanted for Easter flowering. They will now be running up to flower and if at all cramped in the pots should receive their final shift. While quite nice marguerites can be flowered in 6-inch pots, this size of pot needs more attention in watering than 8-inch, which is a good size to flower marguerites in. As they are now making rapid growth, it is necessary to spread out the plants at least once a week. Plants coming into flower should be elevated on inverted pots. Stand a saucer under them to assist in keeping them from wilting. That fine variety, Queen Alexandra, usually a rather late bloomer, should this year be in excellent shape for Easter.



Lilacs.

While it is possible to force lilacs into flower in four or five weeks, it is much better to bring them on more gradually, in order to have stocky plants, which will stand a little cool treatment without wilting seriously. Give the plants a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees now and, if held in this degree of heat, they will flower nicely before April 16 and can if necessary be moved for a few days into a cool house before being sold. Syringe the plants freely and give them the fullest light all the time. It is quite unnecessary after this date to darken them in the early stages of growth. As a general rule, white lilacs are most in demand at Easter, but those with pink flowers also sell well. The blue and purple shades are less popular. Marie Legraye, single white, and Mme. Lemoine, double white, are the best of the whites for forcing.

Crotons and Dracænas.

Advantage should be taken of these February days to do as much potting as possible among the foliage plants, and among these crotons and the colored-leaved dracænas are prominent. In the case of lanky plants, cut the tops off and place them in a warm propagating bench. Soak them with water daily and few will fail to root. Or, if preferred, larger plants can be secured by the ringing method, which includes tying a bunch of moss over the cut, or as is often done, slipping on a flower pot from which the bottom has been knocked out, and securing it at the desired place. Moss in the pot is better than loam or sand. Keep the moss constantly moist and roots will soon strike out, when the tops can be cut off and when potted kept in a close, moist heat for some time.

A suitable compost for potting crotons and dracænas in consists of two parts fibrous loam, one part leaf-mold, not too much decayed, and one part dried cow manure, old and passed through a half-inch screen, with sufficient sand to make the whole porous. Pick away the drainage and as much of the old soil as possible; also loosen the roots down the sides of the ball with a pointed stick. Pot firmly. Water rather sparingly until the roots show signs of activity, but spray the plants over every day.

SWEET PEAS OUTDOORS.

How far apart should the rows of sweet peas be in a field? How far apart should the plants be in the rows? How high should the trellis be? Do they need rich ground and plenty of water? What is the cheapest trellis? Is there a large-meshed trellis woven specially for sweet peas? S. J. G.

The rows should be five to six feet apart. If you have plenty of land it will be better to allow them six feet. This admits of better cultivation. If you start seeds in pots now, three seeds in a 4-inch pot, keeping them in a cold-frame until the middle of April, and then plant out twelve to fifteen inches apart, you will have stronger and earlier flowers than from those sown outdoors. The distance named may seem considerable at first, but you will find the plants will easily cover it. When sown in the drills, it is a mistake to leave the young plants thick; three to four inches apart each way will give you better haulm and spikes than leaving them just as they germinate. Cover the seeds two and one-half inches and do not adopt the plan sometimes recommended in seed catalogues, to cover lightly at first and gradually hill up. This plan often causes many to rot off.

The ground should be deeply plowed and heavily manured and you can hardly overwater the plants, especially during the flowering season. At this latter period a mulch of strawy manure, meadow hay or grass is beneficial, helping to keep the roots cool and moist. In good ground sweet peas often grow eight to ten feet high and rarely less than six to seven feet. The best support is brush of some kind; birch is excellent if procurable, or some other sprout growth of a deciduous nature. Failing this, coarse-meshed wire netting will do. Let it be not less than seven feet high, and, to prevent bulging, supports should be placed eight feet apart to fasten it to. There is a stiff netting which does not bulge, but it costs considerably more than the ordinary variety. C. W.

ORCHIDS

BAUM'S ORCHIDS.

Among the most noteworthy of the recent signs of progress in floriculture is the success that has been achieved in the growing of orchids by many of the general florists—florists who make no pretensions of being specialists or even of ranking among the largest growers of miscellaneous stock. A good example of this class of orchid growers is Charles L. Baum, of Knoxville, Tenn., some specimens of whose products are here illustrated. He describes his experience among orchids as follows:

"I bought my first case of orchids, Cattleya Trianæ, of Lager & Hurrell, of Summit, N. J. I gave the order to Mr. Lager at the S. A. F. convention at Niagara Falls in 1908, and received them early in September. I knew nothing whatever about the growing or care of orchids, so I asked Mr. Lager how I should care for them, and he seemed pleased to give me all the information he could. He answered any and all questions I asked him, and they were quite a few, I assure you, as I was anxious to know how to handle them. However, I have been as successful as I well could wish. A year later I reported my success to Mr. Lager, and he said I had done unusually well, as every plant had made from two to eight new growths, and I had several blooms the first year. The two photographs sent for reproduction in The Review are from plants of the first case. They are all Cattleya Trianæ and had from four to twenty-two blooms to the plant, and we retailed the blooms at $1.50 to $2.50 each.

"Last August at the S. A. F. convention at Rochester I bought more, having also bought some the year before at Cincinnati, and I still have the orchid fever. I have three varieties of cattleyas—Trianæ, Percivaliana and Schroederæ—about 300 plants in all, besides a few other varieties.

"I will now try to tell you how I treat them. Whether my method is right or wrong, I can't say, but they seem to grow and do well under my treatment. On the arrival of the plants, the case is opened at once. The plants are taken out and nicely cleaned, watered, and spread out on a shady bench. If the weather is sunny they are sprayed three or four times each day for six or eight days, and as soon as the bulbs plump up they are potted or mounted on bark slabs, using peat as potting material and giving plenty of drainage by means of broken pots and a few pieces of charcoal. Clean pots and material are always used, and they are potted so firmly and solidly that, by taking hold of the plant by the top, the plant and pot are lifted together. Then they receive a good watering and are placed in a warm, shady house, where a light spraying is given three or four times each day in sunny weather until they begin to grow and make new roots. Later, as cool weather begins to approach, I withhold the water from the plants, but always spray under the benches and on the walks to maintain a humid atmosphere, only spraying the plants when they appear dry. I avoid watering late in the day, so the plants will not go into the night wet.

"The foregoing is the way I treated the newly potted plants. As the plants grow older and become established, they are watched closely and watered carefully, and a moist atmosphere is kept at all times in the house. As soon as the growth is matured and the flowering sheath has developed, the plants appear to want to rest and water is withheld until the sheath begins to show the buds starting; then more water is given until the buds appear. At this time I am careful not to let any water get on the buds or blooms, as I find this is decidedly injurious to them. I begin to shade in February, starting with only a light shade, as we often have some warm, bright weather in February. As the summer approaches more shade is given, but not so dense that the plants become dark green and are rank in growth, as I find that they do better and give me more blooms when they have a light yellow-green color. I give them all the air they will stand, day and night, so long as the temperature stands at 58 degrees at night and 68 degrees in the daytime, with no wind blowing, and they seem to do well under these conditions. I wish also to state that the seasonable orchid notes in The Review have helped me a great deal and often prevented me from making mistakes."

GARDENIAS FOR EASTER.

My gardenias in 6-inch and 7-inch pots are well set with small buds, showing fairly good condition, but knowing that gardenias are slow growers, I would like to ask you what to do to bring them into bloom by Easter. They are standing now in a house for mixed stock, such as lilies, ferns, bedding plants, etc., with a night temperature of 65 degrees. R. S.

Give the gardenias the warmer end of your house; 65 degrees at night should bring them along in ample time for Easter. You do not state how large the buds are now, but if they appear to be coming along too fast, move them to the cooler end of the house. Do not place in a cold house, or you will probably spoil the plants. Keep well syringed and avoid too much water at the root, which would soon cause a sour soil condition, with yellowing foliage. If the foliage becomes pale, apply soot water a couple of times at intervals of three or four days. Gardenias are not slow growers, but of course it is in summer or early fall when they make their most rapid growth. The plants require the full sun. In ventilating, carefully avoid giving them a cold draft. Some growers imagine gardenias are hard to grow. This is incorrect. They are not easy to flower in midwinter, but anyone with the necessary heat can get an abundance of flowers from the beginning of February. They like a porous soil, through which water passes quickly. If at all pasty, the foliage will soon turn a sickly hue, especially if a little too much water has been applied at the roots.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

The following special prizes are offered for the annual exhibition of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, in conjunction with the St. Louis Horticultural Society, at St. Louis, Mo., November 7 to 11, inclusive:

Chrysanthemum Society of America Prize—Best 10 blooms chrysanthemum, any one variety, silver cup.

Jerome Jones Prize—Best 10 blooms Chrysanthemum Mrs. Jerome Jones; first, $15; second, $10. Prizes offered by Jerome Jones, Boston, Mass.

Elmer D. Smith Prize—Best 12 blooms in 12 varieties, introductions of 1910 and 1911, shown in separate vases, not less than 12-inch stems; first, $15; second, $10. Prizes offered by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.

William Wells Prize—Best 3 blooms Chrysanthemum Mrs. G. C. Kelley; first, gold medal; second, silver medal; third, bronze medal. Prizes offered by Wm. Wells & Co., Merstham, Surrey, England.

William Wells Single Chrysanthemum Prize—Best six sprays of Single Chrysanthemum Miss Hilda Wells; first, gold medal; second, silver medal; third, bronze medal. Prizes offered by Wm. Wells & Co., Merstham, Surrey, England.

Charles H. Totty Prize—Best 6 blooms Chrysanthemum F. E. Nash; first, $15; second, $10. Prizes offered by Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

Henry A. Dreer Prize—Best 6 blooms yellow seedling chrysanthemum of American origin; $10 prize offered by Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia.

Philip J. Foley Prize—Best 6 blooms white seedling chrysanthemum of American origin, $10 prize offered by the Foley Mfg. Co., Chicago.

J. C. Vaughan Prize—Best 10 blooms pink seedling chrysanthemum of American origin; silver cup. Prize offered by Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago and New York.

Peter Henderson Prize—Best 6 blooms crimson or bronze seedling chrysanthemum of American origin; $10. Prize offered by Peter Henderson & Co., New York.

Lord & Burnham Prize—Best 10 blooms any color chrysanthemum never before exhibited in this country, open to all, American or imported variety; gold medal or $20 in cash. Prize offered by Lord & Burnham Co., Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Other firms have signified their intention of adding to this list. The additions will be published as soon as definitely arranged. In addition to these, the regular premiums of the St. Louis Horticultural Society are offered for this show, the preliminary schedule of which will be ready in a short while and can be had upon application to the secretary, Otto G. Koenig, 6473 Florissant avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

BEGONIA LEAF CUTTINGS.

Will you give me information as to the best manner of preparing leaf cuttings of Lorraine begonias?

A. L. B.

Select large and well developed leaves. Cut them off with a good piece of stalk. Some growers like to take a little of the wood from the bottom of the leaf stalk in addition. This is a good plan, as the cuttings usually send up young growths a little earlier than when the stalk is cut clean through. It is not necessary, however, as leaves with a small attached piece of stalk will root. The leaves should just touch the sand and stand clear of each other. The bottom heat should be brisk, 80 to 85 degrees, and the top heat 65 to 70 degrees. The cuttings will not be long in rooting in such a cutting bench. It is better not to pot them off until young growths are pushing through the sand, and then use a compost of flaky leaf-mold and sand.

After the plants have stopped blooming, if they are headed back a little, kept on the dry side for a few weeks in a slightly cooler house and then started in heat, they will give a fine crop of soft-wood cuttings, which will give more satisfactory results than the leaf cuttings.

GLADIOLI FOR OUTDOORS.

Will you please give me a short list of the best commercial gladioli for outdoor planting, including the different colors and covering as long a season as possible? Can not the season be lengthened by planting at different times? What should be the diameter of a bulb to give the best results for flowering?

G. M. K.

Among the best of the inexpensive gladioli for outdoor planting are the following: Attraction, crimson with white throat; Klondyke, clear yellow, crimson maroon blotch in throat; Brenchleyensis, brilliant scarlet, a fine old variety; Augusta, pure white, anthers blue; Ceres, white, flaked purple rose; Eugene Scribe, rose, blazed with carmine; America, the most popular of all gladioli, beautiful soft flesh color, now quite inexpensive and a great seller in all flower markets; Octoroon, salmon pink; Mrs. Francis King, light scarlet.

Among the somewhat higher priced sorts of striking merit are: Dawn, shell pink, an exquisite shade; Baron Hulot, royal blue; Jane Dieulafoy, creamy white, maroon throat; Shakespeare, white, suffused carmine rose; Sulphur King, clear sulphury yellow; White Sanderson, white, lightly penciled with purple; La Candeur, creamy white.

The first planting of gladioli can be made just as soon as the ground has dried out sufficiently in spring. By planting batches ten days apart until the last of June, a succession of flowers may be had until sharp frosts occur. The bulbs vary much in size, according to variety. Any bulb an inch in diameter will flower well. In the case of robust sorts, however, like America and Brenchleyensis, they should average one and one-half to two inches. For best results we would like bulbs to average one and one-half inches, and if more, all the better. The smaller bulbs should be used for the earliest plantings.

THE HORTICULTURAL DRUMMER.

[Extracts from a paper by S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, Pa., read at a meeting of the Detroit Florists' Club, in Detroit, Mich., February 20, 1911.]

When we alternately look at the methods employed by the horticulturists of a generation or two ago and those of the present day, we must concede that the tremendous changes in our business and the numerous improvements along all lines are due, in a small measure at least, to the men called drummers, who, never daunted, brave storms and blizzards, discomforts and discomfitures, in order to achieve results.

The commercial man has unquestionably played the part of missionary, educator, collaborator and scapegoat, all in one; and his reward—but of this later.

The Advent of the Drummer.

As a result of unfortunate early experiences in buying novelties from highly idealized lithographs, the grower for a time became ultra-conservative, skeptical, suspicious, often missing really good and meritorious things. But conditions were changing, and with the appearance of the commercial man on the stage of horticultural interests there came a change in the general attitude of the trade. Let me cite one instance.

It happened in a small town in Ohio, about the time of the appearance of the Tidal Wave carnation. One of the pioneer drummers of that time made a most heroic attempt to place a dozen or twenty fine rooted cuttings with the only florist of that town. "No, sir, you can't fool me; not much! I am through with novelties, and you had better not waste your time here," ejaculated the florist, with all the determination and ardor of one fully convinced. The arguments of the drummer, however, prevailed in the end. Upon his solemn promise that, should the Tidal Wave—God forbid!—engulf his, the florist's interests, and prove a failure, there would be no pay, a whole dozen rooted cuttings were ordered and benched.

Well, the Tidal Wave came up to the promise. When Daybreak appeared, the drummer had no difficulty in placing a hundred with the self-same customer. Scott was planted most profitably; so were Flora Hill, White Cloud, Lawson, Enchantress and others. The florist in question now buys new carnation cuttings by the thousand and is regarded among the progressives in the craft.

A True Missionary.

I cite this instance, one of a multitude of similar instances, in order to prove that the pioneer drummer, who, because of the "love of the game," succeeded in accomplishing his object, was a missionary in the true sense of the word, contributing his share toward the uplift and dissemination of a worthy carnation, thus benefiting not only the introducer of the novelty, but the grower and the community at large.

In looking back over a period of twenty-five years, following the career of the small grower in the "one-horse" town, up to the time when both he and his town made the remarkable growth characteristic of our American enterprise, one must not overlook the hard-working, painstaking, well-meaning and honest drummer, who, whatever his shortcomings, has not failed to contribute his share toward the progress of horticulture.

The man who is interested in his work will, as a matter of course, observe things, and thus add to his own store of knowledge and experience. If he is honest and honorable in his intentions—and there are few who are not—he will bear in mind that the interests of his trade must be protected first, last and all the time, believing that a satisfied customer, one whose confidence is won and held, is an asset of far greater importance than a profitable order.

A Traveling Information Bureau.

Imbued with such a belief, the commercial traveling man will draw either upon his own experience, obtained by dint of close and intelligent observation, or upon the experience of other growers who often paid dearly for it, in order to put his man upon the right track. Reasoning from the premises that "honesty is the best policy," the commercial traveler, simply as a matter of policy, draws the line between "unloading" a thing fit for the dump, and selling an article which may prove of value to the grower.

Having just returned from a trip to Chicago, for example, he will in all likelihood have something of interest to tell to his Boston florist friends. To be sure, So-and-So has planted largely of this or that rose, having found it profitable, while another rose, proving itself unworthy of the bench room given it the season previous, was discarded.

"How does Mr. Brown grow his Begonia Lorraine, or his cyclamens, or his lilies so well?" "Why, he treats his plants 'just so,' and therein lies the secret of his success."

The commercial traveler, if he "loves his game," or, in other words, if he takes an active, intelligent interest in his work, bearing in mind the welfare of his friends in the trade, does not ignore the hints and bits of information that he may pick up from time to time during his traveling career. Combining honesty of purpose with the knowledge and experience that he thus acquires, he becomes a sort of "bureau of information," and, depend on it, he will not knowingly mislead his patrons, if his advice is sought.

The Element of Self-Interest.

"As a matter of course," some might suggest, "it is self-interest, the desire to make a sale, that is chiefly responsible for the drummer's efforts." The traveling man unquestionably benefits by booking an order for White Perfection, but so does the grower and the grower's patrons, and the whole locality where such a change, from, say Boston Market, is brought about.

But whether self-interest is of primary or of secondary importance to the average traveling man, there is no denying the fact that he constitutes an integral part of the organized working force that has helped to advance horticulture to its present stage.

When the traveling man volunteers to speak in the interest of the Society of American Florists, or in the interest of other societies in the trade, the national flower shows, etc., as he often does, and succeeds in converting some of his friends to the good causes, self-interest does not enter into his mind, and horticulture is certainly benefited to a great extent.

Has Demonstrated His Value.

It will thus be seen that in spite of the idea, entertained in some quarters at least, of the drummer being a sort of all-around nuisance, he did his full duty and should therefore be entitled to his full share of credit.

Far be it from my intention, however, to plead the cause of the drummer. He can take care of his own interests, and, what is equally certain, he has already succeeded in demonstrating his services to the craft in many a way. But for him, and his hard work at the exhibition halls, our annual florists' conventions would hardly draw the attendance they generally do; but for him, his enthusiasm, or his "love of the game," many a good and money-making thing would never, perhaps, have seen the light of day.

If, perchance, his enthusiasm carries him too far, and his "money-maker" proves a soap bubble, take it for granted that he never intended to fleece you. "To err," you know, "is human." Like yourselves, he may now and then use poor judgment, but, like yourselves, he still realizes that success in the broader sense of the term hinges primarily upon a policy that is honest and aboveboard. In his hard and uphill race, questionable means, he well knows, can only serve to hinder his progress. He is learning in his school of experience that business integrity and honesty of purpose must constitute his stock in trade, his main equipment, else he cannot possibly run the race. I know of instances where traveling men, disregarding instructions, have, at the risk of losing their positions, declined to unload undesirable things upon their customers, and such men, I will remark in passing and in conclusion, are by no means in the minority.

ROCHESTER.

The Market.

If the growers and florists of this vicinity could make arrangements for a supply of sunshine, they might be able to secure some flowers. Unfortunately, sunshine can not be manufactured or purchased, so the florist suffers. The weather for the last week or more has been dark and cloudy, with not more than three really bright days in the whole time. Supplies of all kinds are short, with no immediate prospect of betterment.

Club Committees.

At the last meeting of the Florists' Association President Hart named the standing committees for the year. It is provided that the entertainment committee shall have general charge of the annual banquet, to be held in March. The committees follow:

Entertainment, E. S. Osborne, N. R. Graves, J. M. Keller, R. D. Luetchford, J. Dunbar.

Finance, F. W. Vick, R. G. Salter, E. P. Wilson, W. C. Barry, William Perie.

Essays, George Arnold, J. Dunbar, A. H. Secker, C. H. Vick, G. T. Boucher.

Bowling, A. F. Vick, Philip Ham, Paul Thomann, H. B. Weller, L. T. Tickner.

Exhibit, C. H. Vick, F. J. Keller, A. H. Salter, E. P. Wilson, E. R. Fry, F. R. Schlegel, J. M. Keller, R. Ballantyne, C. B. Ogston, Charles Suhr.

Audit, M. Ogston, F. Bennett, Charles Suhr, E. Berry, J. Thomann, Sr.

Membership, C. Muhlbeyer, F. Thomann, W. H. Dildine, C. E. Fry, Walter Salmon.

Various Notes.

R. G. Salter, Geo. B. Hart, C. H. Vick and W. L. Keller represented the Rochester Florists' Association before the ways and means committee at Albany, on Wednesday, February 15, when the Neupert bill appropriating $50,000 for constructing greenhouses at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., was presented for public discussion. Thousands of dollars are expended annually in this state to promote agriculture and horticulture, but no attempt has been made to further the interests of the florists and flower growers. If this bill is passed, Cornell will become the center of interest for florists, as the statement was made at the hearing that there is no similar course connected with any university or experiment station. Other prominent florists who were present and spoke in favor of the bill were F. R. Pierson, Wm. F. Kasting and Patrick O'Mara.

The members of the Rochester Bowling team were the guests of the Buffalo team on Wednesday evening, February 15. The Buffalo boys are expected to play a return game in this city next month.

The members of the Ladies' Association are as enthusiastic bowlers as the men. Twelve members met at the Lake avenue alleys on Wednesday afternoon. The team captained by Mrs. E. H. Vick carried off the honors, while the highest individual score was rolled by Mrs. W. L. Keller, of the opposing team.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The market was kept steady last week only by the lessened shipments, and from the level of the first of the week, and immediately after the two holidays, the tendency was downward. Prices, especially for lilies, violets and orchids, receded rapidly, while the supply of bulbous stock was far in excess of all requirements. The "week ends," however, are invariably good, and Saturday, February 18, was one of the best days of the season, everything of value selling at fair prices. Violets were at 50 cents for top, and as low as 20 cents for the leftovers. These were displayed at every prominent street corner by a host of the sidewalk merchants. There seems likely to be little advance for violets before Easter, and then the experts predict a scarcity. Some beautiful white lilac is in the market. Orchids are abundant and the price did not hold over 60 cents; in fact, after the holidays for Lincoln and St. Valentine, the drop to a 50-cent top was immediate. Lilies, including callas, found their top at 12 cents, and only the best brought that figure. February 18 $10 per hundred would buy anything in the lily family. Gardenias hold easily at $5 a dozen for the selects. The short-stemmed and inferior stock is handled by the street merchants.

Carnations are at their best and finer stock has never reached the New York market. There seem to be hardly any common varieties grown in this vicinity. Nothing worth while goes below 2 cents, and from that to 4 cents, immense quantities being distributed. There must have been 100,000 Killarneys in New York February 18. These are now at their best in color and stem and their popularity does not wane. The supply of Maids and Brides is limited. These, too, are arriving in grand quality, and command as high prices as their more numerous competitors. Richmond sold up to 25 cents February 18. The supply of the high grade stock is limited. There are not enough selected Beauties for the demand. A good deal of the stock arriving is not up to the standard.

Business generally seems to be healthful. The leading retailers make no complaint, for the long season, because of the late Easter, is bringing much grist to all the retail mills.

Various Notes.

A party of English florists will arrive in New York about March 17, on their way to the National Flower Show. They are expected to be present at the annual dinner of the Florists' Club, at Shanley's, March 18, tables for which are rapidly being reserved. The committee consists of C. B. Weathered, A. L. Miller, Robert Koehne, Chas. Schenck and J. A. Shaw.

W. H. Grever, of Buffalo, was a recent visitor.

H. S. Maybie, of Maywood, N. J., one of P. J. Smith's growers, is building new greenhouses and will open a fine retail store in Hackensack about April 1.

Jos. E. H. Morichard is the New York ribbon salesman of the Pennock-Meehan Co.

The store of Traendly & Schenck was burglarized last week, but the valuables were in a place of safety.

Robert J. Young, son of Thomas Young, has been appointed secretary of the Florists' Club's outing committee. The outing will be full of novelty this year, according to Chairman Fenrich.

O. V. Zangen, Hoboken, has employed J. G. Slater, formerly with Breck & Sons, Boston, as his traveling representative.

The seed houses have begun their night and day spring stunt. The rush is enormous for so early in the year.

C. C. Trepel's new store with Gimbel Bros. is quite up to his other enterprises, at Bloomingdale's and in Brooklyn. He is arranging for big displays at Easter. Gimbel has given him the center aisle on the ground floor for the holiday.

W. H. Siebrecht's acacia sprays are again in the market.

The supply men are already displaying their Easter novelties. Every house reports a profitable season and a growing trade.

J. J. Coan, manager of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., is fighting a severe attack of the grip.

James F. McConnell, one of the most popular men in the wholesale business and for many years manager for Noe & Noe, in the Coogan building, died Thursday, February 16, of pleuro-pneumonia, after only a few days' illness. The funeral services at his home on West Eightieth street February 19 were largely attended. The floral offerings completely covered the available space and were rich and beautiful. He was 44 years of age and a nephew of Alex McConnell. A widow survives.

Patrick O'Mara was the representative of the Florists' Club at the hearing before the appropriations committee at Albany February 15, in behalf of the grant of $50,000 for greenhouses at Cornell. Mr. O'Mara had, as his confreres, F. R. Pierson, of Tarrytown; W. F. Kasting, of Buffalo, and Charles Vick and three of his lieutenants from Rochester. Mr. O'Mara says the reception accorded the delegation by all, including the governor, was most cordial and satisfactory.

The daughter and granddaughter of J. B. Nugent, Jr., are visiting him, having just arrived in New York from their home in Minnesota.

Badgley, Riedel & Meyer say February 18 was their banner day since they started in the wholesale business.

Jas. McManus has three new locations under consideration.

Thomas Young, at Bound Brook, has had notable crops of gardenias this season.

Robert Schultz, of Madison, is sending some splendid Richmonds to J. K. Allen.

New York won both games from the Rutherford bowlers February 17. M. C. Ebel presented the winners with florists' knives. Refreshments were served. A return match will be rolled at Rutherford March 1.

J. Austin Shaw.

Wertheimer Bros. say Easter orders are much earlier and heavier than last year.

The fall exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York will be held at the American Museum of Natural History November 3 to 7. Early notice is given so that local societies, the members of which may desire to participate in this large exhibition, may select for their own exhibitions dates that will not conflict.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

There has been a scarcity of stock for the last few days, owing to a heavy demand for funeral work, which has used up an immense quantity of stock. Carnations and roses are in good crop, but there is hardly enough to go the rounds. Bulbous stock is fine and demand is good, especially for daffs, as they have been scarce up to this time. Sweet peas are good money-makers and are in good supply. Violets are moving well and the supply is about equal to the demand, except on special occasions.

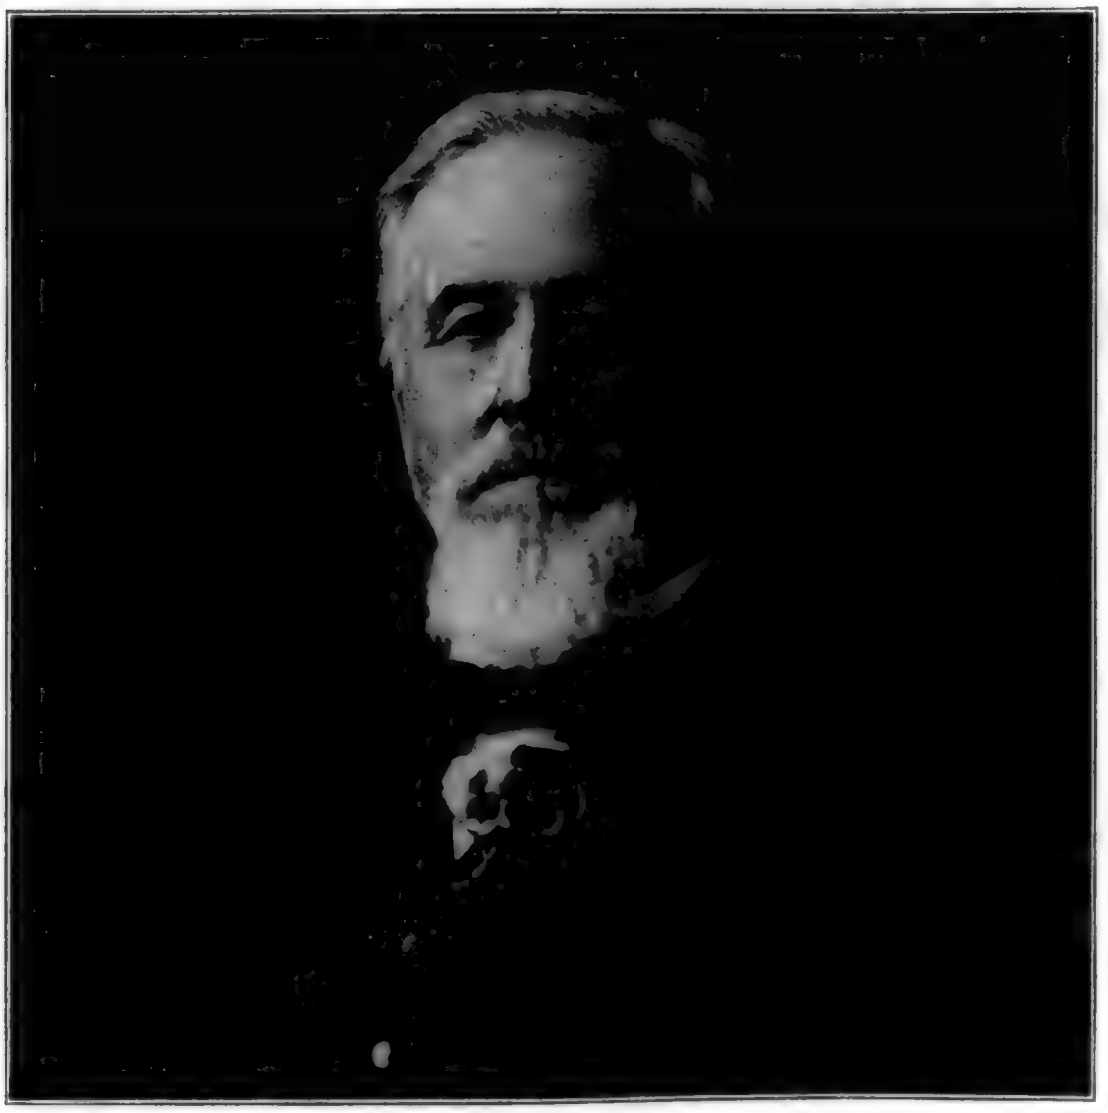
Pot plants are moving fairly well. One of the best sellers we had for Washington's birthday was the aucuba.

Various Notes.

The Columbus Florists' Club held the regular meeting Tuesday evening, February 14. Frank Heil and Jacob Sherman were taken in as members; they are both connected with Schiller park. The club voted to give its support as a whole to the Florists' Association that was formed a few weeks ago to give a flower show this fall, and by the outlook the show will get the support of the entire craft in a financial way, and a helping hand in all branches of the work.

The Munk Floral Co. has added a general line of florists' supplies to its list and is figuring on sending a man out on the road. No doubt they will enjoy a good trade locally, as there is no one here in that line of the business.

J. M.



Mason City, Ia.—The Mason City Floral Co. will in future be known as the Curtis Floral Co. E. D. Curtis has been manager for some time.

TESTIMONIAL TO WM. TOOLE.

A special testimonial of recognition of eminent services in the development of agricultural thought and practice was conferred on William Toole, of Baraboo, Wis., at the annual recognition exercises of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin last week. Mr. Toole was one of two selected for recognition.

William Toole is well known throughout Wisconsin and many other states as one of the leading horticulturists of the country. While he has been a specialist in the improvement of the pansy, he has also advocated better methods of farming in all lines. He has been instrumental, also, in organizing a better type of social life in the community in which he resides.

He was born in Lancashire, England, in 1841, and came to Rhode Island a few years later. In 1859 his father moved to Sauk county, Wisconsin. In 1887 he moved to his present homestead, known as Pansy Heights, two miles from Baraboo. He has built up an important business as a dealer and grower in flower seeds and plants, with special attention to the development and cultivation of the pansy. He has been a leading prize winner at many shows with this flower, and has originated a number of varieties of high quality. His most valuable service to his community has been through his work for better educational facilities and as a prime mover in the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society. He was an early advocate of the strong college of agriculture. He has held numerous offices in farmers' organizations. For the last two years he has been president of the State Horticultural Society, and for the last five years has been president of the Skillet Creek Farmers' Club, a social organization of farmers which has secured wide notice because of its work in aiding the improvement of rural social conditions. The influence of Mr. Toole has been state-wide in favor of permanent and substantial agriculture, and it was for this unselfish service that he was recognized by the university.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The fine, summer-like weather of last week was cut short February 20, when we had a big snow storm, with predictions of a cold week. The cut flower market last week was in excellent condition and there was plenty of stock at any of our wholesale houses to fill any size of order.

The business on St. Valentine's day was large—much better than in any previous year. Violets had the call for that day and the market was well supplied with them, at much lower prices than the trade expected. This was owing to the great quantities that came in.

Roses are coming much better and from now on the market will have plenty, as the local growers seem to be in crop. Carnations, too, have been coming in heavily in all colors and varieties, and the price is down to $2 per hundred for fancies. All varieties of Enchantress have the call. There were plenty of callas and Harrisii last week and they sold well at $1.50 per dozen for the best. In bulbous stock there was a great supply of everything seasonable. Romans and Paper Whites met with a good demand; so also did Von Sions and jonquils. Some fine tulips are coming in now. Lily of the valley is extra fine. Plenty of good freesias are to be had. Sweet peas are abundant just now and are selling as low as $2 per thousand.

The retailers report a good trade all of last week, and from now on until Lent begins they will expect a great deal of society work.

Monday, February 13, was noted for the large consignments of California violets from the Kirkwood growers. It was estimated that the four wholesalers handled close to 400,000, and all of extra good quality. These were nearly all consumed for Valentine's day orders, both local and shipping. All of our wholesalers are now fully stocked up daily with all high grade stock in roses, carnations, violets, sweet peas and valley. The prices are down and the demand is good.

Various Notes.

J. Rolker, of August Rolker & Sons, New York city, called on the trade here last week. He reports an excellent trade in potted plants.

Among the Belleville florists who called recently were E. W. Guy, Henry Emunds, A. G. Fehr, Gust Grossart and A. S. Halstead. They say that trade with them has been good in all lines.

A report from Edwardsville has it that J. F. Ammann, the well known florist, is about to retire from business. He has received an offer for his greenhouses and expects to close the deal shortly. The report does not state who are the parties that made the offer or what Mr. Ammann intends to follow after his retirement from the florists' business.

John Steidle, of Olivette, Mo., who has been quite ill for the last two weeks, is up and around again. He is one of our best rose and carnation growers. His entire output is handled by Fred C. Weber.

Fred Foster, of the Paris Floral Co., says his firm handled 30,000 California violets for St. Valentine's day business. Other stock also sold well.

The Ladies' Home Circle met February 13, at Trimp's hall. The attendance was large. Mrs. John Steidle, the president-elect of the circle, gave the members a splendid lunch after the meeting, and later they enjoyed a few games of bowling. Mrs. Theo. Miller could not be present, owing to illness.

Otto Sander, who runs one of the neatest flower shops in the downtown district, is attracting a great deal of attention with his fine window displays. He is one of the real artists in this line.

Harry Young, treasurer of the St. Louis Horticultural Society, says that the preliminary list for the fall show is in the printers' hands and will be out in a few days. He expects this year's show to surpass all others given by the society, especially so for the reason that the Chrysanthemum Society is to meet here during the show week.

President Sanders and Secretary Weber, of the Retail Florists' Association, say they would like a full attendance at the next meeting, Monday, March 6, when the association will draw up resolutions and vote on a bill to be presented to the city council, to prohibit the soliciting of orders at a house of mourning. The Florists' Club, which meets a few days later, has agreed to help them in this undertaking. If this bill should pass—and we have every reason to believe it will—it will be good-bye to Mr. Crepe Puller.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Somewhat clearer skies and seasonable winter weather have increased the supply of cut flowers, but the demand has continued good and there has so far been no considerable surplus in any line. Roses continue in short supply and prices hold up well. A few more clear days may, however, cause a considerable decline. Beauties are not at all plentiful and a marked scarcity of white roses is felt. Killarney continues to sell well, as does Mrs. Aaron Ward. Carnations are more abundant and a little lower in price. White varieties have been in strong demand for funeral work. Pink Delight continues to bring fancy prices and it will be heavily planted here another season. Violets had a somewhat better week and should from this time on sell better. Sweet peas are lower; the supply is beyond the demand. White, pink and white, and lavender shades sell well; other colors are hard to sell.

A much heavier cut of lilies is coming in and they are moving more slowly. Some extra fine callas are seen. The best make as high as $2 per dozen. Mignonette is more plentiful, but the spikes are not equal to those seen a month ago. Antirrhinum is much better than it was. Quite a little freesia still comes in. In Dutch bulbous stock a large variety is now obtainable of splendid quality. So far these have sold well. Pansies are rather more plentiful, as are English primroses, each selling well. Valley is coming from more growers and has much better foliage. Gardenias are still scarce. The Cattleya Trianæ crop is on the decline and cattleyas promise to be in rather short supply for a time. Green stock of all kinds sells well and flowering plants are in better demand.

Various Notes.

H. L. Belcher, of Winthrop, has the best samples of Paper Whites, Emperors and Von Sions I have seen this season. He is just starting on his crop of lily of the valley. Tulips are also grown in quantity, La Reine predominating. Mr. Belcher expects to grow in the neighborhod of 500,000 bulbs next season.

The annual midwinter show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society comes March 25 to 27. An admission fee is usually charged at this show, but, with the idea of not competing in any way with the coming national show, admission will be free.

Everett E. Cummings, of Woburn, picked 53,000 single violets of superb quality last week. He had a heavy sale for Valentine's day.

The W. W. Edgar Co. reports rather more disease in giganteum lilies than usual, but less in multiflorum. They have a large house of hybrid and rambler roses coming on for Easter.

A fine vase of Carnation Pocahontas from Baur & Smith, Indianapolis, was among the exhibits which arrived the morning after the last club meeting. They were placed on exhibition at Horticultural hall.

John K. M. L. Farquhar delivered an interesting stereopticon lecture on "Where Seeds Are Grown" at Horticultural hall, February 18, taking the place of J. H. Hale, who will speak at a later date.

J. F. Flood, of Woburn, has been quite sick, but is happily improving.

The agricultural colleges came in for considerable discussion in the course of the discussion on Edwin Jenkins' paper at the last club meeting. Peter Fisher's statement that students should have two or three years' practical experience before taking in a college course, found pretty general acceptance. Considerable praise was given Prof. E. A. White, of Amherst, for the work he has done in the horticultural department there.

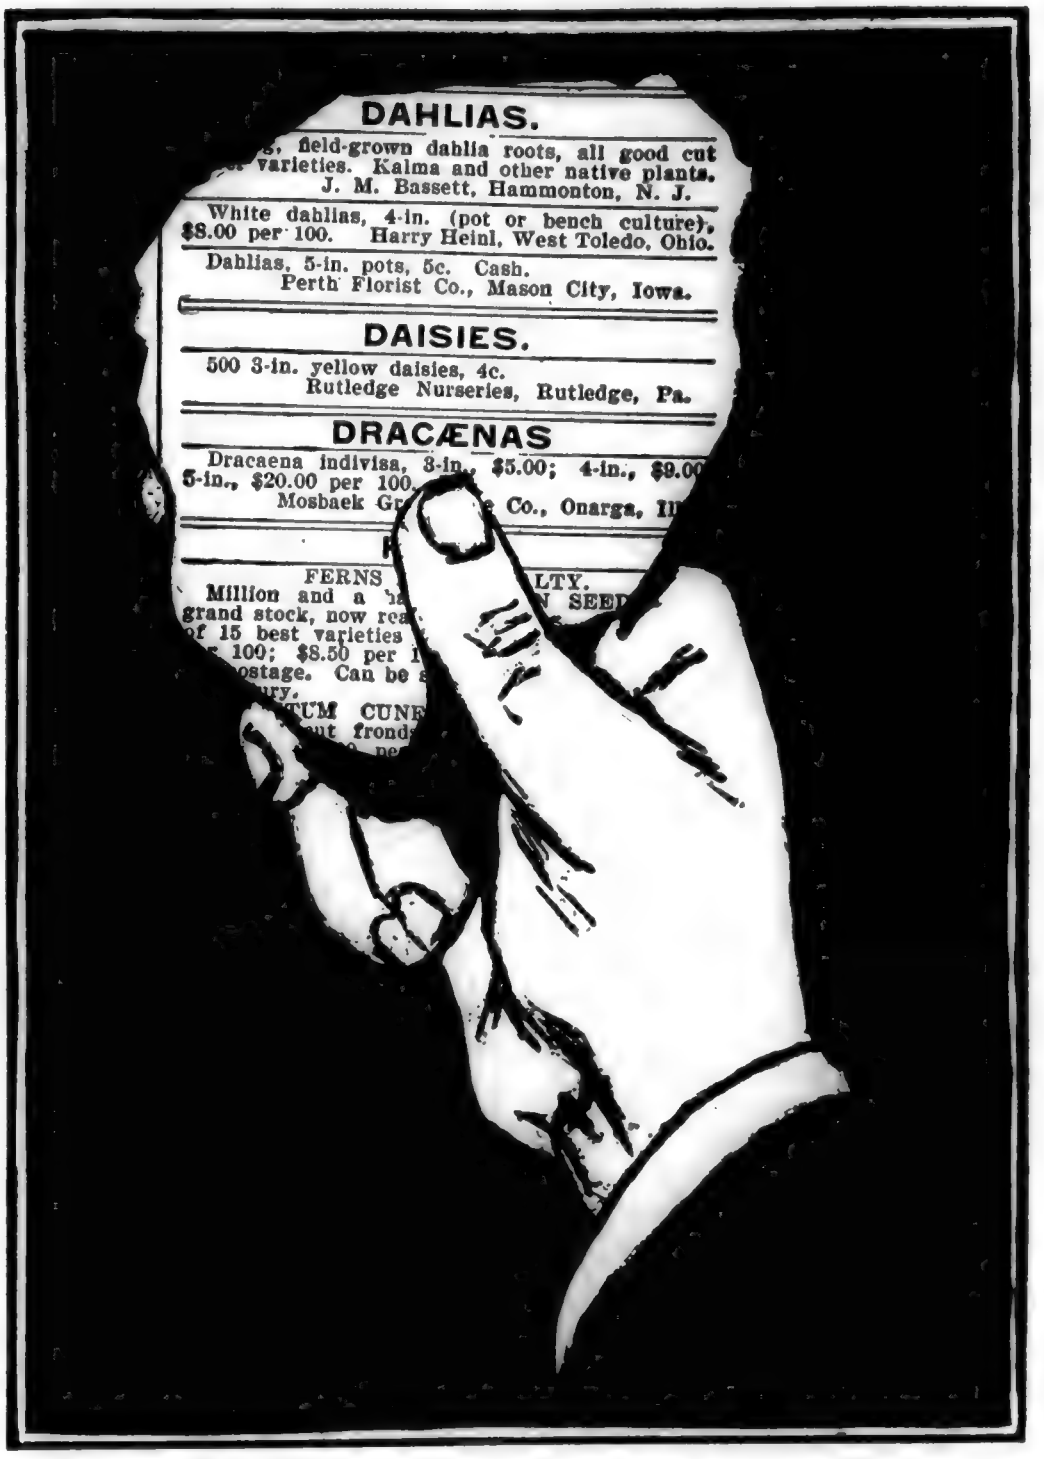
Edward MacMulkin is showing the first annual chrysanthemums I have seen this season, grown by Lewis Small, of Tewksbury.

P. L. Carbone states that Primula Kewensis, one of the most beautiful of winter-flowering plants, does not sell as it should. Customers are hard to convince that it does not possess the poisonous properties of P. obconica. As a decorative plant, especially on the dining table. P. Kewensis is far superior to P. obconica.

James Tuohy, of East Boston, has started a new store on Hampshire street, Cambridge.

H. Hansen, of Malden, is marketing a nice assortment of plants, including azaleas, Primula obconica, cyclamens, cinerarias and araucarias.

Michael Grey, of Elliott street, Milton, is marketing a lot of well bloomed Pink Pearl rhododendrons, also a fine line of bulbs in pans.



Tickets are being rapidly taken up for the Gardeners' and Florists' Club banquet, February 28. No tickets will be sold after February 27, so late applicants are liable to be disappointed.

C. R. Dane, the well known Roxbury florist, started with Mrs. Dane February 16 for an extended trip through California.

Thomas Roland has a grand lot of stock coming along for the national show. He would be glad to see rather more sunshine, especially for his rambler roses, some of which he fears may be late unless the skies are clearer than they have been.

These Are the Little Liners That Do the Business

"Please do not print my advertisement a second time. I am pleased to send you the 30 cents for the three lines. One insertion brought me orders amounting to over $350. As my plant is not very big, I will have to build larger."—Jacob Doerrer, Columbia, Pa., February 8.

Thomas Pegler is handling a fine lot of lavender, white and pink sweet peas from Herman Waldecker, of Braintree. The same grower is sending cinerarias, mignonette and his usual high grade of carnations.

Henry Penn has left on a trip which will extend to California, but hopes to return in time for the National Flower Show.

Arthur Griffin, from his fine new place in Woburn, is bringing in some of the finest carnations of the season. Mr. Griffin has a well equipped plant, splendidly kept, and is one of our best growers.

E. L. Pierce, of the A. H. Hews Co., has gone south for a few weeks' rest.

J. H. Leach & Son, through J. M. Cohen, are disposing of some of the finest lily of the valley of the season. Their new light pink carnation, which received a report of merit at the last club meeting, continues to sell on sight.

Visitors last week included Thomas Knight, of Knight & Struck, New York, who reports business as good, and John H. Bockman, representing Arthur T. Boddington, New York.

S. J. Reuter & Son, of Westerly, R. I., are sending in excellent Pink Delight carnations, also large quantities of cut lilies. They are handled by Maurice Hambro.

The Boston Rose Co., Pemberton square, is receiving some splendid shipments of Killarney, White Killarney and Richmond roses from the Montgomery Co., South Hadley, Mass.

Kidder Bros., of Lincoln, never have any trouble in disposing of their Princess of Wales violets. Good bunching adds much to the selling value of violets and Messrs. Kidder have it down to a science.

The William E. Doyle Co. report business as good. In addition to the every-day flowers, they have had a steady call this winter for gardenias, choice orchids in variety and Adiantum Farleyense, and their conservatory in the rear of the Boylston street store contains a fine assortment of flowering and foliage plants.

Robert T. McGorum, the Natick rose specialist, is not growing as many roses as he could wish at this time, while prices are high, but he is getting more and better flowers than most of the growers, and at Welch Bros.' Devonshire street emporium they never remain long unsold.

At the seed stores business is getting brisk. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. have had a heavier mail order and counter trade than ever before. The T. J. Grey Co.'s business has practically doubled this season. They were a little handicapped by delays in getting out their catalogue, but orders now are away ahead of all former years. Joseph Breck & Sons report business as satisfactory and the force of Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. is being kept on the jump to keep up with orders. The severe weather in February has held back counter trade somewhat. The first mild spell will see a flood of customers clamoring for seeds.

W. N. Craig.

Helena, Mont.—The latest additions to the membership of the Florists' and Nurserymen's Association of Montana include H. M. Sloan, of Hamilton; S. Hansen, of Butte; J. Van Catz, J. Hocking and F. Bangert, of Helena, and Senator Fred Whiteside, of Kalispell.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Dark, cloudy weather last week continued to keep the supply just under the normal demand, with the result that everything has been cleaned up daily at prices that lead a trifle over a year ago. A few days of sunshine will send things along at a merry pace and will cut the prices to their normal scale. Bulbous stock has been good and comparatively plentiful, thus helping out in the grand run of affairs, and the call for carnations has been far in excess of the supply.

Several large funerals last week, with the orders well distributed, kept the boys busy, while the downtown stores were called upon for cut flowers and decorations for a number of banquets and social functions. Last year bright reds were the prevailing call in flowers for St. Valentine's day, but this year violets had the call and the number handled went into the hundreds of thousands. Everything was cleaned out.

Various Notes.

The Rhode Island Horticultural Society, at its meeting Wednesday, February 15, added thirty-two names to the membership list and among these were Lawrence Hay, of East Providence; Howard Edwards, of Kingston, and William I. Brown, manager of the Providence Seed Co.

William G. Grant, landscape gardener and nurseryman, corner of Gaskill and Prospect streets, Newport, returned last week from a seven weeks' tour of Nova Scotia with his wife.

James B. Canning had the decorations February 13 for the Redwood lodge of Masons.

John Macrae has been elected one of the trustees of the First Baptist church of this city.

Reports from the various weather observatories throughout this section call attention to the fact that there were more cloudy days or partially cloudy days during a period of sixty-two days ending last week than for any previous period of equal length of which there is any record.

Superintendent of Parks George A. Saunders, of Pawtucket, is recovering from an illness which has confined him to his home for several weeks.

Charles Thorley, of New York city, was a recent visitor to this city, looking for a promising place to open a store.

Charles F. Winslow has been elected superintendent of cemeteries of Pawtucket, and James C. Potter is now a park commissioner.

Johnston Bros., Dorrance street, had the decorations for the Rhode Island Automobile Club February 16.

E. Carl, of Lowell avenue, is bringing in some fine potted azaleas in 6-inch and 8-inch pots.

The Burke Rose Co., Inc., 548 Dyer avenue, is cutting an excellent crop of Killarney roses.

T. J. Johnston & Co., Edward Brooks, proprietor, furnished the floral decorations for the Providence lodge of the Elks for its banquet February 17.

William Hay is preparing to complete his new house as soon as the weather becomes settled.

William McKay has resigned as head gardener at Seaverge, the estate of E. T. Gerry, at Newport.

E. A. Chipman, proprietor of the East Woonsocket greenhouses, is confined to the house by an attack of the grip.

Edwin S. Manuel has the sympathy of his friends throughout the state in the recent death of his mother at Newport.

At the funeral, February 13, of Timothy McCarthy, whose death was recorded in The Review February 16, the pallbearers were Daniel S. Thurber, assistant superintendent of Swan Point cemetery; Frederick C. Greene, superintendent of parks of Providence; Timothy O'Connor, William Camfill, of Forest Hills cemetery, of Boston; Dr. J. H. Bartley and Col. John McManus. Interment was at Swan Point cemetery and the New England Cemetery Superintendents' organization was represented by George W. Cressey, of Salem; H. A. Derry, of Everett; A. M. Floyd, of Portland, Me.; W. J. Hargraves, of Jamaica Plain, Mass.; James J. Rafferty, of Malden, Mass.; J. C. Scorgie, of Cambridge; M. H. Norton, Peter Welch, D. H. Sullivan and L. J. Doogue, of Boston, and James W. Warren, Jr., of North End cemetery, Providence. The American Association of Superintendents of Cemeteries was represented by P. Brazil, of St. Louis, Mo.; J. H. Cunningham, of New York city; J. M. Driscoll, of Brookline, Mass.; Col. A. K. McMahon, of Newport, R. I.; W. F. Salway, of Cincinnati; J. P. O'Connor, of St. Paul, Minn.; J. C. Cline, of Dayton, O., and John Reid, of Detroit, Mich.

FRAMINGHAM, MASS.

S. J. Goddard.

At S. J. Goddard's, carnations are always the leading feature. Helen Goddard is grown in quantity as a dark pink, and its free flowering qualities and even colored flowers stamp it as hard to beat. White Perfection is here much preferred to White Enchantress and looked well. One bench was devoted to Granite State, raised by George E. Buxton. Pink Delight is the greatest of all carnations here and the demand for cuttings seems insatiable, everyone seeming to want it. Winsor looked well and remains at the head of its color, never being off crop. Dorothy Gordon as seen here had the same trouble as with Wm. Nicholson—splitting badly. It is, however, well liked, being preferred to Rose-pink Enchantress. Loris, a dark pink variety raised by H. H. Rogers, was occupying one long bench. The stems were excellent, but the color seemed a little too dark to take on the market.

Beacon reigned supreme as a scarlet, as Harry Fenn did as a crimson. The new King construction house here makes a splendid light house for carnations. Mr. Goddard has lately taken up orchids on a small scale and had a nice lot of odontoglossums, dendrobiums and cattleyas, all the flowers from which are used for the increasing home trade in designs. Azaleas, Freesia Purity, gladioli, English primroses, sweet peas, pink antirrhinum and a variety of miscellaneous stock, much of which is sold at home, were noted at this progressive place.

Elmira, N. Y.—Mrs. C. D. Murray is establishing a flower business at 766 Spaulding street. As a beginning, she has planted one greenhouse with geraniums and chrysanthemums.

READERS ARE INVITED TO CONTRIBUTE ITEMS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT.

Hudson, Mass.—Ernest Ross has recently been confined to his home by illness.

Lockport, N. Y.—Thomas Mansfield has some of the finest lilies in this locality. Design work is a specialty with him; he is an expert in making frames.

Toronto, Ont.—It was reported under date of February 14 that John H. Dunlop had been suddenly stricken with serious illness and might have to undergo an operation.

Rushtown, O.—H. Frank Shiveley, who recently started in the florists' business here, was so unfortunate as to lose a large part of his stock by freezing.

Highfield, Md.—The greenhouses on the property of Frederick Happel, in this town, have been destroyed by fire. The loss amounted to several thousand dollars.

Gasport, N. Y.—White Bros. have sold their greenhouses to Burton Smith and will remove to Medina, where they will open a first-class store and erect a range of houses.

Libertyville, Ill.—The Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co. has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $10,000, by Joseph E. Meredith, Charles W. Stout and Benjamin H. Miller.

Crestline, O.—The Crestline Floral Co. uses natural gas as fuel for the heating of the houses, which contain 10,000 square feet of glass. J. A. Rosengren, the manager, says: "We heat with steam and pay 20 cents per thousand cubic feet for the gas. This, in cold weather, runs our bill up to $80 a month, or about $400 for the entire season. We have a thirty horse-power tubular boiler and have experimented with several kinds of gas burners in order to economize, but have not found much difference in the results."

Poseyville, Ind.—It is said that Frank B. Posey has been successful in the experiment of growing flowers and vegetables in the dark chambers of an abandoned coal mine, hundreds of feet below the earth's surface. He fitted up a sprinkling device in the subterranean rooms, installed an electric fan to provide the necessary circulation of air, and supplied a substitute for sunlight by putting in an acetylene gas plant, so adjusted that it would divide the time into "days" and "nights" of the same length as the natural days and nights above ground. The soil appears to be fertile and the plants have grown with surprising rapidity. Now Mr. Posey is planning, it is said, to increase the size of his underground garden, so as to be able to undertake marketing.

Norwalk, Conn.—Howard V. Worden, an experienced florist, has opened a store at 19 Main street, in the central part of town.

Iowa City, Ia.—Mrs. H. J. Paasch, wife of the nurseryman of this city, died February 7, in her forty-seventh year. She is survived by her husband and an adopted daughter, Gertrude.

Burlington, Mass.—A range of nine greenhouses is being erected here for Harvey C. Wheeler, who will use them for the growing of grapes. Freu Boline, a Woburn contractor, has charge of the construction.

McCook, Neb.—March & Johnson, of the McCook Nurseries and Greenhouses, have secured a $2,400 contract for the landscaping of the courthouse grounds at Sterling, Neb. The contract includes the care of the trees and shrubbery for a term of years.

Columbiana, O. — Henry Weaver, whose greenhouse was almost demolished last summer by a hail storm, and who purchased a tract of land near town upon which to build another and better one, now has the building erected and ready for use. It is located near the north borough line.

Beaumont, Tex.—The Southeast Texas Floral Co., at present occupying property near town, has taken a five-year lease of the property at the northwest corner of Spruce avenue and Collier's Ferry road, adjacent to Magnolia cemetery, and is erecting greenhouses there. The work is under the direction of C. J. Axelson, manager, and the entire plant will be transferred to the new location this spring.

Portland, Me.—The Portland Flower Store, until recently at 629 Congress street, is now located in the premises formerly occupied by the city branch of the Goddard Greenhouse Co. Charles L. Howe, proprietor of the Portland Flower Store, has purchased the downtown business of the Goddard concern. Miss Lougee, Mr. Howe's local manager, has fitted up the new quarters in handsome style. Mr. Howe has greenhouses at Dover, N. H., and stores in different towns.

Junction City, Kan.—Thomas Keeshan, Jr., of the firm of Keeshan & Son, of this city, has purchased four acres of ground three miles east of Topeka and will build a range of greenhouses there at once, to be used in growing stock for the wholesale market. The firm's greenhouses here, which have been conducted under the name of the Junction City Floral Co., are not large enough to meet the increasing demands and the new Topeka establishment will supply part of the trade.

Jamestown, N. Y.—Lawrence Cotter has filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities amount to $1,506.79; his assets, $75.

Orange, N. J.—The New Jersey Floricultural Society will hold a dahlia show here September 30. A premium list has been issued, of which copies may be had by addressing the secretary, Wm. Reid.

Wichita, Kan.—William H. Thomas, sometimes referred to as the Kansas rival of Burbank, died at his home in this city February 3, after a week's illness. He was noted for his rare skill as an amateur grower of plants.

South Albany, Vt.—Mrs. Willard F. Ames, who has about twenty acres devoted to dahlias, has met with considerable success in the sale of dahlia tubers and is now building up a general florist business in the sale of begonias, ferns, geraniums and other house plants.

Marshalltown, Ia.—I. O. Kemble, who has his headquarters here, with branches in different towns, has now acquired also the greenhouses heretofore conducted by M. J. Lockard, at Boone, Ia. Mr. Kemble expects to enlarge the Boone establishment and will place it in charge of A. H. Smith, a graduate of the school at Shaw's Garden, St. Louis, Mo.

Union City, Pa.—Fire, of unknown origin, destroyed the barn and warehouse at the Union City Greenhouses, Saturday night, February 11, including all contents, consisting of one horse, sleighs, wagons, implements, etc. One small greenhouse, 12x54, adjacent to the warehouse, was also destroyed, with contents. The remainder of the establishment escaped serious injury. The total loss was about $1,500, with insurance of $400.

Fort Morgan, Colo.—It is now nearly two years since The Review first announced that L. J. Reid was building a greenhouse in this town. Since that time work has steadily progressed, until his greenhouses are now among the best equipped in the northeast part of the state. This is but one of the small places which are springing up as a result of the prosperity which has come to the irrigated valleys of Colorado, following intensive farming and sugar-beet growing. The range is not a large one, but is being steadily added to each year. The houses are strictly modern and a choice stock is being furnished. Mr. Reid buys most of his flowers and plants in Denver when his own stock runs low, and Chicago frequently supplies him with building material, seeds and bulbs. He not only does a local retail business, but also ships cut flowers to the nearby towns in northeastern Colorado and western Nebraska.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, '01.
Officers for 1911: President, George Asmus, Chicago; vice-president, R. Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md.; secretary, H. B. Dorner, Urbana, Ill.; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y.
Special convention and National Flower Show, Boston, Mass., March 25 to April 1, 1911.
Annual convention, Baltimore, Md., August 15 to 18, 1911.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

The growing use of nicotine in Europe for insecticidal purposes has led to experiments in the cultivation of tobacco especially for the nicotine content.

E. W. Neubrand, secretary of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society, announces that the fall show of the organization will be held October 31 to November 2.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

Many people will tell you that the best index to a publication's closeness to its readers is the Want Ad department. And The Review's Want department is growing even faster than other parts of the paper.

German floricultural papers record some pronounced successes in feeding chrysanthemums with chemical manures instead of the natural article. The flowers of plants fed with phosphates, potash salts and nitrogen had particularly fine color.

The express rates in Illinois will not be reduced June 1; Judge Kohlsaat, in the United States Circuit Court, has declared the Illinois Railroad and Warehouse Commission has no authority to order such a reduction. The Illinois State Florists' Association was one of the organizations that joined with the Chicago Association of Commerce in a complaint to the commission. An exhaustive investigation was made, with the result that the commission ordered a reduction of twenty-five per cent. Six express companies joined in asking an injunction, which was granted to June 1 and has now been made permanent. The next step will be to get jurisdiction through the state legislature.

VISITORS TO KEW.

Perhaps no other one fact so well illustrates the general interest in floriculture in England as does the attendance at Kew. According to the Kew Bulletin, 3,546,302 visitors to the Royal Botanic Gardens were recorded during the year 1910. These figures show an increase of 186,081 over those of the previous year, and are the largest numbers on record. During the ten years, 1900-1909, 20,023,749 persons have visited the gardens, giving an average of 2,002,374.

OBITUARY.

Aaron H. Green.

Aaron H. Green, of the firm of Kerr & Green, in Baltimore, Md., died February 8, of heart failure. While standing at a street corner, engaged in conversation with his partner, he suddenly fell to the pavement, and was dead before a physician could be summoned. He had not been confined to bed by illness in fifteen years.

Born in Washington county, Maryland, he received his education in the schools there. After graduating he took up farming, but soon gave up that occupation and removed to Baltimore, where he secured a position in the Poole iron foundry. This position he held for nearly thirty years, after which he entered the florists' business with Mr. Kerr, his brother-in-law. Besides his widow, Mr. Green is survived by his two brothers, Charles and George Green, and also by six sisters, namely, Misses Alice, Annie and Josephine Green, Mrs. Emanuel Hines and Mrs. John Barrett, of Keyser, W. Va., and Mrs. Charles Welch, of North Carolina.

ENGLISHMEN ARE COMING.

Reference previously has been made to the plan of J. S. Brunton, editor of the Horticultural Trade Journal, Burnley, England, to conduct a party of British horticultural traders to the United States at the time of the National Flower Show. Mr. Brunton states that the trip "now is an assured success. Fourteen gentlemen are already booked. The party will sail from Liverpool on board the Lusitania March 11. Nineteen days will be spent in the United States, and the return will be made from New York April 5 on the Mauretania. Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, Ind., Chicago, Niagara Falls, Boston, New York, etc., will be visited, including the National Flower Show at Boston."

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

The market had a couple of quiet days in the middle of last week, during which carnations accumulated, to be jobbed off at low prices, but on the whole business continues excellent. The weather was dark and gloomy up to February 20 and held back production. At the same time, outgoing shipments were heavy Friday and local demand was good on Saturday. The present week opened with another good run of shipping trade, followed by active city business February 21, Washington's birthday being responsible for considerable extra demand.

So long as the dark weather lasted there was no possibility of any considerable increase in rose supplies, though growers agree that good cuts are in early prospect, given a few days of bright sun. Since last report there not only has been trifling increase in rose cuts, but Beauties actually have become scarcer. The one or two growers who were cutting heavily of Beauties have gone off crop, and those whose crops are on the up grade have been able to show little progress. Rose prices have held firmly, because it has not been possible to fill all orders. Few short roses are to be had; those coming in are already spoken for. Most of the receipts are medium or long. The special lengths continue to show exceptionally fine quality, considering the dark weather. One hardly could ask for finer Killarney, White Killarney or Richmond, and some excellent Maryland and Jardine are offered, with moderate quantities of Cardinal, Reid and other varieties.

Although carnations suffered a setback for a couple of days last week, the recovery was prompt and this week opened with a stiff market for carnations. The supply is large, though orders in some cases had to be shipped short February 20. Growers agree that a few bright days will bring extremely heavy cuts and that the shortage which recently has existed whenever there has been a little special demand, due largely to the scarcity of roses, will quickly be relieved.

Since Valentine's day the double violets have been going poorly; the quality of the best goods is nothing to brag about and many are received which are practically unsalable. The locally grown Princess of Wales are in the height of their season, many are extra fine and these have had the preference, though there has been no special call for violets of any kind. Sweet peas are coming in more plentifully. There are all kinds. Some of the peas are the finest ever seen in winter, are selling well and at good prices. On the other hand, some peas are extremely poor and are making prices which certainly give little profit to the grower. Bulbous stock is in large supply, except Romans, on which it sometimes is difficult to fill orders.

It is interesting to note that while business is apparently so good, everyone finds some cause for complaint. The buyers, especially those who do not personally visit the market, cannot comprehend the situation and many refuse absolutely to buy, except at a price they name. On the other hand, growers have been led to expect a better average return than it has been possible to make, losing sight of the fact that, no matter how scarce stock is, the wholesaler cannot ship it unless the quality is such that it will stand a journey; that top prices are only to be had for top quality. The wholesaler's position always is between the devil and the deep sea, but of late the horns appear to have been sharper than usual, and the water deeper.

Asparagus bunches are one of the extreme scarcities, but there is a good supply of asparagus strings, a condition which has not obtained for many months.

The New Street Numbers.

Those who have become accustomed to addressing mail to the Chicago wholesale florists, using the street numbers that have been employed ever since there has been a wholesale cut flower district in Chicago, will find some difficulty in accustoming themselves to the new numbers that will come into use April 1. The new numbering is based on State street as a north and south line and on Madison street as an east and west line. Consequently every number in the downtown district is changed. The new plan gives a number to each ground floor store, with a corresponding number for the basement below it, with a different number for the main entrance leading to all the upper floors. The city map department supplies the following as the new numbers of wholesale florists:

	OLD	NEW
Kennicott Bros. Co.	48-50 Wabash	163 N. Wabash

lature gives the commission some more authority.

The town of Maywood, long a florists' center, is to have at least 40,000 feet of new glass within the next few months. Paul Weiss is putting up two houses each 25x200, planned for extending later to 400 feet. Wm. Amling will build two houses each 27x300 and Wm. Wichtendahl will put up a house 25x100; with other growers yet to hear from. Albert F. Amling says the Maywood growers had no glimpse of the sun from ground hog day to February 18.

Miss Hertha V. Tonner, John Sinner and several other florists attended the performance of "The Rosary" by the St. Francis Dramatic Club, February 19, and report that Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, as Vera, was the hit of the show. The performance is to be repeated February 26.

Alex. Henderson, chairman of the program committee of the Florists' Club, states that he has issued a call for a rose meeting March 2, an invitation having been extended to E. G. Hill to deliver an address. Exhibits of the rose novelties are expected.

Vaughan & Sperry say the buyers have taken kindly to recent shipments of eupatorium.

Harry Manheim says that if he was not born lucky, he usually gets there in the end just the same. In the present instance every other member of a suit club beat him to it, but he won out February 20. That night Hoerber Bros. had a shipment of stock from the greenhouses after 8 o'clock that was shipped out of town the same evening.

Henry Tebbens, 23 years of age, son of Mrs. Barbara Tebbens, who keeps a flower store at 1204 South Ashland avenue, was shot February 16 as he was alighting from a street car at Nineteenth and State streets. His assailant is believed to have been insane.

C. W. McKellar reports the arrival of the first ten weeks' stocks and says they have been selling well.

Harry Garland, of the Geo. M. Garland Co., Des Plaines, Ill., will be married this evening, February 23, unless, as he says, "something decidedly unexpected happens." His bride is Miss Helen Yeager, of Crete, Ill. The young couple will spend their honeymoon at Marinette, Wis., and will be at home to friends after April 1 at the residence of the groom's parents in Des Plaines.

Gabriel H. Pieser, president of Kennicott Bros. Co., is steadily gaining in strength. Before his illness he weighed 259 pounds, but fell to 140. E. E. Pieser says the company's sales from January 1 to February 18 exceeded the sales for the entire two months of January and February of last year.

tion has not deteriorated one per cent in the J. A. Budlong plant, but that the demand for the cut blooms of this once premier variety shows a marked decrease, most of the best orders now being for white or flesh pink.

F. F. Benthey, dean of the Chicago wholesalers, who now is with Kyle & Foerster, says he does not remember any year in which carnations have brought such good prices for so long a stretch as this season. He says the eight weeks since Christmas have been notable in this respect; carnations averaged much lower in the same two months a year ago.

C. L. Washburn comments on the special call for Beauties for Washington's birthday. He says Bassett & Washburn are about a week late with their crop.

Winterson's Seed Store is busy shipping cannas. J. P. Degnan says the sales are twenty per cent ahead of last year and that some varieties are running low.

Geo. C. Wagner, 3112 Indiana avenue, is one of the incorporators of the Kenwood Co., the purpose of which is to conduct a community store in the Kenwood residence district.

William Dittman, the New Castle Beauty grower, has gone to Travers, Fla., for a month's outing.

Business has been good at the Pansy Shop, 4044 West Madison street, and Miss Sawyer has just completed remodeling that included an adjoining room added to her facilities.

Sunshine

Have you seen it? One of our growers called up the other day and asked if the sun ever shone in Chicago. We told him we had seen very little of it lately. He informed us that in the section of the country where he is located they had just 5 days' sunshine since January 1, and no prospects in sight, as it was raining at that time. With all this, it is remarkable the amount of stock we receive under these conditions. There is a good cut in everything except in roses, demand for these being ahead of supply. Bulbous stock, such as Tulips, Daffodils, Jonquils, Narcissi, Lilies, Valley, in good supply, quality fine.

DENVER.

The Market.

Ever since Christmas, stock has been exceedingly scarce, and there have been few days when the retailers have had everything they needed or wanted in the way of cut flowers. Weather conditions have been most favorable for plants under glass, but the sun did not succeed in bringing out as many blooms as the florists wanted. The warm weather was causing the trees and shrubbery to start into growth, but, fortunately, a change came the latter part of the week and the cold and snow will keep them back for a while.

The market was flooded with violets last week. Some of the retailers received large shipments from California in time for Valentine's day, which caused the sale of the home-grown product to drop off materially. The violet growers had planned on a big day, but they were disappointed, and a few, in order to dispose of their stock, offered it at ridiculously low prices. Bulbous stock is arriving in quantities, and there is a good demand for nice pans of daffodils, tulips and hyacinths. Some of the tulips seen have extremely short stems, the flowers barely showing above the pot.

The question of greens is becoming quite alarming. There is practically no smilax to be cut, and Asparagus Sprengeri and plumosus are very scarce. The supply of fancy cut fern leaves from the east has been cut in two, and everyone is having trouble getting enough greens to go around.

Everyone reports a good business for Valentine's day. Of course, there were not nearly enough red roses or carnations to satisfy all, and, as is usual at Christmas and on Valentine's day, the growers have been asked, "Why don't you grow more red?"

Club Meeting.

The Colorado Florists' Club met February 14, in the office room of the Park Floral Co. John Callis, manager of the Denver branch of R. G. Dun & Co., addressed the club, his subject dealing with the importance of any business man keeping the credit agencies posted as to his financial condition, especially as applied to florists. The talk was both interesting and instructive.

Then there was a discussion between the wholesalers and retailers, the subject being "The Annual Shortage of Roses in January and February." Papers were prepared and read by A. H. Bush, who took the retailers' side, and by Fred Hall, from the growers' viewpoint. Those who took part in the discussion, besides Mr. Bush and Mr. Hall,

Various Notes.

W. H. Grimes says that in all the years he has been in business he has never had as much funeral work as in the last few months.

The Park Floral Co. moved into its new store, on Broadway, in the early part of last week.

W. W. Wilmore, the dahlia specialist, has had a large force busy for some time addressing catalogues. These are mailed to all parts of the country. He has worked up a reputation for reliability, and his mail order business is growing larger every year.

The decorating at the Sheedy-Livingston wedding, February 15, was done by the Park Floral Co. Over 200 long-stemmed Beauties and 600 lilies were used, besides a quantity of other flowers. They also had an elaborate decoration at the Country Club recently, where the table accommodated seventy-five guests.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The supply of sweet peas is heavier than a week ago. This is remarkable, as the weather has been unfavorable to production. The market is hardly able to take all of them and the poorer stock suffered. Good peas sold well. Violets have fallen off since St. Valentine's day, but outside of these two varieties of flowers the market is in good shape. There is hardly as much business as a week ago. This season, a long one, is drawing to a close, but then there is by no means an abundance of flowers, and prices remain firm.

A large wedding order for white lilac and callas kept these two flowers on the move, while double daffs are active in face of lighter receipts than of singles. There is no special change in other flowers. Shipping is active; some large orders and many small ones have gone out during the week ending with Washington's birthday.

Sharon Hill.

Melody, Double Killarney and gardenias are the stars at Sharon Hill. Alexander B. Scott is away. Edward Schwartz may well be proud of the stock he will have to show on Mr. Scott's return. Melody is blooming as freely as predicted. The buds are excellent and it is in demand in the cut flower market. The Killarney range of 22,000 plants is in full crop, presenting a fine appearance. Double Killarney has not faded during the dark weather. In growth it is stronger than Killarney and the flowers are much larger. The gardenias are a sight. An immense crop of fine blooms on good stems is just coming into flower. They are worth going a long way to see.

In the earlier stages Robert A. Craig had expressed the opinion that the Easter plants would be particularly fine this year. In evidence of this he opened the doors of three houses. The first was filled with roses of the rambler, Lady Gay, and Tausendschon, American Pillar type, some trained as handle baskets, all thrifty and full of vigor. The second house was filled with giganteum lilies, deep green, stocky and even. The third was an ideal house of hydrangeas, decidedly dwarf, full of shoots and, best of all, with the flower buds set.

Farm School.

A little over fifteen years ago Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, the eminent Jewish rabbi of Philadelphia, consulted Count Leo Tolstoi, the Russian philanthropist, regarding the problem of the boys and young men of our cities who fail for lack of opportunity. Count Tolstoi's advice was, "Return to the soil." Farm School was started in 1896 in a small way, with half a dozen students. It has grown steadily year by year, through gifts of money and land from individuals, gifts of money from religious bodies and the state of Pennsylvania, until today Farm School embraces 366 acres, four large buildings, a chapel and three dormitories and many other buildings for stock, tools, etc., and greenhouses.

There are fifty-six students now at Farm School, and when the new Pennsylvania building is completed there will be accommodations for a score more. In short, Farm School is just getting into swing, as the director, Dr. J. H. Washburn, tersely described it.

"But," Review readers ask, "why go to Farm School?" Well, you see, Walter F. Fancourt is professor of horticulture there. Mr. Fancourt remarked at the great Burpee party, June 26 of last year, that none of the florists' papers had described the work at Farm School. There was an implied compliment in this remark; clearly Mr. Fancourt knew where to look for progress. Then, again, Mr. Fancourt is a graduate of Kew, a man of parts and the father of Edwin J., so that anything Mr. Fancourt wants goes.

Once arrived at Farm School, the work itself fully justified description and the highest praise. For here boys are taught to be men; brain and brawn alike develop to their own advantage and that of their country.

intended for city boys sixteen years old, who have a fair grammar school education. They are to be taught scientific farming, floriculture and the care of live stock. The course covers four years. The tuition is free, except for a small deposit.

During winter the classroom work is the feature, the freshmen and sophomores spending the morning in the classrooms, while the juniors and seniors spend the morning outdoors; this is reversed in the afternoon. The course includes agriculture, chemistry and physics relating thereto, horticulture, mathematics, English, dairy farming, the care of live stock, botany, and instruction in surveying, law and one or two other subjects in so far as they relate to farming. The summer course is largely outdoor work, with one hour for classroom recitation each morning and a study period after supper each evening.

The first building at the top of the hill includes the laboratory, where Dr. Washburn lectures, and one of the classrooms. The main building is devoted to dining room, linen room and dormitories, all neat and attractive in appearance. Each student has a room to himself and prizes are given for neatness. Mr. Fancourt is master in charge of this house. The next building, the most elaborate of all, is the gift of Adolph Segal; it contains classrooms, dormitories, a playroom with shuffleboards, shower baths, and a library containing many books of interest on live stock, farming, horticulture, etc., and supplied with magazines through the kindness of Mr. Burpee. Pennsylvania Hall is not quite complete. The chapel is used for non-sectarian services.

There are three greenhouses, devoted to growing cut flowers and plants. The stock consisted of carnations in exceptionally fine condition, calla lilies, Asparagus plumosus of most vigorous growth and an assortment of bedding plants and vegetables. A class of boys was engaged in potting carnation cuttings that had rooted in a way to do credit to Mr. Fancourt's pupils. A portion of the cost of maintaining this branch is derived from the sale of the product.

A view of the farm, beautiful in its wintry covering of snow, came next, Dr. Washburn pointing out the new piggery through which he drove. It was an astonishingly clean place, filled with contented grunters. Then came the cow stables, inhabited by blooded stock, certificated; the milk goes where none but the best will do. The poultry houses, containing Rhode Island Reds, Plymouth Rocks and White Leghorns, proved that those who know must have the best breeds.

The view on the farm was inspiring. Here was the tract of ground set apart for Mr. Fancourt's nursery next spring; there the wood where boys were cutting down the older trees for boards and firewood; then the peach and apple orchards, with promise of the first yield next summer; last the beautiful rolling country of Farm No. 3, comprising 160 acres, the last addition to Farm School, where great crops are grown with natural and commercial fertilizers, all aided by student labor. The boys do everything, Dr. Washburn said, and, when you come to think of that, it is remarkable how much is done and you feel that here is a good work, which is doing its part to solve the problems of the day.

Various Notes.

Smith, Lineaweaver & Co. report that market conditions on anthracite coal, so far as they apply to the steam sizes, are extremely active, and prices strong, with an extraordinary demand. Owing to the mild weather, the domestic sizes of anthracite coal have not been moving as rapidly as is customary at this time of the year, which has made considerable of a shortage on the steam sizes.

John F. Horn & Bros., Allentown, Pa., will build three houses, each 21x200 feet. The order has been placed with the King Construction Co.

M. Rice & Co. report the arrival of sixty-five cases of butterflies, mats, ribbons and other specialties.

Ira H. Landis purchased the W. B. Girvin place, Paradise, Pa., at public sale February 11 for $8,500.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co. have filled from their own factory an order for wood baskets in five styles. The reference to these baskets, as described by Mr. Bayersdorfer in the issue of February 9, should have read, "Half gypsy baskets, the mirrors giving them a double effect."

Dr. L. H. Bailey, of the Department of Horticulture at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., will deliver a lecture on "The Country Life Situation" in the Harrison Laboratory of Chemistry, Thirty-fourth and Spruce streets, Monday evening, February 27, at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Chapter of the Society of Sigma XI.

St. Patrick's Carnation Fluid

Directions for Use.

To get the best results put the stems of flowers in about 2 inches of fluid, leaving them there about 30 minutes. After taking them out of fluid put them right in water for about two hours, which has a tendency of forcing the fluid up to the bloom and making that pretty shade of green.

fine gardenias from Morton. The large, steady cut of roses sent them from the same place do W. E. Fowler credit.

Robert Shock, of M. Rice & Co., who has just returned to the city, describes a house of White Perfection carnations grown by D. Herron at Olean, N. Y., as the finest he ever saw. Mr. Shock also spoke of the enterprise of the Binghamton Seed Co. and of his finding a Review in a place he visited with a page marked at the story of Edward Reid being like William Jennings Bryan, because the solid south is for him, you know.

John W. McIntyre has home-grown Golden Spur and Emperor that court a test with the imported stock. They are fine.

W. & H. F. Evans are cutting Acacia pubescens from that wonderful tree at Rowlandville. It goes to the Leo Niessen Co. Phil.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Trade has been fine. Valentine's flowers were widely advertised and it brought more trade than was expected. Sweet peas and violets were greatly in demand. Many people forsook the fancy paper valentine for an attractive box of cut flowers. All the florists were delighted with the heavy trade and the prospect of February 14 being a firists' day in the future.

Richmonds and Beauties have been scarce. Pink and white roses are coming in much better than they were a few weeks ago. Carnations are plentiful. Sweet peas are coming in fast now and the price is going down. There has been a fine demand for daffodils and jonquils.

Various Notes.

W. J. Barnes has a fine lot of auracarias.

W. L. Rock's flower store is filled with big hydrangeas and pyramid azaleas.

Mr. Biggam, of the Alpha Floral Co., has been busy with the motor show decorations this week.

Albert Barbee has everything in fine shape. He grows quite a few snapdragons and ten weeks' stocks for his winter trade. Easter lilies are fine; he intends to have them the year around from now on. He is starting a large batch of dahlias for cut flowers. His geraniums are in nice shape and he will have 15,000 for spring bedding. He forces 20,000 narcissi and says they are the best paying flowers in the houses. His cinerarias are the finest and largest I have seen in this market.

William Foith, who is located at Forty-seventh street and Lloyd avenue, Rosedale, Kan., has some extra fine carnations. He is busy taking cuttings. His roses are breaking nicely after the holiday crop. One house is devoted to sweet peas. W. H. H.

Six Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand. If you are the only florist in your city represented here, you get the orders coming into your territory from other florists. If you are not represented and "the other fellow" is—we can leave it to you what becomes of these desirable orders.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

We are at present in the height of the season, and the flower shop owners are all well satisfied with this year's business, both in the line of cut flower sales and decorations. The large demand for corsage bouquets calls for an especial increase in the regular stock of orchids, mostly cattleyas, and valley. Both flowers, principally the latter, are shown in abundance and perfect growth in the windows of our prominent florists and, being this season's favorites, find always a ready sale.

The great mass of Roman hyacinths and Paper White narcissi, which came into bloom far ahead of the intended time on account of the hot weather which has prevailed since the second week of January, was almost entirely disposed of for funeral work, for which there has been a large demand. The crop of these flowers is almost gone and at present there is hardly anything on hand to take their place, outside of freesias, candytuft, sweet alyssum and a few short-stemmed sweet peas. The outdoor roses are beginning to bloom and both the pink and white varieties will help considerably in the make-up of funeral designs and the cheaper grade of bunches.

Italian, white and pink, as well as miniature Dutch hyacinths, are making their appearance, but the season here will be a short one. Formosa lilies are still in bloom and Harrisii, longiflorum giganteum and what is called here the Louisiana grown can be seen at our local growers in great profusion and the plants are at present altogether better than in former years, with the prospects for a splendid Easter crop decidedly encouraging.

The last few days of this month and the first week in March will prove a strenuous time for all the florists in the cut flower and decorative lines. The carnival season will reach its climax and with the large influx of wealthy strangers, the daily entertainments, and especially the elegant balls of the most prominent carnival organizations, it will keep them busy catering to the demands of these occasions. As in former years, Chicago is furnishing the greatest quantity of choice flowers used.

Society Meeting.

The New Orleans Horticultural Society held a most interesting and well attended monthly meeting, February 16 at Kolb's German Tavern. J. C. Quinette read an interesting paper on "Trees and Tree Culture in New Orleans," which although rather lengthy was straight to the point and, from a practical standpoint, splendidly handled.

Dr. Joseph Holt, president of the parking commission, spoke of the work that was going on and the fight the commission is making to have all trees bordering on sidewalks planted in a uniform, balanced style. Dr. Holt announced that the parking commission has about 10,000 trees on hand in the city nursery ready for planting by July or August and that about 70,000 trees would be planted within the next two or three years.

An animated discussion followed both papers, in which S. R. Lundy, George Mogell, Ed Baker, C. R. Panter, Paul Abele, A. Alost, J. St. Mard and J. A. Newsham took part. The present method employed by some people of pruning and spraying of trees and shrubbery was condemned and a law recommended to have such work done properly and skillfully, to check the inroads which insects are gradually making. A vote of thanks was tendered to the lecturers and others taking part in the discussion.

At the next meeting J. A. Newsham will read a paper on "Orchids as Grown in the South for Commercial Use."

A. Alost showed a fine specimen of American Beauty, with perfect stem and foliage.

J. A. Newsham exhibited elegant cut flowers of Cattleya Skinneri and Oncidium splendidum bordered with Adiantum hybridum, thus forming the carnival colors, purple, gold and green.

Visitors were: S. R. Lundy, representing W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.; George Mogell, chief gardener of the I. C. R. R., Chicago. R. E.

total of the business ran far ahead of expectations. Violets, sweet peas, Bon Silene roses, carnations and bulbous stock were in heavy demand. The shipping trade February 13 was heavy and was the most satisfactory recently experienced by the local wholesalers and retailers. The balance of the week brought a good, steady run of business. Roses continue on the short side and carnations are just about equal to the demand. Bulbous stock is arriving in quantity and is moving out well. The good stock in all lines is picked up rapidly, while the poorer stock has to be worked off at a cheap price. Easter lilies have shortened up and for a few days toward the latter part of last week were out of the market. Dutch hyacinths came in heavily the last few days of the week, but the wholesalers managed to clean them up in good shape. Sweet peas and violets are coming in finely and are picked up about as fast as they are unpacked. The condition of the market as it stood February 20 was quite satisfactory.

Various Notes.

The Detroit florists recently had the privilege of seeing two new varieties which give promise of becoming popular. One is the new rose grown by the Minneapolis Floral Co. The rose is best described by calling it a pink American Beauty. The other was a vase of Washington carnation grown by the Chicago Carnation Co. This carnation is similar in color to Lawson and met with much favorable comment.

A recent visitor to Chicago was John H. Warncke. Mr. Warncke was one of a committee interested in crematoriums.

Albert Pochelon received a wireless dispatch from August Von Boeselager en route from Europe, who arrived home February 21.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA.

The Herman Bros. Co. is replacing all cypress benches with sectional concrete benches, using the old bench lumber for bottoms. The sides, legs and cross bars are of concrete, so built that when the board bottom gives out, concrete slabs can be laid in. Mixed lengths of boards can be used with little or no cutting. Three thousand feet are now under construction, to be completed during the summer. The firm has two benches that were built in one piece, but likes the sectional bench better, as it can be set up at any time and is ready for immediate use. The molds for this work were originated on the place.

Corrugated Shipping Cases

FOR FREIGHT AND EXPRESS SHIPMENTS

50% cheaper than wood cases

These cases are made of heavy waterproof corrugated fiber board, and are accepted by railroads same rate and classification as wood cases. They will stand more rough handling, are much lighter, can be sealed with less expense than nailing covers on wood cases, and are supplied flat, effecting a great saving in storage room. We make them all sizes and for all purposes.

Plain or printed. Illustration shows case made up, also case flat as supplied.

THE Des Moines Seed Co., 409-11 East Fifth street, Des Moines, Ia., opened a cut flower department February 16.

VISITED CHICAGO: F. H. Henry, of Henry & Lee, New York; Mr. Goldberg, representing Ralph M. Ward & Co., New York.

MRS. SUTTON, wife of Martin J. Sutton, head of the well known English seed house of Sutton & Sons, died early this month at her home, Holme Park, Sonning, Berkshire.

CALVIN N. KEENEY, who is sole owner of N. B. Keeney & Son, Le Roy, N. Y., says business is limited to the quantity he is able to produce rather than by the quantity for which he can book orders.

THE Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, has developed a testing establishment of considerable proportions at its Columbus, Wis., branch. Thirty acres were last season devoted to trials, largely of peas and beans.

THE John B. Davis Seed Co., recently incorporated at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., will make the growing of peas and beans on contract its principal business, but also will deal in other vegetable, flower and field seeds.

SOUTHWESTERN seedsmen and, indeed, those in other sections, have this season sent considerable quantities of seeds to customers in Mexico. The Mexican railroads are working to increase the growing of winter vegetables for shipment to the northern markets.

THE John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., in its St. Valentine's day mail received a number of empty envelopes each bearing the government stamp: "Found in rifled pouch at Council Bluffs, Ia., February 3, 1911.'' There was a train robbery near Council Bluffs on the date named.

The Kirkeby & Gundestrup Seed Co., Chicago, has just completed a large, new warehouse and store building at 5221 Norwood Park avenue, across the street from the original building. The new structure is built entirely of concrete blocks and is to be used in addition to the former quarters. Knud Gundestrup, president of the company, says that business is considerably ahead of last year.

C. M. Robinson, Baltimore, has leased the third floor of the large building at 614 East Lombard street for a seed warehouse.

J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston, February 18 delivered an illustrated lecture before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society on ''Where Seeds are Grown.''

SEEDSMEN'S WELFARE WORK.

Information came from a sure hand that W. Atlee Burpee had a new idea in successful operation at his firm's seed house at Fifth and Buttonwood streets, Philadelphia. A request for an appointment met with prompt telephonic response; at the appointed time Mr. Burpee was ready in his spacious office on the second floor; with him were Howard M. Earl and a relative.

Mr. Burpee led the way to a large dining room at the northern end of the third floor, where the women employees were at lunch. The room contained perhaps thirty tables, capable of accommodating 150 persons in all, with a counter across the end where milk, coffee, sandwiches and other food were served. ''This is the welfare work,'' Mr. Burpee said. ''The young women of our seed house are served here at cost; milk is two cents a glass, sandwiches five cents and so on. We think it a great advantage.'' The party was given excellent cups of coffee while watching with pleasure the animated scene before them.

Mr. Burpee then led the way to the top of his seven-story building, giving a view of the Delaware on one side and William Penn surmounting City hall on the other, with the city proper and West Philadelphia stretching far away in the distance. Each floor was visited in turn, Mr. Burpee explaining the points of interest. The building proper is seven stories in height. The new building, lately completed and connected with the older one, is four stories. Both are extremely light and give the impression of great strength. System is evident everywhere, from the most important to the most trifling detail; without this system hopeless confusion would ensue in a business of such extraordinary size. The immensity of the building, the huge quantities of seed, the number of employees (260) prove this true. Every inch of space is occupied. Everyone was busy. Seeds of certain popular varieties, in quantities most surprising, were there. Large spaces were filled with a single variety of seed in quantity, other spaces with mailing seeds; this amount will be doubled in March. A sweet pea corner is devoted to the special, advertised offers, such as appear in the popular publications.

Mr. Burpee pointed out a change made to meet a recent postal ruling; the seeds to go by mail are in transparent seed bags, while those to go by express or freight are still put up in the stronger bags that are opaque. A seed-measuring machine, electrically propelled, first put in use by this house, is a great labor-saver for fine seed. The coarser seeds, especially sweet peas, are measured by hand. Mr. Burpee attaches importance to his system of marking each packet with the date. For instance, "Sweet Peas for 1911" on a packet gives confidence to the purchaser to do his or her best, sure that the seed is not aged. Great care is taken that all seed be true to name, even after it is received in the warehouse. After the tests put upon it by the grower, it is spread out on tables, where sharp eyes and nimble fingers find and discard the rogues.

The basket system of keeping orders together, the checking, packing, tying and weighing are all done with a thoroughness comparable only to the harmony existing between the different parts of a perfect machine. The typewriters—I know not whether they were Remingtons or Underwoods—were buzzing away merrily in a room by themselves, with perfect light from tall windows and none to disturb their happy voices.

The financial department is in charge of A. E. Brown. Here all orders and all money are received. The average of a dozen or more orders was about $3,

The "Spencer" Type of Sweet Peas

Burpee's Special Re-selected Stocks for 1911

"SPENCER" SWEET PEAS are a great specialty with us! We were the first to grow the seed in America -- the stock having been entrusted to us before introduction, even in England, of the original COUNTESS SPENCER. We have grown "the original Beauty" and its many "sportive" children with painstaking care each season since. There are but few other growers who can supply an equal assortment of TRUE RE-SELECTED "SPENCERS" that are uniformly of such choice quality. Seedsmen and florists can see how superior our stocks now are by the trials at FORDHOOK FARMS next June or July, while those who may be in California are invited also to inspect the growing crops at our FLORADALE FARM, in the beautiful Lompoc Valley. Every planter's garden, however, is really a trial ground, and we shall be quite content if any "Doubting Thomas" will send us only a portion of his order and NOTE THE DIFFERENCE in character of flowers produced.

☛ You can buy so-called "Spencer" Sweet Peas at half our prices -- but the result will be only disappointment, and when in flower you will surely admit that you would gladly have paid EVEN DOUBLE OUR PRICES to have had the BURPEE QUALITY of the TRUE SPENCER TYPE!

and there was that wonderful building! It was delightful to see Mr. Brown, with three tin boxes resembling an extra large cracker box without a top, one for stamps, one for money and checks, and one for money orders, the fullest of all. "You see," Mr. Burpee said, "these are mostly small amounts. The seedsman has to work hard for what he gets, whereas my cousin, the doctor here, receives $5 just for feeling your pulse."

Mr. Brown then explained that after the envelopes were opened, the money checked and compared with the order, an adding machine was employed to prove the cash additions correct. The orders then go to the card clerks, who enter each under name and number; from them they go to the packers. The aim is to get every order off within twenty-four hours; sometimes an excess of business prevents this; sometimes a writer fails to give name and address when sending money. "What do you do then?" Mr. Burpee was asked. "We have to wait until an indignant letter comes asking why, etc. Then we compare the handwriting and send the seed with a humble apology for our delay," was his smiling reply.

"Many people in Philadelphia do not know there is a seed house here," Mr. Burpee said, but he might truly have added that there are many, many people outside of Philadelphia, even outside of America, who think it is the only seed house there. Phil.

MORE FREE SEEDS.

The bill before Congress providing for reciprocity with Canada contains this paragraph, under the heading of "Reciprocal Free List":

"Seeds: Flaxseed or linseed, cotton seed, and other oil seeds; grass seed, including timothy and clover seed; garden, field and other seed not herein otherwise provided for, when in packages weighing over one pound each (not including flower seeds)."

The intent of the phraseology is obscure. There is no other reference to seeds in the bill, from which it appears that, since flower seeds now come to the United States duty free, all classes of seeds "the growth, product or manufacture" of Canada will do so. A circular of the U. S. Department of State places on the reciprocal free list articles previously dutiable in both countries as follows: "Flaxseed; clover and timothy seed; seed of beet, carrot, parsnip, turnip, etc.; seed of cabbage, kale, kohl-rabi; other garden seeds and field seeds."

IN HOLLAND.

Writing at the beginning of February, the Dutch correspondent of one of the British horticultural trades papers spoke as follows:

"Compared with last year's January, this year has been even more of a deception to bulb growers, as we have had no winter at all, and not even a good dose of snow, as we had last year. In consequence of this unusually mild temperature, the young bulb shoots are making their appearance above ground, and winter covering had to be removed.

Stumpp & Walter Co.'s BEGONIA and GLOXINIA BULBS

We have the finest stock of these bulbs, and have been supplying the most critical trade for a number of years.

All carefully selected and graded, true to name and color.

Every florist should grow at least a few of these bulbs, for selling in pots during the summer months, and can also, by transplanting in large pots, grow specimen plants for September and October blooming.

We offer them in the following names and colors:

Begonia Bulbs Single flowering. White, yellow, pink, nankeen, rose, red, dark red, salmon, orange, or mixed, dozen, 40c; 100, $2.50; 1000, $20.00.

Begonia Duke of Zeppelin, dozen, $1.00; 100, $7.00.

Begonia La Fayette, dozen, $1.50; 100, $10.00.

Begonia Bulbs Double flowering. White, orange, yellow, rose, dark rose, dark red, red, salmon, or mixed, dozen, 60c; 100, $4.00; 1000, $35.00.

Begonia Worthiana, dozen, $2.00; 100, $15.00.

Begonia Butterfly, dozen, $3.00; 100, $20.00.

Gloxinia Bulbs The handsomest of our blooming plants, the rich and varied coloring of the flowers being interesting in the extreme, many of them beautifully speckled; flowers 3 inches long by 2 inches in diameter, upright and pendulous; colors various and exceedingly rich in appearance.

Emperor Frederick, red bordered white.
Emperor William, violet bordered white.
Princess Elizabeth, white bordered blue.
Princess Mathilda, white bordered rose.
Mont Blanc, pure white.
Violacea, dark violet.
Madame Helene, white crowned violet.
Queen Wilhelmina, dark rose.
Defiance, scarlet.
King of the Reds, deep scarlet.
Prince Albert, dark violet.
Fine mixed.

Per dozen, 75c; per 100, $5.00; per 1000, $47.50.

As the days are now lengthening, vegetation is likely to start up quite early under the slight covering now left on the bulb fields. Nothing can, of course, be said yet as to the likely results of such an advanced season, but experience has shown that in few cases can any benefit be reaped from it. Even at the present moment a dose of snow and a good bit of frost would do more good than harm.

"Seedsmen are now exceedingly busy, and have been much upset by the out of season mild weather; not even the extraordinarily long working hours made it possible to cope with the continuous inpour of orders, and it is likely that many seeds will be sown in too cold a ground to secure germination unless spring weather should really set in in February instead of in March."

IMPORTS.

The imports of seed through the port of New York for the week ending February 11 were as follows:

same time there is no pressure from packers to sell either spot or future goods. In fact, it is reported that stock remaining unsold out of the 1910 pack in the hands of canners is much lighter than in any previous year at this time. In future Maryland tomatoes the movement is light. Future western peas have sold freely until recently at the opening prices and there is a further demand, but packers have sold about all they care to in advance of the pack. The movement in Maine future corn is somewhat disappointing to packers and it is rumored that some of them are making a lower price to get business. Western corn is not freely offered on the spot or for future delivery and prices are firmly maintained.''

The weather man certainly is most unkind. One day he gives us bright, sunny weather that pushes the mercury up to 72 degrees, but the next day he hands out rain and the third day he serves hail and snow. At the end of last week most orders were again being filled in full. This week, if the first day is an accurate criterion, they will be more than filled, for February 20, the day of all days for the retailers to replenish their stock, the buying was light, while the receipts were heavy. A brisk shipping demand has served to take many flowers out of the market and, judging from advance orders for the week, this will continue. The auto show and consequent social functions should take up many flowers.

White roses come in splendidly, while pink are less in number. Killarney, White Killarney, Richmond and Rhea Reid are all off crop. Carnations arrive stronger every day and until this week found a splendid market. Bulbous stock and callas arrive in larger quantities. Of the former the good flowers sell readily, while the poorer ones drag considerably. Longiflorums have slackened temporarily. Valley finds few buyers. Marguerites and sweet peas are good stock.

Single violets increased in supply last week. They move correspondingly slow. Saturday evening, at the close of the flower market, many were jobbed to buyers. The New York doubles, too, are in good supply.

In decorative greens Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri are in oversupply.

Various Notes.

Wm. Murphy has leased the four-story building at 309 Main street, immediately south of his present location. He will take possession March 1. This will give him ample storage facilities, which he lacks at his present location.

Geo. Klotter, of West Price Hill, is sending L. H. Kyrk some excellent single violets.

O. B. Murphy is consigning fine sweet peas to C. E. Critchell.

"The florist can raise the price when he can't raise anything else."—Pointed Paragraphs in Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The following suburbanites were callers last wek: Wm. H. Gardner, of New Castle, Ind.; J. T. Hardegen, of Aurora, Ind.; Wm. Lodder, of Hamilton, O.; Jos. Goldman, of Middletown, and Simon Hyder, of Hillsboro.

Bowling.

Ray Murphy won the prize donated by E. G. Gillett for the highest average in the record games for the evening of February 20. The scores were:

Player.	1st	2d	Ave.
Al Horning	140	138	161
Ray Murphy	166	188	156
Al Heckman	180	159	152

You have heard about the idle rich—well, in the writer's opinion the rich are the busiest people on earth. Of course, as to what some of them are doing the less said the better, but don't put them all in the same class until you know what the facts are. Some of the rich are doing better work than the poor, because they think. One of the hardest things to do is to make people think—to reason out a point and consider matters.

If the buyers of lily bulbs knew all the circumstances connected with the direct importation of the Horseshoe Brand bulbs, they would buy no other brand. There are no lily bulbs produced which will flower 100% every year, but Horseshoe Brand bulbs will average higher in the course of time than any other brand marketed. There are reasons why, and good ones—ask us.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business last week was somewhat spasmodic. Monday, February 13, was a severe winter day and made the florists gloomy after the preparations and expectations of a good St. Valentine's trade, but the weather changed Tuesday; business started with a hum and kept up until late. Violets were in great demand, but red, of course, had the principal call and carnations and roses were cleaned out early. Pans of red tulips were the principal potted plants and also moved well. Attractive window displays were noticeable on all sides and business was reported to be twenty per cent ahead of last season.

Spring flowers are becoming more plentiful, of greater variety and clean up readily, gradually displacing other lines for table arrangements. Preparations for outside gardening are more active with the advent of spring weather and the catalogue men are kept busy supplying the out-of-town demand, which is considerably earlier than usual.

Various Notes.

O. C. Hughes, of Camas, Wash., was in town recently. His houses are devoted to vegetables, but he intends to turn it into a carnation range.

H. F. Richards, of Mt. Tabor, is on the sick list, but is improving slowly.

E. R. C.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

There has been a decided change for the better in the weather and everyone has hopes that the sunshine will last for a spell. The nights are rather frosty and this has a tendency to check somewhat the output of violets and the few early daffodils, as well as to hinder the fruit blossoms, which were advancing rapidly under the favorable conditions which we have had for the last few weeks. Daffodils and narcissi are lower in price than they have been at any time this year, and violets are a shade higher. The prices of inside stock, in the line of carnations and roses, have stiffened a little over those asked for the last few weeks, but we may look for lower quotations in a few days if the good weather continues. Maidenhair ferns and asparagus are scarcer and the wild adiantum cannot yet be had in sufficient quantities to be much of a factor.

Valley is in good supply and moves well. Lilium Harrisii comes in the same category and is in good demand. A few California wild flowers are seen in the shops, but it will be a few weeks before they will be given much prominence. Business is fair and gives every

A cross between Joe Thomson and Clown, originated by Mr. J. Burgle of Fruitvale, Cal., and named after his wife, Mrs. Minna Burgle, is the best Red Decorative Dahlia ever produced and will supersede all other red varieties now grown for cut flowers here or abroad. It draws your attention instantly when planted in a collection of Dahlias, for it is one of the most showy flowers ever created. True decorative, bright scarlet, showing a darker shading in center, bold erect flowers, 6 to 8 inches in diameter, with excellent stem, foliage of remarkable substance, height 5 to 6 feet, good keeper and will not burn in hot weather, and is a freer bloomer than either parent. This variety has been tested by me for three years and has shown no weak points.

A vase of 50 blooms shown by me, also a basket of them exhibited by Sievers Floral Co., of San Francisco, both carried first prizes in the Fall Flower Show in San Francisco, and caused more comment among gardeners and visitors than any other exhibit. Cut flowers sold for the first time last year brought 50 per cent more than any other variety of dahlias, including Joe Thomson.

indication of a good advancement in the near future.

Various Notes.

The MacRorie-McLaren Co. is receiving large consignments of hardy ornamental trees from the southern part of the state.

Domoto Bros., of Elmhurst, are in line with about 50,000 Lilium Harrisii for Easter. The stock looks first-rate at this time.

W. H. Swanigan has moved his establishment from Eleventh street to the corner of Twelfth and Jefferson streets, Oakland.

David Mitchell, well known to the gardening fraternity in this city, has removed to Fresno, Cal.

Carl Purdy, of Ukiah, is sending some fine stock of the native fern growths to the local dealers. They have become quite popular with the flower buyers during the last few seasons.

William J. Graham, the well-known landscape gardener, has removed to 571 East Twenty-third street, Oakland.

G.

The MacRorie-McLaren Co. will exhibit phalænopsis and other orchids among their specialties at the S. A. F. national show in Boston. Elmer B. Guerry, late of Plymouth, Mass., is now in San Francisco and will join the forces of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. in the landscape department, which steadily grows in magnitude.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Business here is good. The stores are doing well and reporting trade as unusually heavy. The mildness of the season, with not too much rain, enables us to have plenty of flowers of fair quality, outdoor grown. Daffodils are beginning to arrive in quantity, and are of a high grade.

Various Notes.

A new store, named the Dolphin Flower Shop, was opened a short time ago at 337 South Spring street, with E. C. Cloud as manager. He has had several years' experience in this city and will no doubt make a success of it. He says business has opened up finely.

Mr. Bateman, formerly of the Angelus, is now with the Hayward Floral Co.

E. C. Amling, of Chicago, who is spending the winter in Orange county, dropped into town recently and visited, among other places, the Los Angeles Flower Market.

F. R. Hills, formerly of Maywood Hills, now has a place of five acres in the city and, as a starter, has erected several houses, growing mostly pot plants. His Christmas stock was fine.

C. E. M.

A MYRTLE IN OREGON.

I have received an order from a customer to move a broad-leaved myrtle, about eight feet high and as much through. It was planted from the woods when quite small and has not been disturbed since. What is the best season in which to move it in this Oregon climate? What sort of a root system does a myrtle have—fibrous or otherwise? Would it be advisable to root-prune it this spring and move it in early fall? Is it necessary to strip the leaves, as is done in moving large hollies?

D. M.

As this query comes from Oregon, the answer would not correspond to the conditions that would naturally be confronted in many other sections of the country. As the myrtle in this state practically has no resting season, there would be no benefit in waiting until the fall before handling. If the soil in which it is growing is of such a consistency that a good ball of earth can be made to encase the roots and hold to them sufficiently to prevent their becoming too much exposed, there is no necessity for root-pruning. If, however, the soil will fall away in the process of boxing, the top and roots should both be closely cropped and the plant allowed to stand several months before a final effort is made to shift it. The myrtle makes quantities of small roots and is an easy shrub to transplant at any season. Unless some accident befalls the plant in transit, there is no necessity of stripping the leaves, and if care is used in the boxing and replanting no harm should befall it. For a myrtle eight feet high the ball of earth should be about two feet square, and if the sides of the box are not made of too heavy material it can be planted along with the tree and it is doubtful if it will show any signs of having been disturbed.

Oakland, Md.—The H. Weber & Sons Co. has opened a branch store in the new Gore building, on Pike street, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Belleville, Ill.—Adolph G. Fehr has completed the plans for the enlargement of his greenhouses. A. S. Halstead, of the St. Clair Floral Co., will also begin the erection of an addition soon.

Somerville, Mass.—George Ward has sued the Cambridge Gas Light Co. for damages to the amount of $5,000, on account of injury which he states has been caused to his stock by the leaking of gas on Broadway and Bristol road.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1910-11: Pres., W. P. Stark, Louisiana, Mo.; Vice-pres., E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-sixth annual meeting, St. Louis, June, 1911.

THE Knoxville Nursery Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., recently purchased a 275-acre tract of land. With this addition, the area of the firm's grounds is now 750 acres. The price paid for the new property was $8,000.

W. P. STARK, president of the American Association of Nurserymen, of Stark Bros. Co., Louisiana, Mo., recently appeared before the appropriations committee of the Missouri legislature in behalf of the state board of horticulture, of which Mr. Stark is a member. The asking was for $19,000 to carry on the work of the board for the biennial period.

THE Kopf Nursery & Realty Co. has been incorporated at Hartford, Conn., for the purpose of operating in the Isle of Pines. The capital stock of the concern is $70,000, and the intention is to conduct a citrus fruit nursery, and grow fruit trees, ornamental trees and vegetable plants. McKinley, Isle of Pines, is the place of business of the company. The incorporators are: J. F. Garrette, of Hartford; William E. Dickerman, Dr. Matthew H. Laity and H. B. Kopf, of New Haven; A. J. Lines, of Meriden; E. A. Kopf, of New York, and A. C. Kopf, of West McKinley, Isle of Pines.

MINNESOTA nurserymen have had a half rate for freight shipments of nursery stock. The railroads abrogated this, but the state railroad and warehouse commission refused to permit the increase to go into effect until June 1. February 13 a delegation of nurserymen, headed by L. L. May, of St. Paul, appeared before the commission, seeking to get the injunction against the new rates made permanent. During the hearing it developed that there are inequalities in the present rates between Lake City, Owatonna and the Minnesota Transfer. These the commission ordered equalized. The other matter was taken under advisement.

SEVERAL cases recently have been reported where nurserymen who had planted stock guaranteed simply "to grow" or "to live" had been brought into conflict with their customers because of the indefiniteness of the warranty. A guaranty, if given, should be for a specified time, as one year or two years, and should provide that at the expiration of that period the stock should be in a well established, healthy condition, as vigorous as the character of the site will permit. Anything short of this is an evasion of the intent of the guaranty that will react on the nurseryman. One would better not give any sort of a guaranty unless it is of the broadest kind and thoroughly lived up to. Having given a warranty, the nurseryman will be wise to protect himself by making frequent inspections, followed by such action as the circumstances may make expedient.

Practically speaking, no nursery stock comes from Canada to the United States; it almost all goes the other way. Consequently the reciprocity bill now in Congress is counted as advantageous to the nurserymen of the United States.

CANNAS

True to Name
Grown by Experts

You have no doubt from time to time bought CANNAS that were represented to you to be true to name, and strong sound divisions and in every way first-class, and when you opened them up they looked well and you planted them feeling that you were sure of a good crop; part of them came up straggling, many never at all, and all badly mixed; then you were disappointed and it was too late to plant again.

But did you ever buy Cannas of us, and did they turn out that way? Not that we ever heard of. Our business is the growing of Cannas, and we claim to be experts in this line, having devoted many years to the business. All of our Cannas are grown under the direct supervision of two of our firm. We use every precaution to keep them true to name and stand ready at all times to rectify any mistakes that may occur. Our prices are right considering quality, which we guarantee to be the best at all times.

Carnation Norwood

This variety has been grown by us for four years and has proven to be the best White Carnation we have ever grown.

NORWOOD is a Pure White, of good form, about 3½ inches in diameter, exceedingly fragrant, never known to split, and a free and continuous bloomer. The most profitable Carnation we have ever grown. An ideal commercial variety. Rooted cuttings (February delivery), $10.00 per 100; $75.00 per 1000.

It will pay every Carnation Grower to plant this variety—there's money in it.

and currant bushes, seventeen and one-half per centum ad valorem."

"Trees: Apple, cherry, peach, pear, plum and quince, of all kinds, and small peach trees known as June buds, two and one-half cents each."

Under the existing laws Canada levies on grapevines, gooseberry, raspberry and currant bushes a duty of twenty per cent, while the United States duty is twenty-five per cent. Therefore our reduction is thirty per cent as against twelve per cent reduction to be made by Canada.

On apple, peach, cherry, pear, plum and quince, the Canadian duty now is 3 cents each, while the United States duty is $1 per thousand, $2 per thousand, or twenty-five per cent ad valorem, according to the classification given by the appraisers. The statisticians in the Bureau of Trade Relations, U. S. Department of State, figure that the new Canadian rate is equivalent to a reduction in our favor of 16.67 per cent.

Nursery stock does not figure in the reciprocal free list under the proposed law, which already has passed the house but not the senate.

The bill provides that these reciprocal rates shall apply to "the growth, product or manufacture" of the two countries, so can not be used for articles merely imported through one country or the other.

APHIS ON LETTUCE.

I should like to find a satisfactory method of dealing with aphis on lettuce. I have tried smoking with tobacco stems. This kills some of them, but sometimes injures other plants. I have also tried fumigation with cyanide and sulphuric acid, but with even poorer results. The house is not glazed as tightly as it might be. Would it be safe to make the cyanide solution stronger? If so, would you use more sulphuric acid?

Can you suggest a good book on the culture of lettuce and geraniums and tell me where I can get it? W. E. C.

Aphis on lettuce is hard to exterminate when once well started. The best way is to keep the pest down with light fumigations given every week regularly, even when no insects are to be found. When once they are well established, it is necessary to keep after them almost every night until controlled, as nothing hurts the lettuce business more than lettuce that is so infested.

I think that if you would try Aphis Punk papers now, you would be well pleased with the results. They are much more efficient than stems and less injurious to the plants. Cyanide could certainly be used stronger than you used it, if it did not kill the aphis. You could increase all the ingredients, or, better, use more jars to a house. Stop up all holes in the house that can readily be repaired and it will make a great difference with the fumigation.

I know of no book covering both geraniums and lettuce. You can, however, get a bulletin on lettuce from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and there is a good chapter on geraniums in Scott's "Florists' Manual," which The Review sends postpaid on receipt of $5.

THE IMPROVED CANNA

¶ When the S. A. F. and O. H. have trial grounds we shall welcome a Canna test in America. When England issued a challenge a few years ago we entered the lists at once. The Royal Horticultural Society of England has about 200 acres at Wisely for Experimental Work. It is a fine tract about as far South of London as we at West Grove are Southeast from Philadelphia.

¶ A few years ago during a visit of our President to England the Royal Horticultural Society announced an International Trial of Canna Lilies. Entries came from Germany, Italy, France and England—we were the only firm representing America. From the 220 varieties tested for two summers the English judges gave to The Conard & Jones Company 40% of all the Awards. Furthermore, Conard & Jones Company Cannas were the only ones to win out in every color class represented.

¶ Would not your customers pay a little more for such superior sorts? Write for our list.

The Market.

Business has continued satisfactory. Stock is coming in quite plentifully, but is finding a ready market. Bulbous flowers are much more abundant than at any time this season and are meeting with a good demand. Violets also are selling well. Easter lilies and callas also are abundant. Carnations and roses are in normal supply, with prices about as usual at this season of the year.

St. Valentine's day brought a much heavier run of business than in any previous year, violets being most in demand, though lily of the valley also was in request. Following Valentine's day, business continued active and everyone seems well satisfied with the season to date.

Various Notes.

George Werley, formerly with J. H. Dunlop, has been visiting his parents here on his way from Pittsburg, where he was employed by the A. W. Smith Co., to Calgary, where he will take a position in Terrill's Flower Store.

W. Hill says business is good on Yonge street. He recently took over his father's place, but was obliged to move from the old stand because a railroad acquired the property.

J. H. Dunlop reports the season thoroughly satisfactory. E. A. F.

PRINCE DE BULGARIE.

A rosy flesh color that has in it the element of life. It is a color that appeals to the flower buying public, and those who buy should be the judges. This popularity, combined with the fact that it is a wonderful producer through the spring, summer and early winter, has proven to us that Prince de Bulgarie is a money-maker. While not at its best in midwinter, it produces good bloom, and every flower has been perfect. Grafted stock, $3.00 per dozen; $20.00 per 100; $180.00 per 1000. Pink Boston Market

A seedling of Boston Market and Harlowarden that has been under test for the past five years and which has shown up so well under all conditions that I now feel confident it is one of the best commercial varieties and have pleasure in offering it for the first time for spring delivery 1911.

The color is a shade lighter pink than Lawson; form high built, much like Boston Market; stem long and graceful; healthy grower; blooms freely from November all through the season.

This new variety I am confident will prove a money-maker—a pink Boston Market—only much larger and better and destined to be one of the most popular commercial varieties.

Come and see it growing, and would advise you to get early rooted stock, which is now ready. I guarantee same to be in perfect health.

The Market.

We are having a great deal of rain at present and there is an unusual amount of sickness. Typhoid fever has become an epidemic here. There has been a large demand for flowers for the sick and for funerals. There is a party now and then for those who are enjoying good health. California violets, lilies of the valley and sweet peas are plentiful now, while roses and carnations are scarce and hard to get. Azaleas are coming on well and bulbous stock is making its appearance. Primulas and cinerarias are looking fine.

Various Notes.

A. J. Baur, who has been sick with the grip, is convalescent. He and his family spent several weeks in Canada recently.

John Kallenbach, who was kicked by a horse last May, was obliged to have his left foot amputated last week, as a result of the accident. Mr. Kallenbach has been a valued employee of the Baur Floral Co.

The following visitors have been in Erie recently: C. F. Cokely, of the Scranton Florist Supply Co.; G. Reising, of Baumann & Co., Chicago; Morris Cohen, of Wertheimer Bros., New York city, and Mr. Green, of Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Chester Harris, formerly with John V. Laver at his flower store, has gone into business with a partner in Syracuse, N. Y.

Melody and Double Pink Killarney

¶ MELODY is the best commercial yellow rose today. We have proved this by the constant, steady cut we have been sending since November both to Philadelphia and New York. It is an easy grower and we feel sure will be profitable to the florist who wants plenty of buds during the winter months. If you wish to plant this sterling novelty, order now for March delivery and secure our first crop of plants. All our orders are filled in rotation. Own roots from 2½-in. pots, $6.00 per dozen, $30.00 per 100, $70.00 per 250, $250.00 per 1000. We do not offer grafted plants, as, like most yellow roses, Melody does better on its own roots.

¶ DOUBLE PINK KILLARNEY is as popular as Melody with every grower visiting our nurseries. It is planted in a section, side by side with Killarney, both planted at the same time and both grafted stock. The growth is much stronger, the flowers are larger, and there are one-third more petals than the ordinary Killarney. For shipping and for an all-year rose this sport is better than its parent. Own root, April delivery, $4.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100, $40.00 per 250, $150.00 per 1000. Grafted plants, on Dickson's Manetti stock, extra strong plants, March delivery, $10.00 extra per 100. First crop of own root Double Killarney all sold, but our second crop will be ready in April. Address

ROBT. SCOTT & SON, SHARON HILL, Delaware Co., Pa.

A GRAND NEW ..CARNATION... BRIGHT SPOT

outclasses everything heretofore grown in the dark pink section. Won first honors in the 100 class for best dark pink at the A. C. S. meeting, Pittsburg, January, 1910, also at the Chicago Flower Show, November, 1910.

It is a pure, bright, dark pink of even shade, size 3½ inches, an early and continuous bloomer, brings fully 25 per cent more flowers to the plant than Lawson at its best; flowers well shaped on long, wiry stems; calyx does not split. It is a good shipper, and the cuttings root easy.

Price, per 100, $12.00; 25 at 100 rate; per 1000, $100.00; 250 at 1000 rate; per 5000, $400.00.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Valentine week was a "hum-dinger" for the florists and the business was pretty evenly divided between them and the confectioners. Violets were the strong card and were plentiful and of excellent quality, selling at $2 to $3 per hundred. "A thorough clean-up" is the general report from the leading florists.

The excellent quality and big supply of spring flowers enable the florist to put up the best proposition ever offered in boxes of cut flowers. Roses and carnations continue scarce and it takes some hustling to procure enough to supply the demand.

All of last week was a busy one in addition to Valentine's day, owing to the approach of Lent and the necessary crowding of social events.

Various Notes.

The Cleveland Cut Flower Co. and Charles Reep, of North Olmsted, are sending in large cuts of daffodils, single and double, and tulips of all colors and varieties.

Frank Friedley will entertain several of the florists in his home at Rocky River, Sunday, February 26.

H. P. Knoble was recently elected chairman of the executive committee of the West Side Chamber of Industry.

Good orders for the auto show, in progress at the Central armory this week, are reported by several florists.

Knoble Bros. were busy Friday, February 17, with a decoration and corsage bouquets for the "Junior Prom." given by Western Reserve University at the Colonial Club.

Several of the leading florists went into heavier advertising for Valentine's day this year, and "It pays to advertise" is the verdict of all. C. D. F.

PITTSBURG.

The Market.

Pittsburg is in the midst of another heavy snowfall and the shortage of roses and carnations continues, although the quantity of bulb stock coming in more than makes up for all other shortages.

There is a steady business every day that is quite satisfactory among the retailers, although causing no unusual excitement.

Valentine's day was all that was expected of it. One retailer reports that it was the greatest day for corsages he ever saw and that the number of boxes delivered was greater than for any Easter. Of course, it is understood the sales would not amount to those of Easter.

Various Notes.

H. L. Blind & Bro. have the finest collection of Primula obconica ever seen in this city. The plants are fine and the colors, from highest pink to bright crimson, in both large and small flowers, certainly cannot be surpassed.

T. P. Langhans is one of those afflicted with cold and was housed up a couple of days last week.

Geo. Marshall, of the Pittsburg Cut Flower Co., continues to be a victim of grip.

Randolph & McClements have been having a steady run on decorations the last week and expect it to keep up until Lent.

Any florist who is in the vicinity of Pittsburg should not miss the entertainment by Prof. R. Vincent, White Marsh, Maryland, given at the Fort Pitt hotel, Tuesday, February 28, under the auspices of the Pittsburg Florists' Club. Some other social features will help make it worth while. Bring your ladies. Hoo-Hoo.

Buffalo, N. Y.—H. C. J. Wellbrook has erected a greenhouse at 71 Unger avenue and will grow carnations for the trade.

Reading, Pa.—E. H. Beears & Sons, formerly at 32 North Ninth street, have moved to 40 North Ninth street, in order to secure more space.

FINE FERNS

Ready For Immediate Retail Sale

We have an exceptionally fine and large stock of Ferns in the following varieties—first-class plants of exceedingly good value—plants that will please the most critical buyers, both in regard to quality and value.

Nephrolepis Elegantissima (improved). The finest of this type—never showing a Boston frond; has not reverted in the last four years. Fine plants, 4-in. pots, $2.50 per doz.; 6-in., $6.00 per doz.; 8-in., $12.00 per doz.; large specimens in 12-in. pans, $3.00 to $5.00 each.

Nephrolepis Elegantissima Compacta. This bears the same relation to Elegantissima that Scottii does to Bostoniensis. It is a dwarf, compact plant, especially fine in the small sizes. Fine plants, 4-in. pots, $3.00 per doz.; 6-in., $6.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Scholzeli. Fine plants, 3½-in. pots, $2.50 per doz.; 6-in. pans, $6.00 per doz.; 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis. Extra strong plants, 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Nephrolepis Scottii. 8-in. pans, $12.00 per doz.

Small Ferns for Fern Pans. Best and hardiest varieties, assorted: Pteris Mayii Wimsetti, Adiantoides, Aspidium Tsussimense, Cyrtomium Falcatum, etc. Strong plants, 2¼-in. pots, $3.50 per 100.

CROTONS. Nice assortment, well colored, 5-in., $9.00 per dozen.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

Last week was one of the greatest weeks the florists ever had for funeral work. There were funerals every day and on one day there were seventeen of them, and every florist had plenty to do. There was not nearly enough stock here, and Chicago was called on largely. The weather was warmer than usual for February, but this week we are having winter again.

St. Valentine's day is getting to be a big day and cut flowers and plants had a ready sale. The warm weather gave the rose and carnation crops a boost, but this cold spell will cut down the supply again.

Various Notes.

Ben Kramer was kept busy all the week and turned out a lot of work. He bought largely from Chicago.

Karl Zeidler had work for nearly all of the funerals and his bill for flowers from Chicago was over $100. He says that on St. Valentine's day he sent out a great many plants and cut flowers. The plants most in demand were cyclamens, hyacinths, tulips and narcissi. Even geraniums in flower were in demand.

J. C. Elsperman enjoyed a big week and had about all he could do.

Louis Fritsch had his share of the work. His carnations are fine, some of them measuring four inches across. He had some of the finest cyclamens ever grown here.

Julius Niednagel & Sons had an immense week. They cut lots of carnations and white roses, but are off crop with Killarney.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. always has a nice, showy window, but it is especially attractive at present. Bulbous plants are used mostly at present. Miss Mexal, the saleslady, attends to the decorating. This firm was unusually busy last week. Though they are cutting heavily of roses and carnations, they do not have enough.

Nellie Goodge has a fine line of plants coming on for her spring trade.

Royston & Fenton are still short of roses.

E. L. F.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Atlanta Floral Co., in its advertising in the local newspapers, has designated Saturday of each week as carnation day at its store and has created an immense week-end demand for the flower.

OVERCROWDED!

We want to spread out our extensive line of Easter plants, therefore we sell. Just look! A fine selection of decorative plants, such as Araucarias, Ferns, etc., which are always in demand, at bargain prices.

We have a fine lot of Jerusalem Cherries, with ripe, red berries, 6-in. pots, at only 25c, 35c and 50c each.

Azalea Indica, for Easter blooming, Niobe (white), Apollo (red), Empress of India, Vervæneana, Schryveriana (double variegated), Simon Mardner, Mme. Van der Cruyssen, Professeur Wolters and others, 60c, 75c, $1.00 to $1.50. In big stock we have Helene Theleman, Bernard Andrea Alba, Paul Weber, Van der Cruyssen and Niobe, $1.50, $1.75 to $2.00, Deutsche Perle, Vervæneana and Simon Mardner, showing color, with a few open flowers, 75c to $1.00.

Lilium Multiflorum, our own importation from Japan, raised from 9 to 10-inch. Bulbs planted last part of October and beginning of November, in 6-inch pots, kept cold, now about 5 to 8 inches high, just right for Easter, 25c to 30c; by the doz. or 100.

Dracaena Bruanti, 25 to 30 inches high, perfect green foliage from bottom up, 6-in. pots, 40c to 50c; well suited for store and house decorations because they stand cold, dust and heat.

Latania Borbonica, 30 to 35 inches high, 6 to 7-in. pots, 50c, 75c to $1.00.

Kentia Forsteriana, in fine shape, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 4, 5 and 6-year-old, 30, 35, 40 and 45 inches high, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 to $2.50.

Kentia Belmoreana, 5, 6 to 7-year-old, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each; 4-in., 20 to 25 inches high, 20c to 25c.

Kentia Belmoreana, combination plants, 3 plants in 6 and 7-in. pots, 25, 30 to 35 inches high, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 each. This is a special bargain, seldom offered.

Araucaria Excelsa, raised from top cuttings only (no seedlings), 2, 3, 4 to 5-year-old, 5, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, 15, 18, 20, 25 to 30 inches high, 4, 5, 6 to 7 tiers, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 each. Robusta Compacta and Excelsa Glauca, 6-in. pots, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each.

Primula Chinensis, best strain, mostly white, 5¼-in., in bloom, John F. Rupp's well known strain, $2.50 per doz.

Spiraea Gladstone, in 5½ to 6-in. pots, started for Easter blooming, 15c to 25c.

Scottii, Scholzeli, Whitmani and Boston, 2 houses stocked with them, in all sizes and varieties, never before better than this year, 5, 6 and 7-in., 40c, 50c and 75c. Same varieties, as big as a bushel basket $1.00 to $1.25.

Holly Ferns, 4-inch, 25c.

Ferns for dishes, big assortment, 2½-in. pots, $4.00 per 100.

Nephrolepis Giatrasii, this is a new fern, an improvement on the Scottii and much shorter and bushier 5¼-in. pots 50c; 3-in. 25c.

Pteris Wilsoni, 6-in. pans, nice and bushy, 25c, 30c and 35c.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 2½-in., 3c; 4-in., 10c.

Now is the time for Cineraria Hybrida for Easter blooming. We have it, our so well known strain raised especially for Easter; strong 4-in. pots ready for a shift into 6-in. pots, $10.00 per 100; 2-in., $3.00 per 100.

Ipomoea Noctiflora, Aschmann's so well-known pure white, waxy, fragrant moonvine, bearing flowers as big as a saucer; makes many good stock plants for you to propagate from, $5.00 per 100.

Begonia Rex, 4-in., 20c.

Solanum, or Jerusalem Cherries, 6-in. pots, 25c.

Crimson Rambler roses, 6-in. pots, 3 ft. high, nicely staked up and bent down, for Easter, 50c to 75c.

All plants 25 at 100 rate. Cash with order, please. All plants must travel at risk of purchaser only.

CYCLAMEN.

GIANT CYCLAMEN. For the last 15 years we always select ¾ of our seed-bearing cyclamen stock before Xmas, to assure early blooming plants, and claim the finest commercial strain in this country, no fizzle of many so called English varieties. Our aim is strong growers, that don't have to be petted to be grown into a choice salable plant, a well built five petalled flower, many of them at one time, with well marked foliage; every plant an ideal, a prize winner. Received first and second prizes at the Toledo Florists' Club meeting early in November when blooming cyclamen were scarce. We back our claims with stock worth seeing and invite everybody for inspection. Here is one of the many letters we receive from satisfied customers, W. H. Gordon, Richmond, Va., says: "We were so much pleased with the 500 cyclamen seedlings shipped us last week that we have decided to order 500 more." Transplanted seedlings, ready for 2½ or 3-in., $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000. Cash. Cultural directions with every order.

PELARGONIUMS.

PANSY GERANIUM, MRS. LAYAL.
This beautiful pelargonium is of the easiest growth, dwarf in habit, and literally covered with flowers all the time; and as it requires little or no attention, it is invaluable as a window plant. The coloring and marking of the flowers are most extraordinary, light pink, white, dark purple, black, etc., almost rivaling the pansy in uniqueness of flower. It is this combination of coloring which obtained for it the popular name of pansy geranium. Strong plants, $5.00 per 100.
J. W. Davis, 225 W. 16th St., Davenport, Iowa.

DUTCH BULBS FOR EASTER.

We have a lot of Dutch hyacinths in pots, pans, etc., two to twenty in each, which were started late and are now bedded under coal ashes on the north side of a house. We want these in for Easter. Nearly every year, several weeks or a month before Easter, we have a week or two of almost summer weather and have trouble to hold bulbs back during this time. Would it be possible or practical to put these in cold storage when this warm spell comes next spring? If so, should they be covered in any way while in storage? The shoots will probably be from one to two inches long at this time. What temperature should they be placed in and how low could it drop without injuring them?

If you do not advise cold storage, please tell us the best way to handle them. Our cellar at such times is colder in the daytime than outdoors, but at night it gets colder outdoors than in the cellar. Which would be the better place for them, inside or out?

R. E. G.

If your cellar were sufficiently cool, it would hold the bulbs back sufficiently late for you. By closing the windows and darkening them, probably you could keep your cellar colder. I have not tried started bulbs in cold storage, but if you place them there now and can hold the temperature from 32 to 36 degrees, it will retard them sufficiently. A temperature a few degrees below freezing would not be injurious, but in case of the thermometer staying below freezing, it would be a good plan to cover the flats or pans with cork dust, dry cinders or some other material. You should keep the bulbs in storage until three weeks before they are wanted in flower. Even that period might be too long if the weather were warm, and the plants could then be placed in a cool cellar to retard them. C. W.

Greenhouse Heating.

INSTALLING A BOILER.

In setting tubular boilers, how much space should be left back of the bridge wall? Does the largeness of the combustion chamber add or detract from the heating efficiency of the boiler? Does it affect the draft of the boiler?

T. N.

The location of the bridge is largely governed by the size of the grate. For boilers of medium size it is customary to allow one square foot of grate area to three horse-power, and a little more than this in smaller boilers, where the fires will have less attention. Thus, in a boiler of fifty horse-power there should be about sixteen square feet of grate area, which would bring the bridge about four feet from the front of the boiler. There should be nine to twelve square inches for each horse-power between the bridge and the boiler. The area of the chimney flue should be from one-sixth to one-eighth that of the grate, varying with the height of the chimney.

A small combustion chamber, in which the fire has to be forced in order to give the necessary heat, will be less economical of fuel than a larger one, in which the desired heat can be developed without forcing. On the other hand, if the combustion chamber is too large, say with an area equal to one-half the horse-power of the boiler, it will be less economical than one that has an area approximately equal to one-third the rated horse-power of the boiler.

NEW HOUSE, ENLARGED BOILER.

Please tell me how to pipe my new greenhouse. I am building one 27 x 100, twelve feet to the ridge and five feet high at the sides, with two and one-half feet of glass in the side walls and with one gable of glass. I have a quantity of 2-inch and 1½-inch pipe which I wish to use. How many runs of 2-inch flows should go out overhead, and how many runs of 1½-inch returns should be placed under the benches to heat this house to 60 degrees? In this part of Pennsylvania the outside temperature reaches 5 degrees below zero at times.

I have a sectional hot water boiler in use now, heating a small house, and I wish to continue to use this boiler. It has five sections now, with a grate surface of three and one-half square feet. How many more sections must I add to it, or how many square feet of grate surface will it require to heat the amount of pipes you suggest for this house?

W. R. D.

To heat this house to 60 degrees, using 2-inch flows and 1½-inch returns, would require six flows and eighteen returns, but, unless the top of the heater is well below the lowest part of the returns, it would be better to use four 2½-inch flows and sixteen 2-inch returns.

The capacity of a boiler depends upon the arrangement of the fire surface fully as much as upon the size of the grate. To heat the house easily, it would be advisable to use a heater with a rating for 1,500 square feet of radiating surface, and this would require a grate containing five and one-half or six square feet of surface. There should be an increase of rather more than fifty per cent in the number of sections.

IN EASTERN MASSACHUSETTS.

I have two greenhouses, which meet at right angles in the form of an ell, with the boiler at the outer corner. The boiler pit is seven feet deep. The larger house is 16x40, with 5-foot walls of glass. The other house is 12x40; its floor is two feet below the ground level, and the side walls, which are glass, are two feet high above ground. Please tell me what size of boiler and what amount of piping would be required to heat these houses to 50 degrees. Give me directions for the piping, as the present piping is not satisfactory and the boiler is too small. E. L. H.

The method of heating is not stated, but for such small houses it is generally better to heat with hot water. The boiler should have a rating for about 600 square feet of radiating surface, and a 3-inch main floor, with a return of the same size, will answer.

To heat the larger house, take off two 2½-inch flow pipes, to be carried on the plates, and connect each with a coil containing five 2-inch returns. In the other house use one 2½-inch flow and six 2-inch returns. Run the flow pipes with just enough fall to keep the air from pocketing, and also give the returns a slight fall. Unless the returns are well above the top of the boiler, keep them as high on the walls as possible.

A RANGE OF FOUR HOUSES.

Please give me information as to the proper amount of 2-inch pipes and the best way of arranging them, to heat the following houses to a temperature of 57 to 65 degrees. In this section of New York state we occasionally get an outside temperature of 10 degrees below zero. There are four houses, of the following dimensions: Three of them are each 18x100, eight and one-half feet to the ridge and four feet to the eaves, with fourteen inches of glass in the sides, and the ends partly glass; the walls and the divisions between the houses are of 4-inch concrete. The other house is 10x100 and eight feet four inches to the ridge, with side walls of 4-inch concrete and the ends partly glass. The houses run north and south and the north ends are protected by a workshop and shed. There are three benches, two and one-half feet high, in each of the 18-foot houses, and two in the 10-foot house. G. M. B.

For the houses with a width of eighteen feet it will be advisable to use three 2½-inch flow pipes and nine 2-inch returns. Run one of the flows under the ridge and the others on the plates. Place the returns in coils of three pipes each, under the benches. Run all of the pipes with a slight fall. In the house ten feet wide, two 2½-inch flow pipes and six 2-inch returns will be required. In this house place the flows on the plates and the returns in coils of three pipes each, under the benches.

DIRECT PRESSURE vs. TANK PRESSURE

Our last advertisement demonstrated that a high pressure system saves four-fifths of the time spent in watering. We now wish to call your attention to the fact that by a direct pressure system, with which you can regulate the pressure, making it as high or as low as you wish, your watering will be much more efficient, and adaptable to all purposes.

If you are spraying for red spiders, for instance, you will need a very high pressure and fine spray. For certain other work, a lower pressure is desirable. With an elevated tank you cannot regulate the pressure, and so high a pressure as the STANDARD PUMPING ENGINE gives is impossible unless the tank could be elevated 200 feet, which elevation is necessary to secure a pressure of 90 pounds per square inch. Send for a catalogue to BUY WELL AND BUY ONCE.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

Undoubtedly business, which was good last week, would have been still better had it not been for the unfavorable weather. This also had a tendency to shorten receipts in most lines, especially carnations. There was quite an improvement in the volume of business done for St. Valentine's day, the stock most called for being violets and sweet peas. Sunday noon, February 19, found the wholesalers well cleaned up in all lines.

Various Notes.

Al Benke, of Watertown, Wis., was in town last week visiting Mrs. Benke, who underwent an operation at the Trinity hospital. Latest reports are that she is getting along nicely.

The Edlefsen-Leidiger Co. reports business satisfactory; a better call for St. Valentine's this year than last.

While we seldom hear of the Florists' Bowling League, which has a membership of fifteen, they meet once a week. Last week a five-man team of florists played a match with the Odahnas. Although the florists lost out, they did well and expect to show up better in the return match, which is to take place March 1 at their home alleys, Steinke's, Eleventh and Prairie streets.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. says shipping demand exceeded receipts most of the time last week.

Aug. F. Kellner, who had the decoration for the Bachelors' ball February 20, used large quantities of cedar wreathing, wild smilax and foliage plants to good advantage.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. says the call for cut flowers from the Madison, Wis., florists, due to the Junior Prom, was exceptionally good this year.

Visitors last week were: Alfred Sylvester, Oconomowoc, Wis.; B. Eschner, of M. Rice & Co., Philadelphia; J. J. Karins, representing Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia, and F. R. Creedy, representing Arthur T. Boddington, New York city.

March 2 the next regular meeting of the Florists' Club takes place and, with plans as outlined by President H. V. Hunkel, ought to prove interesting.

A PERFECT GREENHOUSE HOSE

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.

The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

"Magic" Hose is guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 pounds per square inch, although its bursting pressure is far in excess of this.

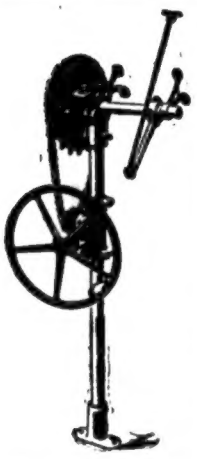
The Market.



Business for the last four weeks has been good, bad and indifferent by turns, but, taken on the whole, things are about breaking even, several good days making up well for the slower ones.

Besides, St. Valentine sales were away ahead of last season. This day is certainly coming to the front in the flower line, and, with a little effort by the trade, should in a few years equal Christmas in amount of sales. Blooming plants were in good supply for the occasion. Azaleas, lilac, rhododendrons, cyclamens, cinerarias, primroses, crab apple blooms and quantities of bulbous stock were to be seen in stores. Violets were the best sellers in the cut flower line, followed by roses. Valley, orchids and gardenias were also in demand, but the supply was limited. Sweet peas, carnations, freesias, narcissi, forget-me-nots, daisies, mignonette and cut bulbous stock about fill the list of other cut flowers.

We are having a spell of real summer weather, which is bringing on stock intended for Easter at a fast rate, and the present outlook is for a shortage of blooming plants. The temperature has been around 72 degrees for the last week and everything outdoors has taken on a springlike appearance. K. R.

Fergus Falls, Minn.—S. N. Mehlin is preparing to build three greenhouses, adding 15,000 feet to his present glass area of 6,000 square feet.

St. Joseph, Mo.—M. J. Callahan, for the last three years rose grower for the Stuppy Floral Co., is now located at Ventura, Cal.

Use Sunlight Sash and be first on the market

Get the benefit of the big prices. Use Sunlight Double Glass Sash—see how much faster your plants grow—how much larger the crops!

The double layer of glass does it.

Between the two layers of glass is a 5/8 inch layer of dry, still air. This forms a transparent blanket that lets in all the light from sun-up to sun-down.

You never cover Sunlight Sash

You can throw away all mats and boards. The air cushion between the two layers of glass affords ample protection in all kinds of weather.

Glass is held in place without putty. Can't work loose, easily replaced.

The Market.

Trade has remained quiet, with the two holidays, Lincoln's birthday and St. Valentine's day, making scarcely a ripple. It is true that there has been some extra call for violets and red carnations, but a comparison of this week with the corresponding week of last year brings disappointment to the hearts of the growers.

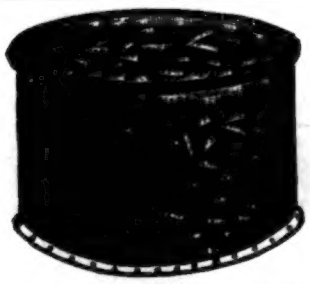
Carnations are approaching the condition of a glut on this market. Extra fancy grades are going out quickly and are of the finest quality that have been seen here—white carnations for funeral work and red for special dinners and valentine favors.

On Saturday the weather was comparatively mild and fair and the transients came out and helped, particularly in the markets, to make a good finish. The result of this activity was an increased demand for roses, which have been scarce. Whether the cause is with the plants, the growers or the ground hog, I am unable to state, but rose growing at present is not a howling success at several of the ranges in this vicinity.

Several of the leading decorators are breaking up azaleas by wholesale for table decorations. This should be satisfactory all around. Mine host gets a pretty decoration, the grower uses up stock that has lain heavy on their hands, while the men of Ghent will now have a chance to do some business.

Bulbous flowers are pretty good stock this season. They have been a little backward in arriving, but most of them are now seen in quantities. The quality is exceptionally good, too, with the exception of Roman hyacinths. Violets are in heavy supply, but continue to move in exceedingly large quantities. Sweet peas are about as fine as they well could be and sell as well as anything on the market. Lilies and callas are sufficient for requirements. Primroses and cylamens were not moving at all last week.

Various Notes.



J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, gave an unusually interesting illustrated lecture before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, at its last meeting, February 13. The club rooms were crowded to the doors with members and friends. After the lecture, refreshments were served.

Philip B. Welsh, of Glen Morris, Md., will erect two large houses the coming season, for carnations. Mr. Welsh is one of the large growers of carnations for the Florists' Exchange.

H. J. Quick will build two houses, 25x100, for carnations the coming season.

His Neighbor Had a U-Bar House, so He Built This One

AND that's the way it goes! Of course, it would be laying it on pretty thick to say a U-Bar house sells itself, but it is a fact that a goodly lot of our business each year comes through U-Bar owners tooting our horns for us. As one man put it: "Why, just look at the house and you can see how 'way ahead of other curved-eave houses it is!" And the beauty of it is, you can see it. It's self-explanatory.

Send for a U-Bar catalogue, which shows things more than it tells things.

Don't Get in a Rut

It's a lot harder pulling—you get deeper and deeper in—and before you know it you have to come home with an empty wagon. Profits all gone.

Hitchings Iron Frame House owners are sure enough out of the rut. Out of it and right up on the hard macadam road to an easy pulling profit. It's simple enough. A better house means more and better flowers—what goes into repairs for wooden houses, goes into an extra profit with the Iron Frame. Get on to the macadam. Write us.
